EXECUTION SALES.—"Transfer" includes compulsory sales at Court-auction. 9 I.C. 840 (C.) The doctrine applies to sales in invitum to involuntary sales and execution sales. 28 I.C. 898=19 C.W.N. 152 ; 18 I.C. 177=17 C.W.N. 413 ; 155 I.C. 1082=1935 O.W.N. 698 ; 45 M.L.J. 825 ; 43 M. 696=39 M.L.J. 456 ; 1929 L. 589 ; 80 I.C. 453=1924 B. 451 ; 9 I.C. 772 ; 15 C.L.J. 137=11 I.C. 464 ; 14 C.W.N, 677=6 I.C. 40 ; 2 Luck. 496=1927 O. 261 ; 29 O.C. 37=1925 O. 496 ; 7 R. 734=1930 R. 132 ; 32 L.W. 416=59 M.L.J. 485 ; 1922 P. 542 ; 66 I.C. 631=1922 N. 89 (F.B.); 1922 N. 81 ; 51 B. 37=100 I.C. 582 ; 38 M. 535 ; 4 P. 619=90 I.C. 251 ; 95 I.C. 213 ; 102 I.C. 72 ; 6 B. 567 ; 27 B. 266 ; 1924 B. 467 ; 13 C.W.N. 226 ; 51 M.L.J. 475 ; 38 L.W. 880; 165 I.C. 373=1937 O. 159=12 Luck. 540 ; 1937 Nag. 400 ; (1940) 2 M.L.J. 1038 ; 1936 Cal. 590. So also the doctrine applied to a sale in execution pending a suit by a third party for a declaration of his lien on the property which had been hypothecated to him by the judgment-debtor. 34 P.L.R. 468=1933 L. 10 ; and to an execution sale pending a suit by the sons of the judgment-debtor for a declaration that the property was not liable to be attached. 141 I.C. 448=34 P.L.R. 531=1933 L. 171. Where, during the pendency of the proceedings for ejectment before the Revenue officer the sale takes place, the principle of lis pendens, will apply to it. It does not matter whether the sale was voluntary or not. 165 I.C. 833=1935 L. 512. Where sale in execution of a decree obtained on foot of a puisne mortgage takes place during the pendency of the suit on the prior mortgage, the sale in the subsequent mortgagee's suit is affected by the rule of lis pendens so as to make the purchaser's right subject to the result of the prior mortgagee's suit. 1933 A.L.J. 729=1931 A. 466 (F.B.). See also 41 P.L.R. 629=1939 Lah. 146. Where the first mortgagee obtained a decree for sale on the foot of his mortgage without impleading the second mortgagee and after the decree but, before the sale, the second mortgagee sued and obtained a decree for sale and the question was raised as to the rights of the purchasers under the two sales, held, that the sale under the first mortgage decree being pending the second mortgagee's suit, the first mortgagee purchaser's rights were subject to the rights obtained under the second mortgagee's decree and auction sale thereunder. 1930 M. 570=59 M.L.J. 39. See also 1942 A.L.W. 532. As to transfers made by order of Court, see 1926 P. 94. A suit brought under O. 21 R. 63, C. P. Code, is a mere continuation of the proceedings in a claim petition and all alienations during the continuance of the proceedings originated by the claim petition till the disposal of the suit brought to set aside the order passed thereon are affected by the doctrine of lis pendens. 42 P.L.R. 601=1940 Lah. 497. See also 1937 Rang. 473.

REVENUE SALES.—Whether section applies also to sales for non-payment of Government revenue, see 3 P.L.T. 296=1 P. 287 ; 10 C.L.J. 590=4 I.C. 731 ; 48 L.W. 927 ; 1922 P. 542 ; 7 R. 113=1929 R. 175 (arrears of Municipal tax realized under City Municipal Act). See also 1926 M. 1161=51 M.L.J. 475 (section applies to sales for arrears of abkari dues pending suit); 26 C. 766; 15 C. 546; 26 M. 230; 1929 B. 200 (also to sales under the order of a magistrate under S. 88, Cr.P. Code). See also 1938 M.W.N. 1243; (1940) 2 M.L.J. 791. Although the principle of lis pendens would apply to involuntary sales it cannot be made applicable to sales for the recovery of Government taxes and local rates, e.g., sales under the Bombay Land Revenue Code for recovery of arrears due under a toll contract. 42 Bom.L.R. 1123. See also 48 L.W. 927. Applicability of section to proceedings before Registrar of Co-operative Societies or arbitrator on reference under Co-operative Societies Act. See 1942 Mad. 24=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 588.

PRE-EMPTION SUIT.—Doctrine of lis pendens applies also to pre-emption suits. 88 I.C. 202=1925 A. 502 ; 49 A. 516=1927 A. 336 ; 9 Luck 475=1934 O. 303 ; 24 I.C. 32=17 O.C. 150 ; 89 I.C. 219=23 A.L.J. 615. But it does not affect the validity of the sale effected by the vendee during the pendency of the pre-emption suit to a person possessing a right of pre-emption equal to that of the pre-emptor. 11 L. 258=1930 L. 356 (F.B.). See also 32 P.L.R. 283=1931 L. 435. Doctrine of lis pendens does not apply where pre-emptors had obtained decree before declaratory suit. 1929 L. 589. See also 96 I.C. 450.

SUIT FOR DOWER.—Section applies to a suit for dower by a Mahomedan wife in which a claim is made for charge or possession of the property. See 4 C. 402 ; 19 A. 504. But see 130 I.C. 113=1931 O. 63 where it was a mere money claim and the property left after transfer was ample. A transfer by a Mahomedan husband to his wife in discharge of his legal obligation to pay dower does not amount to a sale under S. 52. 1 Luck. 83=29 O.C. 108=1926 O. 186.

ADMINISTRATION SUITS.—The doctrine of lis pendens does not apply to administration suits. 1927 R. 186 ; 5 R. 266=103 I.C. 264 ; 2 R. 4=79 I.C. 729 ; 1923 R. 69 ; 27 L.W. 544=1928 M. 713 (F.B.) ; 55 I.A. 81=55 C. 532=54 M.L.J. 473 (P.C.) ; 74 I.C. 54. legatee under the will for a declaration of his rights, brought a suit against the widow of the deceased in possession of some of his properties and got a decree. Held, the decree was binding on the residuary legatee and was not affected by S. 52. 54 M. 212=1930 M. 930=60 M.L.J. 97. Where a person purchased property from one of the heirs pending an administration suit, held, that the doctrine of lis pendens applied. 7 R. 734=1930 R. 132.

SUIT FOR INJUNCTION.—The doctrine of lis pendens applies to suits for injunction. The pendency of the suit under S. 52 as it stands after the amendment of 1929, extends up to the complete satisfaction of the decree passed in the suit ; and under the present law the injunction will go with the land and the decree can be executed against the legal representative and also against the transferee of the judgment-debtor. 1935 A.M.L.J. 67.

PAUPER SUITS.—A transfer made after the application for leave to sue in forma pauperis is filed but before it is registered as a suit is affected by the rule of lis pendens, when the immovable property transferred is specifically in issue in the suit. The fact that the immovable property is not in issue at the stage of the enquiry into the pauperism does not make any difference so far as the applicability of the rule of lis pendens is concerned. 1936 M. 853=71 M.L.J. 301=44 L.W. 427. See also 49 L.W. 241=1939 Mad. 275 ; I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 94=1938 Nag. 30.

MORTGAGE SUITS.—A suit brought by a mortgagee cannot be affected by lis pendens because another mortgagee, has already sued to enforce his own rights. Both have rights against the same owner and the title of each relates back to the date of his mortgage and is not created by the decree. 30 N.L.R. 284=1934 N. 36. In mortgage suits the rule of lis pendens only applies to transfers by plaintiff or defendant of their respective interest after the suit including transfers by Court-sale in money decrees against either party. It does not apply to previously existing transfers including mortgages or legal proceedings to enforce such transfers by those entitled. The sale in pursuance of a mortgage decree, the mortgage having been executed before the institution of the suit, is not affected by the doctrine of lis pendens. 139 I. C. 309=63 M.L.J. 394. See also 1934 M. 585 =67 M.L.J. 312 ; 1935 L. 646. Lis pendens in a mortgage suit continues until the mortgaged properties are sold. A purchase by an attaching decree-holder in execution of his money decree, after the filing of a suit on a mortgage of the same property and before the sale in execution of the mortgage decree is affected by lis pendens and confers no rights on the decree-holder purchaser as against the purchaser in execution of the decree in the mortgage suit. 18 Pat. 155=1939 Pat. 7. See also 15 Pat. 372 ; 1938 Lah. 448. When a mortgagor is adjudicated an insolvent during the pendency of a suit on his mortgage it cannot be said that his property is 'transferred or otherwise dealt with' within the meaning of S. 52. It cannot be said that the former owner of the property has transferred it or otherwise dealt with it. His whole estate devolves on the receiver, just as it would devolve on his heir in case of death. 1939 N.L.J. 202 =1939 Nag. 128. A purchaser at a sale held in execution of a mortgage decree must be construed to have purchased both the rights of the mortgagee and the mortgagor. He is, therefore, not hit by the doctrine of lis pendens although the mortgage sale was held during the pendency of a suit for declaration of a charge for maintenance upon the mortgaged property, when the execution of the mortgage itself is prior to the institution of the suit. 43 C.W.N. 666 =1939 Cal. 655. See also 46 C.W.N. 355. A puisne mortgage cannot be created during the pendency of a mortgage suit. 43 B. 240 ; 152 I.C. 1018=1935 O. 49 ; though the mortgage is with the sanction of a different Court. 42 B. 215. Where, pending a suit brought by the first mortgagee, the subsequent mortgagee who was not till then impleaded in the suit assigned his interest to a third party and long after the assignment, the subsequent mortgagee was added as a party to the mortgage suit and a decree obtained against him, held, that the assignment was not affected by lis pendens and that the decree obtained against the subsequent mortgagee did not affect the rights of the assignee. 11 P. 485. See also 15 Pat. 372. The plaintiff purchased property in execution of his mortgage decree. The defendant purchased a decree on a mortgage of another property of the mortgagor in favour of a Bank. Before bringing the property mortgaged to sale, the defendant obtained an order amending the decrees passed in the Bank's suit the result of which was that the property mortgaged to the plaintiff was added to that mortgaged to the Bank. The defendant purchased the property in auction-sale after the plaintiff obtained his decree and before the sale in his favour. Plaintiff sued the defendant for possession. Held, that S. 52 stood in the way of the defendant. 149 I.C. 187=1934 A. 972. Lease granted by a mortgagor who is in possession as tenant under the first mortgagee, after the institution of a suit by the second mortgagee is affected by the doctrine of lis pendens. 33 Bom. L.R. 1123 =1931 B. 539. When a decree for sale in a mortgage suit is passed on the Original Side of the High Court in respect of property which lies outside its local jurisdiction, such a decree does attract the operation of lis pendens. The fact that the decree is passed by consent of parties is immaterial. 58 C. 598=1931 C. 763. A mortgage created to discharge a mortgage on which a suit is pending is not void. 87 I. C. 264=1925 N. 21. A private transfer of the mortgaged property by the mortgagee under a power of sale conferred by the deed is not affected by the doctrine of lis pendens. 45 M. 774=43 M.L.J. 566. See also 15 Pat. 372.

LEASES.—The doctrine applies to leases pendente lite. 39 I.C. 182=21 C.W.N. 88 ; 14 N. L.R. 133=46 I.C, 762 ; 11 N.L.R. 21=27 I. Where future crops form the subject-matter of the suit, any transfer of such crops or the right to raise such crops during the litigation is affected by the principle of lis pendens. 1936 M. 942=71 M.L.J. 638. It is wrong to think that leases for purposes of cultivation during the pendency of partition proceedings are bad under S. 52. 1938 A.L.J. (Supp.) 20=1938 R.D. 285. See also I.L.R. (1939) All. 809=1939 A.L.J. 692=1939 All. 611 ; I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 181=1937 Cal. 763. A permanent lease during the pendency of a mortgage suit is not in the ordinary course of management of zamindari property and hence is a nullity under S. 52. 1939 O.W.N. 325=1939 A.L.J. (Supp.) 53. See also 19 N.L.J. 316. The mortgagee is not bound by lease created by mortgagor during pendency of mortgage suit. 85 I.C. 522=29 C.W.N. 94. See contra 103 I.C. 115=1926 N. 295 ; 1927 N. 316=142 I.C. 188. Where the mortgagor, after the institution of a suit on the mortgage, grants a lease of the property, taking premium or nazarana, the transfer is inoperative as against the purchaser in execution of the decree passed in the mortgage suit on two grounds : (1) the transfer is barred by S. 52, (2) the taking of a premium or nazarana is prohibited by S. 65-A (2) 19 N.L.J. 316. See also 1936 A.L.J. 1277=1936 A.W.R. 1035=1937 All. 9. Where the lease is for adequate rent, it is not obnoxious to the provisions of S. 52. The lessee holds the property subject to the rights of the mortgagee decree-holder. 1930 All. 289. Where before the Court-sale the previous owner admitted certain trespassers into tenancy on basis of economic rent and it appeared that it was beneficial to the estate; Held, that the arrangement was not hit at by the doctrine of lis pendens. 18 R.D. 282=15 L. R. 343 (Rev.). Both under S. 52 of the T.P. Act as well as according to the principle of lis pendens, it is necessary for an occupancy holder under a threat of ejectment from it in execution proceedings for arrears of rent to obtain the permission of the Court before he could transfer the holding to a third person. A transfer without such permission is null and void and can convey no title to the vendee. 1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 227=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 139.

SUITS FOR SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.—The doctrine of lis pendens applies to suits for the specific performance of agreements to sell immovable properties. Court sales and private sales equally come under the doctrine of lis pendens. 45 M.L.J. 825=1924 M. 307 ; 34 C.L.J. 79 =49 C. 495 ; 31 Bom.L.R. 345=1929 Bom. 200 ; 26 Bom.L.R. 418. As to the effect of inordinate delay in execution of a decree for specific performance, see 1931 N. 138 under the old section.

SUIT FOR CONTRIBUTION.—See 13 A. 371. Where a person purchases another's property by private sale during the pendency of a contribution suit against such person in which a simple money decree without reference to any charge was passed, the purchase is not affected by the doctrine of lis pendens and is not subject to the decree passed in suit. 165 I.C. 567=1936 P. 571.

SUITS FOR MAINTENANCE by Hindu widow asking for a charge on her husband's property; see 1927 M. 502=52 M.L.J. 520 ; 99 I.C. 564 =1927 M. 403 ; 46 M.L.J. 258 ; 1924 M. 449 =101 I.C. 806 ; 19 M. 271 ; 59 M.L.J. 485= 54 M. 132=1930 M. 824 ; I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 1: 29 M.L.J. 79. The doctrine of lis pendens applies to maintenance actions, and under the explanation to S. 52, as amended in 1929, the lis continues after the decree and up to the sale in execution of the properties charged by the decree. A mortgage executed by the judgment-debtor after the decree and before the sale is therefore affected by lis pendens. The fact that in a suit for maintenance by a Hindu widow a charge is claimed over all the family properties which are specified in the plaint would not make any difference in the application of the doctrine, if the properties are sufficiently designated so as to make them directly and substantially the subject-matter of the litigation. 1935 M. 867=69 M.L.J. 447. See also 43 L.W. 201= 1936 M. 84 ; 19 N.L.J. 254. The doctrine of lis pendens embodied in S. 52, applies to a sale made during the pendency of a suit for maintenance by a Hindu widow in which property sold is sought to be made a charge for the widow's maintenance. Even though the property is sold for the debts of the widow's husband which she may be bound to pay under the Hindu law, the alienation made during the pendency of her suit for maintenance claiming a charge would be subject to the principle o lis pendens, and the fact that the debts are binding on the widow would not make S. 52 inapplicable. 42 Bom.L.R. 883=1940 B. 395= I.L.R. 1941 Bom. 1; 1939 B. 403. Where a Hindu widow has obtained a decree for maintenance, the maintenance being made a charge on immovable properties, the holder of that decree is entitled to proceed against those properties though the properties or some of them have passed into other hands from the persons in whose hands they were at the time of the decree. The transfer is affected by lis pendens. The fact that the widow agreed with the transferee to release the properties in his hands from the charge for consideration does not prevent the doctrine from operating, until there is a release by her valid in law. The fact that part of the consideration for the release has been paid to the widow would not entitle the transferee to a release. The doctrine of part performance has no application to such a case, so as to override the rule of lis pendens. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 829=48 L.W. 76=1938 M. 357 (F.B.). See also 41 Bom.L.R. 815=1939 B. 403.

INTERPLEADER SUIT.—Where a person purchases property from one of the parties after a decree creating a charge is passed in an interpleader suit the transfer is pendente lite. 33 L.W. 391=1930 M. 988=60 M.L.J. 79.

PARTITION SUITS.—The doctrine of lis pendens applies to the purchase of property during pendency of suit for partition relating to such property where the suit is not proved to be collusive. 148 I.C. 731=1934 L. 457. An ordinary partition suit where there is no contest as to the fractional share of the parties is not a suit in which their rights to the immovable property are directly and specifically in question. S. 52 does not apply to such a case. 195 I.C. 856=1941 C. 436. See also 1938 A.L.J. (Supp.) 20. Where a suit for partition is pending between a father and a son and the father between the preliminary decree and the final decree grants a patta of a part of the suit property in favour of a third person, the patta cannot prevail against the decree in the suit by which property affected by patta is allotted to the son. 44 L.W. 861=1936 M. 887. During the pendency of a partition suit by a Hindu minor against his father, a compromise was effected under which the father defendant executed a trust deed transferring all his rights in the family properties to trustees for the benefit of the minor plaintiff. Held, that the arrangement did not come within the prohibition of S. 52 and was not bad on the ground of lis pendens. 152 I. C. 715=36 Bom. L.R. 738. The property should be directly and specifically involved in the suit. 27 C. 77. 27 I.C. 940; but not otherwise; see 1928 N; 198; 1 C.W.N. 62. See also 37 B. 427=19 I.C. 885; 52 B. 208; 1930 A.L.J. 1286=1931 A. 45; 1938 M.W.N. 1243; (1940) 2 M.L.J. 791.

EFFECT OF ALIENATION PENDENTE LITE.—Alienation pendente lite is not void, but is valid subject to the result of the pending suit. 110 I.C. 548=1928 M. 635. See also 43 M. 696=58 I.C. 501; 13 I.C. 641 (A.); 55 M.L.J. 122 =55 I.A. 256 (P.C.); 2 O.L.J. 291; 95 I.C. 213; 87 I.C. 995=1925 N. 341; 165 I.C. 453=1936 M. 589; I.L.R. 1936 N. 22=1936 N. 125. If a property is transferred during the pendency of a suit with respect to that property, the decree passed therein cannot be impeached by the transferee. 13 O.C. 50=5 I.C. 800. A Court can bind a transferee pendente lite by the result of litigation, even though his name be not on the record if the fact of the transfer is admitted before the Court during the course of the trial. 2 O.L.J. 291=30 I.C. 289.

LACHES.—When a person intermeddles with outstanding disputes, he does so at his peril, and if he chooses to stand by and let his right slide, he cannot afterwards claim to be given the benefit of his laches and placed in a better position than his transferor to the detriment of others who have acquired rights in pending proceedings. The law will not allow a man to say that he did not know his rights. 168 I.C. 1003 =1937 Nag. 161.

REVIVAL OF SUIT.—Where a suit dismissed for default is revived within a reasonable time, there would be no suspension of lis pendens. It will be considered to be a continuous proceeding. See 50 I.C. 727.

PLEADINGS.—Plea of lis pendens can be entertained for the first time in appeal, if the matter can be decided solely on the evidence on record, 38 M. 450.

REGISTRATION.—Sale executed before but registered after suit is not affected by the doctrine of lis pendens. 1925 M. 710=48 M.L.J. 496. See also 48 M.L.J. 399=1922 M. 249; 83 I.C. 133=1925 M. 359. But see 5 P.L.J. 714.

Sec. 52, Expl. : SCOPE OF.—The explanation added to S. 52 makes it manifest that lis pendens continues till the decree obtained in the suit is completely satisfied or discharged or the execution of the same becomes barred by limitation. Where a subsequent simple mortgagee purchased the mortgaged property in execution of a decree for sale obtained in respect of his mortgage, a later usufructuary mortgagee under a usufructuary mortgage executed prior to such auction sale who redeemed a simple mortgage earlier to that of the one on which the decree had been obtained, was held to be not entitled to claim to hold that earlier mortgage as a shield against the claim for possession by the auction-purchaser. He was also held not entitled to claim any reimbursement in respect of the earlier mortgage redeemed by him. 1940 A. 141.

Sec. 53 : SCOPE.—The principle of the section applies to Hindus and Muhammadans. 11 B. 676; 5 B 154; 10 B. 616; 13 B 293. It applies also to Punjab: 1 P.L.R 513; 74 P.R. 1912=14 I.C. 282; 1924 L. 707; 29 P.L.R. 114; 8 L. 544 =101 I.C. 172; 53 P.R. 1916=23 I.C. 474 (F.B.); 75 I.C. 1043; 1927 L. 420; 115 I.C. 417. It may also be applied to transfers by operation of law. 51 A. 595=1929 A. 238. S. 53 may be extended to movables. 30 M. 6; 46 M. 478. 'Transfer" includes partition in joint family; 97 I.C. 70; 94 I.C. 282; 44 M.L.J. 513; 1926 N. 355; also surrender by widow of her widow's interest; I L.R. 1936 N. 69=1936 N. 166. See also 41 Bom. There is a distinction between transfers in bankruptcy which are bad, because they do in fact prefer one creditor to another, and between transfers which fall under the provisions of S. 53, which are bad because they are sham transactions intended to benefit the debtor and defeat or delay the creditors generally. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 136 =178 I.C 469=1938 Sind. 215. See also 42 P L.R. 119; 1939 Bom. 508; 1938 Lah. 156; 43 C.W.N. 1131. Preference by a debtor shown to one of his creditors is, provided the transaction is genuine, and not tainted by fraud no ground for avoidance merely because the other creditors happen to suffer. 38 P.L.R. 269= 1937 Lah 220. See also 42 P.L R. 119; 1939 O. W N. 398=1939 Oudh 230. The word 'transfer' used in S. 53, is comprehensive enough to embrace all kinds of transfers, whether with or without consideration. The crucial question is one of determining the intention and motive underlying the transfer. The mere fact that a transfer is executed without consideration as in the case of a gift, will not necessarily lead to an inference that the transfer was Nothing in this sub-section shall impair the rights of a transferee in good faith and for consideration.

Nothing in this sub-section shall affect any law for the time being in force relating to insolvency.

A suit instituted by a creditor (which term includes a decree-holder whether he has or has not applied for execution of his decree) to avoid a transfer on the ground that it has been made with intent to defeat or delay the creditors of the transferor, shall be instituted on behalf of, or for the benefit of, all the creditors.

made with intent to defeat or delay the creditors of the transferor. Each case must be examined on its own merits and it must be found upon a consideration of the entire circumstances surrounding the execution of the deed of transfer, whether it was brought about with a fraudulent intent or otherwise. Under the general law the burden of proving that a transfer is fraudulent under S. 53, lies on the creditors. 1941 O.W.N. 56=1941 Oudh 205. Where a mortgagor effects a fraudulent lease of the mortgaged property the creditor who subsequently becomes purchaser of the property in execution of the mortgage decree can treat the lease as void under Ss. 52 and 53, and eject the lessee as a trespasser. 18 R.D. 368=15L.R. 447 (Rev.); 18 R.D. 367=15 L.R. 445 (Rev.). See also 1939 Pat. 5=1938 P.W.N. 738. A fraudulent lease pending suit may be set aside. 1927 N. 295; but not a security given by the debtor on his property. 15 L.R. 445 (Rev.); 1927 Nag. 295. The relinquishment of his rights by a coparcener in favour of another coparcener can not be strictly said to be a transfer within the meaning of S. 53. 1938 O.W.N. 104=1938 Oudh 65. Where a person who was borrowing money and squandering it by his extravagance and immoral habits was prevailed upon to execute a deed of relinquishment of his right in the family property in favour of his minor son with a view to protect the property from the creditors, the relinquishment cannot be said to have been made for the purpose of defrauding any creditors. 1938 O.W.N. 104=1938 Oudh. 65 See also 1936 Lah. 222. In determining the validity of a trust deed executed by debtor for the benefit of his creditors, the deed must be considered as a whole. The deed is valid if it is substantially for the benefit of the creditors and not simply a device for retaining a benefit for the author of the trust at their expense. A trust the main object of which is the payment of the debts of the author of the trust, is substantially for the benefit of the creditors, and it is not hit by S. 53 although there is a provision for the maintenance of the family of the author of the trust which is not inconsistent with the tenor and subject of the trust. 42 C.W.N. 1131 =1938 Cal. 818. A suit to set aside a transfer under this section will fail if it is not brought by the plaintiffs in a representative capacity on behalf of themselves and other creditors of the defendants. 139 I.C. 820=34 Bom. L.R. 862. See also 1933 N. 169=29 N.L.R. 246. Even if a person is the sole and only creditor, he can, and has to, sue under S. 53, in a representative capacity, on behalf of the general body of creditors. 1940 Rang. L.R. 777=1941 Rang. 76. The statutory remedy provided by S. 53, is merely supplementary to the common law right of a creditor in execution to obtain a declaration that a transfer by a decree-holder, by reason of its 'benami' character, never operated as a transfer at all and, accordingly left the property it purported to transfer available to him in execution. In such a case there is nothing to which S. 53 can apply, for there is nothing which can be voidable. I. L. R. (1940) A. 542=1940 A.L.J. 470=1940 All. 407. The primary object of an action under S. 53 is to make the assets of the tranferor available to the general body of creditors. If it would, then the action would in substance be an action under S. 53 and would have to be instituted by, or on behalf of all the creditors. If it would not. then the action cannot be regarded as one under that section. The proper test to apply when a question of this nature is raised is to see whether if the plaintiff succeeds in the action, the property claimed in the action would be available to the general body of creditors. Where there was no indication in in the plaint or elsewhere that the suit was filed on behalf of or for the benefit of other creditors but on the other hand there was every indication in the averments of the plaint, that the plaintiff wanted only to vindicate his personal and individual rights, and not the rights of other creditors, it was held that the suit was not one under S. 530 1941 O.W.N. 801=194 I.C. 588=1941 Oudh 457. Where an objection is raised by the defendant that the plaintiff's suit is bad as not being brought on behalf of all creditors, the fact of existence of other creditors is a matter clearly within the special knowledge of the defendant and in such circumstances it is the duty of the defendant to produce proof of the existence of such creditors. 1942 A.M.L.J. 3.

APPLICABILITY.—A plaintiff to bring a case under S. 53 should ask for the relief of a declaration that the transfer in question is void as regards him because he is defrauded, defeated or delayed. Where he does not sue for any such remedy, but on the contrary treats the transfer as a valid transfer, no issue under S. 53 arises on the pleadings and it is not necessary for the Court to give a decision on the point. 1934 A. 948. Though the purpose of S. 53 is to protect all creditors, the fact that there is only one creditor and not more, is no reason to exclude the application of the section if it is clear that the transfer is fraudulent and made for the purpose of defeating or delaying him. But the test to be applied to cases under this section is whether the purpose of the transfer is to prefer one creditor to the other, or whether the purpose is to prefer the transferor himself. S. 53 of the Act is not intended to apply to a transfer by which one creditor is preferred to another. It is intended to apply to transfers where the transferor prefers himself to his creditors where the transaction is a sham and bogus transaction. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 269=1939 Sind 97. The principles of S. 53 are in accordance with the general principles of justice, equity and good conseience and as such should be taken as a guide by the Courts even in cases such as when a party bases his title on a transfer by a decree of the Court where the provisions of S. 53 do not apply. 27 A.L.J. 358=1929 A. 238=51 A. 596. See also 44 M.L.J. 513=1923 M. 577. The principle underlying 13 Eliz. R. 5 and S. 53, T. P. Act, ought to be applied in India to transactions relating to the transfer of moveable property upon the ground that these principles are in accordance with Justice, equity and good conscience- 9 R. 614=135 I.C. 641. The mere fact that the judgment debtor has other property to meet the decree does not prevent the application of S. 53. 1929 A. 451. S. 53 does not apply where a transfer is effected to prejudice the rights of pre-emption of a co-sharer of the village who is not the co-owner of the specific plots transferred. 47 A. 424=86 I.C. 741. Considerations affecting S. 53, do not apply to S. 36, Pro. Ins. Act. 2 Pat L.J. 101=38 I.C. 369. Nothing in S. 53 bars the right of any transferee in good faith and for consideration. Consequently, where a transfer has been made for consideration, the fact that its effect is to delay or defeat a creditor is immaterial. 105 I.C. 356=1928 P. 199. See also 25 A.L.J. 829=1927 A. 714; 12 I.C. 401 (O.); 126 I.C. 604=1930 M. 665; 9 R. 614=135 I.C. 641; also 1933 R. 162=145 I.C. 330. A wakf is a transfer and if executed as a device for defeating creditors it is governed by S. 53 which does not in any way infringe any rule of Mahomedan law. 27 A.L.J. 460=1929 A. 277; 1930 A.L.J; 616=1930 A. 462. Where a Mahomedan husband transferred property in lieu of an actual dower debt, held, that the transfer could not be impeached under his section. 1934 L. 705; 12 P. 297=14 Pat. L. The principle of the section will apply in case of voluntary remissions of debts made with a view to defeat the creditors. 27 I.C. 269 (M.). A transfer by a debtor, for a genuine debt, of a part only of his property is not voidable under S. 53. 2 L.W. 64=26 I.C. 834. There is no distinction between fraudulent alienation and fraudulent acquisition by a dishonest debtor, as each consists of a dishonest dealing with property. 1914 M.W. N. 595=25 I.C. 123. S. 53 does not apply to the purchase of property in the name of another as benamidar, as there is no transfer of property 60 B. 226=38 Bom. L.R. 251. Where the plaint in a suit clearly states that the sale deed in question was fictitious and without consideration that it was never acted upon or in other words that the sale was a sham and bogus transaction and that the property purporting to be conveyed by the sale deed was never conveyed at all and that it remained the property of the vendor such a suit is not affected by S. 53 and the transaction can be avoided without a suit under the section. I.L.R. (1940) All 542=1940 A. L.J. 470=1940 All 407. S. 53 does not apply to cases simply where one creditor is preferred to another, and the provisions of Para. 2 sub-S. (1) of S. 53 do not come into operation until the provisions of Para 1 of that sub-section have been fulfilled, I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 136=178 I. C. 469=1938 Sind 215. See also 1937 Rang. 531. S. 53 could have no application to a case where the deed of transfer in question is alleged to be fictitious and not that it is voidable on the ground of its execution with a fraudulent intention to defeat creditors. 1940 O.W.N. 1057 See also 200 I.C. 577=1941 Mad. 690. There is a distinction between a fictitious and fraudulent transfer. In the former case there is really no transfer at all and in the latter there is a transfer but,as it is the result of a conspiracy between the transferor and the transferee to defeat the claim of others it can be avoided by those others if they wish to avoid it. 1942 A. L.J. 399. The principle contained in S. 53, applies to transfers of movable property also. A transfer is wholly void if part of the consideration was non-existent and the object of it was to defraud the creditors. I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 316 =1938 Nag. 249.

SUBSEQUENT TRANSFEREE.—Transfer means voluntary transfer: An auction-purchaser at an execution sale is not entitled to impeach a previous transfer under the section. 53 I.C. 105; 39 B. 507. But see 33 M. 205=19 M.L.J. 741; 20 L.W. 538=1924 M. 779; 6 P.L.J. 48. But the principle of the section may apply in such a case. See 27 A. 358; 51 A. 595; 44 M.L.J. 513. A bona fide transferee even from a fraudulent transferee, is protected under S. 53. 1940 Lah 198.

VOIDABLE.—The section makes a transfer only voidable. 23 C.L.J. 570; 28 B. 639; 71 I.C. 409; 52 B. 208=1928 B. 65; 26 A.L.J. 524= 1928 A. 234; and not void; 1923 N. 195; 1936 A.M.L.J. 118 See also I.L.R. 1936 N. 183=1936 N. 207. A deed of gift executed in order to defeat the donor's creditors is not necessarily void under S. 53, unless it is meant by the executant to be fictitious. It is only voidable at the option of the creditors; and if the latter do not choose to avoid it, it is a perfectly valid instrument as between the parties to it. 155 I.C. 829=1935 R.D. 259. A transfer which is merely colourable and made with the intention of defrauding creditors can be set aside by the transferor at any time before the fraud has actually taken place; but not where the fraudulent purpose has been carried out. 135 I.C. 244; 139 I.C. 92=9 O.W.N. 275. Thus if the debt due to the creditor is paid by the transferee, he cannot complain that he has been defeated or defrauded by the transfer. 71 I.C. 409= 1923 N. 195. A creditor who chooses to affirm or accept the transaction cannot subsequently repudiate the same. 1928 A. 234 (235)=26 A.L.J. 524. Where without any special pressure upon judgment-debtor by creditor, he transferred the whole of his property to that creditor without receiving any cash consideration, and where all the consideration alleged was said to be old debts and money paid or promised to be paid to other creditors, some of which remained unpaid until date of inquiry

NOTES.

Held, that the transfer must be regarded prima facie as voidable. 1933 R. 191. Where a debtor yielding to the immediate pressure exercised by one of the creditors by reason of a suit brought by him enters into a bona fide compromise with him, the mere fact that by the compromise he surrenders a portion of his property to the creditor does not show that he commits any fraud or has any intention of defrauding other creditors. 42 P.L.R. 385.

INTENT TO DEFRAUD.—25 B. 202. A transfer, when executable decrees against the transferor were existing, will not by itself support an inference of an intent to defraud: 15 I.C. 509; 19 A.L.J. 87 ; 1926 S. 109 ; 126 I.C. 604=1930 M. 665 ; nor the fact that the transferor and the transferee were related to each other. 3 R. 71=89 I.C. 436. Wakf executed for the benefit of the minor sons, provision being made for all existing debts is valid. 129 I.C. 333=1931 O. 134. An intention to defeat a particular creditor and not creditors generally is not fraud. 25 B. 202 ; 21 O.C. 97; 5 Bom.L.R. 142; 33 I.C. 695; 3 Bur.L.J. 112=8 I.C. 1205. See contra 2 P.L.J. 546; 1936 P.W.N. 968=1937 Pat. 609. Under S. 53, in addition to consideration, good faith is an essential condition of the validity of the transfer. But it is not sufficient to show want of good faith on the part of the transferor alone: the knowledge and intention of the transferee are the determining factors. Again a fraudulent preference can be attacked under the Bankruptcy Law but not under S. 53, T.P. Act. So long as the question does not arise under the law of Bankruptcy, a transfer made in favour of one or more creditors cannot be impeached, for what S. 53 prohibits is not an instrument which prefers one creditor to another, but an instrument which removes propertyfrom the debtors for the benefit of the debtor. So long therefore as a transfer is in satisfaction of genuine debts and without reservation of any benefit to the debtor, no ground arises for impeaching it under S. 53. 46 L.W. 927=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 865. Suit under by creditor to set aside transfer by debtor made prior to adjudication in insolvency —Sanction of Insolvency Court—Necessity. See I. L.R.(1941) 2 M.L.J. 684 (F.B.). The subsequent and the prior conduct as well as the contemporaneous conduct of the transferor are all relevant and must be considered in order to decide what his motive was in transferring the property. 1938 Lah. 136=180 I.C. 830. The mere fact that debts are due from transferor is not alone sufficient to establish a fraudulent intention; on the other hand it must be proved that at the time of the transfer, motive for the transaction was to defeat or delay the creditors. There can however ordinarily be no direct evidence of the existence of a fraudulent intention. This can be inferred from circumstances proved in the case. 180 I.C. 830=1938 Lah. 136. When the consideration for the transfer was intended to pay off some only of transferor's genuine debts, the transfer cannot be impeached. 34 C. 999 (confirmed by Privy Council in 43 C. 521). See also 40 M.L.J. 125. Where a judgment debtor executes a deed of gift, which is merely a colourable transaction never intended to be acted upon, and continues, even after the deed, to be in possession of the property dealt with under the gift deed, and it is found that the transaction is effected in order to put obstacles in the way of the decree-holders or to defraud them, it must be held that the transfer is void against the decree-holder and he can threfore proceed to attach and sell the property. 194 I.C. 45=1941 Pat. 394. Where unimpeachable evidence is available and is not produced by him and no reason is shown for this, he fails to discharge the onus on him. 192 I.C. 96=1941 Oudh. 178. The presumption under the Act before the amendment of 1929 does not find a place under the amended S. 53. It is only when there are creditors in existence at the time of the gratuitous transfer or when a transfer is made just before a man embarks on some very hazardous speculation that it can be presumed that the gift is made with intent to put his property out of the reach of his creditors. 1930 P.C. 255=60 M.L.J. 341 (P.C.) ; 1933 R. 252 ; 139 I.C. 120=34 Bom.L.R. 863. DEFRAUDING CREDITORS.— "Defeating or delaying creditors"—Meaning of. 1928 M.W. N. 617=1928 M. 860 ; 113 I.C. 129. It is not fraudulent to shield some particular property from being proceeded against by creditors so long as there are other properties from which the just dues of the creditors may be realised. 94 I.C. 33=1926 C. 850. See also 115 I.C. 330 =1929 S. 94 ; 1934 R. 308. A transfer which can be impeached under S. 53, is one in which the property is removed from the creditors for the benefit of the debtor. If the debtor does not retain any benefit for himself and if it is found that the transfer was for adequate consideration and the entire consideration was expended in satisfaction of genuine debts of debtor without reservation of any benefit to the debtor and in favour of one creditor, then the transfer cannot be regarded as fraudulent within the meaning of S. 53. I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 452= 1937 Nag. 400. Fraudulent transfer—Inference from circumstances. See 1938 Lah. 136 ; 40 P. L.R. 909=1938 Lah. 564 ; 1939 O.W.N. 136. The transfer which defeats or delays creditors is not an instrument which prefers one creditor to another, but an instrument which removes property from the creditors to the benefit of the debtor. The debtor must not retain any benefit for himself. He may pay one creditor and leave another unpaid. 179 I.C. 267=1938 Lah. 156. Itt is open to a debtor to convey his property to one of two creditors to whom he is indebted in preference to the other though it may be effected to avoid the execution of his decree by the other. He may prefer any creditor he chooses. But in doing so he must not reserve any benefit for himself. The transfer of the property by a debtor to one creditor for a price far in excess of the debt due to him and the retention of the excess amount for his own benefit indicate an intention to defeat or delay the other creditors, especially when he has no other property left. Such a transfor is wholly void and cannot be upheld even to the extent of the amount actually due to transferee creditor. 41 Bom.L.R. 1104=1939 Bom. 508. A mere preference of one creditor to another is not fraudulent under this section. A creditor is a transferee in good faith if the transfer is made in satisfaction of his debt, even though he is aware that proceedings had been taken by another creditor for the recovery of his debt,if his primary object is to protect himself and not to defeat other creditors. 174 I.C. 143=1937 Rang. 471.

WHETHER SUIT BY CREDITOR IS NECESSARY.— Under this section avoidance by creditor need not necessarily be by suit, it can be expressed by clear conduct. See 12 L.W. 718=61 I. C. 580. Where a creditor attaches in execution the property transferred, that is a sufficient exercise of the option to avoid the transaction. 3 Pat.L.T. 613=1922 P. 572. The methods of avoidance are not restricted to proceedings against the property through attachment and sale for the purpose of recovering the debt. Section does not preclude recovery by other means. 12 L.W. 718=61 I.C. 580. See also 3 Pat.L.T. 613=68 I.C. 369. The creditor can in defence

FRAUDULENT PREFERENCE.—Though a sale in favour of creditor by which he was preferred and another creditor lost his money is not invalid under this section, yet where only a part of the consideration was the debt due to the creditor and the rest of it is fictitious, the whole transaction is void. 34 L.W. 749=1932 M. 182 (30 M. 6 and 37 M. 227, Ref.). See also 1939 M. 745=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 362. But if the vendee creditor has paid off four mortgages, two in his own favour and two in favour of another. the effect of setting aside the sale is that he holds the position of a mortgage under those four deeds of mortgage. 135 I.C. 582; (1939) 2 M.L.J. 362. A debt advanced to the mortgagor at the time of the execution of the deed cannot be considered as a part of his pre-existing liability to the mortgagee and no preference could be claimed for them over the debts of the other creditors. 1935 L. 404. Where there is no question of bankruptcy, the validity of a transfer is not affected by the circumstance that one creditor was preferred to the detriment of another. 136 I. C. 237=27 N.L. C. 695=39 P.L.R. 499 (1); 38 P.L.R. 269. Where the transfer is in favour of a creditor for a pre-existing debt, the knowledge of the creditor that the transfer is likely to defeat or delay the other creditors does not make the transfer in his favour voidable under S. 53. 35 P.L.R. 163=1934 L. 161. See also 1935 L. 404. A transfer by a Mahomedan in favour of his wife in satisfaction of her prompt dower debt cannot be avoided under S. 53 on the mere ground that the intention was to give preference to the wife over the other creditors, in the absence of proof that the transaction was a wholly bogus and colourable one. Even if the wife was aware that the transfer to her was tantamount to giving her such preference. the transaction itself would neither be illegal nor void ab initio. 1937 A. 39=I.L.R. 1937 A. 153 ; 1937 O. WHO CAN SUE.—A fictitious sale in fraud of creditors can be set aside by creditors only; 111 I.C. 251=1928 L. 9. See also 1928 A. 476, i.e.. subsequent creditors as well as those existing at the time it was made. 8 O W.N. 593; See also 6 Lnck. 397=1931 O. 134; 5 Bom. One creditor alone can sue to set aside transfer under this section. But he must sue in a representative capacity and the benefit will enure in favour of all creditors. 27 B. 146; 44 C. 999; 30 M.L. Delay or laches of one creditor does not deprive the other creditors of their rights. See 22 L.W. 592=1926 M. 66; 12 L. 262=1931 L. 70 (2). Not-withstanding his remedy under S. 53 of the Pro. Ins. A secured creditor whose claim cannot be defeated by a transfer cannot sue to set it aside. 19 C. 336. A simple mortgagee who has obtained a decree for sale, whose right to a personal decree is not barred is a "creditor" within S. 53 and can bring a suit to set aside an alienation in fraud of creditors. 2 L. W. 479=29 I.C. 62. It is only a defeated or delayed creditor or a subsequent transferee who has the option to impeach a transfer under S. 53. A mere auction-purchaser of the property who is not the decree-holder himself is not a creditor, and he cannot impeach a transfer by the judgment-debtor after decree and before the sale as being fraudulent under S. 53. But a decree-holder who becomes the auction-purchaser of the same property which is privately transferred after the decree and before the sale in execution is entitled to impeach the transfer under S. 53. The decree-holder does not lose his right to the benefit of S. 53 by himself becoming the auction purchaser and if the property purchased by him at the auction had been transferred by the judgment-debtor with intent to defeat or delay him. the transfer is voidable at his option. He may plead S. 53 as a personal defence to a suit against him by the private purchaser, and it is not necessary for him to file a representative suit to avoid the transfer. 41 Bom.L.R. 1104=1939 Bom. 503. See also 43 L.W. 635=1936 Mad. 408. Ss. 2 (d) and 5 of the T.P. Act prevent S. 53 operating in the ease of a transfer under an order or decree of Court. But where a person obtains a transfer of property under an order of Court as the result of a gross fraud by collusively instituting a suit and obtaining a decree and purchasing the property in execution thereof, the Court has power to remedy the injustice by applying the principle of S. 53 and to set aside the sale 55 L.W. 422=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 213.

SUIT BY CREDITOR UNDER O. XXI, R. 63. C. P. CODE.—Rules of procedure laid down in S. 53 do not apply to the N.W.F. Province and a suit under O. 21, R. 63, C.P. Code, by a decree-holder for a declaration that the judgement-debtor has interest in certain property, is not bad, although not instituted for the benefit of all the creditors as required by S. 53. 164 I.C. 153=1936 Pesh. 158. A suit under O. 21 R. 63 instituted by a decree-holder to set aside a claim order on the ground that the sale-deed executed by the judgment-debtor to the claimant was collusive and benami and was created in order to defraud the plaintiff is not and cannot be treated as a suit under S. 53, T.P. Act. 62 C. L.J. 548=1936 C. 783. See also 1936 Pat. 15. A plaintiff who institutes a suit which is of the nature contemplated by S. 53 must comply with the provisions of that section, that is, he must sue on behalf of all the creditors, not for himself alone. The fact that he is a decree-holder against whom an adverse order has been made in claim proceedings under O. 21 R. 63, does not relive him of the necessity for obtaining leave of the Court under O. I, R. 8, C.P. Code, to sue on behalf of all the creditors of the judgment-debtor. There is nothing in S. 53. T. P. Act. which is incompatible with O. 21, R. 63. A suit under O. 21, R. 63 for a declaration that the transaction relied on by the successful claimant is a bogus one and to have the transaction set aside on the footing that it is a fraud on the creditors falls under S. 53, T.P. Act, and must fail, if leave of the Court is not obtained for suing on behalf of all the creditors. I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 803=1940 Mad. 789=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 872. See also 17 Pat. 588. When a suit is brought under the provisions of O. 21, R. 63, C. P.Code, by an attaching creditor to establish his right to atttach and bring to sale certain property, and in order to succeed it is necessary to avoid a transfer of the property on the ground that the transfer has been made with intent to defeat or delay the creditors of the transferor, the suit must be in the form of a representative suit on behalf of or for the benefit of all the creditors of the transferor as provided for in S. 53, T.P. Act and the provisions of O. 1, R. 8 will be applicable to such a suit. 12 R. 566=1934 R. 302; 39 Bom. L.R. 917; 40 Bom.L.R. 371; 1936 Cal 783=62 C.L. J. 548. The valuation for jurisdiction of such suit must be the value of the properties transferred and not the amount of the decree sought to be executed. Again this valuation cannot be the sum total of debts due to all the existing creditors, for the term 'creditor, includes not only creditors at the time of the assignment, but also those who subsequently become creditors. 1934 Rang. 302; 1936 Cal. 783. But when the suit of the attaching creditor does not involve the avoidance of any transfer of property, the Act has application and the suit need not be brought as a representative suit, and its valuation for jurisdiction would be the amount of the decree sought to be executed or the value of the property whichever is less. 1934 Rang. 302 ; 152 I.C. 506=1934 R. 200. A creditor had obtained a decree against the debtor but had not attached any of his property. The debtor alienated certain property during the pendency of the suit, The creditor brought a suit for declaration that the alienations were void. The suit was not styled as a representative suit. Held, there was no cause of action and the suit did not lie because it was not covered either by S. 53, T. P. Act or O. 21, R. 63, C.P.Code, or by S. 42, Specific Relief Act. 160 I.C. 444=1936 Pesh. 15. See also 17 Pat. 588; 1937 O.W.N. 1169. Where the judgment-debtor transfers his property in trust to the trustee who brings a suit for a declaration that property which is the subject of a charge by a consent decree cannot be sold in execution of that decree because it is trust property and not the property of the judgment-debtor; it is open to the attaching creditor to plead in defence that the transfer was in fraud of creditors. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 269=1939 Sind 97. Objection as to frame of suit cannot be taken in appeal for the first time. 1934 R. 308=1935 R. 275; 1936 A.M.L.J. 104.

PRESUMPTION OF FRAUD.—'Gratuitous transfers are not always fraudulent. 1900 A.C. 323. See also 40 P.L.R 462=1937 Lah. 847 (Gift to daughter). The mere fact of indebtedness of a person is not sufficient to raise a presumption that a gift made by him was made with the intention of defrauding the creditors. 39 P. L.R. 490. And if the transferor has, subsequent to his transfer, satisfied some of his creditors it shows that the transferor was in a position to satisfy all creditors. 74 P.R. 1912 =14 I.C. 232. See 24 C.W.N. 145; 1923 N. 334; 8 L. 544=1927 L. 420; 1927 R. 331; 109 I.C. 272 (2)=1928 A. 476 (2); 20 M. 465; 3 L.W. 287=34 I.C. 744; 27 B. 322; 9 I.C. 623 =43 I.C. 256; 25 B. 202; 23 C.W.N. 817 (P. Now that the paragraph is omitted, the Court has to consider all the circumstances of the case before coming to the conclusion as to fraud; ordinarily there can be no direct evidence to prove the fictitious and collusive nature of a transaction and this can be established and inferred mainly by circumstantial evidence. 123 I.C. 573=1930 L. 12; 164 I.C. 933; 1937 O. 349;

(2) Every transfer of immovable property made without consideration with intent to defraud a subsequent transferee shall be voidable at the option of such transferee.

For the purpose of this sub-section, no transfer made without consideration shall be deemed to have been made with intent to defraud by reason only that a subsequent transfer for consideration was made.

NOTES.

See also 1938 Oudh. 330; 1937 Pat. 609. In looking at a transaction for purposes of S. 53 one must look to the intention of the transfer and not to the motive. Where the motive of the transferor was to safe-guard the maintenance of his family, but the intention was clearly to put the properties out of the reach of creditors, the transfer is one intended to defeat or delay creditors. 42 C.W.N. 34. Where a wife, in order to safeguard herself against the future improvidence of her husband, who is a spend-thrift, secures a gift of property in her favour as a provision for her future maintenance and the donor is not shown to be in debt or in embarrassed circumstances at the time of the gift, such a transaction cannot be held to be a transfer made with intent to defeat or delay the creditors of the transferor. 162 I.C. 922=1936 L. 222. See also 1938 Oudh. 65. The husband executed a hiba bil ewaza in favour of his wife in lieu of dower. The deed conveyed all properties movable and immovable including the household effects. The couple had been married for over 15 years and no explanation was forthcoming as to why the donor thought of making the gift just at the time when a suit had been instituted against him by one of the creditors. It was also found that no physical possession of the property had been transferred to the donee. Held, that the deed was not a genuine transaction, that it was made with the object of defrauding creditors and was invalid under S. 53. 8 O.W.N. 794=134 I.C. 415. See also 1936 A.L.J. 966=1936 All. 803. The judgment debtors made a deed of gift of a field as wahiwatdars of a Devasthanam. The gift deed was actually registered after the field had been attached. There was no evidence to show that there was any dedication to the Devasthanam. The judgment-debtors described the field in gift deed as "our land". Held, that the gift was not bona fide but was made to delay or defeat the claims of the creditors. Hence the gift must be deemed as voidable. I.L.R. 1936 N. 69=165 I.C. 944 =1936 N. 166. Where the donor was indebted to several persons at the time of the alleged gift and it is proved that thereafter he dealt with the property as if it were his own and that within five months of the gift he effected an equitable mortgage on the property by depositing its title deeds, the only inference to be drawn from these circumstances is that either this transaction was wholly fictitious or that it was intended to defeat and delay creditors. 39 P.L.R. 660=1937 Lah. 819. Each case under S. 53 must be decided on its own facts. Where a gift is alleged to have been made orally some time after a decree had been passed against the donor, that circumstance by itself is sufficient to raise a presumption that the object of the gift was to defeat or at least to delay the creditors. 1938 O.W.N. 922=1938 Oudh. 230. Grossly inadequate consideration may be evidence of fraud. 5 Bom L.R. 213; 44 B. 767; 44 A. 748; but see 1924 N. 124. In the case of a mortgage, consideration connot be said to be inadequate. 12 Lah. L. J. 107=1931 L. 213.

SHAM TRANSACTION.—S. 53 has no application to a sham sale-deed not intended to pass title though intended to defeat creditors. Such a deed does not require to be set aside. It is void and of no effect. 11 L.W. 136=55 I.C. 766; 30 M.L.J. 565=34 I.C. 778. See also 99 I.C. 443 (1); 55 I.A. 256=55 M.L.J. 122=1928 P.C. 139 (P.C.); 1927 M. 1104; 99 I.C. 443. But see also; 1925 B. 287=27 Bom.L.R. 205. 56 I.C. 873.

PARTIAL CONSIDERATION—Where the transfer is fraudulent and is effected with a mala fide intent the mere fact that a portion of the consideration is actually paid will not clothe the transaction with reality and take it out of the operation of S. 53. 43 I.C. 956 (M.) See also 1930 M.W.N. 1145; 1939 Mad. 743=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 362; 40 P.L.R. 613; 1923. Lah. 423. Where a transaction is intended to defeat and delay creditors, the mere fact that a portion of the consideration was paid is no ground for not setting aside the transaction entirely. When a debtor with a view to defeat or delay his creditors colludes with one of hie creditors and creates a mortgage in his favour for a consideration which is partly fictitious and partly made up of a true money debt due to the creditor, on the finding that the transaction, as a whole, was a collusive transaction intended to defeat and delay creditors; the transaction should be set aside as a whole and the creditor who is a party to the fraud should not be allowed the protection of the transaction to the extent of his prior debt discharged thereby. There is no distinction in this respect between fraudulent transfers by way of mortgage and fraudulent transfers by way of sale. 54 L.W. 76=1941 Mad. 690=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 99. Where part of the consideration for a mortgage executed in favour of a creditor is proved to be fictitious and this fictitious part of the consideration is put in the bond in order to protect the mortgagor's property from his other creditors, it is a transfer made to defeat and delay creditors and by virtue of S. 53 it becomes voidable in toto, and cannot be enforced partially in respect of the consideration which was actually paid. The fact that an assignment is set aside as being in fraud of creditors under S. 53 does not prevent the Court from declaring a charge on the property assigned to the extent of the payment made by the assignee towards the redemption of the previous mortgage. 43 C. 269=20 C.W.N. 188=29 I. C. 580; 21 C.W.N. 401=29 I.C. 690. The transferee is entitled to get credit only for the mortgage debt binding on the property that he may have discharged as part of the consideration for the document and not for the money debts of the transferor discharged by him. 131 I.C. 833=1931 M. 513; 1934 M. 587=67 M. L.J. 585. Payment by transferee of revenue and encumbrance on property ought to be refunded on setting aside transfer. 1933 R. 191.

PARTITION.—A partition among the members of a joint Hindu family is a transfer to which S. 53 would be applicable. 24 L.W. 180=97 I.C. 70. But see 10 L.W. 498=54 I.C. 146; 25 A.L.J. 873. See also 44 M.L.J. 513=1923 M. 597; 106 I.C. 519=1928 A. 29. A mala fide partition effected between father and son and entered into for the sole purpose of defeating the claims of the creditors of the father is voidable under S. 53, though a partition does not come strictly within the letter of S. 53. 94 I.C. 282=1926 N. 355. On a reference to arbitration, a partition of joint family properties was made by which the bulk of the properties was given to the only son and a monthly allowance to the father. The partition was attacked as a fraudulent transfer, and the plaintiff relied, in proof of fraud, on the presumption under S. 53 (2): Held, that, assuming that the partition was a transfer, the consideration was natural love and affection which could not be said to be grossly inadequate. that the award could not be said to be altogether one-sided since the father got residence, maintenance and an allowance under the award and that therefore no presumption of fraud could be made therefrom. 139 I. C. 820= 34 Bom.L.R. 862=1932 B. 498.

BURDEN OF PROOF.—The burden of proof lies on the person impeaching the transfer. 6 C. 265; 21 C. 612; 17 M.L.J. 11; 3 R. 71=89 I. C. 436; 123 I.C. 573=1930 L. 12: 126 I.C. 604=1930 M. 665; 62 I.C. 356=25 C.W.N. 409 (P.C.); 60 I.C. 825=19 A.L.J. 87; 4 Bur. L.T. 163=11 I C. 781. But when the circumstances raise a presumption of fraud, the burden of proving bona fides is on the transferee. 104 I.C. 557; 168 I.C. 53=1937 O.W.N. 391. Ordinarily speaking when a transaction is attacked under S. 53, the burden lies on the attacking party to show in the first instance that the transaction was a fraudulent one intended to defeat and delay creditors. Where a prima facie case has been made out on that basis, then the burden shifts to the alienee to show that he is a transferee in good faith for valuable consideration. 54 L.W. 76=1941 Mad. 690=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 99=200 I.C. 577; 1940 All. 407. In a suit under S. 53, the plaintiff cannot succeed in avoiding the transfer on the ground that it had been made with intent to defeat or delay the creditors of the transferor unless he succeeds in showing that the transfer, although genuine, was fraudulent within the meaning of the section. 1941 O.W.N. 801 =1941 O.A. 519=1941 Oudh 457. However suspicious a transaction may be, there must be evidence on which the fraudulent intention must be made out. 112 I.C. 228=1928 M. 793. See also 23 I.C. 341; 21 I.C. 333; 1934 R. 308. Transfer in part consideration of debts due to transferee. Burden of proving alleged debts is on transferee. 1936 A.M.L.J. 104. The onus of proof on the transferee is satisfied if the transferee shows the passing of consideration. He need not go further and show absence of fraudulent intent. If there is no consideration or if it is inadequate, it would raise a presumption of fraudulent intent. 50 I.C. 463. If the transferee has no notice of and did not share in the fraudulent intention the transfer will not be set aside. 1923 N. 133 (1). If a conveyance is duly registered, passing of consideration need not be proved by transferee unless circumstances suggest fraud. 3 R. 71=1925 R. 227. The burden of disproving fraudulent intent lies on the transferee. 2 I.C. 813; 50 I.C. 463.

PROTECTION OF bona fide PURCHASER FOR VALUE.—S. 53 protects a bona fide purchaser for valuable consideration, whether he purchases from the fraudulent grantor himself or from a fraudulent transferee from him. 46 M. 478=44 M.L.J. 527=1923 M. 558. See also 1930 A. 438; 1934 L. 318 (2), 1937 Nag. 9. A transferee who fails to make any inquiry of the person who could have given the best of information as to the defects in the title is not a transferee in good faith. 46 M. 478=44 M.L. J. 527. It is a question of fact in each case whether the transferee acted in good faith. 75 I.C. 1044; 1924 L. 707; See also 89 I.C. 953 (1)=1926 L. 24. Valuable consideration alone is insufficient. Good faith is also essential. 30 M. 6; 23 C.W.N. 769; 34 C. 999; 24 M.L. J. 293; 33 M. 334; 96 I.C. 356; 22 C.W.N. 427; 165 I.C. 124=1936 A. 663. Bona fide transferees for consideration are absolutely protected. 25 A.L.J. 873. Valuable consideration may indicate good faith. 5 Bom. L.R. 141. As to what is valuable consideration, see 29 B. 428. Where a part of the consideration alone was real, the whole transfer cannot be set aside. 36 M. 29, contra; 1927 M. 278, See also 24 M. L. J. 266; 18 I. C. 768. On the sale being set aside, the vendee can have a charge only for encumbrances discharged and not for simple debts. 1927 M. 278. But this is only where portions of the consideration are separable 35 C. 1051; 27 M.L.J. 266. For application of the sub-section, see 35 C. 999; 24 C. 825; 2 P.L.J. 546; 25 B. 202; 71 I.C. 20. A mortgage executed by a judgment-debtor against whom a money decree has been passed, before service of notice upon him under O. 21, R. 54, C.P.Code, for valuable consideration in favour of a mortgagee who had as notice of the execution proceedings, is valid 94 I,C. 420 (2)=1926 C. 469. A transferee for value knowing of impending execution against his vendor, but not of his intention to defeat or delay creditors, does not come under S. 53. 95 I.C. 487. As to the form of decree to be passed see 1941 Bom. 65.

NOTES.

PLEA IN DEFENCE.—A person who procured a legal flaw cannot take advantage of it in defence. 20 A.L.J. 392=44 A. 642=1922 A. 233 (2). An attaching decree-holder can plead as defence to a suit by the alienee whose claim has been disallowed that the transfer was fraudulent and intended to defeat or delay the transferors creditors. 39 M.L.J. 350=43 M. 760 (F,B.). See also 60 I.C. 896=19 A.L.J. 299; I. L.R. 1936 N. 69=1936 N. 166. Where the plaintiff seeks to recover possession of property on the basis of a trust deed, it is open to the defendant to plead by way of defence that the plaintiff should not be allowed to recover on the basis of the said document as it was a fraudulent one intended to defeat the rights of creditors among whom the defendant is one. 72 C. L.J. 420=1941 Cal. 233. See also 1938 Lah. 136; (1940) 2 M.L.J. 491. It is also open to a creditor who has been defeated or delayed to raise the plea in defence. 1936 A.L. J. 692=1936 A. 663.

PARTIES TO SUIT.—In a suit by a creditor impeaching a transfer by his debtor as being fraudulent under S. 53 or in an appeal passed from a decree passed in such suit, the receiver, where the debtor has been subsequently adjudged insolvent, is a necessary party and such a suit or appeal is incompetent when the receiver, who is a necessary party is not impleaded. 181 I.C. 655=1938 Lah. 856.

LIMITATION.—It is true that the creditor has to challenge the transfer only within six years, but where the creditor has occupied the position of a defendant, no time limit affects his defence and he can consequently challenge the transfer even though six years had expired. 1940 Lah. 198.

FRAME OF SUIT—OBJECTION IN APPEAL.—Where plaintiff filed a suit under S. 53, but failed to sue on behalf of or for the benefit of the creditors of judgment-debtor, but no objection was taken in the trial Court and the suit was decreed. Held, that the defendant was no entitled in the appellate Court to claim that the suit as framed was not maintainable. 1935 R. 275 ; 1936 A.M.L.J. 104. See also 1937 O.W. N. 1069. As to court-fee, see 1939 M.W.N. 778.

ISSUE UNDER SEC. 53—IF CAN BE RAISED BY WAY OF DEFENCE.—Where at the time of a sale o the judgment-debtor's property in execution of a decree an objection to the sale is made by a party under S. 47, C. P. Code, on the ground that he is owner of the property by virtue of a transfer of the property in his favour by the judgment-debtor, the decree-holder is entitled to contest the objector's claim on the ground that the property was transferred fraudulently and he need not file a separate suit to have that transfer declared fraudulent. To such a defence by the creditor, the rule contained in S. 53, Transfer of Property Act, as to the form in which the suit is to be brought does not apply. Moreover the defence of the creditor in such a case can be described to be made in a representative capacity to apply for a rateable share in the sale proceeds if the property is sold. 180 I.C. 830=1938 Lah. 136. See also (1942) 2 M.L.J. 491.

Sec. 53-A. NECESSITY FOR THIS NEW SECTION —See Statement of Objects and Reasons.

ENGLISH AND INDIAN LAW, DISTINGUISHED.—The right conferred by S. 53-A is limited to cases where the transferee has taken possession and against whom the transferor or any one claiming through him is debarred from enforcing any right other than that which is expressly provided in the contract. Under the English Law the equity of part performance is an active equity and the person in possession can enforce in an independent suit further proceedings. Under S. 53-A, the right is available only to the defendant to protect his possession. It is only in the case of specific performance that part performance assits a plaintiff ; and S. 27-A of the Specific Relief Act is the only case recognised by the Indian Legislature where the equity of part performance is an active equity as in English law, sufficient to support an independent action by the transferee in possession ; and though he may maintain a suit for injunction, as being in possession, as against a trespasser, he cannot maintain an injunction suit against a person claiming under colour of a title from the transferor. The proper procedure for him is to sue for specific performance. 41 C. W.N. 54 ; 164 I.C. 557=1936 N. 174. See also 42 C.W.N. 630=1939 Cal. 163 ; 1937 Nag. 74. The English doctrine of part performance is not available in India by way of defence to a suit for ejectment except under the provisions of S. 53-A of the Act and in cases to which that section is applicable. 71 C.L.J. 144=44 C.W. N. 357=1940 Cal. 254 ; 41 C.W.N. 54. Whether S. 53-A applies at all to an agreement to transfer a partial interest in property, such as a right to win minerals or cut timber or the like. It is at least possible that it only applies to an agreement to sell or otherwise dispose of the entirety of a piece of real property. 46 C.W. W.N. 374=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 1 =1941 P. C. 128 (P.C.)

SCOPE—IF RETROSPECTIVE.—S. 53-A does not affect any proceeding commenced before the amending Act of 1929. It is not retrospective. 14 P. 672=1935 P. 291 (F.B.) ; 1936 N. 115 ; 1936 N. 282=165 I.C. 934 ; 1936 O. 306=162 I.C. 712. But see 1936 N. 254=165 I.C. 957, See also 1936 M. 916=71 M.L.J. 639; 1937 All. 10 ; 1937 Cal. 467 ; 1937 Nag. 74 ; 1939 Pat. 488=20 Pat.L.T. 329 ; 19 Pat.L.T. 594= 1938 Pat. 337 ; 1939 Rang. 175 ; 1937 Rang. 402 ; 1938 Cal. 97=42 C.W.N. 38 ; 40 C.W.N. 34=1938 Cal. 795 ; 1937 Pat. 36 ; 1941 Cal. 33 =45 C.W.N. 240 ; 1941 Cal. 287 ; 63 M.L.J.

and the transferee has, in part-performance of the contract, taken possession of the property or any part thereof, or the transferee, being already in possession, continues in possession in part-performance of the contract and has done some act in furtherance of the contract, and the transferee has performed or is willing to perform his part of the contract, then, notwithstanding that the contract, though required to be registered, has not been registered, or, where there is an instrument of transfer, that the transfer has not been completed in the manner prescribed therefor by the law for the time being in force, the transferor or any person claiming under him shall be debarred from enforcing against the transferee and persons claiming under him any right in respect of the property of which the transferee has taken or continued in possession, other than a right expressly provided by the terms of the contract :

Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the rights of a transferee for consideration who has no notice of the contract or of the part-performance thereof.

NOTES.

587. S. 53-A applies to all cases instituted on or after the 1st April, 1930, though the transfer took place before 1930. 1936 A.L.J. 1323=1936 A.W.R. 1038 ; 64 C.L.J. 558 ; 42 Bom. L.R. 382=1940 Bom. 193 ; 40 Bom.L.R. 1192=1939 Bom. 31 ; 41 Bom.L.R. 1310=1940 Bom. 90 ; 1941 Cal. 287. The question of the retrospective nature of S. 53-A arises not with respect to the particular contract in question but with respect to the enforcement of the right against the transferee. 15 Pat. 786=1937 P. 36. Doctrine applicable to Punjab. 162 I.C. 314=1936 L. 366 ; 43 P.L.R. 656=1941 Lah. 407. S. 53-A gives a party relying upon it such right which but for the lack of some formality, he would have under the written agreement; but it gives no more and does not give any right which the informal agreement would not give. 182 I.C. 618=1939 Pat. 296. The amendment of the law effected by the enactment of S. 53-A confers no right of action on a transferee in possession under an unregistered contract of sale. "The right conferred by S. 53-A is a right available only to the defendant to protect his possession." The section is so framed as to impose a statutory bar on the transferor ; it confers no active title on the transferee. Any other reading of it would make a serious in-road in the whole scheme of the T. P. Act. 66 I.A. 293=I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 250 1940 P.C. 1=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 75 (P.C.). S. 53-A applies to a contract to transfer occupancy holding which has not been completed in the manner prescribed by S. 26-C of the B.T. Act. There is no provision in the latter Act which in any way takes away the right conferred by S. 53-A upon a purchaser to retain possession as against his vendor in the circumstance mentioned in that section. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 328=42 C. W.N. 630=1939 Cal. 163. S. 53-A is restricted in its application and cannot be extended further than its terms warrant. It places the transferee and those claiming under him in possession of a shield which they can wield against 'the transferor or any person claiming under him' but which is ineffective against third parties with independent rights. 1938 N.L.J. 123. See also 1940 Oudh 409=16 Luck. 191=1940 O. W. N. 782. Though the right conferred by S. 53-A is a right available only by way of a defence, where a suit is brought by a vendee under O. 21, R. 103, C.P. Code, he is merely seeking to protect his rights to which he is entitled and as such the suit is only one by way of a defence and S. 53-A of the T. P. Act would be available to such a plaintiff. 15 Luck. 43=1940 Oudh 1. In order to satisfy the requirement of S. 53-A it is enough to show that the transferee has taken possession or continued in possession in part-performance of the contract and has done some act in furtherance of it. The section does not require any concurrent act or any specific consent apart from the contract on the part of the vendor. 15 Luck. 43=1939 O.W.N. 876=1940 Oudh 1. A plaintiff cannot claim the benefit of S. 53-A, but it is available only as defence. 1939 A.L.J. 384=1939 All. 504. See also 19 N. L.J. 179=1930 Nag. 174 ; 16 Luck. 191=1940 O.W.N. 782=1940 Oudh. 409 ; I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 480=42 Bom.L.R. 501=1940 Bom. 281 ; 1936 Nag. 174.

INDIAN LAW OF THE DOCTRINE OF PART-PERFORMANCE.—Under the T. P. Act, as it stood before the amendment, the doctrine of part-performance had no place whatever ; and even if at the date of the suit by the legal owner the defendant had an enforceable contract of sale in his favour, he cannot rely on that fact as a defence to the claim in ejectment. At best he could only apply for stay of the ejectment until he obtained specific performance of his contract by suitable proceedings. S. 53-A of the amended Act is not retrospective and does not apply to pending proceedings. S. 16 of the Amending Act of 1929 clearly excluded such operation in respect of suits pending on the date of the coming into force of the Act, i.e., 1st April, 1930. 1935 M.W.N. 267=41 L.W. 364. See also 37 Bom.L.R. 82 ; Bom.L.R. 1245=1935 B. 91 ; 39 C.W.N. 416 ; 151 I.C. 388=1934 A. 701 ; 1934 A. 768 ; 152 I.C. 499=1934 P. 546. The right conferred by S. 53-A of the T. P. Act is limited to cases where the transferee has taken possession and against whom the transferor or any one claiming through him is debarred from enforcing any right other than that which is expressly provided in the contract. 41 C.W.N. 54. See also 44 C.W.N. 357=1940 Cal. 254. Although the provisions of the T. P. Act are not in force in N. W. F. P. still its principles are applied as being principles of justice, equity and good conscience. 1937 Pesh. 58=43 P.L.R. 658. The section can apply only if the agreement is in writing and the terms have been set out with reasonable certainty. 35 Bom.L.R. 722=1933 B. 381=145 I.C. 557; 151 I.C. 227=1934 R. 127. The first requirement mentioned in S 53-A as a condition for the applicability of the section is that there should be a writing signed by the transferor or on his behalf from which the terms necessary to constitute the transfer can be ascertained with reasonable certainty. The words "signed on his behalf" in the section mean signed by a person who has authority to bind or represent the transferor. 43 Bom.L.R. 603=I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 529=1941 Bom. 346. The doctrine of part-performance can have no relation under any circumstances to movable property. 152 I.C. 431=1934 R. 303. The earlier decisions which allowed the doctrine of part-performance to prevail even in cases where there was no writing, are no longer good law. 144 I.C. 788=1933 P. 485; 165 I. C. 934=1936 N. 282. S. 53-A clearly contemplates that the contract itself shall be in writing, and not that there shall be a writing referring to some part or parts of a contract which may previously have been oral. A distinction must be drawn between a writing which is a reduction into writing of a previous oral agreement which would fall within the provisions of S. 53-A and a writing in which there is a mere reference to a previous oral agreement. 1938 Rang.L.R. 692=1938 Rang. 356. A contract or an agreement in writing or a written agreement is a sine quo non under S. 53-A. Such written agreement may of course be the embodiment of what has already been orally agreed upon and may also refer to payment by the purchaser and receipt by the vendor of part of the purchase-money, but it must essentially be a written agreement. 174 I.C. 169=1938 Rang. 49. Section cannot be applied to any case in which there is no contract in writing. 1933 R. 136; 144 I.C. 825. S. 53-A cannot be applied to a family settlement which is neither a transfer of property nor a contract to transfer property, but which merely acknowledges the right of the other party. Such a settlement if in writing has to be registered; and if unregistered the defect is fatal and cannot be cured by S. 53-A. I.L.R. (1937) All. 817=1937 All. 578 =1937 A.L.J. 627 (F.B.); 165 I.C. 934=1936 N. 282 (Oral sale). See also 1939 A.L.J. 433=1939 All. 529. The decision of the question whether the doctrine of part performance could be pleaded by a purchaser from a Hindu widow, as against the reversioner, would depend upon the answer to the question whether the reversioner was a 'person claiming under him' (i.e. transferor, widow). The test to be applied is to see whether the acts of the deceased widow affecting the property bind the reversioner or not. 1940 Nag. 396=1940 N.L.J. 499. To establish the application of the principle of part-performance it must be shown that the respective parties have so changed their respective positions that the change can only be referable to the contract alleged. A mere payment of the purchase-money, for instance, is insufficient. 47 B. 621=25 Bom.L.R. 381=1923 B. 473. See also 45 M.L.J. 528=46 M. 919=1924 M. 271 (S.B.); 40 C.W.N. 1176. To constitute part-performance the act must be an act, unequivocally referring to and resulting from the agreement and such that the party would suffer an injury amounting to fraud, by the refusal to execute that agreement. 1924 P. 433. Where the purchaser was already in possession of the property as mortgagee and then continued in possession after the agreement to sell had been concluded and a portion of price was paid in addition to the amount already due on the mortgage, in respect of which the purchaser was already in possession. Held, that such payment was an unequivocal act which could not be referred to any other matter than the agreement for sale, and as such it was sufficient to satisfy the requirement of S. 53-A, viz., that that some act must be done in furtherance of the contract. 1934 R. 303. When the agreement or contract is dependent upon the promisor obtaining the assent of another to the agreement proposed, the promisee is not entitled to sue for specific performance of the agreement as long as the assent is not obtained. S. 53-A would not apply to such an agreement. 15 P. 460=1936 P. 372. See also 45 C.W.N. 489. The contract contemplated by S. 53-A is a completed contract and a valid contract. 45 C.W.N. 489. See also 1940 A.W.R. (H.C.) 243. The object of this section is to protect persons in cases where there is a contract which cannot be proved in evidence or the specific performance of which is barred. 45 C.W.N. 489. See also 1936 Pat, 372. S. 53-A contemplates reliance upon the entire contract. It does not contemplate the splitting up of a contract into different parts. 45 C.W.N. 489. S. 53-A only enunciates the doctrine of part performance and does not in any way invest the transferee with any title to the property of which the transferee might have taken possession. 1941 I.T.R. 358. S. 53-A according to its terms, debars a transferor from exercising rights which he would have apart from the agreement. Although there is an exception to this disablement in the words "other than a right expressly provided by the terms of the contract," it is clear that the transferor cannot in any case derive any rights from the section which are inconsistent with the conditions subject to which the section comes into operation. Since it is a condition precedent that the transferee shall have performed his part of the contract or should be willing to perform his part of the contract at the time when the section is sought to be made use of, which is the material time, it necessarily follows that a suit by the transferor for damages for breach of contract can never be founded upon S. 53-A. 43 Bom. L.R. 603=I. L. R. (1941) Bom. 529=1941 Bom. 346. See also 45 C. W. N. 132. In order to avail oneself of the benefit of the provisions of S. 53-A it must be shown that the possession refers unequivocally to the contract. He must show either from the con-

Where a party secures an advantage for himself in pursuance of an award relating to immovable property, he cannot be allowed to repudiate the award. The principles embodied in S. 53-A are applicable to such cases and even if the document requires registration, the defect is cured as soon as it is acted upon by the parties. 37 P.L.R. 459. Non-registration of sale-deed does not render the sale ineffectual if the vendee has paid the price and obtained possession; for, thereby the vendee obtains an equitable right that the vendor should complete the title by a formal registered conveyance. 9 I.C. 770; 46 A. 759=1924 A. 772. See also (1937) 1 M.L.J. 676; 1937 Pesh. 58=169 I.C. 958. Where a person obtained certain property from the Collector under a grant made by him after he had wrongfully terminated the grant in favour of another and there was neither consent nor acquiescence on the part of the former grantee to possession being taken or retained by the latter, held, that the doctrine of part-performance did not apply to the case. 139 I.C. 388=1932 S. 42. Where a person enters into possession of immovable property belonging to another under an agreement that he was to appropriate the rent, and profits of the property in lieu of interest on money advanced by him, such an agreement does not create any interest in immovable property in favour of the person so entering into possession and he could not resist a claim for possession by the owner or his transferee. 11 L.B.R. 319=1922 L.B. 25. See 1933 C. 393=144 I.C. 598, where the doctrine of part-performance was held to apply to a claim for rent by the landlord under a registered kabuliyat. Where the agreement of transfer is void the doctrine of part-performance is inapplicable. 14 Pat.L.T. 27=1932 P. 165. The doctrine of part-performance was held not to apply where there was no promise to convey the lands outright, but only to lease them. 36 Bom.L.R. 1245=1935 B. 91; 1936 A.L.J. 1323 =1936 A.W.R. 1038. Though S. 53-A on the face of it applies primarily to contracts of transfer only, the words 'where there is an instrument of transfer' in the section show that it applies to transfers also. Where a permanent lease is unregistered and is defective in not complying with the requirements of S. 107 of the T. P. Act, the defect will be cured by the provision in S. 53-A that the transfer has not been completed in the manner prescribed therefor by the law for the time being in force. 1939 O.W.N. 102=1939 Oudh 85. An agreement contained in a lease which ought to have been, but which is not, registered, is inadmissible in evidence. 18 R.D. 572. Neither under S. 53-A of the T. P. Act, nor under S. 49 of the Registration Act as amended in 1929, can a landlord recover rent under an unregistered lease, if the lease is one requiring registration. 62 C. 394. S. 53-A does not operate to create a form of transfer of property which is exempt from registration. It creates no real right: it merely creates rights of estoppel between the proposed transferee and transferor, which have no operation against third persons not claiming under those persons. 46 C.W.N. 374=55 L.W. 79= (1942) 1 M.L.J. 1 (P.C.)=1941 P.C. 128 (P.C.). RECEIPT.—A document which is primarily a receipt, cannot be said to be always insufficient for the purpose of S. 53-A. It would be sufficient if all the essential terms of the contract

OF SALES OF IMMOVABLE PROPERTY.

54. "Sale" is a transfer of ownership in exchange for a price paid or promised or part-paid and part-promised.

NOTES.

could with reasonable certainty be ascertained from it. Where a document recited the receipt of a sum of money from another as earnest money for the sale of a house for a particular price and that a portion of the consideration was to be reserved with the vendee for payment to a mortgagee, and the boundaries of the house were also given it was held that the receipt was sufficient for the purpose of S. 53-A as all the essential terms of the contract could with reasonable certainty be ascertained from it. 15 Luck. 43=1939 O.W.N. 876=1940 Oudh 1. Document contemplated by S. 53-A need not be a formal agreement or contract, nor need it purport to be in its entirety an agreement, but part of the document at least must be in essence an agreement or contract. It is not sufficient to say that the terms of an agreement can be ascertained from a document which purports to be on the face of it merely a receipt. Where therefore a document recited that a certain sum of money was received as an advance against the sale of a piece of land for a certain sum and the balance to be paid within a certain period. Held, that by merely mentioning the period within which the balance of the purchase-money was to be paid, the document could not be construed as an agreement much less in essence an agreement of the kind contemplated by S. 53-A. 1939 Rang.L.R. 575 =1939 Rang. 206.

LIMITATION.—S. 53-A confers only a passive right and is available to a defendant to protect his possession. Art. 113 of the Limitation Act certainly cannot apply to such a right. Consequently the right of defence under S. 53-A is available to a defendant although his right to sue for specific performance of the contract made in his favour is barred by limitation. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 328=42 C.W.N. 630=1939 Cal. 163.

PLEADINGS.—A defence under S. 53-A ought to be raised in specific terms, as it involves questions of fact. 45 C.W.N. 240=1941 Cal. 33.

Secs. 53-A and 27-A, SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT—DISTINCTION.—What S. 53-A, T. P. Act, creates, is a defence by prohibiting the enforcement of a right by the transferor. The difference between the protection given by that section and the right conferred by S. 27-A, Specific Relief Act, is that while the former creates a defence, the latter creates a ground of claim. S. 53-A strikes at and prohibits the action based on the contract and not the contract itself. I.L.R. 1936 N. 115. See also 41 C.W.N. 54; 1937 Nag. 74.

Secs. 53-A, 58 (d) and 59: ORAL USUFRUCTUARY MORTGAGE—SUIT FOR REDEMPTION.—Both in India and in Burma cultivators, in the teeth of the express terms of S. 59 are still wont to obtain loans by delivering their lands to the lenders upon the terms that the lenders may remain in possession until the loan is repaid, and appropriate the fruits of the land towards the repayment of the principal or of the interest due under the loan. Such transactions are usufructuary mortgages within S. 58 (d) and unless the instrument of mortgage in such a case is in writing, and the transaction also falls with-in S. 53-A, the terms of the mortgage cannot be relied on as a ground of attack or of defence by either either the plaintiff or the defendant in a mortgage suit, except in cases in which they are embodied in a duly registered written instrument. Accordingly a suit framed as a suit for redemption of lands which are the subject of an oral usufructuary mortgage cannot be sustained, inasmuch as the plaintiff pleads and relies on the oral mortgage which is required by law to be effected by a registered instrument. The proper course of the mortgagor to take in such a case would be to sue for possession relying on his title. In such a suit, it is not permissible for the defendant to rest his claim to remain in possession on the oral mortgage which could not be proved. 13 R. 274 (F.B.). But see 14 L.R. 157 (Rev.)=17 R.D. 201.

Secs. 53-A and 107.—S. 53-A, T. P. Act, cannot be invoked by a lessor under an instrument not complying with the provisions of S. 107 of the Act, to establish that he possesses any right of action under the instrument, considered purely as a lease. The main provisions of S. 53-A would protect the defendant lessee in his possession of the property if he proved that the necessary conditions had been satisfied. The lessor is debarred from enforcing against the lessee any right in respect of the property, 'other than a right expressly provided by the terms of the contract'. The implication is that while the instrument qua lease is invalid qua contract it can be enforced. Hence where one party has been in possession under an instrument which is defective in form, the contract can be looked into for the purpose of determining the rights and liabilities of the parties arising out of such possession. It is permissible to admit the defective instrument in evidence for that purpose. 1941 O.A. 1050.

Sec. 54: SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY.—No writing was necessary to validate a sale before the Act. 42 I.A. 1=42 C. 801=28 M.L.J. 548 (P.C.). The section is not exhaustive. 41 B. 438 (F.B.) See also 23 C.W.N. 284=47 I.C. 428. The Transfer of Property Act is not in force in Marwar so that the statutory provisions of that Act embodied in S. 54 as to the modes of transfer of property cannot be enforced and an oral sale can be recognised as valid. 1939 Mar.L.R. 266 (Civ.). Provisions of the section are imperative and Courts cannot disregard them on equitable grounds. 42 M.L.J. 449=45 M. 537; 59 I.C. 451 (N.). See now S. 53-A, supra. In order to create title in immovable property of the value of more than Rs. 100, it is necessary that a registered deed should be executed. 14 Pat.L.T. 224=1933 P. 428. In the Sale how made.

[1]Such transfer, in the case of tangible immovable property of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, or in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, can be made only by a registered instrument.

[1]In the case of tangible immovable property, of a value less than one hundred rupees, such transfer may be made either by a registered instrument or by delivery of the property.

Delivery of tangible immovable property takes place when the seller places the buyer, or such person as he directs, in possession of the property.

Contract for sale.

A contract for the sale of immovable property is a contract that a sale of such property shall take place on terms settled between the parties.

It does not, of itself, create any interest in or charge on such property.

NOTES.

case of property worth less than Rs. 100 there are according to S. 54, obviously two methods of transfering title (1) registered instrument and (2) delivery of the property. Any defect in one mode cannot obviously impair the validity of the other mode if properly carried out. If there is delivery of possession in lieu of the receipt of consideration, there is nothing more required to effectuate the sale. A superfluous unregistered sale-deed cannot invalidate the sale otherwise valid. 1941 N.L.J. 643. See also 1939 Pat. 218. Although under S. 47, Registration Act, once a document is registered, the effect begins to commence from the date of execution; if the document is not registered it can never have any effect in law as a sale-deed, a valid transfer is not made until the deed is registered. 40 L.W. 413=1934 M. 637 (2)=67 M.L.J. 380. This definition of sale applies to Punjab. 53 P.R. 1916=33 I.C. 474 (F.B.). (But see 110 I. C. 243); and also to Burma. 28 I.C. 264. The section applies to a conveyance by Official Receiver of an insolvent's estate. 53 I. C. 121=46 C. 887; 48 L.W. 959=1939 M. 220; 152 I.C. 988=40 L.W. 747=67 M.L.J. 746; and to a conveyance of a mortgage-debt. 68 I.C. 752=41 M.L.J. 453; 69 I.C. 473=41 M.L. J. 267. S. 54 makes a registered deed requisite by whomsoever the sale of a mortgagee's right is undertaken, except when it can clearly be shown that the sale takes place (e.g.) under O 21, C. P. Code. Where no receiver in insolvency is appointed and the Court by virtue of the powers conferred on it by S. 58 of the Provincial Insolvency Act sells the mortgagee interest of an insolvent firm, it does not proceed under the C. P. Code. It is one of the administrative actions which a receiver would take, and hence the sale could only be effected by registered instrument. 1940 Rang.L.R. 263=1940 R. 186. See also 1939 M. 220. A transfer of property effected under a compromise decree not evidenced by a registered document cannot be treated as a sale as defined in the Act. 53 A. 100. Where a document, though described as a sale-deed, is merely an agreement to divide the fruits, if any, of a contemplated litigation between the two parties of the agreement, the description of the document cannot make the transaction a sale. 132 I.C. 753=7 O.W.N. 1010. The T. P. Act does not apply to pre-emption sales, so far as the formalities are concerned. 1931 N. 166. See also 139 I.C. 693= 1932 A.L.J. 851=1932 A. 685. A mere contract for the sale of an immovable property which does not create an interest in such immovable property does not require registration. [51 A. 771 (P.C.) Expl.] 1933 A.L.J. 1584=1933 A. 846.

SALE-DEED—WHEN COMPLETE.—The executant of a sale-deed which is compulsorily registrable has no locus penitentiae to resile from the transaction, merely because the title under the deed is incomplete for want of registration, because such incompleteness is not a thing of which he can take advantage. If the instrument is otherwise complete, the executant is to be regarded as having done everything that was in his power to complete the sale and to make i effective. But as regards third parties the point of time at which the transfer is to be effective is when the deed can be said to be a registered deed. 61 C.L.J. 360; 1938 N. 253=I.L.R. (1939) N. 253. But see 167 I.C. 48=1937 N. 1. An agreement of sale gives the purchase an equitable title as owner in the property concerned. But, ordinarily, this is good only against the vendor himself, and does not operate against a person who obtains a legal interest in the same property in good faith without notice of the equitable title. Consequently, where the mortgagor enters into an agreement to sell property with a third party before mortgaging the same property and the sale is completed after the mortgage, the mortgagee if he had acted in good faith and had no notice of the agreement of sale is entitled to precedence over the purchaser. 194 I.C. 787=1941 L. 240. Transfer of ownership marks the difference between sale and mortgage. In the latter the property is held merely as security for the debt; in sale the full right of the vendor passes to the purchaser. 7 A. 553. Sale is to be distinguished from the passing of rights under a compromise from one person to the other, a compromise being the acknowledgment of an existing or doubtful right and not a transfer of ownership. 34 B. 139.

NOTES.

IMMOVABLE PROPERTY.—An interest under a deed of settlement, whereby a person is granted an income in future rents and profits of certain immovable property and also a share in the proceeds of the sale of the property in future, is immovable property within the meaning of S. 54, and sale or transfer of such interest cannot be effected, otherwise than by a registered instrument. Such a transfer cannot also be effected without a registered deed in view of Ss. 5 and 8, Trusts Act. 63 I.A. 340=14 R. 400=40 C.W.N. 1253=1936 P.C. 230=71 M.L.J. 440 (P.C.). See also 12 R. 589. Right of cutting and appropriating plants is an interest in immovable property. 15 I.C. 234; so also, an undivided share in immovable property. 11 I.C. 673=14 O.C. 161; 83 I.C. 270=1924 R. 257. GRANT OF EASEMENT.—The grant of a mere easement does not involve such a transfer of ownership in immovable properties as is contemplated by S. 54 and the same does not require registration. 115 I.C. 145=1929 M. 79 =57 M.L.J. 45; 34 I.C. 95; 20 C.W.N. 1158= 34 I.C. 450. See also 31 A. 612.

REVERSION is intangible immovable property and a transfer of it requires registration. 40 B. 319. S. 54 deals with sales of immovable property. The 'other intangible thing' referred to in the section is intended to embrace those imponderables which are related to immovable property such as, for example, a reversionary right. There is nothing in the section or Act to justify the conclusion that all licences which are intangible things can only be transferred by a registered instrument There is no law which expressly enjoins that the transfer of a licence to sell electricity can be effected only by written or registered instrument. I.L.R. (1940) A. 568=1940 A.L.J. 449=1940 A. 458. A transfer of property to wife to be enjoyed for her life in lieu of maintenance needs no registration. 45 M. 612=42 M.L.J. 410. [1926 O. 186, Rel. on.] 11 O.W.N. 592=1934 O 163. S 54, has no application to an instrument assigning or transferring a decree for money. A simple decree for money (or for possession of immovable property) is not an "intangible thing" under S. 54. Nor can a decree for money be, by any stretch of reasoning regarded as immovable propery. The assignment of such a decree does not require registration for its validity. 17 Pat L.T. 536. As to assignment of copyright see 1939 All 305; as to assignment of rents and profits see 1940 Rang. SALE BY DELIVERY OF POSSESSION AND REGISTRATION.—Where an unregistered deed of sale in respect of immovable property worth less than Rs. 100 is executed on a particular day and the property sold is delivered to the purchaser some days later in pursuance of the sale-deed, there is no reason why the sale should not stand valid It is not necessary that delivery of possession of the property should be contemporaneous with the execution of the sale-deed though the unregistered sale-deed will not of itself confer any title on the purchaser. 1939 Pat. 218 See also 1941 N.L.J. 643. An unregistered sale-deed of properties of value less than Rs. 100 is invalid for purposes of conveying title. It can only be used as proof of the terms of the contract between the parties. But the title can pass to the vendees by delivery of possession of the properties. 10 Pat.L.T. 449; 14 Pat. L.T. 224. Even in the case of a sale for less than Rs. 100 where delivery of possession is not possible, the deed in order to be valid must be registered. 142 I.C. 582=1933 C. 544; 144 I.C. 919. Though there is no doubt abundant authority that copyright is an intangible thing it is equally clear that copyright is movable and not immovable property. S. 54 has no application to the sale of movable property and the words 'intangible thing' in that section have reference only to immovable property. The section has no application to the transfer of a copyright and it could be validly assigned by an unregistered instrument. I.L.R. (1939) All 275=1939 A.L.

SHAM TRANSACTION.—S. 54 no doubt lays down that immovable property worth less than Rs. 100 can be sold by means of a registered instrument but it does not lay down that if the parties to a socalled sale get a sham deed of sale registered without intending that the transaction should take effect even then the ownership of the property will pass from one to the other by registration. 13 Luck. 484=1937 O. 493. A sham transaction is not sale. It is only in cases where transfer is genuine and title passes that the vendee is entitled to possession and the vendor can maintain suit for consideration money if it has not been paid. Where however no consideration passes from the vendee nor is there any intention of passing the rights from the vendor to the vendee and the whole transaction is fictitious, title does not pass to the vendee and a suit by the latter for possession is not maintainable. 183 I.C. 221=1939 Pesh. 27.

A contract for sale of immovable property does not become unenforceable, merely because of failure to keep the dates assigned by the contract either for completion or for the step towards completion. Equity does not regard the terms or the letter of the contract, but rather its substance. The disregard of the terms of the contract so far as time is concerned may depend upon the express stipulations of the parties, the nature of the property or the surrounding circumstances. 15 Pat.L.T. 469=1934 P. 518. Earnest money is generally paid as a guarantee for the payer's performance of the contract and is subject to forfeiture if he makes default. "It is part of the purchase price when the transaction goes forward; it is forfeited when the transaction falls through by reason of the fault of the vendee". [50 M.L.J. 629 (P.C.), Ref.] Where after the purchaser failed to complete the contract for sale within a reasonable time, the seller parted with his property and put it out of his power to perform his part, that does not make the seller equally in default with the purchaser, and does not dis-

SALE AND CONTRACT TO SELL WITH POSSESSION DISTINGUISHED.—S. 54 expressly enacts that a contract for the sale of immovable property does not of itself create any interest in or charge on such property. There is therefore no room for the application of the English equitable doctrine that a contract for sale of real property makes the purchaser the owner in equity of the estate. Thus under the law applicable before the insertion of S. 53-A, an averment of the existence of a contract of sale, whether with or without an averment of possession following upon the contract, was not relevant defence to an action of ejectment. If the contract is still enforceable the defendant may found upon it to have the action stayed, and by suing for specific performance obtain a title which will protect him from ejectment. But if it is no longer enforceable, its part-performance will not avail him to any effect. 61 I.A. 388=39 C.W.N. 34=1934 P.C. 235=67 M.L.J. 865 (P.C.). See also 45 M.L.J. 528=46 M. 919 (S.B.); 1930 P. 53 and cases referred to therein; 46 B. 722; 45 B. 434; 40 B. 498. See contra 29 I.C. 195; 39 B. 472=28 I.C. 946. See now S. 53-A. SALE AND HIRE-PURCHASE AGREEMENT DISTINGUISHED.—The distinguishing mark of a true hire-purchase agreement as distinguished from a sale, is that the hirer should have a right to terminate the agreement at his pleasure and that the 'hirer' should be bound to pay the full value of the goods by way of instalments without any option to cancel the agreement if he so wished before the full value of the goods is paid. Where under an agreement the defendant bound himself to pay the plaintiff a certain sum in advance as monthly hire and it was further agreed that if he paid ten months hire regularly he should become the purchaser, but if he failed to pay regularly the plaintiff could cancel the transaction and terminate the agreement. Held, that the agreement was one of sale and not hire-purchase. 1932 A.L.J. 761=1932 A. 607.

ATTACHMENT SUBSEQUENT TO CONTRACT FOR SALE.—The section does not affect any equitable rights which may arise under a contract of sale. The person in whose favour the contract is made becomes the equitable owner and an attachment can only be subject to such obligation, if subsequent to the contract of sale. 5 L.W. 234=38 I.C. 107.

SALE WITH CONDITION TO RECONVEY.—Where a sale is effected with a condition to reconvey, on the sale consideration being paid back by a certain fixed date, money actually tendered before the date so fixed and paid into Court is good payment and has the same legal effect as a payment made into a Bank in which the person entitled to receive the money has an account to the account of such person. 100 I. Secs. 54 and 58 (c.)—SALE OR MORTGAGE BY CONDITIONAL SALE—TEST.—It is a matter often of some difficulty whether a particular document or set of documents disclose a transaction of mortgage by conditional sale or out-and-out sale. In order to bring a transaction within the category of mortgage, the relationship of debtor and creditor must subsist between the parties and if there is no debt for which the transfer is a security it is impossible to hold that the transaction is a mortgage. When a document appears on the face of it to be a sale deed, in the absence of fraud it must be held to embody a transaction of sale. The burden of proving it to be a deed of mortgage will rest heavily on the party alleging it to be so. Circumstances like the existence of a debt, a short period of repayment, grantor continu-

Sec. 55.—S. 55 only applies to those cases in which the ownership of property has passed under an agreement of sale ; and if an agreement falls under S. 17 (2) (v) of the Registration Act, it is one under which the ownership has not passed to the purchaser and therefore could not come under S. 55. The explanation added to S. 17, Registration Act, by Act II of 1927, does not deal with those cases in which a lien has been specifically created. 13 P. 620 =15 P.L.T. 443=1934 P. 495. The section applies to executory contracts as well. 94 I. C. 561=1926 M. 369=50 M.L.J. 228. The operation of this section can be controlled, curtailed or excluded by the agreement of the parties. 31 C. 57 (71) ; 47 I.C. 340. (Note the words "in the absence of a contract to the contrary" at the commencement of the section.) This "contract to the contrary" must be clearly and unambiguously expressed. 39 M.L.J. 449 =60 I.C. 235 ; 31 C. 57 (73) ; 41 M.L.J. 267. But see 1933 A.L.J. 201=1933 A. 203. Where it was held that the "contract to the contrary" need not be express and may be implied from the terms of the sale-deed, but that the contract, covenant or agreement must so clearly be inconsistent with the statutory rules as to lead to the inference that it had been made to qualify the generality of the law. If S. 55 be taken as a whole, there is no warrant for taking buyer and seller to mean those who have actually completed a sale ; those in the course of transacting a sale are also contemplated. A buyer who has taken an agreement can put an end to his contract if he finds before the completion of the sale that the seller is disabled from, performing his promise in its entirely, such as regarding the covenant to deliver vacant possession of the property sold. 1932 M.W.N. 122. There is a distinction between a sale where the consideration is intended to be paid and is not paid and were the consideration is not intended by both parties to be paid at all. In the former case, the title would pass to the purchaser and in the latter case though the vendor was tricked into going through the form of execution and registration of the document, the sale.deed would be void as a colourable transaction. 138 I.C. 534 =34 Bom.L.R. 427=1932 B. 247. Cl. (1) (a).—A covenant for title must be distinguished from a covenant for quiet enjoyment. The former if broken, is necessarily broken immediately upon the execution of the assurance which contains it ; and the purchaser may bring an action immediately and is not bound to wait till he is evicted. But a covenant for quiet enjoyment affords no right of action until a disturbance. The onus is on the plaintiff to allege and prove a breach of the covenant. 57 M. 1016=1934 M. 687=67 M.L.J. 647. The cause of action from the breach of one part of the covenant will lapse if the remedy is not sought within the statutory period, but that will not destroy any remedy to which the vendee may be entitled by reason of the breach of the other part of the covenant. But in dealing with real property, regard must be had to the usual course of business. A purchaser who wilfully departs from it to avoid knowledge of his vendor's title is not allowed to derive any advantage from his wilful ignorance of defects, which would have come to his knowledge if he had transacted the business in the ordinary way. 36 Bom.L.R. 1041. When a sale is complete and a conveyance is executed vendee cannot avoid the sale on subsequent, discovery of defect in vendor's title unless there has been fraud. His remedy is merely to sue for damages. (52 C. 914, Rel. on.) 1933 L. 262=34 P.L.R. 714. See also 1933 S. 144=144 I.C. 371. For what is knowledge of defect in title, see 38 M. 887; 49 B. 245. Existence of mere doubts on the part of the vendee regarding the vendor's title will not disentitle th e vendee to damages. 22 L.W. 392=1925 M. 1209. A defect to be material must be of such a nature that it might be reasonably supposed, that if the buyer had been aware of it, he might not have entered into the contract at all, because he would be getting something different from what he contracted to buy. A defect in title, as distinct from a defect in the property itself, is a latent defect, because prima facie the seller knows his title and the buyer does not. Liability of the property sold to be acquired compulsorily under the Land Acquisition Act amounts to a material defect as well as a latent defect. 36 Bom.L.R. 1041. Non-disclosure of restrictive covenant contained in the conveyance to vendors from original owners and of vendor's breach thereof entitles vendee to repudiate contract. Such right may be lost by waiver. 13 M. 158. Any information regarding the income or the rental of the property to be sold is a relevant question within S. 55 (1) (c) and it is the duty of the seller to answer such a question to the best of his information. If he gives an answer which he knows to be false he is guilty of a breach of duty and misrepresentation. Further if he volunteers any information about the income he is certainly bound to give true information. 28 N.L.R. 184=1932 N. 148.

But the principle does not apply to an exchange. 16 I.C. 109=1912 M.W.N. 535 ; nor to a lease. 48 M. 821=49 M.L.J. 313. A mortgagee decree-holder purchased the entire mortgaged property in execution of his decree and before the formal confirmation of the sale in his favour, agreed to transfer a portion of the mortgaged property to the mortgagor for a certain sum. In pursuance of the agreement, a compromise petition was presented to the Court and the Court confirmed the sale, in respect of the mortgaged property excepting the portion which was the subject-matter of the transfer. The judgment-debtor failing to pay the amount executed a simple mortgage in respect of the property in favour of the decree-holder. The decree-holder brought a suit on the mortgage to recover the money by sale of the mortgaged property. The lower appellate Court held that the transaction could not operate as a mortgage as the deed had not been attested. Held, that the transaction in respect of the transfer of the portion of the mortgaged property, although it could not operate as a mortgage, constituted a sale and that under S. 55 (4) (b) the mortgagee decree-holder was entitled to a charge upon the property transferred in the hands of the mortgagor judgment-debtor for the amount of the purchase-money and for interest thereon. The charge could be enforced by sale of the property under S. 100, T. P. Act, and under O. 34, R. 15, C. P. Code, as in the case of a simple mortgage. 63 I.A. 304=59 M. 910=1936 P. Where under a sale-deed the bulk of the consideration is retained with the vendee for being paid to certain holders of decrees against the vendor it cannot be said that the statutory charge in respect of the vendor's lien for unpaid purchase money is given up. The mere fact that the vendor asks the vendee sometime after the sale-deed not to pay the amount due to one of the creditors does not mean that the vendor intends to give up or waive the right given to him by the statute in the shape of a charge on the property for unpaid purchase-money. The charge is an interest in property and is saleable. Where the holder of one of the decrees, who is not paid by the vendee brings the property to sale in execution of the decree against the vendor, it is the charge for unpaid purchase-money which the vendor had in the property after the private sale by him that passes to the purchaser of the property at the execution sale, and from him to a subsequent purchaser from him. Such a purchaser is entitled to enforce the charge against the original vendee. 1938 M. 457=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 316. The statutory lien does not cease to exist but continues, so long as there is no novatio or a direct undertaking between the vendee and the mortgagee for the payment to the latter of the money retained in the vendee's hands. Where there is no privity between the vendee and the creditor who is to be paid off the money remains in fact money at the disposition of the vendor who can countermand the instructions given to the vendee as to the disposal of that fund. 1939 M 876=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 493. A mortgagee purchasing the property from mortgagor, knowing that the mortgagor had not paid his vendor the purchase price in full is entitled to decree possession only on payment of the balance of the purchase price due by his mortgagor to the vendor. The mortgagor's vendor should not be asked to file a separate suit for declaration of his lien. 147 I.C. 742= 1933 R. 401. See also I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 636 =1939 N.L.J. 252=1939 Nag. 210. A Burmese Buddhist husband purchased some property in his own name. He paid part of the consideration out of cash belonging jointly to himself and his wife, and for the balance executed a registered mortgage of the property which he had just purchased. In a suit on the mortgage without making wife a party a decree for sale was passed. The wife then brought a suit for declaration that the mortgage decree was not binding on her share. Held that the wife's interest was subject to the mortgage as it was executed for the balance of the purchase price. But as the wife was not made a party to the mortgage suit the decree passed thereon was inoperative as against the share of the wife in the mortgage property. 153 I.C. 1026=1934 R. 190 (2). Where the sale of land is to three persons in certain shares, the vendor has a lien on the land for the unpaid purchase-money against all and is not concerned with the proportion paid by the various co-sharers. 150 I. C. 725=1934 L. 348. It will take effect as against a purchaser at a Court auction sale. 8 O.W.N. 1313. The section prior to amendment of 1929 did not in terms give the vendor a charge on the property in the hands of any one but the buyer. But still the vendor can always follow the property in the hands of a transferee who had notice of the non-payment of the purchase-money. The amendment of 1929 merely gave effect to this principle. 9 R.

(b) to pay or tender, at the time and place of completing the sale, the purchase-money to the seller or such person as he directs : provided, that, where the property is sold free from incumbrances, the buyer may retain, out of the purchase-money, the amount of any incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the sale, and shall pay the amount so retained to the persons entitled thereto ;

(c) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, to bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury, or decrease in value of the property not caused by the seller ;

(d) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, as between himself and the seller, to pay all public charges and rent which may become payable in respect of the property, the principal moneys due on any incumbrances subject to which the property is sold, and the interest thereon afterwards accruing due.

DEFAULT OF VENDEE TO DISCHARGE ENCUMBRANCES—REMEDY OF VENDOR.—Held, on the facts that the vendor was entitled to a decree for refund of the whole on the amount left in the hands of the vendee together with interest at the rate running on the mortgage debts. He was however not entitled to any decree for damages without proving the extent of the damages actually incurred. The vendor could compel the vendee to pay the amount in order to release the vendor's other properties from liability even though he might not yet have suffered actual loss. 56 A. 766= 1934 A.L.J. 318=1934 A. 406 (F.B.). Prior mortgage debts, unless they are agreed to be paid by the vendee, are to be paid only by the vendor. 21 O.C. 360=49 I.C. 406. S. 55 applies only to cases where the party claiming marshalling is a purchaser and the party against whom it is claimed is the original mortgagor. Where a prior mortgagee has acquired the equity of redemption in proceedings to which the puisne mortgagee is not a party, the puisne mortgagee is not thereby necessarily deprived of his ordinary right of bringing the mortgagee property to sale subject to the first mortgage. 8 S.L.R. 257=28 I.C. 49.

Secs. 56, 81 and 82 : SCOPE.—The right to contribution is controlled by the right of marshalling as shown by Ss. 56 and 81, T. P. Act. 69 M.L.J. 303. Ss. 58 and 81 of the Act do not apply to N.-W.F. A pro rata share should be recovered from the property which has been proceeded against if the mortgagee has released another property which was also liable for the security. 195 I.C. 322=1941 Pesh. 49.

Sec. 57.—S. 57 applies only when the payment is made either before the sale is complete or as part of the sale transaction. The section (taken almost verbatim from the English Conveyancing Act of 1881) is seldom made use of in India. An application under the section before a final decree in a mortgage suit is passed is incompetent. 1936 A.M.L.J. 58. In a mortgage suit the Court can pass by consent a combination of several decrees in favour of different mortgagees, determining the order in which they are to be paid and incorporating orders which the Court would be amply justified in making under S. 57. 58 C. 598. Where an auction-purchaser in execution of decree for a maintenance charge purchased a house specifically subject to the charge that is, without adopting the appropriate procedure under S. 57, he could not claim to hold the property free from charge.

But in either case there shall also be paid into Court such additional amount as the Court considers will be sufficient to meet the contingency of further costs, expenses and interest, and any other contingency except depreciation of investments not exceeding one-tenth part of the original amount to be paid in, unless the Court for special reasons (which it shall record) thinks fit to require a larger additional amount.

(b) Thereupon the Court may, if it thinks fit, and after notice to the incumbrancer, unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded in writing, thinks fit, to dispense with such notice, declare the property to be freed from the incumbrance, and make any order for conveyance, or vesting order, proper for giving effect to the sale, and give directions for the retention and investment of the money in Court.

(c) After notice served on the person interested in or entitled to the money or fund in Court, the Court may direct payment or transfer thereof to the persons entitled to receive or give a discharge for the same and generally may give directions respecting the application or distribution of the capital or income thereof.

(d) An appeal shall lie from any declaration, order or direction under this section as if the same were a decree.

(e) In this section "Court" means (1) a High Court in the exercise of its ordinary or extraordinary original civil jurisdiction, (2) the Court of a District Judge within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the property or any part thereof is situate, (3) any other Court which the Provincial Government) may, from time to time, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare to be competent to exercise the jurisdiction conferred by this section.

OF MORTGAGES OF IMMOVABLE PROPERTY AND CHARGES.

"Mortgage" "mortgagee" "mortgagor" "mortgage-money" and "mortgage-deed" defined.

58. (a) A mortgage is the transfer of an interest in specific immovable property for the purpose of securing the payment of money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, an existing or future debt, or the performance of engagement which may give rise to a pecuniary liability.

That house could, be sold again to realise the same charge, as the charge was not wiped out. 166 I.C. 796=1937 N. 36.

Sec. 58 (a).—The definition of a "mortgage-deed" in the Stamp Act is very wide and more general than that in the T. P. Act. 27 C. 587. The sub-sections deal only with how the mortgages may be expressed. But the legal effect is the same as indicated in cl. (a). 41 C. 770 =1917 M.W.N. 794. Where a partner of a firm on entering into the partnership redeemed a mortgage and kept with him the title-deeds, but there was no entry in the account books as to the creation of a mortgage from that date, the transaction must be treated as merely an advance by one partner and not a mortgage. 45 M.L.J. 776=1 R. 545=1923 P.C. 87 (P.C.). A mortgage can be created by a decree. 56 P.R. 1918=46 I.C. 440. See also 14 I.C. 213. A hypothecation to secure a contingent liability is a mortgage. 1925 P. 288. A hypothecation of movables without possession, though not provided for either in the Contract Act or in the T. P. Act, is nevertheless a valid transaction and enforceable at law. 10 Mys.L.J. 16. A charge is not exactly identical with a mortgage, and although a similar remedy is available a suit for the enforcement of a charge is not necessarily the same as a suit for sale on the basis of a mortgage. One obvious distinction is that a mortgage is for a fixed term whereas a charge may be in perpetuity. In the case of a mortgage it can be ultimately redeemed, whereas a charge in perpetuity cannot be redeemed at all. There is therefore no question of redeeming a charge but only paying up the arrears of the amount charged and preventing the sale of the property in execution of decree. 147 I.C. 302 =1933 A. 934. See also 42 C. 625=19 C.W. N. 37. (See also S. 100). A mortgage is a transfer of an interest in property: in a charge, the person in whose favour the charge exists is only entitled to have his claim satisfied out of the particular property. There is no transfer of any interest as such. See 35 C. 834; 1 P. 387; 26 I.C. 601; 4 P.L.T. 6=1922 P. 529: 9 I.C. 828; 1922 P. 36; 42 A. 158=38 M.L. J. 302=55 I.C. 550 (P.C.). There can be no mortgage of profits that would accrue from immovable property from year to year because such profits are not an interest in the immovable property. Such profits also cannot be pledged as pledge can be of movable property or goods

The transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee; the principal money and interest of which payment is secured for the time being are called the mortgage-money, and the instrument (if any) by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

A mortgage of an interest under a lease is not an absolute assignment under the Indian law and does not create privity of estate between the lessor and the mortgagee and hence the mortgagee is not liable by the privity of the estate for the burdens of the lease. 66 I.A. 50=I.L.R. (1939) 1 Cal. 283=43 C.W.N. 281=1939 P.C. 14=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 544 (P.C.). A mortgage is complete when the contract is entered into and not when the money is paid. 33 I.C. 474=53 P.R. 1916 (F.B.); 47 I.C. 563 (M.); 78 I.C. 457=1925 P. 288; 60 I.C. 611=12 L.W. 674; 1 P. 281=3 Pat.L.T. 307. Even though the debt secured is a future debt, the mortgage will have a priority over any intermediate mortgage subsequently created, though at the time the future debt had not come into existence. 12 L.W. 674=60 I.C. 611; 1922 P. 299. A mortgage is not void or voidable because of non-payment of consideration. 42 M. 20=35 M.L.J. 740; 22 O.C. 112=52 I.C. 91; 2 Pat.L.J. 168=38 I.C. 887; 1924 L. 387. Neither a formal transfer of an interest nor the express mention of a power of bringing the properties to sale is essential for a mortgage. 1 L.W. 1025=26 I.C. 274. See also 16 M.L.T. 444 =26 I.C. 71; 23 M.L.J. 131=16 I.C. 209; 27 M.L.J. 58=24 I.C. 24. Delivery of possession of land as security for money in absence of writing or registration is not mortgage. 1923 R. 51. In all mortgages except where there is a right of sale, a personal covenant to pay is implied. 5 N.L.J. 49=18 N.L.R. 145=1922 N. 98; 1924 N. 97. Where a mortgagor having already mortgaged his lands with possession to the mortgagee, takes a further advance from him in a later year on the security of the land already mortgaged, on the same conditions as on the original mortgage, such a transaction does not amount to a new mortgage. 13 L. 660=1932 L. 465 (F.B.). Similarly if the new transaction raises the aggregate mortgage-money to a figure in excess of the value of the land, it will really be a sale, though ostensibly given in the form of a mere advance on the security. 13 L. 660. Transferee of simple mortgaged property takes it subject to mortgage but is not personally liable to pay mortgage-money. In the case of transferee of usufructuary mortgaged land it is even so. But if usufructuary mortgagee is dispossessed by such transferee then transferee is liable to repay the mortgage debt. 148 I.C. 23=1934 P. 1.

AGREEMENT TO CREATE A MORTGAGE, whether amounts in itself to equitable mortgage. See 2 Luck. 299=1927 O. 55. An agreement to mortgage cannot constitute a mortgage or charge within the meaning of Ss. 58 and 100. 123 I.C. 157=1930 P.C. 76=58 M.L.J. 453 (P.C.). A mere agreement does not confer a title on a usufructuary mortgagee. 38 A. 494=43 I.A. 264 (P.C.). But where the mortgagee is put in possession on the basis of the agreement, it is specifically enforceable and can be set up as defence to a suit for redemption. 1930 P. 479. Where the mortgagee knows already that the mortgagor is not in possession of the mortgaged properties and that he has only a doubtful and disputed title to them, and when in spite of such knowledge he takes a mortgage, the transaction does not amount to a mortgage within the definition of S. 58. 176 I.C. 913= 1938 Cal. 48.

SPECIFIC IMMOVABLE PROPERTY.—A property can be specific so long as it is identifiable though it may not be in existence on the date of the transfer. 47 I.C. 563 (M.). Turn of worship is immovable property. 42 C. 455= 20 C.L.J. 183. See contra 39 C. 227=14 C.L.J. 369. Mortgage of future crops is valid and operates as an agreement to assign. 5 I.C. 373 (A.). See also 1939 Lah. 15=41 P.L.R. 239. A mortgage of a charge is perfectly valid in law. 75 I.C. 579=1924 O. 209. A mere right to specific performance cannot be the subject of a mortgage. 33 I.C. 696. Under the Hindu Law as under the English Law a mortgage debt is only treated as movable property, the land being considered only as a pledge or security for money lent. 31 I.C. 983=20 C.W.N. 142. Where only a part payment of the consideration is made, the mortgage is valid to that extent. 50 I.C. 952; 43 I.C. 871; 25 C.W.N. 942=66 I.C. 694; 1 Pat. L.J. 138=35 I.C. 35; 47 I.C. 563 (M.); 7 L.W. 36=43 I.C. 871. A decree for foreclosure may be passed in a suit by a mortgage by conditional sale even if full consideration has not been paid by him. 34 A. 273= 13 I.C. 573. See also 10 I.C. 258; 32 I.C. 341; 29 I.C. 690. (b) Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees expressly or impliedly, that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee.

Simple mortgage.

NOTES.

MORTGAGE MONEY includes interest along with the principal. 119 I C. 439=1929 A. 411; 9 L.B.R. 106=43 I.C. 921. But see 1 Pat.L.T. 544=58 I.C. 216; 1923 M. 71=16 L. W. 743. See also 113 I.C. 750=1929 A. 77.

Sec. 58, Cl. (b): SIMPLE MORTGAGES.—The term 'mortgage' includes instruments which create no actual transfer of interest or confer express power of sale. Such an instrument may be a simple mortgage. 1914 M.W. N. 501=27 M.L.J. 58=24 I.C. 24. Mere omission to use words like 'mortgage' does not prevent the transaction from being a mortgage if the intention from the document as a whole is clear. 36 A. 201=22 I.C. 973. The intention that the property was to be sold in default is essential in a simple mortgage. 19 I.C. 658= 11 A.L.J. 570; 20 I.C. 870. For essentials of a a simple mortgage, see 34 A. 446=15 I.C. 435; 11 I.C. 629=21 M.L.J. 562; 1929 L. 289; 26 I.C. 274=1915 M.W.N. 21. It is not necessary for a simple mortgage that there should be an express provision giving the mortgagees power of sale. Where a mortgage deed contains a personal covenant under which the mortgagor undertakes to pay the mortgage money on the due date, the personal covenant carries with it by necessary implication a power of sale. 148 I.C. 1197=11 O.W.N. 760=1934 O. 255. The mere fact that the mortgagee is entitled to take possession in default of payment of the principal does not convert an otherwise simple into an usufructuary mortgage. Where a mortgage is simple, it must be held to carry with it a personal covenant to pay the principal and interest. 13 L. 508=1932 L. 630. Such a mortgage is not an anomalous mortgage within the meaning of S. 98 of the Act. 1934 O. 255. A covenant to pay is essential. 24 I.C. 372=26 M.L.J. 514. See also 24 I.C. 127 =1914 M.W.N. 618; 6 L.W. 296=33 M.L.J. 679=42 I.C. 349; personal covenant explained. 47 I.C. 852=1918 M.W.N. 672; 1914 M.W.N 618=24 I.C. 127. Where there is nothing in the terms of a mortgage-deed to exclude the personal liability of the mortgagor, but on the other hand it is emphasised that this liability would subsist even after the property mortgaged has been sold if the sale-proceeds are found to be insufficient to discharge the amount due as principal and interest, the transaction is a simple mortgage. 42 P.L.R. 660=1940 Lah. 486. See also 1939 Pesh. 41. Where in a usufructuary mortgage it is provided that if the mortgagee did not obtain possession or if he lost possession he could recover his money and interest by sale of the mortgaged or any other property of the mortgagor, it amounts to an implied agreement that the mortgagor will give possession to the mortgagee and whether the deed is considered an usufructuary or an anomalous mortgage there is no reason why effect should not be given to the agreement. It is open to the mortgagee to sue either for possession or for the mortgage money. 1941 O.W.N. 1220=1942 Oudh 172. A simple mortgagee has merely the right to sue upon the personal covenant or to bring the property to sale; he cannot satisfy his claim out of the rents and profits of the mortgaged property nor can he acquire the absolute ownership of the estate by foreclosure. 13 Pat.L.T. 525=1932 P. 360. The assignee of the equity of redemption is not personally liable. 1930 N. 139 (2). Mere covenant against alienation will not create a mortgage. 39 A. 244=39 I.C. 18 (F.B.). Property secured for maintenance allowance is not mortgage. 19 I. C. 661=11 A.L.J. 580. A promise to redeem at a certain time cannot be construed as implying a personal covenant to pay. 47 I.C. 852=1918 M.W.N. 672. A mortgagee cannot sue for a simple money decree in the absence of a personal covenant. 58 I.C. 30. How possession affects nature of mortgage. 1922 A. 232; 10 I.C. 272=21 M.L.J. 1147 (P.C.). But see 63 I.C. 533; 1923 N. 161; 31 I.C. 473. But when the mortgagee was originally placed in possession of the property to be enjoyed in lieu of interest, the mortgage cannot be a simple one. 16 L.W. 743=1923 M. 71. In Upper Burma, the usual form of mortgage is not simple but usufructuary. If an exception is set up to it, it should be proved. 15 I C. 919 =(1912) 1 U.B R. 125.

RIGHTS OF PARTIES.—The mortgagor continues to be owner before and after default of payment. 32 I.C. 901=3 L.W. 341; 44 C. 425=21 C.W.N. 177. The right of simple mortgagee is only to have the property sold. 44 C 425=21 C.W N. 177. Where there was a registered simple mortgage of land and a subsequent transfer of possession of the land to the mortgagees without document by the mortgagors, and the latter asserted that this was under the original mortgage whilst the former pleaded it was a fresh transaction amounting to an outright but invalid sale to them, the mortgagees in a suit by the mortgagors for redemption of the mortgage can plead and prove the invalid sale in equity as a shield. 4 R 368=1927 R. 33 (F.B) Mortgagee can enforce the whole claim against any portion of the property. 64 I.C. 451=44 A. 146=1922 A. 352. As to right to have receiver appointed, see 56 M. 945=145 I.C. 449=1933 M. 570= 65 M.L.J. 222 (F.B.); see also 34 P.L.R. 950 (1). But see 13 Pat.L.T. 525=1932 P. 360: 54 M. 565=61 M.L.J. 111.

Sec. 58 (b) and (c)—SIMPLE MORTGAGE AND ENGLISH MORTGAGE—DIFFERENCE BETWEEN—In the case of a simple mortgage, the security which the mortgagee obtains before making an Mortgage by conditional sale.

(c) Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property—on condition that on default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or on condition that on such payment being made, the sale shall become void, or on condition that on such payment being made, the buyer shall transfer the property to the seller, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale, and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale :

NOTES.

advance is that of the land itself; if the mortgagor makes default the mortgagee has the right to cause it to be sold. This does not mean he can sell it himself without the intervention of the Court; the right to bring the land to sale must be worked out in execution proceedings under the supervision of the Court. There may be, and generally is, a personal obligation not only to repay the loan but also to pay interest upon it, but in the absence of express provision to the contrary the rents and profits from the land belong to the mortgagor and do not form part of the security for the payment of the mortgage money or the interest on the loan. But in an English mortgage there is a transfer of the ownership of the property with a promise to repay the debt on a certain date. If the money is duly paid the mortgagor has a right to have the property re-transferred to him by the mortgagee. 1939 Rang. L.R. 403=1939 Rang. 321 (F.B.).

Sec. 58, cl. (c).—See 1924 P.C. 226. The definition is not self-sufficient. It is necessary to determine whether there is a mortgage at all before this clause is applied. 1929 A. 174=116 I.C. 807 ; 36 I.C. 991 (All.). See also 16 I.C. 638; 40 B. 378. In a province in which the Bengal Regulation (XVII of 1806) is in force, a suit for possession cannot be maintained by a mortgagee in a mortgage by conditional sale if he has not taken foreclosure proceedings under the Regulation. 1933 L. 174=145 I.C. 159. Meaning of "ostensible" explained. See 116 I.C. 807=1929 A. 174; 1929 A. 864. A mortgage by conditional sale is a form of voluntary alienation. 1929 A. 864. In the case of a mortgage by conditional sale there is no future interest in property contemplated to be created, and consequently there is no scope for the application of the rule against perpetuities. 106 I.C. 168=54 M.L.J. 96. See also 1937 A.L.J. 849=1937 All. 724. There is no presumption in favour of mortgage by conditional sale. 47 M.L.J. 385=84 I.C. 505=1925 M. 37; 1921 M.W.N. 510. It lies on the party who contends that a document prima facie connoting an absolute sale is really a mortgage to prove his contention. 129 I.C. 719=1931 A. 113. In deciding whether a mortgage is one by conditional sale, the intention of the parties is the test. 49 A. 405=104 I.C. 504=1927 A. 321; 116 I.C. 807=1929 A. 174; 67 I.C. 113; 47 M.L.J. 385=84 I.C. 505 =1925 M. 37; 129 I.C. 719=1931 A. 113. Where the consideration is fair and reasonable and the deed contains a condition for re-transfer within a year provided that the vendor is able to pay back the amount out of his own pocket the transaction is a sale and not a mortgage. 1939 A.L.J. 946=1939 All. 713. Where a deed of transfer contained a stipulation that if at any time within three years the transferor was to pay back the amount paid to him in respect of the property transferred with interest after deducting the income which the transferee might derive from the property there should be a reconveyanee to the transferor, the transaction amounted only to a mortgage by conditional sale and not a sale with a condition for re-purchase. 187 I.C. 594= 1939 N.L.J. 544=1940 Nag. 84. The fact that there was no bargaining as to the amount of consideration and the price was inadequate is more in favour of the deed being a mortgage and not a sale than vice versa. 13 Luck. 680= 1937 O.W.N. 1236=1938 Oudh 57. The proposition, that where a contract of sale and a contract of re-purchase are evidenced by a single document or more or less contemporaneous documents, the transaction is a mortgage by conditional sale and is not a sale out-and-out with the condition of re-purchase, is too broad to be accepted as an accurate statement of the law. Where the original intention of the parties was to execute a sale for particular price, but before it was executed, it was agreed that the consideration should be reduced and that the owner could get back his property on payment of that amount together with interest at Rs. 2 per cent. per mensem within a time fixed and that the other party should re-convey on such a payment, the transaction is an out-and-out sale and not a mortgage by conditional sale. 1940 A.L.J. 113=1940 All. 227. See also 40 Bom. (But see new proviso.) Subsequent conduct is only admissible for the purpose of construing a deed when it is impossible to arrive at a clear finding as to the meaning of the deed from its own terms and from surrounding circumstances. 25 A.L.J. 849 ; 48 I.C. 465 (C). Test of surrounding circumstances. 32 I.C. 192 (A.). See also 1929 A. 174. Effect of Lohan Gahan mortgage is same as that of a conditional mortgage. 25 N.L.R. 187 = 119 I.C. 684 = 1929 N. 254 (F.B.) and cases referred to therein. For cases where the transactions were held to be a mortgage by conditional sale, see 47 M.L.J. 809 = 47 M. 729 = 1924 P.C. 226 (P.C.) ; 46 A. 173 = 79 I.C. 626 = 1924 A. 444 ; 130 I.C. 15 = 1930 A. L.J. 1435 = 1931 A. 196 (sale with condition for release) ; 45 A. 72 = 1923 A. 41. Where the mortgagees are authorized to reconstruct the transferred house "according to their liking at their own cost" and there is a stipulation in the deed that at the time of redemption, if it is found that the amount due to the mortgagees cannot be recovered in full from the mortgaged property, the mortgagors would be liable to make good the deficiency, the transaction is a mortgage and not an out-and-out sale. 148 I.C. 234 = 1933 L. 155. For cases where the transaction was not held to be mortgages by conditional sale, see 1924 A. 743 ; 45 A. 581 = 1923 A. 586 ; 21 I.C. 19 (C.) ; 11 I.C. 124 (C.) ; 2 I.C. 930 (C.) ; 13 I.C. 667 ; 14 N.L.J. 31 (Rev.). Where the document is one of outright sale with no agreement of re-purchase, and the agreement to re-purchase is contained in a subsequent document, the transaction shall not be deemed to be one of mortgage. 1935 R. 212.

PAYMENT OF RENT by debtor to creditor will indicate the mortgage nature of the transaction. 40 B. 74 = 31 I.C. 338. Difference between the value of the property and the money paid is also relevant. 29 I.C. 898. But the non-mention by the deed of sale that the amount of consideration was the market value of the land is no evidence as to a mortgage being intended by the parties. 47 M.L.J. 385 = 84 I.C. 505 = 1925 M. 537. The fact that profits are to be accounted for may indicate such a circumstance to evidence a mortgage by conditional sale. 42 A. 437 = 58 I.C. 717 ; 26 I.C. 753 = 16 Bom.L. R. 774 ; 26 I.C. 751 = 39 B. 119.

PAYMENT OF INTEREST.—Presumption as to, in mortgage by conditional sale after due date. See 93 I.C. 958 = 1926 O. 378 ; 8 L.L.J. 70 = 1926 L. 237.

TIME OF EXECUTION of the subsequent agreement would be material. If the sale-deed and the agreement to re-convey are executed on the same date an almost irresistible presumption arises that the transaction is a mortgage by conditional sale. 33 A. 585 = 9 I.C. 1013 ; 33 A. 122 = 7 A.L.J. 998. Possession with vendor is also material. 50 I.C. 12 (C.).

THE RELATIONSHIP OF DEBTOR AND CREDITOR must be indicated to be maintained. 31 M.L.J. 375 = 36 I.C. 393 ; 34 I.C. 475 = 30 M.L.J. 338 ; 37 I.C. 91 = 9 Bur.L.T. 177 ; 15 I.C. 423 = 5 Bur.L.T. 99 ; 78 I.C. 547 = 1925 O. 11 ; 47 M.L.J. 385 = 1925 M. 37 ; 67 I.C. 113 (C.) ; 8 I.C. 981. Cl. (a) of the section governs Cl. (c) and in spite of the new proviso added by the amending Act of 1929, unless there is a debt and a relationship of creditor and debtor between the parties, there can be no mortgage even if the condition of re-purchase is embodied in one document which effects the sale. 33 Bom.L.R. 633 = 1931 B. 371. It is immaterial that prior to the transaction the relationship of (d) Where the mortgagor delivers possession [1][or expressly or by implication binds himself to deliver possession] of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, and authorizes him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property [2][or any part of such rents and profits and to appropriate the same] in lieu of interest, or in payment of the mortgage money, or partly in lieu of interest [3][or] partly in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee.

Inadequacy of consideration indicates mortgage : absence of time limit does not necessarily indicate sale. 42 C.L.J. 74=90 I.C. 100 ; 106 I.C. 158=54 M.L.J. 96; 111 I.C. 701=1928 A. 34. A deed of absolute sale and a subsequent agreement for re-sale to vendor on payment of price do not constitute a mortgage by conditional sale unless it appears from the circumstances of the case that the parties so intended. 38 A. 570=43 I.A. 284=31 M.L.J. 750 (P.C.) ; 26 M.L.T. 291=49 I.C. 659. See also 45 C. 320 (P.C.) ; 27 M. 7 ; 27 M. 848. EFFECT OF LAPSE OF TIME FIXED.—The equity of redemption in the mortgaged property will subsist all through in spite of the expiration of the period for redemption agreed, until a decree for foreclosure is made in a suit brought by the mortgagee or till the confirmation of the sale in pursuance of a decree for sale obtained by him. 78 I.C. 547=1925 O. 11 ; 114 I.C. 81. But see also 25 I.C. 93 (C.). Condition that, if mortgage-money is not paid in two years, mortgagee would take property absolutely is not illegal : it is merely a mortgage by conditional sale. See 1927 L. 748=102 I.C. 283 ; 114 I.C. 81=1928 C. 825 ; 25 A.L.J. 849=1928 A. 34 ; 39 I.C. 849=13 N.L.R. 69 ; 39 I.C. 377=11 Bur.L.T. 36 ; 1925 O. 11. On the expiry of the time fixed the mortgage becomes a sale. 19 I.C. 428=6 S.L.R. 178. The principle of English Law that in mortgages time is not of the essence of contract does not apply to India. See 97 I.C. 725=1927 S. 46.

BURDEN OF PROOF lies on the party who contends that a document prima facie connoting absolute sale is really a mortgage by conditional sale. 47 M.L.J. 385=84 I.C. 505=1925 M. 37.

PROVISO.—The proviso newly added is of the nature of the law of evidence. The protection afforded to agriculturists by S. 10-A of the Dekkhan Agriculturists Relief Act has not been affected or taken away by the proviso. S. 10 (a) of the Dekkhan Agriculturists Relief Act would exclude the operation of the proviso and therefore an agriculturist is not precluded from leading or proving that a transaction entered into by him, though apparently a sale, was not really a sale, but a mortgage by way of conditional sale. 30 S.L.R. 196=1936 S. 209. See also 1939 N.L.J. 544=1940 N. 84. The effect of the proviso is only that a transaction of mortgage by conditional sale shall not be deemed to be a mortgage unless the condition of reconveyance is embodied in the document. It does not necessarily follow that if the condition is embodied in the document the transaction shall be deemed to be a mortgage. 17 Luck. 198=1941 O. 582.

Sec. 58, cl. (d).—There is no distinction between mortgaging land and handing it over as security for debt, though the word 'mortgage' is not used. 84 I.C. 468=1925 R. 102. A condition for the rendition of accounts or an express or implied provision for redemption is not necessary. A mortgage can be so made that nothing remains to be paid at the end of the term specified 1922 N. 156. A usufructuary mortgage does not cease to be usufructuary, merely because of a provision for irredeemability within a time fixed. 68 I.C. 417=41 M.L.J. 563; 1939 Lah. 235=41 P.L.R. 270; 43 M. 589=28 M.L.J. 56; or because of a provision that it is to be redeemed within a certain time: 38 M. 667=26 M.L.J. 47; 12 A. 233; 21 M. 1; 26 B. 252; 17 I.C. 329; or because the document was described by the mortgagor in his attestation as a 'dostawazarki'; 16 R.D. 16. An oral usufructuary mortgage creates no title. 1937 Rang, 473. The term 'Zuripeshgi' is an ambiguous one. The fact that no interest was provided may give rise to an inference that the transaction was only a lease. 28 I.C. 383=19 C.W.N. 794. See also 14 L.R. 226 (Rev.)=17 R.D. 270. Each case of "Zuripeshgi" is to be decided on its own facts. 44 I.C. 153=4 P.L.W. 146; 8 P. 16. Prior to the amendment of 1929 where the whole of rents and profits were not to be appropriated to the mortgage-money but part of it was payable to the mortgagor, it was not an usufructuary but anomalous mortgage. 1931 M.W.N. 595. The amendment of 1929 does not govern transactions entered into and rights and liabilities created before the passing of the amending Act. 9 O.W.N. 1027. As to distinction between lease and mortgage, see 28 M.L.J. 303=28 I. C. 842. Where a person goes into possession of property for the purpose of securing the payment of his debts owing to him and the language of the document creates a charge and gives a power of a conditional sale, the transaction amounts to an usufructuary mortgage and not a lease or a charge.

1934 P. 217. Whether a person is an usufructuary mortgagee or a lessee must be decided on a consideration of the contents of the documents themselves, with such extrinsic evidence of surrounding circumstances as may be required to show in what manner the language of the document is related to existing facts. 1934 Pat. 217. See also 1933 L. 786. A loan evidenced by a simple money bond and lease of occupancy land in favour of creditor with the understanding that the rent should be appropriated towards interest would not amount to an usufructuary mortgage. 1930 A.L.J. 332=1930 A. 375; 1935 A. L. J. 275=1935 A. 150. A lakhammukhi mortgage is an usufructuary mortgage. 1 L. 21=51 I.C. 956. RIGHTS OF PARTIES.—45 B. 523=59 I.C. 765. In every contract of usufructuary mortgage, there is an implied covenant for quiet possession which also implies a contract to pay the Government revenue. 45 A. 388=21 A.L.J. 294=1923 A. 433 (2). As to further advances, see 63 I.C. 750. See also 16 I.C. 982. Where an usufructuory mortgagee failed to pay off other encumbrances as agreed, a suit for refund of the amount to the mortgagor is not one for specific performance of a mere agreement to lend money and is maintainable. 52 A. 761=124 I.C. 764=1931 A. 95. See also 140 I.C. 495=33 P.L.R. 1085=1933 L. 1. Right of sale after time fixed for payment accrues, if there is a covenant to pay, 1 Pat. 350=1922 Pat. 167. If the profits are to be adjusted only to a portion of the interest, the mortgagee cannot be called on to account generally for profits accrued at the time of redemption. 7 A.L.J. 787=7 I.C. 293. In usufructuary mortgages possession is an essential part of the security and what is kept alive is not the security only, but the rights of the mortgagee in the property under the deed. 4 L.W. 477=37 I.C. 456. Where a mortgagee files a suit for possession simpliciter if the Court finds that much of the consideration is paid, the mortgagee is entitled to possession. The exact sum to be paid need not be determined till the time of redemption. 1933 L. 193=145 I.C. 182. A mortgage executed by A in favour of B was for a term of 10 years, and was in form a mortgage with possession. Possession was not in fact taken by the mortgagees, but by a second document of even date, the mortgaged land was leased to A for the same term at a rent which may be taken to represent the yearly interest on the mortgage debt. Mutation was duly recorded in the Goverment records on the basis of the mortgage in the names of the mortgagees. There had been previous transaction between the parties of a similar character. B sued A for possession after ten years in his capacity as mortgagee. Held, that there was no reason to construe the mortgage as other than a possessory mortgage, as it clearly purported to be, and that the term of the lease having expired, the mortgagee was entitled to possession. Evidence to show that mortgage was in reality a simple mortgage according to the intention of the parties was inadmissible under S. 92, Evidence Act, and no presumption could be drawn from the previous transactions. 60 I.A. 273=14 L. 466=65 M.L.J. 150 (P.C.). In case of an additional mortgage, mortgagee if entitled to retain possession till the additional mortgage is also redeemed. 44 A. 37=1922 A. 174 (F.B.).

REFUSAL OF POSSESSION gives the mortgagee a right to sue for principal and interest. 17 I. C. 362=21 P.L.R. 1913. See also 1941 Pat. 301. If in a usufructuary mortgage, the property is secured only for the amount borrowed and not for interest and if the mortgagee does not take steps to get possession, he loses his right to interest. 45 B. 523=59 I.C. 765=22 Bom.L.R. 1435. When a due date is fixed for payment of the money in an usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagee can bring the properties to sale after that date. 1 P. 350=3 P.L.T. 332. But see 56 M. 892=38 L.W. 161=1933 M. 613=65 M. L.J. 194; 167 I.C. 755=1937 P. 94, where it was held that the deed contained no personal covenant to pay. so as to entitle the plaintiff to sue for sale of the mortgaged property. An usufructuary mortgagee as such can only continue to enjoy the mortgaged properties till redemption. He has no right to institute a suit for sale of the properties, unless the mortgage deed contains, an express personal covenant to pay the money. (Ibid.) A suit for sale on what is purely an usufructuary mortgage is incompetent, even though a personal covenant to pay is embodied in the deed. 1933 L. 151=34 P.L R. 245. A mortgagor will be liable to compensate the usufructuary mortgagee for interest and improvements at the time of redemption. 57 I.C. 341 (L.) If he had not delivered possession, the usufructuary mortgagee is entitled to interest in the shape of damages for non-delivery of possession. 1931 M.W.N. 751. The claim for such damages is not barred so long as the claim for the principal is not barred. 1931 M.W.N. 751. In a mortgage with possession, where the mortgagee is bound to render account of rent and profits, the rent can be taken to be equivalent to the interest only in the absence of a definite finding as regards rent. 1933 L. 141=145 I.C. 122.

Sec. 58 (d) and (g): MORGAGE DEED—CONSTRUCTION—IF USUFRUCTUARY OR ANOMALOUS. —A deed containing one clause which would make it an usufructuary mortgage with another clause providing explicitly for recovery of the amount due from the mortgaged property is not an usufructuary but anomalous mortgage. 181 I.C. 620=1938 Lah. 145.

Sec. 58 (e).—The definition of English mortgage must be read subject to the definition of a mortgage as given in cl. (a), and consequently an English mortgage in India can hardly be regarded as the transfer of entire estate by the mortgagor to the mortgagee. Some estate (it cannot be correctly called an equitable estate) is left in the mortgagor and only an interest therein is transferred to the mortgagee. 59 C. 1314=36 C. W.N. 709=1932 C. 775. See also 40 C.W.N. 1270=1936 C. 646. S. 58 (e) speaks of the mortgagor transferring the 'mortgaged property absolutely to the mortgagee' construed to mean that no interest or legal interest and it adds the proviso that the mortgagee 'will retransfer' the property upon payment of the mortgage money as agreed. It does not declare an 'English mortgage' to be an absolute transfer of property. It declares only that such a mortgage would be absolute were it not for the proviso for retransfer. 66 I.A. 50=I.L.R. English mortgages are not generally executed in the mofussil; and when executed there, they are treated as a mortgage by conditional sale between which and the English mortgage there is only very little distinction. 41 I.C. 770: 1917 M.W.N. 794. See also 12 C. 614. Where the deed of mortgage contains all the elements of an English mortgage as defined in S. 58 (e), the mere fact that there is an undertaking by the mortgagor to pay the rates and taxes of the mortgaged premises, does not make the mortgage other than an English mortgage. 40 C.W.N. 1270=1936 C. 646. The fact that under a mortgage which fulfils all the requirements of an English mortgage in a certain event the date of payment is changed and the mortgagor has agreed to pay the cost of insurance and other charges would not detract from the absolute transfer to the mortgagee,and would not make it any the less an English mortgage falling within the definition. (1942) 2 M.L.J. 406=I.L.R. (1942) M. 851. An English mortgagee may be entitled to possession. 1925 C. 77=81 I.C. 1025. The mortgagor who has created an English mortgage has no power to grant a lease without the concurrence of the mortgagee. 57 C. 82=1930 C. 335. A subsequent lease by the mortgagor is void and inoperative as against the mortgagee. 28 Bom.L.R. 1162=1926 B. 567. In an English mortgage, the rents and profits arising out of the property mortgaged form part of the mortgage which is created to secure repayment of the loan. The position of the mortgagee under the Indian law, so far as the right to the rents and arrears of rent is concerned, is the same as that under the English law. If in a suit on the mortgage, the mortgagee has a receiver appointed by the Court, and a decree for foreclosure is passed on the mortgagor making default in payment of the mortgage money on the date finally fixed for redemption. the mortgagee is entitled to the rents collected by the Receiver since the date finally fixed for redemption, and to the arrears of rents which fell due since the appointment of the Receiver in the suit. I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 197=1940 Cal. 429. S. 58 does not purport to enumerate a complete catalogue of permissible mortgages. Nor does it enact that a mortgage by absolute transfer shall not be effective unless it complies with all the terms of an English mortgage. A lessee in India mortgaging his interest by an English mortgage passes the whole of his interest to the mortgagee, and the latter (certainly when in possession) becomes liable for the rent reserved by the lease. The law has not been altered by the amending Act of 1929. as the legislature took no steps to amend S. 58 (e) of the Act; nor did it repeal S. 58 (e). The Act therefore continues to contemplate an absolute transfer of the mortgaged property. 17 Pat. 499=1939 Pat. 146. Quaere: Whether privity of estate exists or not in Indian Law. 17 Pat. 499=1939 Pat. 146. As to limitation for suit on English mortgage, see (1942) 2 M. L.J. 406=I.L.R. 1942 M. 851. should be in respect of the entire property to which the documents of title relate; it is sufficient if the deeds deposited are material evidences of title and are proved to have been deposited with the intention of creating a mortgage. 48 L.W. 202=1938 Mad. 865=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 534. See also 1938 Rang.L.R. 316=1938 Rang. 149 (F.B.). S. 58 (f) as amended in 1929 has not introduced any change in the law. It is not necessary that the debtor giving the security should be in that town personally. The proper construction of the clause is that the debtor should deliver, in any of the towns mentioned, to a creditor or his agent, the documents of title to immovable property with intent to create a security thereon. I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 763=38 Bom.L.R. 1222=1937 Bom. 39. Principle of this sub-clause applies to the Punjab. 3 Lah.L.J. 373; 1935 L. 10. Pro-note for debt and deposit of title-deeds may be simultaneous: 1925 C. 485; but mere deposit of title-deeds and a contemporaneous loan will not be sufficient to prove an equitable mortgage. The intention by such deposit to create an equitable mortgage must also be made out. 38 B. 372=23 I.C. 140; 11 I.C. 721; 14 Bom.L.R. 1020=17 I.C. 722; 7 R. 28=116 I.C. 475=1929 R. 65. Mortgages by deposit of title-deeds come under one of the following three possibilities:—(i) the title deeds may be passed "without more" or "with nothing said" except that they were to be security; (ii) the delivery may be accompanied with a bargain, which either is not written, or if written, does not constitute a contract; (iii) there may be a written bargain —a memorandum which is tacitly considered by the parties themselves as the only repositary and appropriate evidence of the agreement. Only the third class requires registration. 34 Bom.L.R. 748=1932 B. 401 (2). As to whether a mere agreement to create a mortgage amounts to an equitable mortgage, see 29 Bom. Where title-deeds are deposited under an oral agreement to cover present and future advances, as each advance is made, it becomes a charge on the property comprised in the title deeds by the force of the prior oral agreement. Fresh deposit of title deeds for subsequent advances is not necessary. 40 C.W.N. 1277=1936 C. 412. The documents must show the mortgagor's title, but that does not mean that they should never be sufficient, unless they actually connect the mortgagor with some predecessor of his whose title the decuments show. 59 C. 781=140 I.C. 662=36 C.W.N. 420=1932 C. 589. A debtor executed pro-notes in favour of the agent of the creditors and also delivered to him the title-deeds of his property as security for the loan and thus created an equitable mortgage. The agent subsequently endorsed the pro-notes in favour of the creditors, in order to enable the creditors to sue on them. Held, that the transaction of the equitable mortgage was not affected by such endorsement as it was necessary in the case of the negotiable instruments to enable the endorsee to sue on them. The equitable mortgage created by delivery of title-deeds to the agent was really one in favour of the principal creditors and no formal transfer was necessary by the agent to the principal creditor in the case of the equitable mortgage. 1937 Rang.L.R. 303=1937 Rang. 154. See also 1934 Rang. 51. Where a promissory note secured by a deposit of title-deeds was endorsed to the plaintiff and the title-deeds were also delivered over to him, the equitable mortgage passed thereunder to the transferee under S. 8 of the Act. S. 54 applies only to transfers by act of parties and does not cover a statutory transfer as that provided in S. 8 in respect of transfer of the securities as attendant on the transfer of the debt. 1919 M.W.N. 613=52 I. C. 879. See also 78 I.C. 668=1925 C. 485. Whether the acceptance of a fresh promissory note in lieu of the loan evidenced by the equitable mortgage amounts to a novatio depends on the facts of each case. 105 I.C. 765=1925 S. 17. Where one partner redeems a mortgage of partnership property entered into by another partner and takes back the title-deeds, it is only an advance from the one to the other to be paid off out of the profits and no equitable charge is created. 45 M.L.J. 776=1 R. 545=1923 P.C. 87 (P.C.). An equitable sub-mortgage by mere deposit without a registered document can be validly made even of an equitable mortgage particularly when the original mortgage, is by a registered deed. 164 I.C. 724=1936 Rang. 366. See also 14 Rang. 522; 1938 Mad. 865=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 534. See also 1937 Rang. 69.

SCOPE OF SECURITY.—The scope of security is the scope of title-deeds unless the contrary is proved. 43 C. 895=43 I.A. 122=31 M.L.J. 155 (P.C.); 1925 R. 250. In the case of a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds, neither the right to possession nor the right to the rents and profits of the property is part of the interest which is transferred to the mortgagee, unless an agreement to that effect is expressly made. The remedy of such mortgagee, on the failure of the mortgagor to fulfil his contract is to file a suit for sale of the property. 14 Rang. 292=163 I.C. 850=1936 Rang. 290. In the case of an equitable mortgage of land, house and godown, machinery and electrical equipments subsequently installed will also pass, if such things could pass as things attached to the earth under S. 8, supra; otherwise not. 88 I.C. 1011=1925 R. 250. A subsequent registered mortgage is not entitled to priority over a previous mortgage by deposit of title-deeds. 33 C. 410. See also Registration Act, S. 48.) As to rights of an equitable mortgagee to ask for the appointment of a receiver in his mortgage suit, see 54 M. 565=1931 M. 626=61 M.L.J. 111. Where a Receiver is appointed at the instance of an equitable mortgagee, the income realised from the mortgaged properties should in law be considered as earmarked for his use and treated as additional security for the amount due to the mortgagee, and the latter is entitled, when he is not able to realise his decree amount by the sale of the mortgaged properties, to proceed against the income in the hands of the Receiver in preference to the Official Assignee in whom the properties of the mortgagor might have subsequently vested. 61 M.L.J. 111=1931 Mad. 626.

PLACE WHERE PROPERTY IS SITUATE AND PLACE OF EXECUTION OF DEED.—Deposit of title-deeds in a town not mentioned in the section gives no right to the mortgagee. It does not even operate as further security. 97 I.C. 391=8 Pat.L.T. 85=1927 P. 41 ; 1932 A. 451. It is necessary that the deposit must be in the towns mentioned in the section, no matter where the properties are situate. 38 B. 372=16 Bom.L.R. 35 ; 1930 L. 920 ; 166 I.C. 974=38 Bom.L.R. 1222=1937 B. 39. The High Court of Bombay can enforce an equitable mortgage entered into in Bombay of properties situated in Baroda by means of a personal decree for sale in the event of default. 34 Bom.L.R. 1384=1932 B. 642. A mortgage of immovable properties in Bangalore effected by a deposit of title-deeds in Madras is valid and operative as the Act is made applicable to the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore by Government of India Notification, dated 16th January, 1917. 35 C.W.N. 1061=61 M.L.J. 408=1931 P.C. 239 (P.C.). See also 11 I.C. 721 =6 L.B.R. 23 ; 13 I.C. 429=38 C. 824 ; 48 M. 454=48 M.L.J. 423. But see also 3 Lah.L.J. 373 (principle of section applied to Punjab). Where the T. P. Act has not been extended a valid mortgage can be effected by deposit of title-deeds. 12 Bur.L.T. 217=55 I.C. 248. See also 34 I.C. 937; 3 Lah.L.J. 373=31 P.R. 1916. A promissory note and a memorandum of deposit of title-deeds were handed outside the limits of the presidency-town to the agent of a solicitor who was acting both for the debtor and creditor with instructions to the solicitor to deliver the title-deeds to the creditor. No such delivery was, however, proved. Held, that the requirements of a valid equitable mortgage were not satisfied as the delivery took place outside the presidency-town and further delivery to the common solicitor was not sufficient, as delivery was not made to him as agent of the creditor. 36 C.W.N. 1028=1932 C. 823.

TITLE-DEEDS.—Where there is a loan, and document or documents relating to the property alleged to have been mortgaged are deposited, the only other fact that need be established for the purpose of proving an alleged equitable mortgage is that such document or documents have been deposited with the intention of creating a security on the property mentioned therein. It is not necessary that document or documents should disclose a title in the depositor. 182 I.C. 564=1939 Rang. 185. Machinery which has been firmly fastened to the earth and has been continuously worked for several years is immovable property and the deposit of the documents of title of such machinery creates an equitable mortgage. 186 I.C. 317=1939 Lah. 398. Where the documents which were deposited included the "sold notes" by firms from whom machinery of the factory was purchased, the drafts for the purchase price, freight, etc., and the receipts by the firms for the amount paid and also included the insurance certificates, papers relating to the clearance of the goods at the port, and the specifications and other particulars for various pieces of machinery received & installed in the premises. Held, that these documents were "documents of title" of the factory as distinct from the building and the site underneath it and by their deposit an equitable mortgage was created. 186 I.C. 317=1939 Lah. 398. Map of properties and other documents consisting of unimportant and useless letters cannot be recognized as title-deeds the deposit of which cannot create any equitable mortgage. 186 I.C. 317=1939 Lah. 398. Patta of lands in the mofussil is a document of title. 48 M. 454=1925 M. 723=48 M.L.J. 423. But a tax receipt and a copy of a map are not documents of title. 10 R. 403=1932 R. 185. Deposit of title-deeds of a share in an indigo concern can create an equitable mortgage. 7 P. 520=1928 P. 304. Deposit of copies will be sufficient when originals are not available. 31 P R. 1916=34 I.C. 937 ; 36 C.W.N. 420 (attested copy). See also 1935 L. 10. It is not necessary to deposit all the material documents with respect to the property. It is sufficient if the principal documents of title are deposited. 11 L. 564=1930 L. 920 ; 2 Pat.L.J. 293=39 I.C. 564 ; 1929 R. 65 ; 36 C.W.N. 420=59 C. 781 =1932 C. 589; (1938) 2 M.L.J. 534 ; 1938 Rang.L.R. 316. But an equitable mortgage is not effected by the deposit of a deed which does not establish the title set up by the mortgagor when there are other documents not deposited, showing such title. 21 M.L.J. 454=9 I.C. 309. Deposit of deed of relinquishment evidencing property obtained in exchange is sufficient. 11 L. 694=1930 L. 731. A mortgage deed executed by the owner in favour of a third person cannot be deemed to be title-deed of the mortgagor. 94 I.C. 427=1926 M. 743. The intention to create a mortgage operates as a constructive delivery of title-deeds, even though they may have already been in the possession of the mortgagee. 118 I.C. 407=1929 R. 107 : 1928 S. 179.

WRITTEN MEMORANDUM.—If there is a written memorandum along with the deposit, the terms of the memorandum are conclusive evidence of the terms of the mortgage. 43 C. 895 =31 M.L.J. 155 (P.C.). See also 24 Bom.L.R. 502=1922 B. 440; such memorandum must indicate whether an equitable mortgage was intended by such deposit and the extent of the security. See 43 C. 895 (P.C.). The memorandum must be registered in order to be admissible in evidence. 138 I.C. 247 ; 34 Bom.L.R. 748 ; 163 I. C. 195=1936 M. 256. As to a memorandum which was held to be only the record of an entirely completed transaction and so not to require registration, see 36 C.W.N. 420=59 C. 781. It is settled law that when a deposit of title-deeds on collateral security for a loan is evidenced by a writing which is not intended to be itself the embodiment of the contract, but is a mere memorandum of a previously completed transaction, that writing is not an instrument affecting immovable property and need not be registered. In deciding whether the writing is such a memorandum of a completed transaction or the embodiment of the actual contract, the use of the past or present tense in reference to the deposit may be an indication of the intention of the parties, but cannot of itself be the sole criterion of the nature of the document. 48 L. W. 119= 1938 Mad. 547. Where monies are advanced by the creditor to the debtor on various dates and the debtor deposits title-deeds with the creditor on different occasions, and after all these are done the debtor executes a memorandum to the effect, "we have pledged with you as equitable mortgage as agreed with you the following title-deeds, etc."; the equitable mortgage is completed before the memorandum is written and the memorandum does not require registration. 48 L.W. 292=1938 Mad. 865= (1938) 2 M.L.J. 534.

Where the principal money secured is less than one hundred rupees, a mortgage may be effected either by [2][a registered instrument] signed and attested as aforesaid, or (except in the case of a simple mortgage) by delivery of the property.

Sec. 58 (g).—See 54 C. 687. A mortgage for a fixed term without any provision for accounting is in the nature of an anomalous mortgage and it automatically redeems itself at the end of the fixed period. 19 N.L.R. 1= 1923 N. 60. In determining whether a mortgage is anomalous or not, it is not merely the language in which the deed is worded, and the name by which it is called is to be taken into consideration; but also the substance of the transaction and the intention of the parties as disclosed in the document. 43 M. 589. An undertaking by the mortgagor contained in the deed of mortgage to redeem the mortgaged property, if the mortgagee requires redemption to be made, imports a personal obligation to pay the mortgage debt. 14 R 685=1937 R. 151. As to dekhali-rehan deed, see 1937 P. 261; as to Lahan gahan mortgage, see 20 N.L.J. 285.

Secs. 58 and 100.—Where a document simply creates a lien on property for the realisation of a monthly allowance and does not contain words showing either expressly or impliedly that there is a transfer of any interest in the property, and there is no question of redemption, the document does not constitute a mortgage but merely creates a charge. 1935 O.W.N. 871. See also 1941 Cal. 436. Absence of a personal liability is the principal test that distinguishes a charge from a simple mortgage. 38 P.L.R. 8=1936 L. 482. See also 164 I.C. 381. In India a mere agreement to mortgage cannot create an interest in the mortgaged property in favour of the party to whom the property is agreed to be mortgaged, nor does it create any charge. Assuming, that a decree for specific performance such agreement is properly made in a suit between the parties, it cannot relate back to the date of the agreement, so as to confer a right of priority over a mortgage created on the same property subsequent to the agreement and before the suit for specific performance. 40 Bom.L.R. 545=1938 Bom. 357. The question whether a sale-deed and a contemporaneous agreement record an out-and-out sale with a condition for repurchase or record a transaction of mortgage, is in the first instance one of construction of the deeds in question. But surrounding circumstances can be taken into consideration by Court. The crucial test, in such cases, is the intention of the parties. It is not satisfactory to apply the test whether the relationship of debtor and creditor is created by the document. 16 Luck. 789=1941 Oudh 479. Where, on the cattle of a judgment-debtor being attached in execution of a decree, a person executes a security bond, which provides that the executant stands as surety on behalf of the judgment-debtor, mortgaging certain properties, and covenants that the attached cattle shall be produced before the Court, when required and on failure to do so binds himself to forfeit sum of Rs. 90, the value of the cattle, the document in question is not a mortgage nor does it create a charge within the meaning of S. 100. 164 I.C. 52=1936 R. 303.

Secs. 58 and 105.—DESCRIPTION AS LEASE BUT REALLY A MORTGAGE.—A document, which purports to be a lease but fulfils the definition of a usufructuary mortgage, is a mortgage and the mere fact that it describes itself as a lease does not make it a lease. 1939 N.L.J. 308= 1939 Nag. 166=I.L.R. (1941) N. 203.

Sec. 59.—Whether S. 59 applies only if in pursuance of the mortgage possession is delivered. 1941 R.D. 718 (2)=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 621 (1)=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 681 (1). "Signed" for definition of "signed." See General Clauses Act, S. 3, cl. 52. See also 41 B. 384. S. 4 properly read means so far as it is applicable to the case of mortgages that if and when a document of mortgage is executed, it must be registered as provided, in the Registration Act, but this section does not in any way do away with the effect of S. 59, which expressly provides that in certain areas a mortgage can be only by means of an instrument in writing. 1933 L. 972.

ATTESTATION.—Prior to T. P. Act it was enough if some one has signed the mortgage deed as attestor at mortgagor's instance. 75 I.C. 931=1924 A. 832; 34 C. 227. See now the amended definition of "attested" in S. 3, supra and cases cited thereunder. See also 55 M.L.J. 794. A mortgage-deed is admissible in Punjab where the Act is not applicable even without attestation. 1920 L. 495=116 I.C. 610. Even though it may include properties situate in a place where the Act is in force. 17 L. 686=1936 L. 946=39 P.L.R. 946. The provision regarding attestation in S. 59 is not applicable to a case of hypothecation of movables and therefore a registered bond hypothecating a fund in Court executed, but not properly attested, would operate as a valid hypothecation. 1941 M. 805 (2)=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 293.

KANOM, MELKANOM AND MELCHARTH.—Deeds require attestation as mortgage deeds. 40 M.L.J. 282=44 M. 344. Even an anomalous mortgage requires attestation. (Ibid.) As to what amounts to attestation, see 62 I.C. 668; 49 C. 438; 46 C. 522 and S. 3, supra. The mere endorsement by the Sub-Registrar of admission of execution and the signature of the witnesses present at that time are not sufficient to satisfy the requirements of S. 59, where there is no evidence to the effect that the signatures of the witnesses to the admission were affixed to the document in the presence of the admitting executants, nor any endorsement to that effect. 131 I.C. 840=60 M.L.J. 302. See also 8 O.W.N. 194=132 I.C. 337; 61 C. 525=38 C. Attestation is an act done after execution and until the deed has been executed, there can be no attestation. 68 I.C. 198=1923 N. 45. See also 1927 C. 926=45 C.L.J. 577. Two persons must have subscribed as witnesses. 83 I.C. 170 =1925 P.C. 89 (P.C.). Where the attestors validly attested a document but did not attest a subsequent addition of a few more properties, the attestation was held sufficient. 43 M. 405 =38 M.L.J. 251; 60 I.C. 736. Where unnecessary interpolation of survey numbers was made after attestation and the attestor did not sign the document once again, the document was not rendered defective. 97 I.C. 676=1926 M. 1060.

WHO CAN ATTEST.—A marksman may be an attesting witness. 26 I.C. 84=12 A.L.J. 1114; 41 B. 384=39 I.C. 61; 1 N.L.R. 14; 131 I.C. 241=1931 A. 101; 18 A.L.J. 105=55 I.C. 230; 91 I.C. 507=1926 O. 266. The executant himself cannot be an attestor. 15 I.C. 666=16 C.W.N. 1075; 37 C. 526=14 C.W.N. 974. Scribe can also be an attestor. 1940 Rang.L.R. 199. When a mortgage is executed benami the person who actually advances the money is actually not a party to the mortgage deed as it stands. If he attests the deed, his attestation is sufficient for purposes of S. 59. Per Curiam.—The old English law in this respect has been modified even in England and is wholly inapplicable to conditions in India. 8 O.W.N. 660 (F.B.).

EFFECT OF ATTESTATION.—The signature of an attesting witness does not fix that witness with knowledge of the contents of the document or with any liability under its terms. 42 C.L.J. 215=90 I.C. 534. Effect of witnessing execution and attesting. 66 I.C. 589; 34 I.C. 397; 1922 P. 49. Person signing merely to show approval of transaction is not necessarily an attesting witness 26 Bom.L.R. 737=83 I.C. 170=1925 P.C. 89 (P.C.); 62 I.C. 668=1922 P. 49.

INVALIDLY ATTESTED DOCUMENTS.—Where a mortgage deed is not properly attested, it is not admissible in evidence as a mortgage deed but may be admissible in evidence as a simple bond. 20 I.C. 364=13 A.L.J. 553; 66 I.C. 680; 66 I.C. 589; 92 I.C. 948=1926 C. 637; 32 M. 410=19 M.L.J. 584; 34 I.C. 397=3 O. A loan prima facie involves a personal liability to pay. The money can be claimed against the mortgagee personally when the mortgage is invalid for want of attestation. 44 C. 388=44 I.A. 87= 32 M.L.J. 39 (P.C.). See also 1931 M. 124=60 M.L.J. 309; 54 M. 163=1931 M. 140=60 M. PROOF OF ATTESTATION.—"Attesting witness" in S. 68 of the Evidence Act means the same thing as "attesting witness" in S. 59, when the question is as to the proof of a mortgage. 62 I.C. 97=48 C. 61. The proviso to S. 68 only removes the necessity of calling an attesting witness to prove the execution of the documents therein referred to and does not purport to relieve the party of the necsesity of proving a mortgage in the form prescribed under S. 59. 11 R. 26=1933 R. 6=141 I.C. 700. Where a witness states a mortgage bond was executed in the presence of himself and others and that he signed after seeing it executed, it is sufficient proof that he signed as attesting witness. 1924 P. 317. It is sufficient if the attestors saw the hand executing and heard the voice assenting and need not have seen the executant's face. 37 A. 474=42 I.A. 163=29 M.L.J. 159 (P.C.). Where there is no proper attestation by reason of the execution not having taken place in the presence of the attestors, evidence of the witnessing of the execution by some other person is not sufficient. 34 I.C. 397. See also 1925 C. 318. (See now the amended S. 68 of the Evid. Act.) The evidence of plaintiff that the executant signed in the presence of the attesting witnesses was held insufficient. 131 I.C. 557=1931 A.L.J. 342. No proof by an attesting witness is necessary when the executant himself admits a document. 44 C. 345=20 C.W.N. 1044; 62 I.C. 540; 47 B. 137=1923 B. 90. See also 1936 O. W.N. 354. 1925 P.C. 203=49 M.L.J. 240 (P.C.). Proof by one attesting witness is sufficient. 60 I.C. 554=39 M.L.J. 463. He need not depose that the other attestor witnessed the execution. 39 A. 109; 39 A. 241; 58 I.C 801; 39 I.C. 274. But if the validity of the mortgage be specifically denied in the sense that the document did not effect a mortgage in law, then it must be proved by the mortgagee that the mortgage deed was attested by at least two witnesses. 1932 A.L.J. 653=1932 A. 527 (F B). The question of valid attestation cannot be raised for the first time in appeal. 46 M.L J. 56; 51 I. C. 378; 1924 M. 513. But see 101 I.C. 277= 1927 P. 131. Even though a document has not been registered or attested, the long course of conduct on the part of the executant may prevent him from disputing its validity. 45 A. 388=21 A.L.J. 294 (case of a transaction before T.P. Act). An allegation of proper attestation of a mortgage in a plaint not denied specifically or by necessary implication by the defendant must be taken to have been admitted by him. Consequently it need not be proved. 39 M L.J. 453=58 I.C. 801. One of the attestors to a mortgage deed was dead at the time of the suit and the other was unable to say if the deed was the one he attested. Evidence of the scribe was let in to prove execution. Held, it was sufficient under the circumstances. 90 I.C. 630 =1925 C. 318. Where a person who has signed a deed as a scribe subsequently asserts that he signed, as a witness, the onus of proving this assertion lies heavily on the party so asserting. 4 Pat. L. Where a mortgagor has given possession under an invalid mortgage for above Rs 100, he can maintain a suit for recovery of possession and the Court will decree the suit conditional on his repaying the money advanced. 98 I.C. 195=1927 M. 92; 2 R. 313=1925 R. 1. USUFRUCTUARY MORTGAGE FOR Rs 100 UNREGISTERED —An unregistered deed of usufructuary mortgage for Rs 100 is invalid and no suit for redemption could lie. Yet there is nothing against the mortgagor claiming a decree for possession, if he could prove his title independently of the mortgage. The mortgage being invalid, the mortgagor is entitled to possession of the property on proof of title, but if the usufructuary mortgagee has been in possession for more than 12 years as such, he must be deemed to have acquired mortgagee's rights and thus there comes into existence a legal operative mortgage which the mortgagor must redeem as a condition precedent to a decree for possession. 1935 A.W.R. 705.

REGISTRATION.—The! exception in S. 59 of the Act (that there need not be a registered instrument to evidence an equitable mortgage) remains subject to an exception that has a twofold effect. First, that if the terms of the contract relating to the equitable mortgage have been reduced to the form of a document —if the intended equitable mortgage is created by contract whieh is reduced to the form of a document—no evidence shall be given in proof of the terms of such contract except the document itself (or secondary evidence of its contents). Secondly, since the object of such a document is to create a security, i.e., to create an interest in immovable property, the document itself shall not affect the property, nor be received as evidence unless it has been registered; Registration Act, Ss. 17 and 49. 34 Bom.L. R. 741=1932 B. 401 (2). Mortgage for Rs. 80— Subsequent advance of Rs. 80 on the same security requires registration—1918 R. 242. See also 1930 A. 431=126 I.C. 17. In a suit in ejectment, the defendant can set up even an unregistered mortgage deed to show that he was in possession as mortgagee and not as tenant. 1924 A. 837=78 I.C. 955. An agreement to execute an usufructuary mortgage deed need not be registered. It is specifically enforceable and where the mortgagee had been put in possession, it can be set up as a defence to a suit for redemption 1930 P. 479=126 I.C. 854. Where a transaction was entered into prior to the T.P.Act and a long course of conduct by the mortgagor showed that he treated it on the basis of a mortgage, and where the defendant was in possession, the mortgagor cannot quest on an unstamped and unregistered document. 45 A. 388=1923 A. 433 (2).. Mortgagee need not advance money before registration and so a creditor of the mortgagor cannot attach the money in the hands of the mortgagee before registration. 1922 A. 384. Where a non-existent property or a property not belonging to the mortgagor is included in the document, with a view to registration in a particular office, the registration is futile and the security unenforceable. 38 C.L.J. 355=1924 C. 348. MORTGAGE BY DEPOSIT OF TITLE-DEEDS— WRITTEN MEMORANDUM.—The T. P. Act is not in force in the Punjab, and S. 59 does not prohibit the creation of a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds in the Punjab. In a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds if there is a writing it must be considered whether it creates the mortgage or whether the mortgage is complete without the writing, the writing being merely the statement of fact which would evidence the mortgage. If the writing creates the mortgage it must be registered. 176 I.C. 580=1937 Cal. 741. A transaction whereby a tax receipt and a certified copy of a survey map relating to land in Rangoon were delivered to a creditor did not give rise to a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds (History of mortgage by deposit of title-deeds traced). 11 R. 239=1933 R. 299. Where an award has been filed in Court and a decree has been passed and the debtor failing to get the original award deposits a certified copy of the award as evidence of his title to the property mortgaged by him, the deposit creates a valid equitable mortgage. (1933 L. 972, Foll.) 1935 L. 640. A letter written by the mortgagor the next day after an agreement to deposit the title-deeds had been concluded ran as follows: "I am sending you the title-deeds with the intention of depositing the same with you as per the memorandum of yesterday executed by me" and then referred to the schedules annexed to the letter. Held, the two documents must be read together and, so read, they embodied the terms of the transaction and not having been registered, the mortgage was not valid. 129 I.C. 814=1931 M. 124=60 M.L.J. 309. An equitable mortgage can be created by the deposit of title-deeds alone, but where the title-deeds are handed over accompanied by a bargain, the terms of the bargain must prevail; and where it is reduced to writing, it and it alone must determine the scope and extent of the security. 141 I.C. 541=1933 Pesh. 35. The real test is not the exact moment at which the documents are handed over, and if they are handed over merely for purposes of inspection and not for the completion of the contract, then the terms of any subsequent document recording the terms of the contract must be regarded as the contract itself. (Ibid.) The debtor wanted a loan from the bank by depositing a mortgage-deed as security. The bank replied in the affirmative and thereupon the debtor wrote a letter and a pro-note on receipt of which the bank paid the loan. The letter described itself as one of hypothecation and contained the important terms of the transaction. Held, that the letter should have been registered. (Ibid.) A mere list of documents deposited or any entry in a voucher need not be registered. 1930 L. 920. At the time of making a deposit of title-deeds as security for money lent, the mortgagor gave a memorandum which contained a list of the title-deeds with the introductory words: "As agreed upon in person, I have delivered to you the undermentioned documents as security." Held, it was only a list of the documents and did not embody the terms of the agreement between the parties and therefore did not require registration. 58 I.A. 68=54 M. 257=60 M.L.J. 506 (P. the security. 148 I.C. 721=1934 R. 51. Though an agreement embodied in a written document requiring registration under S. 17 and not so registered cannot be proved by the written document or by oral evidence, yet where there is no written agreement, there is no reason why the intent to create a security by deposit of title-deeds under the exception provided for in S. 59, should not be evidenced by written as well as by oral evidence. (Ibid.) The Act, far from containing any general prohibition of mortgages by deposit of title-deeds, expressly exempts them when made in the specified places from the formalities prescribed for other mortgages. The onus is strongly on him who seeks to impugn the validity of such mortgage. 35 C. W. N. 1061=1931 P.C. 239=61 M.L.J. 408 (P. C.).

PLEADINGS AND PRACTICE.—If an oral mortgage for Rs. 100 or upwards a suit for redemption is not sustainable. The mortgagor can sue for possession on the basis of his title and the mortgagee cannot claim to remain in possession on the strength of the oral mortgage which could not be proved. 1939 Rang. L. R. 645=1940 Rang. 11 (F.B.). The fact that a mortgage-deed is not duly proved to have been executed and attested, as required by S. 59 is no bar to the Court passing a money decree on the personal covenant. 50 L.W. 524=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 664.

Sec. 59 (as amended in 1928), Ss. 59 and 100: SCOPE.—A debenture issued by a Limited company, the loan under it being stated to be on the security of specified immovable property, requires registration under S. 100 of the Transfer of Property Act read with S. 59 of the Act as amended in 1929, even when the amount of the loan is less than Rs. 100. If the debenture is not registered, the holder of a debenture cannot be regarded as a secured creditor, although the debenture has been registered with Registrar of Joint Stock Companies. I.L.R. Sec. 59-A.—The Select Committee said: "Whether the words 'mortgagor' and 'mortgagee' as used in the various sections in this Chapter include all persons deriving title from them has given rise to some difficulties. (See 39 I.A. 7; 27 A. 223); in order to make this clear, we propose the addition of S. 59-A." See 1931 A.L.J. 273=1931 A. 277 (F.B.). Sec. 60: SCOPE OF SECTION.—The rule in this section is to be applied even where the Act is not in force, as a rule of justice, equity and good conscience. 1 R. 419=1924 R. 83. It is not necessary for the application of S. 60, that the mortgage should be based upon a contract. It applies also to mortgage created by operation of law under S. 171, Bengal Tenancy Act. 15 P. 481=17 Pat.L.T. 726=1936 P. 629. Under S. 60 the integrity of a mortgage is not broken except where the mortgagee has purchased or otherwise acquired as proprietor a certain portion of the property mortgaged. Hence where the mortgagee has allowed the owner of one part of the

Provided that the right conferred by this section has not been extinguished by the act of the parties or by [1][decree] of a Court.

The right conferred by this section is called a right to redeem and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has been allowed to pass or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money.

Redemption of portion of mortgaged property.

Nothing in this section shall entitle a person interested in a share only of the mortgaged property to redeem his own share only, on payment of a proportionate part of the amount remaining due on the mortgage, except [2][only] where a mortgagee, or, if there are more mortgagees than one, all such mortgagees, has or have acquired, in whole or in part, the share of a mortgagor.

"MORTGAGE-MONEY" MEANING OF.—The expression "mortgage-money" is to be construed as the principal money and interest of which payment is secured for the time being. 1929 A. 411; 5 L. 425=1924 P.C. 183; 113 I. C. 750. (See also S. 58, supra). Sums received by mortgagee have to be credited in favour of mortgagor. 1931 A.L.J. 421. A mortgagee remaining in possession of the property and receiving profits in lieu of interest is in the absence of covenant by the mortgagor to add the deficiency in the profits to the principal or to pay it up at the time of redemption, entitled to redeem on paying the principal sum only. 14 A.L.J. 986=37 I.C. 95; also 98 P.R. 1917=41 I. C. 59. See also 53 C.L.J. 380, where there was express covenant for payment of principal and interest apart from rents and profits received by the mortgagee. The expression "mortgage-money" includes costs properly incurred by the mortgagee, such as costs of litigation which are allowed under the law of mortgage in England. 25 Bom.L.R. 839=1924 B. 264; 28 I.C. 184= 16 M.L.T. 365. In a redemption suit the mortgagee could not claim compensation for improvements made by him during the term of his tenancy, prior to the mortgage. 54 P.R. 1912=14 I.C. 78. See also 17 A. 282. Where certain properties were usufructuarily mortgaged but a portion was sold in execution of a prior mortgage and the mortgagee without taking any steps in respect of the property sold, remained in possession of the remaining property, in a suit for redemption by the mortgagor, the mortgagee is not entitled to claim loss of interest sustained by the deprivation of a portion of the properties and the mortgagor is not entitled to a reduction of the principal money because the mortgagee failed to deliver the entire properties. 13 I. C. 156. A mortgage bond executed on 12th May, 1912, provided that interest would be paid yearly and that the principal would be paid within five years. It further provided as follows: "In the case of default of payment at the time fixed or on the discovery taking place within the stipulated period of any act of bad faith, then the creditor would be entitled to recover his money, principal and interest, in any way by filing a suit." The mortgagor failed to pay interest in May, 1913, but the suit was not brought till April, 1929: Held, that the act of bad faith which the parties had in contemplation was not the mere default in the payment of the annual interest, that there was no default by the mortgagor which would entitle the mortgagee to realise the whole of the mortgage-money within the period of five years and that the suit having been brought before 12 years from the expiry of the period of five years was within time. 131 I.C. 547=1931 A. 537. Mortgage-money includes all moneys which may be properly allowed on taking account: 26 I.C. 184=16 M.L.T. 365; but not arrears of rent and interest for which a decree was obtained but allowed to get barred. 41 M. 1043=35 M.L.J. 414; 56 I.C. 743. The mortgagor is liable to pay at the time of redemption gilandazi expenses provided to be paid in the mortgage as such provision is not clog on redemption. 16 P.L.T. 21=1935 P. 157. An apportionment of a mortgage-debt cannot be made without the consent of all the parties interested. 1933 L. 129=143 I.C. 364.

WHEN MORTGAGOR CAN REDEEM.—A stipulation in the mortgage-deed that the mortgage will be foreclosed if the mortgage-money is not paid does not extinguish the mortgage on failure to pay the mortgage-money and the right of redemption is not lost. The equity of redemption can only be lost either by a fresh agreement between the parties or by foreclosure proceedings. In the absence of either, the entry recording mutation in the name of the mortgagee as owner is of very little help in the determination of the point. 11 O.W.N. 559=1934 O. 246. Where at the time the mortgage was entered into, there was no law of limitation for redemption existing, the right to redeem cannot be lost by lapse of time. 78 I.C. 358=1925 L. 105. If a person being a party to a suit on a mortgage prior to his own omits to claim his right to redeem such prior mortgage, he cannot afterwards sue on the mortgage. 79 I.C. 654=1924 O. 56. Until a mortgage has been extinguished, there is a repeated cause of action to sue for its redemption. It is only when it has been extinguished by a final decree in redemption suit or when the mortgagor fails to redeem and the property is sold that the rights of a mortgagor to redeem come to an end. 114 I.C. 186=1929 A. 231; 104 I.C. 358 (2)=1927 N. 345. See contra 70 I.C. 152=26 C.W.N. 532; 10 C.L. J. 115=1 I.C. 71. Even after it is extinguished by sale of the mortgaged property purchased by the mortgagee himself, it may be revived where a subsequent mortgagee who was not a party to the previous suit redeems the prior mortgagee purchaser under a decree of Court, the consequence of such redemption being that the prior mortgage was satisfied and the decree and sale were vacated. 1930 P. 570. See also 28 N.L.R. 247=1932 N. 154. A preliminary decree for foreclosure does not extinguish the right of the mortgagor to redeem the mortgage. 130 I.C. 196=1931 A.L.J. 265=1931 A. 223. Adverse possession against a mortgagee does not bar the mortgagor's right of redemption. 38 A. 411= 34 I.C. 171. In the mortgage-deed no period was mentioned for the mortgage, but it was provided that the principal amount of Rs. 1,400 "shall by 15 years' time be discharged by the seven instalments of not less than Rs. 200 each." Held, that "by 15 years' time" in the document means before the expiry of 15 years and hence a suit for redemption brought before the expiry of 15 years since the date of the mortgage was not premature. 1929 M. 339. See also 134 I.C. 459 (A.). A kat kobala provided that the lands were to be kept in kat for a period of 9 years and that during that time the mortgagees will be entitled on paying the rent to the landlord to appropriate the profits in lieu of the annual rent payable. It further provided that, on the expiry of 9 years, the mortgagors shall redeem the kat kobala after paying the entire amount due for principal and interest. It said "if we cannot pay the entire amount according to the stipulation then after the term this kat kobala itself will be regarded as an out-and-out sale and we shall cease to have any right." A suit having been filed for redemption, held (1) that the plaintiff could not redeem without paying the amount due for principal and interest, apart altogether from the amounts of rents and profits received by the mortgagees from the land, (2) that there was no case for rectification or cancellation on the ground of mistake, and (3) that the mortgagors could not ask for an account under Ss. 76 and 77. 134 I.C. 95=53 C.L.J. 380. (See also the new amendment of this section.) Where a mortgagee brings a suit for possession in pursuance of a condition in the mortgage-deed, that if principal and interest are not paid off in a certain period the mortgagee can take possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor or persons claiming through him cannot claim to redeem in such suit. 111 I.C. 519=1928 L. 668. An usufructuary mortgagee has no right to remain in possession of the mortgaged property after mortgage-money is satisfied from the usufruct though the parties may have miscalculated that the liquidation of the mortgage-money from the usufruct shall take a longer period. 5 O.L.J. 263=47 I.C. 161. Where on the same date when the mortgage was executed, a varthamanam was entered into which provided for extinguishment of the debt out of the rents, the sub-mortgagees holding under the mortgagee are bound by the varthamanam. 107 I.C. 808 =1928 M. 382. A transferee from the heirs of a benamidar mortgagor can maintain a suit for redemption. 29 C.L.J. 434 and 45 C. 909 (P.C.), Rel. on. 38 L.W. 266=1933 M. 635. A raiyati holding was mortgaged and the mortgagee undertook to redeem a prior mortgage and pay the rent of the holding, but he neither redeemed the mortgage nor paid the rent, and when the holding was sold for arrears of rent, including the rent for two years prior to the mortgage, he bought it in the name of another person. In a suit for redemption, held, that the fact that another person, who was not the mortgagor, shared responsibility with the mortgagee for a wrongful omission would not in the circumstances of the case give him a right to derive benefit from the omission at the expense of the mortgagor and the sale was no bar to the redemption. 151 I.C. 255=1934 P. 307. In order that the integrity of a mortgage may be broken, it is necessary that all the mortgagees should have purchased a share in the mortgaged property. Where a suit is brought for redemption by an heir who is interested only in a portion of the mortgaged property and though all the heirs were made parties, the suit as against one is found to be not maintainable, it is not open to the plaintiff to claim a decree for redemption of the remaining property by payment of the whole of the mortgage-money. Unless the whole of the mortgage-money is paid to all the mortgagees, the whole money due under the mortgage cannot be deemed to have been paid. 1939 A.L.J. 590=1939 All. 600.

INDIVISIBILITY OF MORTGAGE—(A) GENERAL.—The integrity of mortgage cannot be broken without the consent of the mortgagee. A person interested in a portion only of the mortgaged property is not entitled to redeem that portion alone. 102 I. C. 708; 2 I.C. 662 (C.). See on appeal 42 C. 801=28 I.C. 930 (P.C.). A mortgagor is entitled to redeem a portion of the mortgaged property on payment of the entire mortgage-money even though his claim against the remaining portion is time barred. Doctrine of indivisibility of mortgages discussed. 54 B. 625; 1930 A. 416. See also 43 P.L.R. 705=1941 Lah. 421. Exceptions to the doctrine stated. 59 C. 1374. A person who has any right at all to redeem has a right to redeem the whole of the mortgaged property and cannot be compelled to redeem only the part in which he may be interested. See also 57 C. 872= 129 I.C. 310=1930 C. 810; 1933 R. 392. The property, which was subject to two mortgages, was taken on lease by a Hindu father and a stranger. In a decree on one of the mortgages the father redeemed the mortgage with joint family funds the stranger contributing nothing. In suit on the other mortgage the son is entitled to redeem whole, and, not only one-fourth, although father declined to redeem. 29 N.L.R. 77=1933 N. 44 (2). So long as the integrity of a mortgage remains intact, each item of the property mortgaged, when there are distinct and separate items, is liable for the whole amount due under the mortgage. 164 I.C. 613=1936 A. L. J. 1116=1936 A.W.R. 788=1936 A. 595. See also 15 Pat. 481=1936 Pat. 621. S. 60 cannot be read subject to S. 82 and the fact of the purchase of several items piecemeal by different persons will not give them a right to redeem the properties piecemeal. There must be a redemption of all the items at once. 26 I.C. 194 (M.). But see 11 P.L.T. 595=1930 P. 579. A mortgagee can, however, allow redemption by a co-mortgagor of his share of the mortgaged property. 50 P.R. 1912=13 I.C. 539.

(B) ACT OF MORTGAGEE IN DIVIDING SECURITY.—The proposition that a mortgage is indivisible is one for the benefit of the mortgagee and it may be waived by him. 1928 L. 792. See also 10 C.L.J. 150=1 I.C. 264. Where the mortgagee has dealt with one of those entitled to the equity of redemption, persons entitled to the equity of redemption in the remainder may claim to redeem their shares. 38 M. 310=23 M.L. J. 576=17 I.C. 837; 1927 M. 1039 (2); 22 Bom.L.R. 1431=59 I.C. 762; 50 P.R. 1912=13 I.C. 539; 27 Bom.L.R. 1449=1926 B. 31; 59 I.C. 762=22 Bom. L. R. 1431. But see contra 45 A. 524=1923 A. 499. Where two of three mortgagors sold their interests in the equity of redemption and the purchasers executed a fresh mortgage-deed in favour of the mortgagee, the mortgage is split up and the third mortgagor is entitled to redeem his undivided one-third share. 1915 M.W.N. 189=28 I.C. 248; 1926 P. 94. The mortgagee's taking in lieu of his whole mortgage a portion of the mortgaged property does not affect the principle of indivisibility and does not entitle a party to redeem the portion so taken by paying a proportionate part of the mortgage-debt. 20 N. L. R. 115=1924 N. 266. See also 91 I.C. 978= 1926 B. 31. A zamindar made an usufructuary mortgage of his zamindari without sir in 1867. Subsequently in 1895 he executed an usufructuary mortgage of his sir. Plaintiff took an assignment of his first mortgage in 1900 and the defendant of the second mortgage in 1910. In 1913 plaintiff purchased the equity of redemption in the property covered by both the mortgages and instituted a suit against the defendant for redemption of the mortgage of 1895 relating to sir. Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to redeem. 1931 A.L.J. 162=1931 A. 238.

(C) PURCHASE BY MORTGAGE OF PART OF MORTGAGED PROPERTY.—The integrity of a mortgage can only be broken up in the case of a mortgagee acquiring a portion of the mortgaged property by purchase, inheritance or otherwise. 31 A. 335; 1925 O. 150 (2); 21 O.C. 172=47 I.C. 200; 53 I.C. 587 (C); 43 M. 372=38 M.L.J. 239 (F. B.); 8 M.L.T. 409=8 I.C. 153; 57 C. 872 =1930 C. 810; 1926 A. 601=1923 R. 61; 5 P.L.T. 312=75 I.C. 821; 62 P.R. 1911 =11 I.C. 100; 7 O.L.J. 585=58 I.C. 983. Where a mortgagor sells to a third person, a portion of the mortgaged property and then sells an item of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, the result is to break up the integrity of the mortgage, and such third person can redeem his share in the mortgaged property on payment of a proportionate part of the amount due not in proportion to the value of different items of the property but in proportion to the liabilities of the parties under the sale-deed. 1937 A.L.J. 113=1937 A. 44. It is not open to the purchaser from some of the mortgagors to redeem more than the share purchased by him. 55 A. 359=142 I.C. 410=1933 A. L.J. 151=1933 A. 257 (F.B.). In spite of the integrity of the mortgage being broken by mortgagee, one of several mortgagors or a purchaser of a portion of the equity of redemption is entitled to redeem the whole of the property subject to the equities which other persons may have, due provision being made for their rights. 1936 M.W.N. 1005=1937 M. 136. As to whether one mortgagor must redeem the whole of the remaining shares, see 1929 A. 409; 50 B. 331=28 Bom.L.R. 588=96 I.C. 361; 59 C. 1372. "Share of the mortgagor" in the last clause of S. 60, can in the context only mean the interest of the mortgagor outstanding after the creation of the mortgage, (i.e.) the equity of redemption. The clause will apply only to cases where the mortgaged property is owned or becomes absolutely owned by several co-sharers or owned in distinct and separate ownership by more than one mortgagor. When a mortgagee purchases the property free of his mortgage and pays the full value of the property, the substance of the transaction is that the mortgagee gives up his mortgage right and purchases the property as if it were an unencumbered property, paying the full value therefor. The acquisition by the mortgagee in such a case would be not as a mortgagee. To such a case the last clause of S. 60 cannot apply. 51 L. W. 239=1940 Mad. 498=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 1003. See also (1941) 2 M.L.J. 520. One of two co-mortgagors sold his equity of redemption to five others, one of whom subsequently obtained an assignment of the entire mortgage rights from the mortgagee. The other mortgagor having sued to redeem his half share, alleging that the integrity of the mortgage had been broken up, held that S. 60 applied to the case, and that the plaintiff could be given a decree for redemption of his share in the mortgaged property. 11 O.W.N. 933=1934 O. 348. Where the first mortgagee obtained a decree on his mortgage without impleading the second mortgagee and purchased properties in execution including the one mortgaged to the latter and on failure to get possession, brought a suit against the second mortgagee, who claimed to redeem all the properties: Held that the integrity of the mortgage security having been broken up by the purchase of the mortgaged properties by the plaintiff he could not be compulsorily redeemed in toto and that the second mortgagee could only redeem the property mortgaged to him. 12 P.L.T. 769=1931 P. 434. Where a mortgage has been split up by reason of the mortgagee, having become the owner of two of the mortgaged properties, he is entitled to claim only a proportionate amount of the mortgage money from the other remaining property. 1931 M.W.N. 891; 151 I.C. 627=1934 R. 372. The passing of the rajinama and kabuliyat does not necessarily by itself amount to a transfer of the property so as to extinguish the equity of redemption. Each case depends on its own facts. 49 B. 847=27 Bom.L.R. 1253=1926 B. 40. Where without acquiring any interest himself the mortgagee merely allows some of the mortgagors to redeem their share without the consent of the other mortgagors, the integrity of the mortgage is not broken up and the remaining mortgagors can still redeem the whole of the unredeemed portion of the mortgaged property. 89 I.C. 574=1926 A. 136 (2). A purchase by some mortgagors of the interest of a mortgagee does not entitle the other mortgagors to claim apportionment of their debt for redemption of their share of the property. 27 C.L.J. 110=41 I.C. 269. When the mortgagee purchases in Court auction the equity of redemption and afterwards the sale is held partly invalid, the security is discharged only to the extent to which the sale is valid. 45 M.L.J. 719= 1924 M. 364.

(D) RELEASE BY MORTGAGEE OF PART OF MORTGAGED PROPERTY.—It is not competent to a mortgagee to release the share of an individual mortgagor by receiving from him what he may conceive to be his rateable share and any payment made by an individual mortgagor can only be properly treated as made for the whole body of mortgagors and should be credited in reduction of their joint debt. 59 C. 1372. If the mortgagee, with notice that the equity of redemption in a part of the mortgaged property has been conveyed, releases any part of the mortgaged estate, he must abate a proportionate part of the mortgage debt against such purchaser. 59 C. 1372. Where a mortgagee releases certain of the items of properties mortgaged to him a transferee of certain other items, who has no knowledge of the release on the date of the transfer, can apply for redemption of his items on payment of a proportionate part of the debt. Such a transferee is entitled to urge on equitable grounds that when he took the transfer, there was one indivisible mortgage and when after he got the transfer the integrity of the mortgage was broken behind his back, he was entitled to claim partial redemption. 37 C.W.N. 424=1933 C. 588. But notice or knowledge to the mortgagee of the transfer of equity of redemption is necessary; otherwise a release by the mortgagee will not give rise to any equities in favour of the transferee entitling him to partial redemption. 38 C.W.N. 833. See also 14 R. 198=1936 R. 266.

(E) MISCELLANEOUS.—The purchase of the equity of redemption by one of several co-mortgagees does not extinguish the right of the others. 9 I.C. 1026. Where one of the mortgagees has purchased a part of the mortgaged property, it cannot be said that the mortgage over that portion has merged in the sale and the purchaser-mortgagee cannot insist that the mortgagor should redeem only that part of the property which has not been purchased. 27 O.C. 360=85 I.C. 621=1925 O. 609. If the decrees for redemption of portions of property have to be maintained and cannot be touched, and the mortgagors have to be called upon to pay only the proportionate amount of the mortgage-money due on the portions, the case must be treated as if redemption is sought on the footing of the integrity of the mortgage being broken. 27 A.L.J. 217=114 I.C. 876; 20 A.L.J. 583 =44 A. 708.

SUBSEQUENT CONTRACT.—The doctrine as to clog on redemption (as to which see infra) relates only to dealings which take place between the parties at the time when the original contract of mortgage is entered into and they are at liberty to deal subsequently with each other so as to vary the terms upon which redemption of the original mortgage can be had. 9 O.L.J. 511=1923 O. 143. See also 43 I.C. 399 (N.). A mortgagor can sell the mortgaged premises to the mortgagee provided the sale is separate from the actual mortgage itself, i.e., is not part and parcel of the mortgage contract. 1924 R. 89. See also 17 A.L.J. 117=49 I.C. 353. Though a mortgagee is not entitled to acquire absolute ownership under a forfeiture clause in the mortgage deed, if the clause is given effect to and acted upon with knowledge of mortgagor for over 12 years, a suit for redemption under the mortgage is then barred. 82 I.C. 829=1924 R. 290. Under the amendment to S. 60, T.P. Act, in 1929, the insertion of the word "only" after the word "except", in the last paragraph of the section, makes it clear that there can be a proportionate abatement of the mortgage debt only where the mortgagee has acquired an interest in the equity of redemption. 38 C.W.N. 833.

CLOG ON REDEMPTION—RULE OF JUSTICE, EQUITY AND GOOD CONSCIENCE.—In all mortgages except anomalous mortgages, clauses which take away the right of the mortgagor to redeem after stipulated period should be deemed to be clogs on the equity of redemption and as such not enforceable, even in those parts of India to which the T.P. Act has not been extended. 1 R. 419=1924 R. 83; 1925 M. 366. The provisions of this section are imperative and the right of redemption cannot be lost even in the case of an anomalous mortgage. 82 I.C. 809 =1925 M. 366; 39 I.C. 377=11 Bur.L.T. 36. But see also 39 M. 1010=29 M.L.J. 525=43 I.C. 989. As to what is a clog, see 25 A.L.J. 1086=108 I.C. 149; 53 A. 580=1931 A.L.J. 324. Where at the time when the transaction was entered into, there was no covenant which could necessarily postpone the mortgagor's right of redemption to a very indefinite period or which would create an insuperable difficulty in his way for redemption there is no clog on redemption. 90 I.C. 787=1926 A. 171. See also 1930 P. 121. But where subsequent to the mortgage, the mortgagor executed a permanent lease in favour of the mortgagee and it appeared that the terms of the lease were unfair as regards the heirs of the mortgagor; the permanent lease is a clog on the equity of redemption and consequently unenforceable. 53 B. 360=31 Bom.L.R. 229. Where the mortgagor stipulates that he would not be entitled to get possession of the property mortgaged under an earlier usufructuary mortgage unless he paid the sum due under the later mortgage deed, the second mortgage, in effect amounts to a usufructuary mortgage though the deed does not say so, and does not constitute a clog on equity of redemption. 1939 A.L.J. 1056=1940 All. 101.

WHEN AND AGAINST WHOM CAN BE RELIEVED.—Relief against an agreement forming a clog on the equity of redemption can only be obtained if it is challenged within a reasonable time. It is an equitable relief which cannot be granted as a matter of course. 19 N.L.R. 1=1923 Nag. 60. Subsequent mortgagees with notice of previous mortgage in favour of the plaintiff are not entitled to resist the suit upon the ground that the conditions entered in the plaintiff's mortgage operated as a clog: 75 I.C. 877=1925 L. 45; nor subsequent vendees: 20 A.L.J. 607=1923 A. 123

EXAMPLES OF CLOGS—(1) ONEROUS CONDITIONS.—Redemption rendered impossible owing to onerous condition in mortgage deed would be a clog on redemption. 114 I.C. 811=1929 O. 54. The restriction in a mortgage by conditional sale that the money should be procured otherwise than by sale or mortgage of the property is a clog on the equity of redemption and is not enforceable. But a provision that there should be no redemption except in the month of Jeth is not a clog on the equity of redemption, inasmuch as the intention of the party obviously is to permit redemption at a time, when the crops are not standing. 1930 A. L.J. 610=1930 A. 283. Provisions in a mortgage conferring on the mortgagee on redemption an interest on the mortgaged premises are a clog on the equity of redemption and are void not only against mortgagor but also against purchasers of his interest. 57 I.A. 168=11 L. 251=58 M. L.J. 714 (P.C.).

(2) LONG PERIOD BEFORE REDEMPTION.—A stipulation for a long period before which redemption is not allowed is not by itself a clog, but coupled with other collateral covenants, may show an intention to make redemption extremely difficult, if not impossible, so as to make it a clog. 61 I.C. 962 =8 O.L.J. 136. See also 9 O.L.J. 365 =1922 O. 221; 9 O.L.J. 294=1922 O. 283; 26 O.C. 209=1923 O. 209; 27 O.C. 4=80 I.C. 213; 96 I.C. 467=1926 L. 457; 1926 O. 356=93 I.C. 329; also 90 I.C. 566 =1926 O. 38; 5 Lah.L.J. 394=1924 L. 129; 76 I.C. 336=1925 C. 105; 87 I.C. 30 =1925 A. 643; 113 I.C. 46 (2)=1929 O. 30; 110 I.C. 689=5 O.W.N. 525; 2 Luck. 588; 102 I.C. 160=1927 O. 224. The true test to see whether a clause in a mortgage deed amounts to a clog on the equity of redemption is not to look to the events as they have happened, but to see whether such events might have happened. Where a mortgage deed postponed redemption for 55 years and fixed the value at the time of redemption at a figure far in excess of the then probable value of the property and the deed was full of onerous covenants for the mortgagor: there is a clog on the redemption and the mortgagor is entitled to redeem before the expiry of the period fixed. 10 O.W. N. 973=1933 O. 460. Even 25 years would under certain circumstances be long. 88 I.C. 201=1925 O. 406; but for a case where the period was 99 years was held not to be a clog, see 5 O.W.N. 1091; also 5 O.W.N. 974; 9 M.L.T. 462=8 I.C. 1068. What has to be seen is whether the effect of such a covenant is to postpone redemption for an unduly long period without any corresponding advantage to the mortgagor, stipulation postponing redemption for 50 years may not be clog. 1933 L. 373=34 P.L.R. 902. Period such as forty years for redeeming a mortgage cannot be reduced by the Court where otherwise there is nothing unconscionable in the agreement. 130 I.C. 57=1930 L. 1060. Where a mortgage-deed of 1898 provided that the mortgagors could redeem only on one day during the sixtieth year and if they failed to do so their right should be extinguished and the assignee from the mortgagors sued for redemption. Held, the condition amounted to a clog, suit for redemption was not premature. 53 A. 580=1931 A.L.J. 324.

(3) FURTHER PERIOD IN DEFAULT OF REDEMPTION.—Where, under the terms of a mortgage if the amount was not paid at a certain time, the right to redeem was to be suspended for a further period; it offended against the statutory right of redemption. 42 M.L.J. 584=44 A. 185=49 I.A. 60 (P.C.); 87 I.C. 909=1925 O. 720; 13 O. L.J. 476= 1926 O. 38. But see contra 27 A.L.J. 606=1929 A. 388.

(4) ABSOLUTE SALE IN DEFAULT OF REDEMPTION.—A provision in a mortgage with possession that the mortgage should not be redeemable for five years and that if the mortgage is not redeemed within a period of 20 years, the mortgagee should have the land absolutely as on a sale, is a clog on the equity of redemption and unenforceable and no bar to redemption even after 20 years. 41 M.L.J. 563=68 I.C. 717. See also 12 O.L.J. 105=36 I.C. 68 ; 80 I.C. 944=1925 A. 34.

(5) STIPULATION FOR PERMANENT LEASE. —A stipulation in the morcgage-deed that the raiyati lands which formed part of the mortgaged property would remain in the possession of the mortgagee and would not be restored to the mortgagor on the redemption of the mortgage is a clog on the equity of redemption. 148 I.C. 429=1934 P. 397. Contemporaneous agreement to lease the land on permanent tenure and a mortgage of the property make the agreement of lease void as a clog on redemption. 46 B. 409=64 I.C. 612=23 Bom.L.R. 1268. See 1923 N. 115 (1); 47 A. 582= 1925 A. 497; 1910 M.W.N. 708=7 I.C. 698; 5 Pat.L.J. 423=57 I.C. 337; 11 N. L.R. 180=31 I.C. 869; 35 M. 744=21 M. L.J. 1010. See also 33 Bom.L.R. 755; 53 B. 360. (Even a subsequent permanent lease would be a clog.) The mortgagee is not entitled to enforce a permanent lease executed in his favour by the mortgagor, where the terms of the lease were unfair and the bargain unconscionable or oppressive. 33 Bom.L.R. 755. But see 16 Pat. L.T. 119, where it was held that a permanent lease by mortgagor to mortgagee was not necessarily or always void but on the contrary, the proviso to S. 60, T.P. Act, contemplated that the equity of redemption might be extinguished without limiting the method of extinguishing it by sale of the equity of redemption to the mortgagee.

(6) TACKING AND CONSOLIDATION.—Where subsequent advances are charged on the property covered by a previous mortgage, a covenant that the mortgagor shall not be permitted to redeem the earlier deed without redeeming the latter one is valid and enforceable, even against a subsequent transferee of the equity of redemption. 86 I.C. 932=1925 O. 458; 29 O.C. 118=92 I.C. 675; 25 O.C. 134=1922 O. 58; 65 I.C. 642=3 L.L.J. 432; 25 A.L.J. 1086 =108 I.C. 149; 125 I.C. 27=1930 A. 651; 75 I.C. 931=1924 A. 832; 9 O.L.J. 484 =1923 O. 24; 12 O.L.J. 382=1925 O. 505; 85 I.C. 328=1925 O. 593; 1 Luck. 92; 29 O.C. 15=1925 O. 451. See also 96 I.C. 844=1926 L. 633; 96 I.C. 197; 7 L. 297=1926 L. 494; 48 A. 292=1926 A. 506; 20 A.L.J. 86=65 I.C. 819; 1933 L. 864. But see also 1923 A. 454; 1930 A.L.J. 156=1930 A. 136 (F.B.). A mere undertaking by the mortgagor to pay money advanced on a later security between the same parties along with the former is not a consolidation of the debts. 16 O.C. 267=22 I.C. 132. Where in a subsequent document there is a stipulation that without payment of the two sums the property previously mortgaged is not to be redeemed, the effect of the clause is to create a further charge on the property. 90 I.C. 787=1926 A. 171. See also 5 Luck. 365=57 I.A. 173=59 M.L.J. 342 (P.C.). A simple money bond subsequent to the mortgage-deed is not a deed of further charge. 3 O. L.J. 402=36 I.C. 709. In a suit by a mortgagor for redemption of his possessory mortgage the mortgagee is entitled to insist on the payment of the sum due under the tacking bond, if he is otherwise entitled to it, regardless of the question whether his suit on foot of that bond if brought at the time of the redemption suit would be barred by limitation. 1932 A.L.J. 595=1932 A. 558.

(7) HIGH RATE OF INTEREST.—In no circumstances can a high rate of interest in the mortgage be construed as a clog on the equity of redemption, provided that the parties entered into the contract with eyes open and on equal terms, if the terms of the mortgage were clear and not equivocal. 1923 A. 411; 7 O.L.J. 389=58 I.C. 115.

(8) OTHER CASES.—Usufructuary mortgage—Usufruct not sufficient for interest on the whole amount—Provision for interest on remaining amount at rate fixed in the deed—Not a clog, when profits of mortgaged property not sufficient to cover interest on that portion of mortgage money. 1929 O. 30. See also 1927 O. 595=100 I.C. 180=4 O.W.N. 147. Where a mortgage-deed provided that it should not be redeemed until the expiry of 9 years and that the property should not be sold to a stranger unless the mortgagee is unwilling to purchase, such an agreement was not a clog on the equity of redemption or contrary to public policy and the same could be enforced against a purchaser with notice of the covenant. 9 P.L.T. 747=1928 P. 637. A provision in a mortgage-deed for the payment of "deorha" does not constitute a clog on the equity of redemption. 96 I.C. 538=1926 O. 502. A clause to the effect that the mortgagee would be free to build or rebuild the house and that in case of redemption, the mortgagor would pay the amount spent over the building or rebuilding with interest at 2 per cent. per annum does not amount to a clog on the equity of redemption. 1932 A.L.J. 1021. A provision that the property could be redeemed only when the entire mortgage-money is paid up by the appropriation of the profits, is a clog and property could be redeemed at any time the mortgagor finds convenient. 13 O.C. 128=6 I.C. 997. See also as to a condition in a compromise amounting to a clog on redemption. 5 P. L.J. 644=58 I.C. 129. Where a compromise decree in a mortgage suit provided the relationship of mortgagor and mortgagee to continue and the remedy of the parties, was to have recourse to execution of the decree: Held, that the provision as to remedy was a clog since it fettered the right of redemption with a larger period of limitation. 53 M. 805=1930 M. 305. See also 14 N.L.R. 184=48 I.C. 368. The English law regarding clog on redemption does not obtain in India. A provision that a mortgage shall not be redeemed so long as there are fruit trees planted by the mortgagee standing on the mortgaged land is not a clog, and a suit for redemption is premature if brought while such trees are standing. 45 B. 117=22 Bom.L.R. 1147. A condition in a mortgage of a house by a mother for her infant son, as to the liability of the minor for improvements, does not justify the demolition and reconstruction of the house and the condition for interest on the sum expended on improvements is most inequitable and unconscionable. 59 I.C. 764=43 P.W.R. 1921.

(a) REDEMPTION SUITS — NOTICE.—In England a mortgagee ordinarily has a right to six calendar months' notice of intention to pay off the mortgage or in default thereof is entitled to six months' interest in advance in lieu of notice; but if the mortgagee has given notice calling in the debt, the mortgagor even though he is a few days late in complying with the notice and tendering the money is not bound to give six months' notice before redeeming. 25 Bom.L.R. 839=1924 B. 294. This rule has no application to India or to cases under T.P. Act.

(b) TENDER.—Tender of mortgage-money is a condition precedent to institution of a suit for redemption. 38 A. 148

NOTES.

=14 A.L.J. 55=34 I.C. 183. See also 97 I.C. 348=1926 P. 512. Where the mortgage-money is stated to have been satisfied out of the usufruct, a tender would obviously be out of question. 43 A. 95=59 I.C. 92=18 A.L.J. 947. A suit for redemption cannot be dismissed merely because the amount tendered falls short of the amount actually payable or there is no tender owing to the existence of disputes about the amount. 92 I.C. 665=13 O.L.J. 330. Redemption will not be allowed unless the amount found due is paid or tendered within the time fixed by the Court. 43 A. 638=61 I.C. 812=19 A.L.J. 573 (F.B.).

(c) DEPOSIT OF AMOUNT.—In a suit for redemption deposit of mortgage amount is not a condition precedent. 6 P. 102.

(d) PROOF OF RIGHT TO REDEEM.—Where, in a suit to redeem occupancy lands, the defendant in possession alleges that he has been in possession for a long period of time as owner, the Court need not enquire as to when the defendant's possession became adverse; the plaintiff must prove he has a subsisting right to redeem. 89 I.C. 788=1925 L. 632. Plaintiff must prove subsistence of mortgage on date of suit—Defendant recorded as mortgagee in partition papers is not sufficient. 96 I.C. 253 (2)=1926 O. 546. No suit is maintainable for the redemption of a mortgage unless the plaintiff produces prima facie evidence of that right. 34 I.C. 207 (A.); 12 A.L.J. 102=22 I.C. 574.

(e) DEFENCES.—Where there is only a partial failure of the consideration payable for a mortgage, the loss occasioned in consequence of that failure can only be recovered by a separate suit, and cannot be set off in a suit for redemption. 6 O.L.J. 519=54 I.C. 313. A suit under this section, which is absolute in its terms and applicable to all mortgages and which gives an absolute right to redeem, cannot be met by an agreement of pre-emption. 46 M.L.J. 389=1924 M. 57. In India, as in England, a mortgagor is entitled to compensation from his mortgagee for the loss of title deeds. He will have his remedy by way of a separate suit for damages, or even under the mortgage decree where the latter contains provision for it. 42 M.L.J. 356=1922 M. 299.

(f) SECOND SUIT.—There can be no second suit for redemption when once a decree has been passed, though it does not fix time for payment and the consequences of non-payment. 5 O.L.J. 698=48 I.C. 922. But see 33 Bom.L.R. 844. If the decree in a redemption suit departs from the form required by S. 92, T.P. Act, and simply provides that in case of default by the plaintiff in payment "his case will stand dismissed" and no payment of the mortgage-money is made, the decree cannot be construed to be an order of a Court extinguishing the right to redeem within the meaning of the proviso to S. 60, and a second suit for redemption is properly maintainable. 61 I.A. 362=56 A. 561=67 M.L.J. 813 (P.C.). A mere dismissal of a redemption suit for default without going in any way into the merits of the case or perhaps even appreciating that the suit was one for redemption could not be said to be an order extinguishing the right of redemption. 52 B. 111=30 Bom. L.R. 34=1928 B. 67. See also 16 Bom.L.R. 687; 22 Bom.L.R. 939; 30 Bom.L.R. 1089.

(g) LIMITATION.—Where a mortgage provided for redemption after a period of two years and further provided that in default the mortgagee could enter into possession of the property and retain it until the money was paid and appropriate the profits first towards interest and the balance, if any, towards principal and the mortgagee enters into possession when there was the default in payment, the limitation of 60 years for the purposes of redemption of such mortgage would run from the expiry of the two years period fixed in the deed. 1940 Oudh 428.

Secs. 60, 65 (a) and 82.—Suit to enforce subsequent mortgage—Duty to redeem prior mortgage on whom lies—Loss of mortgaged property in respect of prior mortgage—Apportionment of liability. 1942 N.L.J. 389.

Secs. 60 and 81.—Under S. 60 when a person having a second mortgage on part of the property covered by the first mortgage acquires the mortgagor's right in that part, he may redeem that part from the first mortgagee on payment of a proportionate part of the amount due to the first mortgagee. The second mortgagee is entitled to a marshalling of the securities by virtue of S. 81. 1937 Rang.L.R. 13=1937 Rang. 220.

Secs. 60 and 82.—A purchase by a mortgagee of a part of the mortgaged property has the effect of discharging and extinguishing that portion of the mortgage debt which is chargeable on the property purchased by him, that is to say, a portion of the debt which bears the same ratio to the whole amount of the debt as the value of the property purchased bears to the value of the whole of the property comprised in the mortgage. The entire mortgage is not extinguished in such a case. 19 Pat. 524=21 Pat.L.T. 227=1940 Pat. 420. A suit for partial redemption under S. 60 of the T.P. Act is a combination of a suit for redemption and one for contribution under S. 82 of the Act. Under S. 60 a person entitled to a share only of the mortgaged property cannot redeem his share only on payment of his proportionate share of the mortgage money except in the only case where the mortgagee or where there are more mortgagees than one, all of them has or have acquired in whole or in part the share of a mortgagor. This is a special privilege conferred in that limited class of cases to avoid multiplicity of suits. S. 60 applies equally in suits for sale or foreclosure also. Once a case falls within the above exception then in order to determine the price of redemption it is necessary to have recourse to the principles of S. 82. 1942 N.L.J. 289.

Sec. 61: LAW BEFORE AND AFTER AMENDMENT.—Under S. 61 as it existed prior to the Act of 1929, where property is mortgaged again under a second mortgage with other properties to the same mortgagee, the mortgagee has a right to consolidate the mortgages. 15 P. 742=1937 P. 156. The effect of S. 61 as substituted by Act XX of 1929 is to abolish the consolidation of mortgages whether in respect of the same property or different properties. This must now be considered to be the general rule subject, of course, to a contract to the contrary. 168 I.C. 40=1937 O.W.N. 337=1937 Oudh 321.

SCOPE OF SECTION.—The doctrine of consolidation can only apply where a mortgagee holds a mortgage on property A and also a separate mortgage on property B belonging to the same mortgagor. In such a case after the expiry of the legal right of redemption the mortgagor in cases where the right of consolidation is still applicable, is only allowed to exercise his equitable right of redemption of the one property on the terms of redeeming the other. In the case, however, of a mortgagee holding a first mortgage on property A and a second mortgage on the same property, the mortgagor cannot on payment of the first mortgage redeem the property, unless he repays what is due on the second mortgage. But this is not because of the dectrine of consolidation but by reason of the fact that he had a second mortgage on the property. 67 I.A. 82=I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 291=1940 P.C. 38=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 446 (P.C.). Redemption of every separate mortgage should be permitted unless there is clear and unequivocal evidence to prove a contract between the parties to the contrary. 90 I.C. 613=1926 O. 59 (2). See also 44 M. 301; 27 A. 301; 3 P. 829=1925 P. 59; 14 N.L.R. 184=48 I.C. 368; 40 M.L.J. 236. [The following cases in which the contrary rule was laid down are not now good law. 54 I.A. 68=50 M. 180=52 M.L.J. 338 (P.C.); 3 Luck. 459=1928 O. 273; 112 I.C. 481. See also 23 M.L.J. 475; 15 I.C. 605; 1927 M. 1039; 52 B. 111=1928 B. 67.] Where there is no specific contract on behalf of the parties with regard to consolidation, the consolidation of several mortgages and amounts due under them in the same decree is illegal. 3 P. 829=1925 P. 59. Both under the old S. 61 and the law prior to its enactment, it was necessary for the consolidation of mortgages, that the two mortgages to be consolidated should have become united in title or come into the same hand. 23 M.L.J. 475=15 I.C. 605. The expression "mortgagor" includes also his heirs and survivors. 11 O.W.N. 559=1934 O. 246. The English doctrine that a right of consolidation can only arise only when all the mortgages are made by the same mortgagor cannot be applied to India. 11 O. W.N. 1601=1935 O. 213. The mortgagors as a body could not be precluded from exercising their right to redeem the entire property mortgaged just because some of the mortgagors had executed deeds of further charge in favour of the mortgagee. The mortgagee has no case for making the plaintiffs pay off the deeds of further charge in that suit but he should enforce them by separate proceedings. 1936 O.W.N. 230= 1936 O. 202. Where the father of a Hindu joint family executed a mortgage of family property by way of conditional sale and after his death, his sons, one of them being the manager, executes another mortgage expressly stipulating that they will have no power to redeem the property without payment of the previous mortgage-money and the amount of the later in a lump sum, the mortgagee has a right to consolidate the two mortgages and insist on payment of both before redemption, as the stipulation for simultaneous redemption amounts to a contract for consolidation. The fact that a suit on one of the mortgages could be barred by limitation on the date does not defeat the mortgagee's claim to consolidation, because there is no limitation to a claim pleaded in defence, and because the mortgagee's claim cannot be extinguished so long as his lien by possession exists. 11 O.W.N. 1601 =1935 O. 213. A contract that, of two mortgages in favour of the same party, the later one should be redeemed first is not to consolidate both. 38 A. 393; 1926 O. 59. In such a case if the latter becomes barred and irredeemable, the former can be redeemed. 37 A. 634; 52 I.C. 622 (M.); 32 M. L.J. 317; 19 A. 496; 33 M.L.J. 581; 40 I.C. 404. Where a mortgagor subsequent to the execution of the mortgage deed takes a further loan on a simple money bond or on a subsequent mortgage and agrees that he will not redeem the mortgage without discharging the subsequent loan, such an agreement can be enforced by the mortgagee. See 26 A. 559; 18 M. 368; 1925 O. 593; 31 A. 482; 1925 O. 506; 3 L. 459; 92 I.C. 772; 48 A. 292; 1928 P. 582; 3 A.L.J. 768; 25 I.C. 905; 5 Luck. 365=59 M.L. Consolidation in the same decree of amounts due under several mortgages in the absence of a contract to that effect is illegal. 1925 P. 59. The contract should be clearly made out. 90 I.C. 613=2 O.W.N. 753. The rule of consolidation is not applicable against purchasers of the equity of redemption. 44 M. 301=40 M.L.J. 236. But see 24 O.C. 240=64 I.C. 83; 51 I.C. 897. It is applicable only where the equity of redemption is not severed. 58 I.C. 129=5 Pat.L.J. 644; 50 I.C. 897. A provision in a mortgage bond that the money would be paid along with the money due under an earlier mortgage without any words restraining the mortgagor from redeeming the earlier mortgage without payment of the money under the later mortgage, is not sufficient to constitute a contract to the contrary within the meaning of S. 61, and the deed is, therefore, governed by the general rule contained in the section. 168 I.C. 40= 1937 O.W.N. 337. (See also under S. 60.)

Sec. 62.—This section is to be read as supplemental to and along with S. 60; see 43 A. 95. S. 62 applies only to usufructuary mortgages, pure and simple, and not to anomalous mortgages; and is not in any way inconsistent with the provisions of S. 61. 54 I. A. 68=50 M. 180=52 M. L.J. 338 (P.C.); 3 Luck. 459. Though the Act does not apply in terms to a transaction prior to the passing of the Act, the rules in S. 62 might be applied in a proper case, as the general law in force before the Act was passed. 86 I.C. 353=1925 C. 862. Usufructuary mortgagee of a house cannot claim sums spent by him for ordinary repairs, because he is bound to pay all normal expenses from rents and profits. 1929 A. 348. The section cannot apply to a case, where from the conditions of the mortgage, accounts have to be taken between the parties. 27 I.C. 427=17 O.C. 388. When the right to possession has automatically determined by the terms of the mortgage, the mortgagor can maintain a suit in ejectment. 46 I.C. 743=15 N.L.R. 101. Section does not apply to a case where there is a usufructuary mortgage and also

(a) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself the mortgage-money from the rents and profits of the property,—when such money is paid ;

(b) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits [1][or any part thereof a part only of the mortgage-money]—when the term, if any, prescribed for the payment of the [2][mortgage-money has expired and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee the mortgage-money or the balance thereof] or deposits it in Court as hereinafter provided.

Accession to mortgaged property.

Sec. 62, Cl. (a).—Cl. (a) applies where mortgagee is to pay himself the principal and interest out of the rents and profits of the mortgaged property and the mortgage debt is discharged from such rents and profits; until the discharge of the debt the mortgagee can remain in possession. 48 M.L.J. 363=1925 M. 825. See also 16 M. 486; 6 C.P.L.R. 43 (Even if the deed fixes a time for redemption, time is not of the essence of the contract; and if the debt is discharged before that time out of rents and profits mortgagor would be entitled to redeem and get possession. See also 35 M. 744; 5 O.L.J. 263).

Sec. 62 (b).—A mortgagor can redeem a usufructuary mortgage and get possession without redeeming a prior simple mortgage. 44 M. 301=40 M.L.J. 236. S. 62 does not limit the right of the mortgagor to proceed only against the mortgagee in a redemption suit, and to avoid multiplicity of proceedings: the Court is not debarred from giving a decree in a redemption suit against persons who have derived title from the mortgagee. 101 I.C. 728=1927 M. 703. The word 'term' in S. 62 (b) must be read to mean a reasonable term or a term which does not amount to a denial of the right to redeem. 131 I.C. 520=1931 A.L.J. 324. On this clause, see also 24 A. 521 (P.C.); 48 M.L.J. 363.

Sec. 63: SCOPE.—Where an accession is capable of severance, upon redemption a mortgagor is entitled to take over the accession to the mortgaged property on payment of the cost of the acquisition but he is not obliged to take them. 163 P.W.R. 1917=42 I.C. 468. See also 10 C.L.J. 83; 4 I.C. 357. It is doubtful whether the planting of trees can come under any circumstances within the phrase 'any accession' except it may be in those cases in which the planting of trees is a step taken to preserve the property, e.g., to prevent erosion by water. 113 I.C. 405=1929 A. 330. See also 92 I.C. 262=13 O.L.J. 243; 48 A. 70=1926 A. 67; 22 A. 83. Where such accession has been acquired at the expense of the mortgagee, and is capable of separate possession or enjoyment without detriment to the principal property, the mortgagor desiring to take the accession must pay to the mortgagee the expense of acquiring it. If such separate possession or enjoyment is not possible, the accession must be delivered with the property; the mortgagor being liable, in the case of an acquisition necessary to preserve the property from destruction, forfeiture or sale, or made with his assent, to pay the proper cost thereof, as an addition to the principal money [1][with interest at the same rate as is payable on the principal, or, where no such rate is fixed, at the rate of nine per cent. per annum].

In the case last mentioned the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall be credited to the mortgagor.

S. 63 cannot be read as entitling the mortgagor to recover on redemption acquisitions made by the mortgagee for his own benefit in circumstances which do not bring him within S. 90 of the Trusts Act. The mortgagor is not entitled on redemption to treat subordinate tenures acquired by the mortgagee for his own benefit as accessions to the mortgaged property, without regard to the question whether the mortgagee had any special advantage by reason of his position as mortgagee in acquiring them. 34 Bom.L.R. 1310=63 M.L.J. 116 (P.C.). Sec. 63-A.—[N.B.—This section has no retrospective operation. (See S. 63 of Act XX of 1929.)] Mortgagee is not entitled to compensation for the "kacha" kotha built by him on the mortgaged property. He can only remove the material. 149 I.C. 969=1934 L. 242.

Secs. 63 and 63-A: RENTS AND PROFITS.—The property is mortgaged only as a security for the mortgage debt and rents and profits received, must be applied towards the mortgage debt. If the mortgagee has incurred the cost of improvements which have yielded the rents and profits, he is of course entitled to claim the cost with interest, but there is no justification for allowing the mortgagee to retain anything more out of the profits over and above his outlay on the improvements and interest thereon. 42 P.L.R. 196=1940 Lah. 199. Under S. 63-A (2) and 72 a mortgagee can add to the principal the cost of improvements only where they have been necessary to preserve the property from destruction or deterioration, or to prevent the security from becoming insufficient. 41 P.L.R. 80=1939 Lah. 129.

Sec. 64.—The principle of this section is that where trustees, mortgagees and other persons get a renewal of a lease the benefit of such renewal would accrue to the benefit of the beneficiary or mortgagee. 6 C.W.N. 372. The presumption is that the renewal of a lease by the mortgagee is made for the purpose of keeping alive the security. 5 C. 198.

The interest of both the mortgagor and mortgagee passes to the purchaser at the sale of the mortgaged property in execution of a decree obtained by the mortgagee against the mortgagor on the mortgage. The mortgagor must consequently make good to the mortgagee, where he is the purchaser at the execution sale, loss sustained by him for breach of the covenant of title involved in the contract of mortgage. 43 L.W. 627 =1936 M. 433. A prior mortgagee can add the necessary expenses of repairs to the amount of his mortgage as against the second mortgagee. 16 I.C. 877=38 M. 18.

Sec. 65 and 82.—A subsequent mortgagee is given an opportunity to redeem a prior mortgage but he is not bound to avail himself of it. If he does, he steps into the shoes of the prior mortgagee and himself forecloses. He thus recovers the property freed from his own mortgage and still has the privilege of placing the whole burden of the debt due on his own mortgage on the rest of the property. S. 65 (e) recognises this and so places the duty of redemption on the mortgagor. If he fails in this duty such loss as may ensue would fall on the mortgagor or those who represent him and not on the mortgagee. The mortgagee's position cannot be worsened by anything done by the mortgagor behind his back and subsequent to his mortgage. In such cases the whole of the debt after deducting the subsequent mortgagee's share should be spread over the remaining items of property and this share should be determined by taking the whole of the mortgaged property as existing at the date of the mortgage into consideration. 1942 N.L.J. 289.

Secs. 65-A and 66.—Principle of the section also applies to Punjab and places where the Act is not in force. 124 P.L.R. 1902. The mortgagor in possession may create a tenancy from year to year in the case of agricultural lands or from month to month in the case of houses. But it is not competent to the mortgagor to grant a lease on unusual terms or to alter the character of the land or to authorise its use in a manner or for a purpose different from the mode in which he himself had used it before he granted the mortgage. This view is now embodied in S. 65-A. 10 R. 210=1932 R. 113. So a lease by mortgagor for three years is not binding on the mortgagee. 10 R. 210. Waste by mortgagor in possession.

66. A mortgagor in possession of the mortgaged property is not liable to the mortgagee for allowing the property to deteriorate; but he must not commit any act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto, if the security is insufficient or will be rendered insufficient by such act.

Explanation.—A security is insufficient within the meaning of this section unless the value of the mortgaged property exceeds by one-third, or, if consisting of buildings, exceeds by one-half, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage.

Where the mortgage security becomes insufficient ultimately on account of the lease, though not at the time of its execution, the lease cannot be enforced against the mortgagee auction-purchaser, especially when its terms are so prejudicial to the interests of the mortgagor himself that it is impossible to consider it as given in the ordinary course of management. 162 I.C. 225 =1936 O.W.N. 399=1937 Oudh 146. Sec. 66.—A mortgagor creating a simple mortgage does not part with possession, and the right of the mortgagee is only to cause the mortgaged property to be sold for the payment of his debt. Where leases executed by the mortgagor are questioned by the mortgagee, the burden is not on the lessees to prove that the leases were usual and given in the ordinary course of management, especially where the mortgagee's dues are satisfied by sale of the mortgaged property. A lease granted by the mortgagor cannot be presumed to be bad under S. 66 of the T.P. Where the mortgagee assigns his interest for a lesser amount than that due to him, the assignee cannot recover from the mortgagor more than what he paid and reasonable interest thereon. 8 M.L.T. 420=7 I.C. 871. Properties covered by security bond given for stay of execution of a decree can be proceeded against in execution without instituting a suit under S. 67. 51 C. 150=81 I.C. 734. There need be no assignment to the person for whose benefit the bond is intended. 60 C. 1298=37 C.W. N. 973. Decree-holder can proceed against the properties secured by a surety, when the original party makes default. 38 A. 327. The mortgagee has always a personal remedy against the mortgagor. 10 I.C. 975. Mortgagee can bring properties to sale in any order he pleases. 22 L.W. 389=1925 M. 1214; 92 I.C. 593. The right of suit in mortgagee is not lost by a third party claiming title by adverse possession against the mortgagor. 44 C. 425=21 C.W.N. 177; 27 C.L.J. 212=37 I.C. 277. Maintenance decree-holder with a charge on the property can enforce the charge in execution of the decree. 59 I.C. 282=1 Pat. L.T. 647. The mortgagee may release his rights over any one of the mortgagors claiming only proportionate share of the mortgage debt. 36 I.C. 530; 10 P. 341 =12 Pat.L.T. 28=1931 P. 164. But the mortgagee is not bound to abate a proportionate part of the debt and is entitled to recover the whole amount against any portion of the mortgaged property. 130 I.C. 809=1931 N. 44. See also 1929 A. 380 and cases cited under S. 82. But the released mortgagor is a necessary party to a suit. 36 I.C. 530. Though the principal may be payable at some date, for payment of interest shorter dates may be fixed and suits for interest alone can be maintained. 31 M.L.J. 437. See also 35 I.C. 104; 26 B. 241; 27 C. 938. The enforcement of the right to foreclose is controlled by any contract to the contrary. If the effect of the deed be that neither the mortgagor had the right to re-pay and redeem the mortgaged property nor the mortgagees had the right to recall the money and to sue for foreclosure before the expiry of five years, limitation for a suit for foreclosure runs from the first date after the expiry of the five years and not earlier even if the mortgagees had bargained for possession and never got it. 9 O.W.N. 280=1932 O. 178. Sec. 67 (a), Cl. (a) newly substituted in 1929 is not retrospective. A decree for sale can be passed on an English mortgage. 26 C.W.N. 318=1922 C. 52. A simple mortgagee is always entitled to a decree for sale even though he has a right of possession on failure to pay interest. 15 C.W.N. 441=10 I.C. 272=21 M.L.J. 1147 (P.C.). See also 19 M. 239. There is nothing to prevent the parties agreeing to allow a foreclosure for interest only or for part of the mortgage-money. 48 A. 171=24 A.L.J. 88=1926 A. 46. Even an usufructuary mortgagee can bring a suit for sale when a time for payment has been fixed and there is a personal covenant to pay. 1 P. 350 =3 P.L.T. 332. But if there is a further stipulation that, if the mortgage amount is not paid, mortgagee would continue in possession, the mortgagee is not entitled to sue the mortgagor for sale of the property on failure to pay the mortgage money on the fixed day. 120 I.C. 308=1930 P. 152. This would be so even where it was further provided that, if the mortgagor did not exercise his right to redeem during the 16th year, he would have to pay certain interest on the principal sum from the date of the mortgage up to the date of redemption, in addition to repaying the principal and costs of improvement. 161 I.C. 155=1936 Pesh. 48. Where a mortgage is a combination of usufructuary and simple ones, the two rights are independent, and the mortgagee may sue for sale, though he may have given up possession. 6 I.C. 153 (C.). See also 14 M. 232; 26 M. 526; 34 B. 462; 26 M.L.J. 514; 1 P. 350. In such a case, it was held that the mortgagee can bring the property to sale only according to the conditions set out in the deed. 6 N.L.R. 20=5 I.C. 701. A usufructuary mortgagee cannot sue either for sale or foreclosure. 41 M. 259; 12 M. 109; 63 I.C. 297=2 P.L.T. 229; 27 I.C. 800. A suit for sale can however be maintained if the mortgagor fails to deliver possession to the mortgagee. 41 M. 259. The effect of S. 31 (c), read with S. 63, of Act XX of 1929 is that so far as English mortgages executed prior to the 1st April, 1930, are concerned, they must be deemed to be outside the scope of the amendment made by substitution of the new Cl. (a) in S. 67 of the T.P. Act. This being so, suits on such mortgages must be held to be governed by Art. 147 and not by Art. 132 of the Limitation Act. 1942 C. 153=46 C.W.N. 33. See also 41 I.C. 406; 1929 C. 304; 30 A. 162.

(b) to authorize a mortgagor who holds the mortgagee's rights as his trustee or legal representative, and who may sue for a sale of the property, to institute a suit for foreclosure ; or

(c) to authorize the mortgagee of a railway, canal or other work in the maintenance of which the public are interested, to institute a suit for foreclosure or sale ; or

Cl. (b).—The remedy of the mortgagee of a railway, etc., is to apply for the appointment of a receiver.

Cl. (d).—Where a property is mortgaged to two persons as tenants in common and there is no covenant to re-pay each separately a moiety of the amount, the right of either mortgagee who desires to realise, failing the consent of the co-mortgagee, is to sue for a mortgage-decree in respect of the whole sum secured, joining his co-mortgagee as a defendant. In such a case the decree should provide for all necessary accounts and payment, except that there can be no judgment for a sum of money entered as between the mortgagee defendant and the mortgagor. 46 I.A. 272=37 M.L.J. 483 =53 I.C. 131 (P.C.); 1930 M. 985=59 M. L.J. 928. He cannot get a decree for his share of the mortgage-debt or a sale of a part of the mortgaged property. The same principle applies even where one of the mortgagees chooses to abandon the security. 1935 A.L.J. 198=1935 A. 263. But if the mortgage deed itself states that specified sums have been borrowed from each of the mortgagees, then a suit by any one of the mortgagees may be laid for his share of the mortgage money alone. 154 I.C. 537=1935 A.W.R. 169=1935 A. 391. Where the plaintiffs sue for their proportion of the mortgage money, the other persons who could have any possible interest in the mortgage security being added as party defendants, there is nothing in S. 67 (d), which prevents the passing of a decree in favour of the plaintiffs. 1932 C. 34= 54 C.L.J. 113. Where one of two co-mortgagees accepted in full satisfaction of the debt an amount less than the actual amount due on the mortgage, and the other co-mortgagee did not consent to such arrangement, and the latter filed a suit to enforce his share of the debts against the whole of the mortgaged property, there is no severance of the mortgage within the meaning of S. 67 (d) and the suit is maintainable did not offend against S. 67 (d). S. 67 is not mandatory. 1928 M. 933= 112 I.C. 501. Where one of two mortgagees took a further mortgage in supersession of his right under the prior one, the right of the other mortgagee is unaffected. 41 A. 631=17 A.L.J. 731. One of two mortgagees can bring a suit to recover his share when the other mortgagee was allowed to obtain a decree on his share alone. 25 I.C. 91=39 M. 17; 1928 M. 933. Where the parties are Mahomedans the share of each of the heirs of the original mortgagor is defined by law and the mortgagee can, in such a case, give up his mortgage lien on the share of any one of the mortgagors by making a proportionate reduction and enforce his mortgage for the balance against the shares of the other heirs. 10 P. 341= 1931 P. 164 and cases cited therein.

Secs. 67 and 68.—If a person mortgages with possession his sir land and fails to deliver possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee the mortgage money becomes payable under S. 68 and the mortgagee is entitled to a money decree for the same. But if the time stipulated for redemption expires, the mortgage money becomes due to the mortgagee under S. 67 and a decree for sale can be made under that section. 157 I.C. 657=1935 O.W.N. 924. Where a mortgage comprises the features of simple and usufructuary mortgages and the mortgagor deprives the mortgagee of part of his security by failing to deliver up possession, the mortgagee has a right to sue for the money under S. 68 (c) and also for sale of the mortgaged property under S. 67. I.L.R. (1938) All. 714=1938 A.L.J. 746=1938 All. 418 (F.B.). A mere covenant to repay does not take what would otherwise have been a usufructuary mortgage out of that category. The mortgagee could not be allowed in his suit to claim a decree for sale on the ground that he had been deprived of his security or possession of the property. 1942 A.W.R. (H.C.) 158=1942 A.L.W. 370.

Secs. 67 and 100.—Where the future maintenance accruing to a widow was declared by the decree a charge upon a house, the house is not made security for the repayment of money of the widow 'by any act of parties' or 'by operation of law' within the meaning of S. 100. It is only by virtue of a decree that a charge is created on certain specified immovable property. Where the house is sold in execution of the maintenance decree subject to the right of future maintenance and there is subsequently default in payment of the maintenance instalments, it is not necessary for the widow to bring a suit under S. 67. O. 34, R. 14, C.P. Code, cannot be a bar for the enforcement of the decree otherwise than by suit. The effect of the change in the provisions of O. 34, R. 14 is that a mortgagee can have the mortgaged property sold in execution of the decree on a claim which is not connected with the mortgage. 1939 A.L.J. 542=1939 All. 579.

Sec. 67-A.—The section came into force on 1st April, 1930, and therefore is not applicable to a mortgage executed before that date. 1936 L. 1020; 131 I.C. 725 (R.); 1933 R. 377; 1940 Pat. 65; 1938 Bom. 196=40 Bom.L.R. 109. The intention of S. 67-A is to compel a mortgagee who is entitled to the same kind of decree in respect of several mortgages over the property of the same mortgagor to consolidate the mortgages and enforce them in a single suit provided he has not contracted out of his obligation. The same obligation is placed upon a charge-holder under S. 100; and the words "so far as may be" are inserted there, because the legislature realised that some of the provisions dealing with mortgages may be inapplicable to charges. The proviso that there may be a contract to the contrary is applicable to a charge by act of parties, though it is inapplicable to a charge by operation of law. 60 C. 1470 =38 C.W.N. 153=1934 C. 325. The principle of S. 67-A cannot be applied unless there are either two mortgages or two separate portions of the same mortgage which are payable. Where under a mortgage bond the amount is made payable in instalments with a provision that in case of default of payment of two consecutive instalments, the mortgagee might treat the whole of his mortgage as payable, if he chooses to waive the penalty and sue merely on those instalments which are due, the mortgagor cannot be heard to say that the mortgagee is bound to sue for the whole amount of the mortgage and to enforce a penalty against himself. 1940 Mad. 296=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 924. The section does not apply when the parties to the mortgages are not the same. 1937 N. 99; 1933 R. 377; 1938 Bom. 196=40 Bom.L.R. 109. Where there were two successive mortgages in favour of the same mortgagee, but the money on the second became due earlier than that on the first and hence a suit was brought on the second mortgage and decree obtained and property sold subject to the first mortgage (on which by that time a decree had also been obtained) S. 67-A did not apply and that what was sold in the suit on the second mortgage was the equity of redemption and there could be no objection to the property being sold again in the suit on the first mortgage. 1940 N.L.J. 563=I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 172=1941 Nag. 3, nor to securities created by operation of law, such as statutory charges under S. 205, Calcutta Municipal Act. The Corporation of Calcutta is not therefore bound to enforce all such charges which it has for the consolidated rates due from the same person in respect of different properties in one suit. 38 C.W.N. 917=1934 C. 862. The words "all the mortgages in respect of which the mortgage money has become due" must be limited to those mortgages which the Court, in which the mortgagee sues has jurisdiction to enforce. 41 C.W.N. 854; 1939 Rang.L.R. 207 =1939 Rang. 247. The section restricts the rights of mortgagees and therefore must be construed strictly. 38 C.W.N. 917=1934 C. 862. A person who holds two mortgages of different dates must file a consolidated suit on both and omission to sue precludes filing of a second suit. 1933 N. 171=144 I.C. 326. Where a suit is filed in respect of more than one mortgage, for purpose of determining the court-fee, it was the suit could not be taken to comprise only one single subject by reason of the principle of consolidation applied by S. 67-A. 1935 M. 62 (1)=68 M.L.J. 316. See also 1940 Rang.L.R. 767.

Sec. 68.—The amendment of section is not retrospective. Section applies only to mortgages and not to charges. 15 C. 492. A purchaser from the mortgagor cannot be made personally liable under this section. 26 N.L.R. 312=1930 N. 139 (2). Provisions of this section are not applicable to anomalous mortgages. 9 O.W.N. 280. By instituting a suit for mortgage money under the circumstances enumerated in S. 68, a mortgagee does not lose his right to proceed against the security. The legislature could never have intended that if a mortgagor by his own default brings about deterioration of the mortgaged property and thereby forces the mortgagee to bring a suit for money, he can thereby deprive the mortgagee of what little security he has. 162 I.C. 15=1936 P. 439. The mortgagee should not enforce the personal liability before exhausting his remedy against the property except in cases where the mortgagee is prepared to abandon the security. But this can only apply as between the mortgagor and the mortgagee. 1937 M.W.N. 373.

Sec. 68 (a): PERSONAL LIABILITY.—Where the mortgagors covenant to repay the principal and interest within a time fixed and that in default of such payment, the mortgagee would be entitled to sue for foreclosure, there is no personal covenant in the deed, binding the executant to repay, on which personal decree could be passed. Any action claiming the mortgage moneys simpliciter must be made under S. 68 (a) if at all and there is no implied covenant creating personal liability. 152 I.C. 897=1934 Pat. 624. Existence of personal covenant depends on the facts of each case. 86 I.C. 481=1925 M. 991; 1941 Pat. 486. Personal covenant can be enforced though mortgage fails. (Ibid.) See also 23 O.C. 145=57 I.C. 967. Where in a usufructuary mortgage there is express provision entitling the mortgagee to recover his money on the expiry of the term fixed, mortgagee is entitled to sue for and obtain decree for sale under S. 68 (1) (a) read with S. 67. I.L.R. (1938) All. 218=1938 A.L.J. 18=1938 All. 188; see also 1937 M.W.N. 81; where an usufructuary mortgage is void as effecting a transfer of occupancy holding, the personal covenant in the mortgage is also void and unenforceable. 44 A. 486=22 A.L.J. 318; 57 I.C. 445=43 A. 81. See contra 86 I.C. 481=1925 M. 991. Where an application for personal decree is dismissed, no separate suit for personal remedy is maintainable. 22 O.C. 145=57 I.C. 967. Where the mortgage was partly usufructuary and there was an express promise to pay the sum on a particular date and to redeem the land on that date: Held, that the mortgage was an anomalous one and that as the land could not be sold under S. 15, Land Alienation Act, in execution of any decree the mortgagee was entitled to give up the security and to obtain a simple money decree for the sum sued for. 1935 L. 103. Where a mortgage-deed contained a personal covenant to pay interest independently of the principal, a suit for interest will lie, even though the personal remedy for principal may be barred. 41 I.C. 72. See also 1924 N. 83; 39 I.C. 852. A simple mortgage carries with it a personal covenant to pay the principal and interest. 13 L. 508= 1932 L. 630.

Sec. 68 (b) and (c).—The section is applicable only when the property is lost owing to the fault of the mortgagor and not that of the mortgagee, and only where the mortgage is not void. 85 I.C. 802=1923 L. 357. But see contra 21 I.C. 581. There must be proof that the reduction in the security was caused by the wrongful act or default of the mortgagor. 133 I.C. 402 (A.). A mortgagee who has been induced to enter into an invalid transaction through the deceit of the mortgagor can recover the money paid by him and his suit cannot be resisted as not maintainable because the transaction was invalid. 25 A.L.J. 37=1927 A. 190. Where, by a mistake of law, a subsequent mortgagee entered into the transaction and subsequently found that he could not claim priority and he thereupon sued for the recovery of the money. S. 68 has no application as it is applicable only to cases where the security was lost to the mortgagee otherwise than by his own fault. (7 I.C. 251, Dist.) 1933 L. 836. 'Insufficient' does not mean misdescription of property, nor does it cover a case of inclusion of property as mortgagor's while it does not belong to him. 70 I.C. 423=1922 B. 217. The word "mortgagor" includes the assignee of the equity of redemption. 1932 P. 273. S. 68 (1) (c) only speaks of the 'mortgagor', but in view of S. 59-A, that word must include the subsequent purchaser of the mortgaged property. I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 63=1939 N.L.J. 338=1939 Nag. 256. The mortgaged property is 'destroyed' when it is taken under the Land Acquisition Act. 42 I.C. 793=20 O.C. 256; or when the mortgagee is dispossessed through adverse possession. 2 Bur.L.J. 47=1924 R. 143. S. 68 (c) is sufficiently general to cover a case where the mortgagee of an undivided share of a co-sharer is dispossessed of the property by the co-sharers of the mortgagor who have been allotted that property at a subsequent partition. 1936 O.W.N. 21=1936 O. 174. See also 13 P.L.T. 373=1932 P. 273. Where in a mortgage there is no personal covenant to pay, yet, if the mortgagee is dispossessed, a suit for money is maintainable though the mortgage was unattested and invalid. 44 C. 388=44 I.A. 87=32 M.L.J. 39 (P.C.). See also 1941 P.W.N. 506=1941 Pat. 301. Such a suit may be maintained either against the mortgagor or the purchaser of the equity of redemption. 1932 P. 273. 'Security' must be one effected by a mortgage under the Act. 33 I.C. 753=12 N.L.R. 19. If the mortgaged property is diminished, the mortgagee can insist on the mortgagor giving another security. 45 A. 388, or sue for mortgage-money: 51 I.C. 785. To ask for fresh security is condition precedent to a suit for the money. 42 M. 578=36 M.L.J. 286. See also 1938 All. 221=1938 A.L.J. 313 (F.B.) Art. 97 of the Limitation Act applies to a suit for money under this section. 21 I.C. 581. But see also 3 R. 60=89 I.C. 56=1925 R. 223; 1936 R. 80. Where an usufructuary mortgagee is dispossessed, but his right to sue for the mortgage-money on such dispossession is allowed to be barred by time, he has no further cause of action to sue for the mortgage-money. 152 I.C. 897=1934 P. 624. Where the mortgagee is deprived of his security in consequence of the default of the mortgagor in paying the land revenue due on the land, time would not begin to run against the mortgagee until the default in payment of land revenue, which resulted in the sale of the land, took place. Inability of the mortgagor is a default within S. 68 (c). 151 I.C. 426=1934 R. 227. Mortgage—Provision for three months' notice for re-payment—Power of sale on default—Sale of property by prior mortgagee—Deficiency—Suit by subsequent mortgagee—Limitation—Cause of action. Held, that though under S. 68 (b) the mortgagee may require the mortgagor to give sufficient security for his debt, and on default of the mortgagor, to sue for the mortgage-money, yet there was a condition precedent to such a suit, namely, a notice to the mortgagor requiring him to furnish another sufficient security for the debt; and in the absence of proof of such a notice, it cannot be held that limitation did not arise until the property was sold in exercise of the power of sale conferred on the mortgagee, the bond being only an on demand bond. 1934 M. 644=67 M.L.J. 499. Under Cl. (c) of S. 68 (1) no question of the security becoming insufficient within the meaning of S. 66 arises and the only question is whether or not the mortgagee has been deprived of the whole or part of the security by or in consequence of any wrongful act or default of the mortgagor or his representative in interest. (2) Where a suit is brought under clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1), the Court may, at its discretion, stay the suit and all proceedings therein, notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, until the mortgagee has exhausted all his available remedies against the mortgaged property or what remains of it, unless the mortgagee abandons his security and, if necessary, re-transfers the mortgaged property.]

and that while a tenant had left the house, another had his rent reduced by half, it was held that it showed that the value of the security had diminished and that it amounted to a deprivation of part of the security entitling the mortgagee to sue for his money. 1938 O.W.N. 806=1938 Oudh 210. Where a mortgagor is left in possession of the mortgaged property as a tenant of the mortgagee, mere non-payment of rent by him, cannot be considered to be a wrongful act on the part of the mortgagor depriving the mortgagee of the possession of the lands mortgaged. So long as the tenancy is not disputed any dispute as to the nature of tenancy cannot be said to deprive the mortgagee of part of his security. I.L.R. (1938) All. 218=1938 All. 188. Where a mortgagee is presumably aware that the security which he was accepting for his loan belonged to a joint Hindu family and he advanced the loan knowing that it was not for legal necessity, he takes a risk and loses. It cannot be said that the mortgagee was deprived of the security by or in consequence of the wrongful act or default of the mortgagors. Even if the result appears to be somewhat inequitable, no principle of equity can prevail where the law is clear. I.L.R. Sec. 69.—Section does not apply to places where Act is not in force. See 1933 P.C. 114=4 L. 284 (P.C.). S. 69 does not purport to confer any power upon mortgagees, but it is intended when a power is actually conferred by a mortgage-deed to prescribe the procedure to curtail unfettered exercise of the power and to determine the rights of the purchaser at such a sale. Consequently, a sentence in a mortgage-deed that "the mortgagee, his heirs, representatives and assigns shall have all the rights, powers, remedies and privileges conferred upon the mortgagee by Act IV of 1882" does not confer on the mortgagee a power to bring the mortgaged property to sale without the intervention of Court. 6 R. 134=1928 R. 128. See also 13 A. 28. The words "power of sale" in S. 69 (c) refer to a clause to be expressly included in the mortgage and must be understood to mean what is ordinarily known and understood in conveyancing by that expression. 1942 Bom. 46=43 Bom.L.R. 890. A power to sell is a power to sell either now or at a later date; and a clause which gives power to postpone the sale is not against the words of S. 69, and is not illegal. Nor is a power "to buy in or rescind or vary any contract of sale" bad and against the words of S. 69. 1942 Bom. 46=43 Bom.L.R. 890. The right conferred by S. 69 (2) on the mortgagee is the right to exercise his power of sale only upon fulfilment of one of the two conditions mentioned in S. 69 (2). The notice required by S. 69 (2) (a) is not only necessary but imperative, and even the period of three months cannot be curtailed by agreement of parties. 43 Bom.L.R. 553=I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 506=1941 Bom. 339. In a case where there is no time fixed for the re-payment of the principal amount in a mortgage-deed and where the amount is made payable on demand, before there can be said to be a "default", there should be a demand. 23 L.W. 476=1926 M. 841. Default in payment of interest alone does not justify the exercise of the power of sale where that power was to be exercised on default in payment of even a part of the principal sum. Parties could contract specifically that, if interest remained unpaid for three months, the whole of the principal would become payable and that the mortgagee could exercise his power of sale. 64 I.C. 634=23 Bom.L.R. 1241. Under S. 69 if interest amounting to Rs. 500 is in arrears and unpaid for three months, the mortgagee can exercise the power of sale without notice to the mortgagor. 94 I.C. 860=1926 M. 841. Even in cases where this section does not apply, the mortgagee can have a power of sale. There is no positive enactment prohibiting such stipulation being annexed to a mortgage. 45 M.L.J. 497=50 I.A. 162=4 L. 284 (P.C.). See also 94 I.C. 860=23 L.W. 476. Under Cl. (b) of sub-S. (2) if interest has amounted to Rs. 500 and not been paid for three months after becoming due, power of sale can be exercised even if there is no default in payment of the principal money. 11 Bur.L.T. 147=43 I.C. 921. It would be otherwise if the mortgage-deed specifically provides that the power could be exercised only when the principal money is unpaid. 64 I.C. 634=23 Bom.L.R. 1241; 23 L.W. 476. The mortgagee is a trustee for the mortgagor for the surplus amount, and the trust is not lost by his mixing the surplus with his private moneys. Such surplus is movable property. 40 M. 767=38 I.C. 986. A Court will not interfere with a bona fide exercise of a power of sale, unless the price is so low as in itself to be evidence of fraud. The mortgagee is not however a trustee of the power of sale. 13 I.C. 261=10 M.L.T. 554 (P.C.). If the property is purchased by the mortgagee himself benami, the sale is void. 1929 B. 24=30 Bom.L.R. 1519. S. 69 applies to Hindus and the manager of an undivided Hindu family in creating for a family purpose a mortgage of immovable property belonging to the family in Madras City may confer on the mortgagee a power of sale which can be exercised without recourse to the Court. There is nothing in S. 69 to prevent a mortgagor giving to a second mortgagee, a power of sale, even when he has not given a similar right to the first mortgagee. 54 L.W. 656=1942 Mad. 232 =(1941) 2 M.L.J. 923.

NOTICE.—The three months' notice provided for by this section [see sub-S. (2), Cl. (a)] cannot be curtailed by agreement of parties. 11 M. 201. Where the mortgagor has assigned his interest in the mortgaged property, of which the mortgagee is Secs. 69 and 69-A.—S. 69-A introduced by the amending Act XX of 1929 has not repealed or modified S. 12 of the Trustees' and Mortgagees' Powers Act. The only effect of the amendment is that S. 12 of the latter Act is not to be deemed to be incorporated in an English mortgage proprio rigore executed after the amending Act came into force. Appointment of receiver.

(2) Any person who has been named in the mortgage-deed and is willing and able to act as receiver may be appointed by the mortgagee.

If no person has been so named, or if all persons named are unable or unwilling to act, or are dead, the mortgagee may appoint any person to whose appointment the mortgagor agrees ; failing such agreement, the mortgagee shall be entitled to apply to the Court for the appointment of a receiver, and any person appointed by the Court shall be deemed to have been duly appointed by the mortgagee.

A receiver may at any time be removed by writing signed by or on behalf of the mortgagee and the mortgagor, or by the Court on application made by either party and on due cause shown.

A vacancy in the office of receiver may be filled in accordance with the provisions of this sub-section.

(3) A receiver appointed under the powers conferred by this section shall be deemed to be the agent of the mortgagor ; and the mortgagor shall be solely responsible for the receiver's acts or defaults, unless the mortgage-deed otherwise provides or unless such acts or defaults are due to the improper intervention of the mortgagee.

(4) The receiver shall have power to demand and recover all the income of which he is appointed receiver, by suit, execution or otherwise, in the name either of the mortgagor or of the mortgagee to the full extent of the interest which the mortgagor could dispose of, and to give valid receipts accordingly for the same, and to exercise any powers which may have been delegated to him by the mortgagee in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(5) A person paying money to the receiver shall not be concerned to inquire if the appointment of the receiver was valid or not.

(6) The receiver shall be entitled to retain out of any money received by him, for his remuneration, and in satisfaction of all costs, charges and expenses incurred by him as receiver, a commission at such rate not exceeding five per cent. on the gross amount of all money received as is specified in his appointment, and, if no rate is so specified, then at the rate of five per cent. on that gross amount, the terms and incidents thereof including the terms and conditions introduced into the deed by virtue of S. 69, before its amendment, including a term about the appointment of Receiver by the mortgagee without recourse to Court, should not be taken to have been modified or affected by reason of the amending Act of 1929, which has taken out the last paragraph of the old S. 69. 40 C.W.N. 1270=1936 C. 646.

Sec. 69-A.—A provision in a deed appointing a receiver under S. 69-A, which entitles him to carry on the business of the mortgagor as before, does not carry with it an implied authority to meet the liability which the mortgagor himself had incurred in respect of transactions which took place prior to the date of his appointment. The receiver has all the rights and liabilities arising out of the new transactions into which he enters and he is not in any way affected by any equity which may be enforced against the mortgagor. 45 C.W.N. 169=1941 Cal. 308. A receiver appointed under S. 69-A is undoubtedly an agent of the mortgagor as laid down in Cl. (3) as the mortgagee is not liable in respect of any default committed by the receiver and the sole responsibility for acts and omissions on the part of the receiver rests on the mortgagor alone. But that does not entitle the receiver to pay out of the funds in his hands an unsecured creditor of the mortgagor before the dues of the mortgagee are satisfied. 195 I.C. 141=45 C.W.N. 169=1941 Cal. 308.

(7) The receiver shall, if so directed in writing by the mortgagee, insure to the extent, if any, to which the mortgagee might have insured, and keep insured against loss or damage by fire, out of the money received by him, the mortgaged property or any part thereof being of an insurable nature.

(8) Subject to the provisions of this Act as to the application of insurance money, the receiver shall apply all money received by him as follows, namely :—

(i) in discharge of all rents, taxes, land revenue, rates and outgoings whatever affecting the mortgaged property ;

(ii) in keeping down all annual sums or other payments, and the interest on all principal sums, having priority to the mortgage in right whereof he is receiver;

(iii) in payment of his commission, and of the premiums on fire, life or other insurances, if any, properly payable under the mortgage-deed or under this Act, and the cost of executing necessary or proper repairs directed in writing by the mortgagee ;

(iv) in payment of the interest falling due under the mortgage ;

(v) in or towards discharge of the principal money, if so directed in writing by the mortgagee ;

and shall pay the residue, if any, of the money received by him to the person who, but for the possession of the receiver, would have been entitled to receive the income of which he is appointed receiver, or who is otherwise entitled to the mortgaged property.

(9) The provisions of sub-section (1) apply only if and as far as a contrary intention is not expressed in the mortgage-deed ; and the provisions of sub-sections (3) to (8) inclusive may be varied or extended by the mortgage-deed, and, as so varied or extended, shall, as far as may be, operate in like manner and with all the like incidents, effects and consequences, as if such variations or extensions were contained in the said sub-sections.

(10) Application may be made, without the institution of a suit, to the Court for its opinion, advice or direction on any present question respecting the management or administration of the mortgaged property, other than questions of difficulty or importance not proper in the opinion of the Court for summary disposal. A copy of such application shall be served upon, and the hearing thereof may be attended by, such of the persons interested in the application as the Court may think fit.

The cost of every application under this sub-section shall be in the discretion of the Court.

Accession to mortgaged property.

70. If, after the date of a mortgage, any accession is made to the mortgaged property, the mortgagee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, shall, for the purposes of the security, be entitled to such accession.

Sec. 70: QUAERE.—Whether the words 'any accession is made to the mortgaged property' in S. 70 bear the prima facie meaning and include any accession to the property, or whether any building erected upon the property or any other accession thereto by a stranger 'under a colour of title' or under a bona fide title or claim of title is excluded from the ambit of the section. 14 R. 86=1936 R. 65. S. 70 regulates not only the rights and liabilities of mortgagors and mortgagees personally, but also the rights and liabilities of the representatives or successors-in-interest of the mortgagors and mortgagees respectively. The section, however, does not apply to the case of strangers. 53 A. 334=1931 A. 277 (F.B.). The provisions of this section in no way conflict with the principle underlying S. 51. When the accretion to the original holding by clearing new land is considerable, the new clearing is not an accretion within the meaning of S. 70: 1933 R. 81=146 I.C. 674. Where the land containing a building is mortgaged and machinery is subsequently planted in the building for permanent use, such machinery is an accession to the mortgaged property within the meaning of this section. 11 R. 322=1933 R. 195. In certain circumstances machinery existing in the mortgaged premises on the date of the mortgage and even machinery subsequently installed there may pass under a mortgage of the premises. But when the site itself is not comprised in the mortgage security machinery would not become part of the security merely by its being subsequently fixed up on the site, when what is mortgaged is a building constructed or being constructed on the site. 49 L.W. 578=1939 Mad. 684=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 692. A temporary structure put up without any intention that it should be a permanent fixture to the land, cannot form an accession to the mortgaged property within the meaning of S. 63 or 70. 1931 A.L.J. 273=1931 A. 277 (F.B.). Where after a mortgage of undivided share different shares are allotted to mortgagor in partition the improvements effected and new buildings constructed on properties allotted to the mortgagor or his transferees must be treated as accessions to mortgaged properties and as such available for the satisfaction of the mortgage-debt under S. 70 (b). 14 L. 749=1933 L. 771. The question of want of notice is of no significance so far as S. 70 is concerned. (Ibid.) An auction-purchaser at a sale held in execution of a decree passed on foot of a prior mortgage, to which the second mortgagee was no party, is not entitled to remove the materials of the building erected by him on a site included in the mortgaged property purchased by him, and the building is liable to be sold as an accession to the mortgaged property for satisfaction of the second mortgage. (Ibid.) Where a service inam land is enfranchised and assessed to revenue and a ryotwari patta is granted, the enlargement of the inamdar's interest is "accession" to the property, which adds to the mortgagee's security. 1931 M.W.N. 595. A surrender of his interest by an occupancy tenant in mortgaged property, which enhances the value and increases the interest of the landlord, is also treated as an accretion to the property. 1929 N. 225=25 N.L.R. 12. See also 1941 N.L.J. 35. Where after a mortgage of certain warg land and the kumaki land adjoining it, the Government assigns the kumaki lands on dharghast to the wargdar, the lands so assigned do not form an accession to the mortgaged property, as they were at the absolute disposal of the Government at the time of mortgage. 35 M.L.J. 120=49 I.C. 147. See also 7 M.L.T. 148

As to right of mortgagee to recover amounts spent in necessary repairs, see 118 I.C. 186=1929 A. 777. Question of necessity for repairs is one of fact. 1925 O. 429=87 I.C. 829. Usufructuary mortgagee can lease the property to the mortgagor and sue him for rent. See 49 A. 658=101 I.C. 516=1927 A. 552. The value of improvements is to be made on the money spent and not on the appreciated value of the property on the date of redemption. 70 I.C. 1. A prior mortgagee, setting aside a sale by the puisne mortgagee by deposit of the sale amount, can only add it to his mortgage amount and cannot get a money decree. 87 I.C. 829=1925 O. 429. The puisne mortgagee is entitled to add the money paid for the redemption of a prior mortgage. 69 I.C. 578=1924 L. 154; 22 O.C. 32=51 I.C. 549. Mortgagee is entitled to recover revenue newly assessed and paid. 1925 L. 76. The mortgagee has a right to add to the principal money payments made by him towards rent which the mortgagor was bound to pay. This statutory right is not affected by the fact that he professed to make those payments not as mortgagee but as owner under a purchase found by the Court to be invalid. As soon as the conveyance failed, the only capacity he could have occupied was that of a mortgagee. 10 P. 210=1931 P. 325. Zamindar's rent paid by mortgagee can be legally added to principal sum. 72 I.C. 391=1924 P. 372. As regards payment of arrears of Government revenue, see 5 Pat.L.J. 248. Mortgagee is entitled to interest as well along with the excess revenue paid by him. 90 I.C. 184=1925 O. 678. When on account of the improvements, the mortgagee receives increased rent from tenants, he cannot ask for the money spent on the same. 1924 A. 47; 30 I.C. 234. See also 54 I.C. 112; 29 Bom. L.R. 215=1927 B. 145. Money spent on repairs will carry interest if the improvements add to the letting value, but not otherwise. 1922 N. 262. See also 67 I.C. 132 =3 Lah.L.J. 184; 1925 O. 678=90 I.C. 184. Where an usufructuary mortgagee of certain properties was dispossessed from some of the items, but he did not take steps to obtain additional security for the debt; the mortgagee is not entitled to claim interest on the mortgage money on account of such dispossession. 37 C.W.N. 1162=58 C.L.J. 80. Courts will reduce value of excessive or unreasonable improvements when they hamper redemption. 45 B. 1301. Parties may specifically agree that certain specified amounts should be spent annually for certain specified purposes and charged on the property, and Courts will uphold such covenants. 50 I.A. 41=46 M. 108=44 M. Sec. 72 (a).—The provisions have now been included in S. 76, infra.

Sec. 72 (b).—Interest on costs of improvements effected can be claimed, even though interest is not specifically allowed by the document. 16 I.C. 635=10 A.L.J. 124. Forced payment of the call by holders of shares holding them as security is not an expenditure for preservation of the security. 42 B. 159. A mortgagee can add the amount deposited to set aside a sale in execution of a rent decree and acquire a lien for that amount on the property, even though such deposit may be after the preliminary decree in the mortgage suit. 28 I.C. 571 =21 C.L.J. 284; 14 I.C. 718. Sums paid

(d) for making his own title thereto good against the mortgagor ; and,

(e) when the mortgaged property is a renewable lease-hold, for the renewal of the lease ;

and may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, add such money to the principal money, at the rate of interest payable on the principal, and where no such rate is fixed, at the rate of nine-per cent. per annum :

[1][Provided that the expenditure of money by the mortgagee under clause (b) or clause (c) shall not be deemed to be necessary unless the mortgagor has been called upon and has failed to take proper and timely steps to preserve the property or to support the title.]

Mortgagee has a charge on repairs necessary to keep a house from falling down as well as interest thereon. 14 B. 28. Where the mortgaged katcha house fell down during rains and was rebuilt into a pucca house by the mortgagee and it appeared that the rebuilding was within the contemplation of the parties when the mortgage-deed was executed, the mortgagee's claim to recover the value of the improvements is quite fair and it should be allowed. 7 O.W.N. 488=1930 O. 337. Where the mortgagee, in addition to repairs, extended the buildings not unreasonable, he is entitled to be compensated: 75 I.C. 185=1923 L. 587; 52 I.C. 862=78 P.R. 1918; but cannot claim interest on such improvements: 67 I.C. 132 =3 L.L.J. 184. But see also 4 B. 584. Where the mortgage-deed permits repairs to be effected by the mortgagee, no notice to mortgagor is necessary to effect the repairs. 51 I.C. 979. "Sale" in this section does not include sale of equity of redemption, as such sale is made without endangering the security of the mortgagee. See 40 M.L.J. 524; 19 I.C. 744=16 O.C. 48; 1 Pat.L.J. 589=38 I.C. 232. See also 29 O.C. 336 =1 Luck. 367. It is only when the security would be impaired by the sale that the mortgagees may spend money to avoid such sale under this section. 40 M.L.J. 524; 1 Luck. 367=29 O.C. 336; 1925 O. 421=2 O.W.N. 242; 51 I.C. 549; 30 C. 794; 31 M. 18 (money paid by mortgagee for municipal tax, for non-payment of which only movables of the mortgagee can be attached and sold and not the house or land mortgaged cannot be a charge on the property). Under S. 69, Contract Act, the mortgagee is clearly entitled to be reimbursed by the mortgagor for the money spent by him on revenue and land taxes paid in order to save the property from forfeiture and sale. S. 72, T.P. Act, is clearly permissive. A mortgagee is not obliged to add the money so spent by him to the principal money of the mortgage. He can still make his claim under S. 69, Contract Act. O. 34, R. 14 is no bar to the mortgagee bringing the mortgaged property to sale in execution of a decree obtained in such a suit. 161 I.C. 626=1936 R. 47.

Sec. 72 (c).—The money spent in protecting the mortgagor's title can be recovered by a separate suit or be added to the mortgage amount. 45 I.C. 949=34 M.L.J. 177. An express agreement is not necessary for this purpose. 58 I.A. 254=10 P. 654=61 M.L.J. 489 (P.C.). See also 21 M. 32 (as to costs, charges and expenses of necessary litigation properly incurred by the mortgagee); 1924 B. 264=25 Bom.L.R. 839 (even if such expenses be incurred in criminal proceedings); 34 M.L.J. 177. But charges not bona fide incurred by the mortgagee cannot be claimed from the mortgagor. 167 P.W.R. 1912.

Sec. 72 (d).—Expenses incurred in defending an unsuccessful suit for redemption by the mortgagor can be added to the mortgage amount. 26 I.C. 184=16 M.L.T. 365. Where to work out his rights under a deed of mortgage, the mortgagee has to sue for possession, the amount spent in such suit in getting a decree for possession is money spent in making good his title against the mortgagor which he is entitled to spend under S. 72 (3). 1941 O.W.N. 768=1941 Oudh 498.

Sec. 72 (e).—The mortgagee is not entitled to enforce a permanent lease executed in his favour by the mortgagor, where it is found that the terms of the lease were unfair and the bargain was unconscionable or oppressive. 33 Bom.L.R. 755=1931 B. 399.

Where the property is by its nature insurable, the mortgagee may also, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, insure and keep insured against loss or damage by fire the whole or any part of such property; and the premiums paid for any such insurance shall be [1][added to the principal money with interest at the same rate as is payable on the principal money, or, where no such rate is fixed, at the rate of nine per cent. per annum]. But the amount of such insurance shall not exceed the amount specified in this behalf in the mortgage-deed or (if no such amount is therein specified) two-thirds of the amount that would be required in case of total destruction to reinstate the property insured.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize the mortgagee to insure when an insurance of the property is kept up by or on behalf of the mortgagor to the amount in which the mortgagee is hereby authorized to insure.

Right to proceeds of revenue sale or compensation on acquisition.

[2][73. (1) Where the mortgaged property or any part thereof or any interest therein is sold owing to failure to pay arrears of revenue or other charges of a public nature or rent due in respect of such property, and such failure did not arise from any default of the mortgagee, the mortgagee shall be entitled to claim payment of the mortgage-money, in whole or in part, out of any surplus of the sale-proceeds remaining after payment of the arrears and of all charges and deductions directed by law.

NOTES.

Sec. 73.—Under the law as it stood before the amendment of 1929, the mortgagee had the right to the surplus sale proceeds only in a case where the whole of the estate has been sold for arrears of revenue; but under S. 73 as it now stands the right of substitution has been conferred on him even where a portion only of the property has been so sold. 15 Pat.L.T. 95=1934 P. 209. But there is nothing in the section precluding the right of mortgagee to proceed against the mortgaged property also where by reason of S. 54 of the Beng. Rev. Sale Act, the sale of a portion of the estate was subject to encumbrance and the mortgage rights still subsisted. 1934 Pat. 209. S. 73 contemplates only those cases where the property has been sold free of all incumbrances under the provisions of the Land Revenue Act for recovery of arrears of revenue or rent due, but it does not apply where property is sold not by the Collector but by a decree-holder under the provisions of Rent Act, which would not be a sale free of the encumbrances. 5 O.W.N. 791=1928 O. 442. See also 3 Luck. 719; 51 I.C. 333 (C.); 9 C.W.N. 117; 22 C.W.N. 139=43 I.C. 996; 24 C. 746; 20 C. 241; 15 C. 546; 33 C. 878. If portions of the property are converted into cash, that cash also should be available as a part of the security, because S. 73 says that if any part of the property or interest in the property is sold the mortgagee's right comes into play to realize the money. If any portion of such surplus is taken away by any one else, the mortgagee has got a right to follow it. 169 I.C. 805=1937 Pat. 307. S. 73 merely gives effect to the old law of substitution. The amendment extended the section so that it deals not only with the sale of the mortgaged property at a revenue sale, but also sale of any part thereof or any interest therein. The section has no application at all to a case where the mortgagee's security is not diminished by the revenue sale at all and he has his full rights to put the mortgaged property to sale in spite of the revenue sale. Where a residuary share in a tauzi including properties subject to a mortgage is put up for sale for arrears of revenue, the sale being subject to the mortgagee's right, the sale does not in any way diminish the security and S. 73 has no application. 16 Pat. 299=18 Pat. L.T. 566=1938 Pat. 179. See also 1939 Mar.L.R. 131 (Civ.). But see 1937 P. 307. The principle of the section is one of substitution of one security or property for another. 39 M. 283; 9 C. W.N. 117. See also 1939 Mar.L.R. 131 (Civ.). The surplus sale proceeds in the hands of the Collector represents the mortgaged security. See 20 C. 241; 24 C. 746; 6 C. 142. A mortgagee in cases where the mortgaged property is sold for arrears of rent, is not only entitled to proceed against the surplus sale proceeds but can follow the property itself. The section only governs cases where the law has otherwise provided that the effect of a sale for arrears of rent should nullify a mortgage. 113 I.C. 904=1929 C. 392. A new cause of action does not arise by such substitution. Only the security is shifted from one item to another. 34 I.C. 704=12 N.L.R. 20. See also 86 I.C. 882=1925 C. 1145. ed under the Land Acquisition Act represent the mortgaged property in a new form, the mortgagee is entitled to recover the same in enforcement of his security. The omission of the word 'charge' from Cl. (1) of S. 73 is attributable to the recognition by the Legislature of the fact that even apart from any statutory provision, the mortgagee has in accordance with the principle of substituted security, a charge on surplus sale proceeds. I.L.R. (1938) All. 513=1938 A.L.J. 313=1928 All. 221 (F.B.). When the mortgaged land is acquired under the Land Acquisition Act during the pendency of the mortgage suit, the mortgagor can be restrained from drawing the compensation amount. 5 Pat.L.J. 650=59 I.C. 513. A mortgagee has a charge on the surplus sale proceeds after the sale of the mortgaged property for arrears of Government revenue. But he is not bound to follow the surplus sale proceeds of the property and the existence of the statutory charge is no bar to his seeking a decree against the successors of the mortgagor. 3 P. 581=1924 P. 586. See also 1937 Pat. 307=169 I.C. 805; 7 Cut.L.T. 49. The landlord enforced his charge for rent, got a decree and the leasehold property sold in execution of a decree was purchased by the mortgagee. The landlord claimed out of the surplus sale proceeds rent up to date of sale. Held, that the relationship of landlord and tenant continued up to the date of sale and not merely till the date of suit and he was entitled to rent up to the date of sale for which he was a prior encumbrancer within the meaning of S. 73 (3). 1933 P. 257=144 I.C. 760. The principle of this section is applicable to a case where the auction-purchaser is deprived of crops on the land by a lessee pendente lite. He can claim the rent due from the lessee to the judgment-debtor. 28 I.C. 232=39 M. 283. Sec. 76: SCOPE.—The principles enunciated in Ss. 76 and 77 are a mere codification of the existing law and are applicable to mortgages executed before Act came into operation with regard to the liability of a usufructuary mortgagee to account for

(a) he must manage the property as a person of ordinary prudence would manage it if it were his own ; the rents and profits. 17 Pat.L.T. 684=1936 Pat. 583. See also 1940 Pat. 627. A person entering into possession as mortgagee, is liable under S. 76, to maintain accounts, in every mortgage, whether usufructuary or otherwise. 1940 O.W.N. 1205. =191 I.C. 716=1941 O. 84. See also 1941 Pat. 296. Before liability to account can be enforced in favour of the mortgagor, it must be proved that the mortgagee received possession by virtue of the mortgage. The mortgagee can only be charged in respect of that part of which he had taken possession. The fact that the mortgagee has been in receipt of the rents and profits of the mortgaged estate does not necessarily make him chargeable as a mortgagee in possession; for that purpose it must be shown that he took out of mortgagor's hands the power and duty of managing the estate and dealing with the tenants. 39 Bom.L.R. 795=1937 Bom. 483, see also 1939 Mar.L.R. 153 (Civ.); 22 Pat.L.T. 230=1941 Pat. 296. But see also 26 L.W. 450=105 I.C. 419=1927 M. 964; 25 C.L.J. 560=40 I.C. 371; 9 O.W.N. 60. Section does not apply to a case where the mortgage has become extinct: 47 I.C. 224; nor to a mortgage by the lessee. 1925 B. 330=27 Bom.L.R. 553. As to the meaning of the expression "during the continuance of the mortgage," see 9 O.W.N. 60. As between a mortgagor and mortgagee attornment by the latter to a superior landlord cannot in any way prejudice the rights of the former, see 29 I.C. 746. After redemption the position of a mortgagee in possession is only that of a tenant: 49 I.C. 179=8 L.W. 599; and a mortgagor taking a lease from the usufructuary mortgagee is a tenant until the mortgage is redeemed: 17 I.C. 424; 17 I.C. 265=1912 M.W.N. 907. Sec. 76 (a).—The measure of prudence required under this section is that of a trustee under S. 15 of the Trust Act, and that of a bailee under S. 151, Contract Act. Lease created by mortgagee being an act in the course of management is binding on the mortgagor even after redemption. 11 I.C. 817; 31 I.C. 630; 52 I.C. 472; 97 I.C. 852=1926 P.H.C.C. 300; 1 U.B.R. A lessee for a term admitted into possession by the mortgagee cannot be ejected on redemption where there was nothing to show want of good faith in granting the lease. 52 C.L.J. 142=1930 C. 738; nor is the mortgagee required to take any special trouble to make the best of the property. 2 Bom.H.C.R. 211. A mortgage with possession providing for the appropriation of profits of land mortgaged in lieu of interest, no rate of interest being mentioned in the bond, which is governed by S. 13 of the Dekhan Agri. Rel. Act, is one to which S. 76 of the T.P. Act does not apply. Consequently, the rule that the mortgagee is bound to manage the property as a person of ordinary prudence would if it were his own and to use his best endeavours to collect the rents and profits does not apply. Accounts should therefore be taken on the basis of receipts shown as having actually come into the hands of the mortgagee. 58 B. 472=36 Bom.L.R. 633 =1934 B. 321.

Sec. 76 (c): OTHER PUBLIC CHARGES.—S. 76 cannot confer on a landlord the right to proceed directly against a usufructuary mortgagee from his lessee for rent or jodi due to him. 1941 Mad. 401=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 225. See also 66 C.L.J. 10=41 C.W.N. 1141. Even under the old law, it was the duty of the mortgagee in possession to pay the rent of the mortgaged property. 19 Pat.L.T. 849=1938 Pat. 196. If in a suit for redemption of a mortgage with possession, the mortgagor calls upon the mortgagee to account for the amounts paid by him as rent which the mortgagee is under an obligation to pay either by reason of S. 76 (c) or by reason of contract, the mortgagor must establish a loss in view of the language of the last paragraph of S. 76 of the Act. The mortgagor would not be entitled, to have an account if he merely paid the amounts voluntarily. If the mortgagor had been obliged to pay the sums of money as rent, a loss has been occasioned to him which he is entitled to set off against his liability. But if the payment was voluntary, the mortgagor would be entitled to a money decree under S. 70 of the Contract Act for three years' rent, all other sums being barred by limitation. There is no liability on the mortgagee to pay interest. 1940 P.W.N. 1028=1940 Pat. 579. The word "summarily" occurring in the latter portion of S. 76 (c) implies that the proceedings for realization of rent by sale of the property are of a summary nature, for instance, as in the case of a certificate proceeding under the Public Demands Recovery Act. 19 Pat.L.T. 849=1938 Pat. 196. Tacavi advance granted by Government to the mortgagor is a charge of a public nature. 40 B. 483=37 I.C. 295. See also 27 M.L.J. 295. The mortgagee is liable to pay the enhanced rent and not the mortgagor. 1922 O. 91; 39 I.C. 437; 29 M.L.J. 772=29 I.C. 386; 16 I.C. 184; 14 I.C. 590; 12 I.C. 140=22 M.L.J. 151. Mortgagee is entitled to add Government revenue paid by him to the mortgage amount. 56 I.A. 339=51 A. 686=1929 P.C. 243 (P.C.). A mortgagee cannot add expenses for payment of road cess to the sum due on the mortgage. The payment of a public charge for which the mortgaged property may not be summarily sold does not create a charge upon the property. 1 Pat.L.J. 589=38 I.C. 232. Unless the deed provides a fixed amount as Government revenue when such fixation would imply a contract to the contrary, the enhanced rent is payable by the mortgagor. 25 I.C. 641. See also 2 L.W. 118. The mortgagees should pay up even arrears of rent due prior to the mortgage and not allow the land to be sold away. 52 I.C. 902. If he pays revenue on other lands included in the same patta, but not mortgaged he is entitled to the amount on redemption. 25 I.C. 797=27 M.L.J. 295. But see 1925 A. 189=83 I.C. 188. Unless the mortgagees have actually collected rents or profits for a period prior to their getting into possession or unless they were so authorized to do, the mortgagor must pay the revenue on the property for period prior to the possession of the mortgagees. 10 Pat.L.T. 849=1938 Pat. 196. A mortgagee who escapes from payment of revenue for some years need not account that to the mortgagor, 10 I.C. 113. The mortgagee from a lessee will be deemed to covenant with the lessor for due payment of rent. 27 Bom.L.R. 553=1925 B. 330. See also 5 P.L.J. 492=1920 P. 277=58 I.C. 291. Where the mortgagee had undertaken the duty of meeting the Government revenue and the intention of the parties was that the mortgagor should be responsible for increase or decrease in the Government revenue, the mortgagee could not be allowed to throw the burden of his own laches on the property for which the revenue was not paid and any equity that might have been invoked against the mortgagor, who did not seek redemption, did not arise against the purchaser of the equity of redemption. 32 A. 612=20 M.L.J. 890=37 I.A. 182 (P.C.). See also 17 A.L.J. 93=57 I.C. 774. (f) where he has insured the whole or any part of the property against loss or damage by fire, he must, in case of such loss or damage, apply any money which he actually receives under the policy or so much thereof as may be necessary, in reinstating the property, or, if the mortgagor so directs, in reduction or discharge of the mortgage-money ;

(g) he must keep clear, full and accurate accounts of all sums received and spent by him as mortgagee, and, at any time during the continuance of the mortgage, give the mortgagor, at his request and cost, true copies of such accounts and of the vouchers by which they are supported ; the mortgaged property after the date of the mortgage. 83 I.C. 188=1925 A. 189. Where the mortgage-deed provided that, if the revenue should be assessed in future, the mortgagor would pay it and would not be entitled to redeem without paying it, the intention of the parties is to make it a charge. Under S. 76 (c) the mortgagee in possession is primarily responsible for payment of the revenue. 25 O.C. 2=1922 O. 91. Mortgagee in possession failing to pay Government revenue—Mortgagor making payment—Liability of mortgagee to reimburse mortgagor. See 24 L.W. 657. Where the mortgagee in possession pays municipal taxes, and there is an agreement that the rent was to be set-off against the principal and interest, he is entitled to set-off the amount paid as municipal taxes in the mortgage accounts so that he can remain in possession till the liquidation of the sum paid as taxes. 163 I.C. 55=1936 P. 312.

Sec. 76 (d).—The duty to make the necessary repairs is a paramount one, and he will be held accountable to the mortgagor for loss caused by non-repair at time of redemption. 15 M. 290. Mortgagee can recover reasonable costs for improvements effected. 43 B. 69=20 Bom.L.R. 895=47 I.C. 751. Failure to keep accounts of repairs will not be fatal to a claim for compensation. 37 I.C. 125=99 P.R. 1916. The price of old materials should be reduced from the cost of improvements. 28 I.C. 375=105 P.L.R. 1915. Usufructuary mortgagee of a house cannot claim sums spent by him for ordinary repairs, because he is bound to pay all normal expenses from rents and profits. 1929 A. 348. An usufructuary mortgagee who claimed compensation in respect of improvements effected by him such as building of a granary, payment of increased water-tax and introduction of water pipes, is not entitled to the same as (1) the granary being a movable structure can be removed by him, (2) the increased water-tax paid would fetch an increased rent, and (3) the introduction of water pipes is not a 'substantial repair' within the meaning of S. 76, Cl. (d), so as to make the mortgagor liable for the same. 15 M.L.T. 375=22 I.C. 635.

Sec. 76 (e).—The question of waste cannot be gone into in an application for restitution nor be the subject-matter of a separate suit. 88 I.C. 521=1925 O. 654. See also 8 I.C. 466 (Bur.). A mortgagee in possession is entitled to cut down trees which he had planted on the land after entering into possession, unless his act is destructive or permanently injurious to the property. 28 Bom.L.R. 1258=50 B. 692. Mortgagee cutting trees—Suit for damages by mortgagor—Maintainability. See 112 I.C. 434 (Oudh). This rule being based on equity and reason applies also to cases not governed by the T.P. Act. 24 M. 47 (F.B.).

Sec. 76 (f).—Section applies only where the insurance is made by the mortgagee, but where the insurance was effected by the Court through the receiver during suit on the mortgage, the money received may be directed to be laid out as Court pleases. 40 I.C. 623.

Sec. 76 (g): ACCOUNTS.—The liability of the mortgagee to render accounts is well recognized even before the coming into force of the T.P. Act. 155 I.C. 22=1935 P. 148. Cls. (g) and (h), S. 76, are not qualified by any such proviso as 'in the absence of a contract to the contrary'; therefore they apply in all cases, contract or no contract to the contrary, excepting those in which S. 77 makes them inapplicable. Hence every mortgagee in possession is bound to account under S. 76 (h), unless he establishes a contract in terms of S. 77. 1935 P. 148; 1942 O.W.N. 585;

(h) his receipts from the mortgaged property, or, where such property is personally occupied by him, a fair occupation-rent in respect thereof, shall, after deducting the expenses [1][properly incurred for the management of the property and the collection of rents and profits and the other expenses] mentioned in clauses (c) and (d), and interest thereon, be debited against him in reduction of the amount (if any) from time to time due to him on account of interest [2][* *] and, so far as such receipts exceed any interest due, in reduction or discharge of the mortgage-money, the surplus, if any, shall be paid to the mortgagor ;

1941 O.A. 1062. But it cannot be laid down as a hard and fast rule that whenever a mortgagee has failed in the obligation imposed on him by S. 76 (g), he must necessarily be made liable on the basis of the gross rental, unless a presumption that all the tenants have paid their rents may not be justified. When the mortgagee is made liable for the rental, he should be allowed the costs of the collection. 9 Luck. 456=1934 O. 104. But this would not justify the Court in accepting without any examination any evidence which may be offered by the mortgagor. 63 I.C. 598. Mortgagees in possession cannot be deprived of their claim regarding expenses incurred even after a valid tender, because the tender was not accepted. 44 M.L.J. 534=1923 M. 533. So also they cannot be deprived of interest in cases where the mortgagee reasonably and bona fide does not accept a tender. 17 I. C. 368=1912 M.W.N. 1175. Where an usufructuary mortgagee failed to keep such accounts as are required of a mortgagee in possession, the Court is justified in view of the provisions of S. 76 (g) in disallowing in toto his claim for interest. 37 C. W.N. 420=1933 P.C. 85=64 M.L.J. 298 (P.C.). Although mortgagee may hold possession as lessee also, he is not absolved from duty of keeping accounts. 6 M.I.A. 393 (422). A person entering into possession of mortgaged property as a purchaser in an execution sale under a money decree against the mortgagor, is in possession under a title derived from the mortgagor whose title is divested; and if such a purchaser subsequently acquires the right of a mortgagee, he does not thereby acquire any right to possession qua mortgagee. So long as he does not enforce or execute the mortgage and is in possession throughout qua auction-purchaser, he is not liable to account for the profits of the property during the period he has been in possession. I.L. R. 1936 N. 19=1936 N. 293. The accounts must be separate for each mortgage. 14 B. 19. As to scrutiny and examination of accounts, see 26 B. 363; 11 B. 78.

Sec. 76 (h).—See 1941 Mad. 549—(1941) 1 M. L. J. 484; 1935 P. 148. For S. 76 (h), to be applicable the possession of the mortgagee must be qua mortgagee, and it must be proved that the mortgagee had received possession by virtue of the agreement of mortgage. It has no application where the mortgagee is in possession as a tenant on rent under a lease which has nothing whatever to do with the mortgage. 22 Pat.L.T. 230=1941 Pat. 296; 19 O.C. 328=37 I.C. 23; 5 Pat.L.J. 492=58 I.C. 291. The liability of mortgagee in possession under S. 76 (h) to give credit for the receipts after deducting the expenses and interest, in the account is absolute unless the case comes within the purview of S. 77 and the parties would not be at liberty to contract themselves out of the statutory liability. 1931 A.L.J. 977=1931 A. 562 (F.B.). Mortgagee in possession letting premises and making large profits is liable to account to mortgagor. 10 Pat.L.T. 487. See also I.L. R. (1937) 2 Cal. 181. Where a mortgagee in possession has to file suits for recovery of rent from tenants, it is an act of management and hence expenses incurred in connection therewith are recoverable under S. 76 (h). 16 Luck. 812=1941 O.W.N. 768=1941 Oudh 498. Ordinarily a suit for accounts upon a mortgage cannot be maintained by the mortgagor unless he asks for redemption. 47 I.C. 21. Where there is an agreement between the parties, the mortgagee is not bound to account for the profits. 25 M.L.J. 561=21 I.C. 701; 53 C.L.J. 380. When the mortgagee in possession has no accounts, he is to be debited with fair occupation rent and credited with simple interest on the mortgage-debt. 48 C. 22=39 M.L.J. 147=47 I.A.

(i) when the mortgagor tenders, or deposits in manner hereinafter provided, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage, the mortgagee must, notwithstanding the provisions in the other clauses of this section, account for his [1][* *] receipts from the mortgaged property from the date of the tender or from the earliest time when he could take such amount out of Court, as the case may be [2][and shall not be entitled to deduct any amount therefrom on account of any expenses incurred after such date or time in connection with the mortgaged property].

Loss occasioned by his default.

If the mortgagee fail to perform any of the duties imposed upon him by this section, he may, when accounts are taken in pursuance of a decree made under this chapter, be debited with the loss, if any, occasioned by such failure.

Receipts in lieu of interest.

77. Nothing in section 76, clauses (b), (d), (g) and (h), applies to cases where there is a contract between the mortgagee and the mortgagor that the receipts from the mortgaged property shall, so long as the mortgagee is in possession of the property, be taken in lieu of interest on the principal money, or in lieu of such interest and defined portions of the principal.

Sec. 76 (i).—The conflict of rulings between the Madras and the Allahabad High Courts [vide 47 M. 7 and 5 I.C. 529] has been set at rest by the amendment in the section, favouring the Allahabad view that the mortgagee would not be entitled to the expenses incurred after tender of deposit. Even after a tender of deposit the mortgagee, continues as mortgagee, but with a statutory liability to account for the profits received by him from that date. The liabilities of the mortgagee in such a case have to be determined once and for all in the redemption suit and cannot be determined in a separate suit. A second suit for mesne profits is therefore not sustainable under S. 14, Explanation IV and O. 2, R. 2, C.P. Code, after a suit for redemption is brought. 2 R. 382=84 I.C. 395.

cient to say that the profits will go in discharge of interest. 11 O.W.N. 524=1934 O. 220. But it does not necessarily follow that simply because the rate of interest is mentioned, the parties must have intended that there was to be accounting. Where the sub-mortgagor recited that he would repay the amount borrowed with interest at a certain rate, that he was put in possession, that after payment of Rs. 95 for Government revenue yearly out of the profits, he would appropriate the balance in payment of interest, the sub-mortgagor is not entitled to ask for an account. 1934 Oudh 220. See also 1929 P. 571. Where there is no provision in a mortgage-deed that the interest be not a charge on the property, but an undertaking is given by the mortgagor that he would make good to the mortgagee any deficiency in interest from his other properties, any shortage in profits, while the mortgagee is in possession of the property can be claimed by him but only he cannot claim interest on the shortage. 16 Luck. 812=1941 O.W.N. 768=1941 Oudh 498. S. 77 only comes in where the mortgagor is from the outset safe from being confronted at the time of redemption with a demand for anything more than the principal sum advanced. It does not cover the case in which only a part of the interest is to be paid out of the usufruct. 155 I.C. 22=1935 P. 148. A provision for payment of portion of income to mortgagor is valid, legal and binding. 41 M. 959=55 M.L.J. 489. So also a provision that the mortgagee must pay the land revenue whether profit or loss occurs. 23 I.C. 131 =10 N.L.R. 9. See also 46 A. 633. An usufructuary mortgage-deed provided that the mortgagee would be entitled to appropriate in lieu of interest the profits remaining after the payment of Government revenue and malikhana to the malikhanadars and that all profits from increased incomes would go to the mortgagee. The mortgagee made profits by not paying malikhana to the malikhanadars. In a suit for redemption of the mortgage, the mortgagee is not bound to account in respect of the malikhana. 7 P. 44. See also 46 A. 633 =12 A.L.J. 579=1924 A. 591; 114 I.C. 473=1929 P. 37 (as to taking of accounts in case of redemption of usufructuary mortgage). Undertaking by mortgagor—Covenant to pay amount of decree for profits—Stipulation regarding land acquisition amount—Whether can be taken into account. 37 C.W.N. 457=1933 P.C. 136 (P.C.).

Sec. 78.—S. 78 is an exception to the general rule that the prior mortgagee takes precedence over the subsequent mortgagee. The onus of proving gross neglect lies on the subsequent mortgagee who asserts exception to the general rule. 63 C. 880= 1936 C. 283. S. 78 applies in cases of prior and subsequent mortgagees, and not to the case of a prior mortgagee and subsequent purchaser. 150 I.C. 145=1934 O. 283. Principle of section is that where a person holding a prior title connives at or assists in a fraud for the creation of a subsequent title without notice of the prior estate, the prior title is postponed to the subsequent one. See 18 B. 444; 15 C.W. N. 813.

PRIORITY.—If priority could be pleaded as a defence, it could be claimed in a suit as well. 34 A. 102=12 I.C. 607=8 A.L.J. 1289. Fraud is not always necessary to bring a case under this section. 34 I.C. 115=43 C. 1052; 23 S.L.R. 97=112 I.C. 722; 6 R. 423=111 I.C. 105; 4 R. 238. As to failure to search in the Registration office, see 47 I.C. 774. "Gross neglect," meaning. 1928 R. 136; 56 C. 868; 63 C. 880=1936 C. 283. Gross negligence does not mean negligence amounting to fraud. 15 M. 268. Neglect is apparently something different from fraud; it may include honest inadvertence. Neglect is to be determined in every case on its own facts and no precedent can serve as a safe guide. 1940 Lah. 269; 43 C. 1052 (1083); 1929 Rang. 65; 12 M. 429; 15 M. 268; 1929 Lah. 314=118 I.C. 655. It would be 'gross neglect' within the meaning of S. 78, if a prior mortgagee has by any act or omission enabled the mortgagor to deal with the property as if it is not encumbered. Where a mortgagee has failed to secure the title-deeds and has permitted the mortgagor to delay the registration of his mortgage, a subsequent mortgagee who on the strength of the title-deeds produced, and on reference to the encumbrance certificate, advanced money is entitled to priority. 46 L. W. 778=1938 Mad. 87; 1938 M. 161. In proof of gross negligence, all that is necessary to show is not direct and positive fraud, but lack of good faith in the sense of due care and attention. 30 N.L.R. 196 =1934 N. 29. The mortgagee parting with the title-deeds relating to the properties when he had sufficient reasons to think that the mortgagor required them for the purpose of effecting a sale of the properties, is guilty of negligence under S. 78

79. If a mortgage made to secure future advances, the performance of an engagement or the balance of a running account, expresses the maximum to be secured thereby, a subsequent mortgage of the same property shall, if made with notice of the prior mortgage, be postponed to

Mortgage to secure uncertain amount when maximum is expressed.

of the Act in having allowed the mortgagor to defraud a purchaser, but no estoppel under S. 115, Evidence Act, arose against the mortgagee in favour of the purchaser. 1936 M.W.N. 871=1937 M. 195. Slight negligence cannot be construed as gross negligence. 8 M. 200; 1929 L. 314. A mortgagee who allows the mortgagor to remain in possession of the mortgaged property as a tenant, is not guilty of gross negligence within the meaning of S. 78. 42 P.L.R. 265=1940 Lah. 308. It is not ordinarily obligatory for a person who takes a registered mortgage to secure the title-deeds of the properties mortgaged and ordinarily his registered mortgage is sufficient protection to him. 1935 R. 26. The omission on the part of a subsequent mortgagee who lends money bona fide in ignorance of the claim of a prior mortgagee, to call for the title-deeds is not by itself sufficient to postpone his claim to that of the prior mortgagee, when the latter has not the custody of the title-deeds. It is only in favour of the person in possession of the title-deeds that the doctrine of constructive notice can be invoked on the ground of the omission of the other party to call for the title-deeds. 47 L.W. 40=1938 Mad. 161. For the application of the section, it is necessary to prove that the fraud, misrepresentation or gross neglect of the prior mortgagee was the proximate cause for the advance of money by the subsequent mortgagee. 1933 A.L.J. 16=1933 A. 299=146 I.C. 488: 1935 L. 108. Failure to obtain possession of title-deeds by a first mortgagee cannot be held to amount to such "gross neglect" as would postpone him to a second mortgagee under S. 78. 1930 R. 246 (2); 1936 R. 152. Where the possession of the title-deeds is an essential part of the earlier encumbrancer's security, then, if he having got the title-deeds allows them by negligence to be again, without sufficient reason, in the possession of the mortgagor, he will be postponed to a subsequent encumbrancer to whom they are delivered. 63 C. 880=165 I.C. 332=1936 C. 283. The omission on the part of the prior mortgagee to enquire about the original redemption certificate cannot be deemed gross negligence. 36 C.W.N. 420=1932 C. 589. It is no part of the duty of a mortgagee to keep an account of what the mortgagor himself was doing with his equity of redemption. It is fundamentally erroneous to talk of a mortgagee who is out of time in discovering that the equity of redemption has been assigned, as a person who had been guilty of negligence or laches. 38 C.W.N. 124=1934 C. 421. Where in a mortgage created by deposit of title-deeds the mortgagor deposits all deeds showing his title but does not deposit other material deeds, the mortgagee cannot be held guilty of any gross neglect so as to postpone him to a subsequent mortgage. 1930 L. 920. Where a mortgage is prior in date and has been validly registered within the time allowed by the law, it cannot be postponed to a subsequent mortgage, merely because the prior mortgagee had omitted to get his mortgage registered until after the execution of a subsequent mortgage. 60 C. 225=1933 C. 398. Misrepresentation does not mean fraudulent misrepresentation. 43 C. 1052=34 I.C. 115. Section makes fraud, misrepresentation and gross negligence quite disjunctive; they are not in any way co-extensive. They are three different kinds of conduct, each of which would make the section applicable. See 43 C. 1052=34 I.C. 115; 15 M. 268 (275); 1928 S. 179. See also 1929 R. 298; 30 N.L.R. 196=1934 N. 29.

ABSTENTION FROM ENQUIRY FOR TITLE-DEEDS.—In a place where one knows that mortgages by deposit of title-deeds are legal and usual it would amount to notice of mortgage under S. 3 of the Act. Where the vendor on being asked to produce the title-deed by the vendee said he had not got it and the purchaser did not enquire what happened to the deed and it appeared subsequently that the title deeds had been deposited with another person in order to create an equitable mortgage, the vendee must be fastened with notice of the mortgage and the purchase is to be subject to the mortgage. 31 C.W.N. 703=1927 C. 538. See further 7 I.C. 810=20 M.L.J. 979. A mortgage executed in satisfaction of a prior mortgage decree has priority over a mesne incumbrancer. 33 A. 368=9 I.C. 205; 7 I.C. 468 =7 A.L.J. 984. A suit in respect of priority is governed by Art. 132 of the Limitation Act. 23 I.C. 448=17 O.C. 38. Where the first mortgagee of two villages did not appeal against a decree subordinating his rights over one of the villages to those of a second mortgagee, he is not prevented from enforcing his full rights over the other village. 37 A. 474=42 I.A. 163=29 M.L.J. 159 (P.C.). The prior mortgagee would lose his priority when he joins with the mortgagor to induce the second mortgagee to believe that the property was free from encumbrances. 15 C.W.N. 813=21 M.L.J. 936 (P.C.). See also 49 A. 233=1927 A. 211; 33 I.C. 112 (C.). The same principle would apply where a certain mortgaged property was described wrongly and was purchased by a third party. The purchaser will not be bound by the mortgage. 15 I.C. 335. See also on this section. 11 O.L.J. 381=1924 O. 85; 20 L.W. 651=1925 M. 129=82 I.C. 846.

A mortgages Sultanpur to his bankers, B & Co., to secure the balance of his account with them to the extent of Rs. 10,000. A then mortgages Sultanpur to C, to secure Rs. 10,000, C having notice of the mortgage to B & Co., and C gives notice to B & Co., of the second mortgage. At the date of the second mortgage, the balance due to B & Co., does not exceed Rs. 5,000. B & Co. subsequently advance to A sums making the balance of the account against him exceed the sum of Rs. 10,000. B & Co. are entitled, to the extent of Rs. 10,000, to priority over C.

NOTES.

S. 93. Under this section an intermediate mortgagee with notice of a prior mortgage is postponed so far as regards further advances which are subsequently made on the security of the prior mortgage, provided the prior mortgage expresses a maximum, which is not exceeded. 1 P.L.T. 582=58 I.C. 489=1920 P. 261; 17 I.C. 927=16 C.L.J. 394. For future advances to have priority there must be a maximum fixed and future advance must be limited to that maximum. 1 R. 635 =45 M.L.J. 505=51 C. 86=1923 P.C. 211 (P.C.). Where a mortgage is executed by way of continuing security for the payments of all debts due and thereafter may be due by the mortgagor and a subsequent mortgagee takes the mortgage of the same property with knowledge of the prior mortgage and the prior mortgagee thereafter does not make any advances, the prior mortgagee is entitled to priority not only in respect of principal sum but also interest accruing on it. As there are no advances by prior mortgagee after execution of subsequent mortgage, S. 79 does not apply and hence a statement that the maximum principal amount secured by the prior mortgage was not fixed at certain amount for purpose of S. 79 will not disentitle the first mortgagee to priority in respect of interest on that sum. 1938 A.L.J. 658=1938 A. 473. The maximum amount may either be express or gathered by implication. 17 I.C. 927. Where a deed states that a lease has been granted for a number of years upon an annual rent and recites that the lessees hypothecated the properties for the payment of the rent, "till the subsistence of the aforesaid thica" the aggregate rent payable under the lease can be determined by a simple calculation and the deed expresses the maximum to be secured thereby within the meaning of the section. 9 P. 816=1931 P. 33. Where in a family partition certain debts were allotted to the share of each member, creating a charge over the share of each to a fixed maximum and subsequently one member mortgaged his share, the mortgagee could sell the share only subject to the prior charge created by the partition deed. 70 I.C. 362=41 M.L.J. 282. Section applies to a mortgage as well as charge. See also 14 L.W. 559.

Sec. 81: SCOPE.—See 1941 Pesh. 49 (applicability of section to N.W.F. Province). As to applicability, see 9 I.C. 725; 38 I.C. 542. Under S. 81 a subsequent mortgagee has the right to claim marshalling against the prior mortgagee. 1935 R. 139. Object of section is to protect subsequent mortgagees in respect of properties mortgaged to them being sold to satisfy a prior mortgage, when the prior mortgagee has other properties also mortgaged to him which could be sold to satisfy his dues. See 1924 P. 459=3 P. 522=78 I.C. 796. The undoubted right of a mortgagee to release any part of his security cannot be lost or be made subject to the right of marshalling given by S. 81. The right given by S. 81 is expressly made subject to the condition that there should be no prejudice to the rights of the first mortgagee. Where the first mortgagee releases one of two properties mortgaged to him and subsequently sues for the amount due to him by sale of the other property included in his mortgage, the subsequent mortgagee of the latter property is not entitled to invoke the doctrine of marshalling and to ask the other property not mortgaged to him to be sold before the property mortgaged to him, because it is impossible for the first mortgagee to ask for the sale of the released item of property, it being no longer subject to his mortgage. 1938 M. 503=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 310. Where two properties have been mortgaged to a person who has obtained a decree on the mortgage, and one of them has been subsequently mortgaged to another, the latter would come within S. 81, and can claim a right to marshall provided the exercise of such right is not to the prejudice of the prior mortgagee or of any other person having interest in any of the properties. But where the property is found not to be worth anything like the amount due under the mortgage, the subsequent mortgagee has no right of marshalling, because to compel the prior mortgagee to sell that property first would be prejudicial to him. 1941 P.W.N. 582. S. 81 applies to mortgages of immovable property and not to the hypothecation of movables. 14 R. 198=1936 R. 266. Second mortgagee of part of property covered by first mortgage, acquiring mortgagor's right in that part—His right of marshalling. 1937 Rang.L.R. 13. The section applies only to subsequent mortgagees and not to subsequent purchasers. 130 I.C. 817=1931 N. 91. See also 1930 A. 634 (as to auction-purchasers seeking to preserve mortgaged property from sale). In the case of the representative of the mortgagor himself no question of contribution arises. 79 I.C. 69 =1924 A. 929. Decree-holder mortgagee can sell in any order in the absence of direction in the decree. 45 M.L.J. 722=47 M. 688=83 I.C. 852. See also 1930 M. 178. The Court has a discretion to make orders for exclusion of any property from Court-sale, if the circumstances of the case require. 41 C. 418. The words " but not so as to prejudice the rights of the prior mortgagee " cannot be construed as giving the prior mortgagee a right to have the properties mortgaged to him sold in any order that he may prefer. 40 C.W.N. 1173. The purchaser of the property in execution of his mortgage decree is entitled to enforce the rights of marshalling against a prior mortgagee so long as that prior mortgage is not extinguished. 3 P. 522=1924 P. 459. See also 1929 M.W.N. 629; 42 C.W.N. 502. But see 1929 A. 309 following 22 A. 284. Certain property consisting of two items was subject to successive mortgages. One of the puisne mortgagees brought a suit and purchased one item in execution. He subsequently obtained an assignment of a decree passed in favour of a prior mortgagee in respect of the other item. As assignee decree-holder, he applied for execution against the other item alone. By the purchase of one of the items, the mortgage had been discharged pro tanto and the assignee-decree-holder could proceed against the other item, only for the proportionate value of the debt in relation to the mortgage-debt; and an objection of this nature could be taken in execution by the puisne mortgagee. 141 I.C. 366 (M.); 69 M.L.J. 303; 42 C.W.N. 502. The provisions of this section as to marshalling cannot be availed of to the prejudice of the prior mortgagee, so as to defeat or unduly delay or prejudice his rights. See 29 M. 217 at 223-4; 18 B. 160; 1930 L. 731; or to the prejudice of third parties. 18 B. 160. The material time for the exercise of the right of marshalling is the time when the prior mortgagee seeks to realise his mortgage amount. If at that time there is already a person who has acquired for valuable consideration an interest in the property not mortgaged to the second mortgagee then the right of marshalling does not exist. Primarily the right of marshalling is a right given against a mortgagor. The right is not enforced against a mortgagee or purchaser of the other estate and the right of such a mortgagee or purchaser not to be marshalled does not depend upon whether he had notice of the second mortgage. 54 M. 59=60 M.L.J. 69.

82. [1][Where property subject to a mortgage belongs to two or more persons having distinct and separate rights of ownership therein, the different shares in or parts of such property owned by such persons are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, liable to contribute rateably to the debt secured by the mortgage, and, for the purpose of determining the rate at which each such share or part shall contribute, the value thereof shall be deemed to be its value at the date of the mortgage after deduction of the amount of any other mortgage or charge to which it may have been subject on that date.]

NOTICE.—Under this section as amended, it is not necessary that the subsequent mortgagee should have no notice of the prior mortgagee to exercise the rights under the section. 23 C. 790; 33 I.C. 815; 34 I.C. 338; 31 M. 419; 1925 P.H.C.C. 239; 1926 P. 94; 1929 A. 309; 1930 P. 442 and 51 M. 648=55 M.L.J. 358 are not now good-law.

Secs. 81, 82 and 101.—Under S. 81 before the amendment, a subsequent mortgagee who has notice of a prior mortgage, cannot claim marshalling as against the prior mortgagee who is entitled to recover the entire mortgage debt from every item of the properties mortgaged to him. A puisne mortgagee who is not entitled to claim the benefit of marhsalling does not get any higher rights than the mortgagor, under S. 75 of the Act, before the amendment. 46 L.W. 555= 1937 M. 965.

Sec. 82: OBJECT.—Where several properties are mortgaged to secure one debt, such properties should contribute rateably for payment of such debt, the valuation for such purpose being made after deducting from each property or estate the amount of any other encumbrances by which such estate is affected at the date of the mortgage. In such cases the law requires equality. See 26 A. 407 (pp. 416, 436-7). S. 82 can apply while the mortgage is still subsisting; but it applies even more when the mortgage has been paid off out of some only of the properties mortgaged, and the owner or the person interested in the properties from which the mortgage has been paid off has a right to claim contribution from the owner of other properties which were liable under the mortgage but which were not called upon to pay it off. 44 Bom.L.R. 15. The English rule of equitable apportionment which is a rule between subsequent mortgagees can have no application to a case where the parties are a subsequent mortgagee and a purchaser of a property for valuable consideration free from encumbrances. 1941 P.W.N. 582.

SCOPE.—A mortgage by seven persons of their shares in different properties cannot be treated

Where, of two properties belonging to the same owner, one is mortgaged to secure one debt and then both are mortgaged to secure another debt, and the former debt is paid out of the former property, each property is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, liable to contribute rateably to the latter debt after deducting the amount of the former debt from the value of the property out of which it has been paid.

as seven entirely separate mortgages. It is open to the mortgagee to recover his debts from any one or more of the shares. The mortgagee does not owe a duty to each mortgagor to sue all other mortgagors or their assignees. 38 C.W. N. 124=1934 C. 421. This section only defines and declares the relations of mortgagors inter se, and does not affect the mortgage-decree-holder's right of selling any one item for the whole amount and realising the same. 45 I.C. 862=20 Bom. L.R. 175; 23 C.W.N. 308=29 C.L.J. 297; 16 O.C. 199=20 I.C. 765. See also 31 A. 65=1 I.C. 5; 35 I.C. 43 (P.); 1935 R. 26; 1932 M.W.N. 1343. [82 I.C. 2=1925 N. 160 (1), holding that relation between co-mortgagors is dealt with in S. 95 (old) and this section deals with relations between mortgagor and mortgagee, is not in accordance with the various amendments to the Act.] 1928 S. 101; 18 C. 320; 29 M. 217=7 C.L.J. 274. A co-mortgagor by paying the mortgage money acquires a charge in regard to the amount paid by him in respect of his co-mortgagors over their shares independently of S. 95, T. P. Act. He gets the rights of the original mortgagee under S. 92 and acquires a charge under Ss. 82 and 100 of the Act. 1942 O.A. 413 (F.B.). Courts cannot introduce any extraneous principle to modify the liability to contribution imposed by S. 82. 16 P. 557=18 P.L.T. 787=1937 P. 628. Where several properties are mortgaged and the sum actually advanced is less than that mentioned in the deed, the equitable method of dealing with this would be to distribute the reduction of principal over each item of property specified at the foot of the mortgage. 33 C.W.N. 1091=1929 P.C. 243 (P.C.). The release of part of the mortgaged property by the mortgagee does not take away as regards that part the liability to contribute which S. 82 imposes upon the different parts. 1942 A.L.J. 463=1942 P.C. 50=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 390 (P.C.). A mortgagee must not release the properties of one of the mortgagors to the detriment of the others. If the mortgagee relinquishes a valuable property for an inadequate consideration, he would not be allowed to throw the burden of the balance upon the other properties. 16 C.L.J. 401=17 I.C. 931; 44 B. 223=55 I.C. 327; 23 C.W.N. 308=50 I.C. 790. See also 15 C.W.N. 800=6 I.C. 842. But see contra 40 M. 968=33 M.L.J. 211 (F.B.); 39 M. 419=29 M.L.J. 319; 25 A. 79; 28 A. 194; 28 A. 19; 29 A. 369, not approved; 19 C.L.J. 590=23 I.C. 426; 43 I.C. 915; 1 P.L.J. 228=36 I.C. 208. (See also cases cited on the point under S. 67.)

APPLICATION OF SECTION.—See 1942 M. 44=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 520. There can be no contribution if the encumbrance is discharged by the very person who is liable for the debt; in such a case he merely pays his own debt as he is bound to. The right to resist the claim to contribution in such a case is expressly saved by the words "in the absence of a contract to the contrary" in S. 82. The section deals with the rights of owners inter se and therefore the contract to the contrary is a contract between them, that is, those liable to contribute. Where one of two persons owning mortgaged properties receives the whole amount to the exclusion of the other, there arises a contract, which need not be express, that the other shall not be liable to contribute. Similarly when each of them receives an equal moiety, a contract must be implied that they shall bear the burden equally. The question how much money one man owes to another must be first determined with reference to the transaction between them, and after that question is determined, one has next to see on which item it can be made a charge with reference to the section. 69 M.L.J. 303. See also 1933 A. 929; 1939 A. 86; 21 P.L.T. 227; 42 C.W.N. 1004=1938 C. 618. But see 131 I.C. 545. The right to contribution presupposes the existence of joint liability. 1933 A. 929. The question of contribution between several subsequent mortgagees can be decided only in a properly framed suit for contribution. 4 P.L.J. 91=1923 P. 199. Plaintiffs who did not ask for a definement of the respective liabilities of the several defendants, are not entitled to a decree for a consolidated amount against the defendants jointly. The defendants could be rendered liable only in proportion to the properties held by them. 1931 A.L.J. 349. The plaintiff cannot claim to fix the whole liability for contribution on only a portion of the mortgaged property. 1930 M. 644. Mortgage over three properties—Mortgagor selling property No. 3 to X—X retaining consideration agreeing to pay off entire mortgage—Mortgagee subsequently buying property No. 1—Liability of property No. 3 for entire mortgage-debt—X not personally liable. 42 C.WN. 1004=1938 C. 618.

PRINCIPLE AND APPLICATION OF SECTION.—The first paragraph of S. 82 enunciates the general rule as regards the apportionment of liability between the several properties whether belonging to one or several owners when they are mortgaged to secure one debt. The provision that the properties are liable to contribute rateably to the debt secured by the mortgage clearly implies that this liability constitutes a charge upon the properties. Further, S. 82 read with S. 100 clearly give rise to a charge against such portions of the mortgaged property as have not discharged their proportionate share of the liability. 1935 O.W.N. 278=1935 O. 245. The equitable doctrine of rateable apportionment, is not excluded by any statutory provision and is applicable in India. 61 M.L.J. 512. The general principles underlying this section are applicable to the Punjab. 1933 L. 374=34 P.L.R. 532. Where several properties, whether of one or several owners, are mortgaged to secure one debt, such properties are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, liable to contribute rateably

Nothing in this section applies to a property liable under section 81 to the claim of the [1][subsequent] mortgagee.

Where such a contract exempting the owner of one property from liability to contribute exists, the other parties are bound by this contract. 101 I.C. 833=1927 M. 1086; 46 A. 286=22 A.L.J. 193. See also 50 A. 569=1928 A. 241; 24 M. 85. All the elements of contract are as much present when a sale takes place in execution of a decree as in ordinary sale. Hence there can be a contract to the contrary even in a sale held in execution of a decree. (27 B. 334, Ref.) 1933 A. 929. Contract to the contrary is not between the mortgagor and one of the purchasers of the equity of redemption, but between the parties liable to contribute. 39 I.C. 405; 20 I.C. 765 =16 O.C. 199; 24 A.L.J. 401=1926 A. 352. See also 96 I.C. 765=24 A.L.J. 714; 46 A. 286 =22 A.L.J. 193: 27 N.L.R. 258. Such a contract should be specifically alleged and proved. 131 I.C. 545. The expression "contract to the contrary" means contract between mortgagor and mortgagee, and not between the mortgagors themselves, nor a subsequent contract between the mortgagors. 35 L.W. 145=1932 M. 218. The expression "contract to the contrary" includes also a contract between the mortgagor and a purchaser of the equity of redemption and can be enforced by the mortgagor or a subsequent purchaser of the equity of redemption or of another portion of the equity of redemption, if the benefit of the contract has been assigned by him. 44 L.W. 447=1936 M. 901: 1936 M. 898; (1940) 2 M.L.J. 484=1941 Mad. 66. Rateable contribution is a charge on property mortgaged and cannot be enforced against the person. 27 A.L.J. 1162=1929 A. 696. It is essential to the accrual of the right of contribution that the whole of the debt in respect of the payment of which contribution is claimed should have been satisfied. 7 O.W.N. 401=1930 O. 260. S. 82 lays down that inter se mortgagors are liable for contribution in proportion to the value of their property which has been included in the joint mortgage, and not merely to the extent of the benefit received. 131 I.C. 545. See also 1942 A.L.W. 500. Where S. 82 governed it is not proper to introduce any extrinsic principle to modify the statutory provisions. 57 I.A. 189= 52 A. 358=59 M.L.J. 177 (P.C.). The right to contribution rests upon the principle that a property which is equally liable with another to pay a debt shall not be relieved of the entire burden of the debt because the creditor has been paid out of that other property alone. There is no distinction in principle between a case where the payment in respect of which contribution is claimed is made to avert a legal process and a case in which payment is enforced by the sale of the property itself. The liability to contribute is imposed upon the property and is not personal. (1942) 2 M.L.J. 525 (F.B.). Value for purposes of contribution—Mode of ascertainment. 59 I.A. 106=62 M.L.J. 492 (P.C.).

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—Where a purchaser of part of the mortgaged properties pays off a mortgage debt to which all the properties are subject, the owner of another part of the mortgaged properties, who seeks to redeem his share of the properties, is liable to contribute the proportionate share of the debt. But a claim to such contribution which is barred by limitation cannot be pleaded in bar of redemption. 41 L. W. 730=68 M.L.J. 362. Where the equity of redemption vests partly in a prior and partly in a subsequent mortgagee, neither the former can be compelled to redeem the whole nor the latter to give up his interest in the share of the mortgage. 20 A.L.J. 583=44 A. 708. Where the owner of one of the items pays up the whole mortgage amount, the owners of the other items must contribute rateably. 36 A. 272=23 I.C. 339; 35 I.C. 43; 159 I.C. 1049=1936 O. 169. So also in the case of a charge. 162 I.C. 304= 1936 M. 293. Where the mortgagee recovers the entire debt out of one item, an alienee from the mortgagor of that item can recover contribution from the persons who hold the other items included in the mortgage. 1931 A.L.J. 1073. Where properties belonging to different owners are subject to the same mortgage and one owner pays the whole, he is entitled to a charge over the other properties for amounts of the debt in proportion to their value. 43 A. 589=63 I.C. 209; 40 M. 968=33 M.L.J. 211 (F.B.); 7 O.W.N. 401=1930 O. 260; 51 I.C. 49 (Pat.). Though ordinarily interest ought to be allowed from the date of payment, if the person entitled to claim contribution unnecessarily delays to claim or sue for contribution, he will not be entitled to interest from that date, but only from the date on which he makes a demand for payment. The Court will allow interest at 6 per cent. 1936 M. 910=71 M.L.J. 651.

RELEASE BY MORTGAGEE.—As to what amounts to a release by the mortgagee, see 1929 A. 889. The owners of parts of the equity of redemption cannot be deprived of their right to contribution under S. 82 by the action of the mortgagee in releasing another portion of the mortgaged property. 162 I.C. 304=1936 M. 293.

Secs. 82 and 60.—If a mortgagee happens to purchase a portion of the mortgaged property, there would be a merger and extinction of liability under the mortgage to that extent, and in the absence of any other circumstances showing that it is for the benefit of the mortgagee to keep his mortgagee's rights alive or that he declares his intention either expressly or by necessary implication that he would keep his subsequently acquired rights distinct from his prior rights which he held as a mortgagee, his right to recover his money under the mortgage, is, on his purchasing the equity of redemption in a portion of the property mortgaged with him, extinguished pro tanto to recover only a porportionate part of the amount due on the mortgage. The principle of S. 82, T. P. Act, should be applied to such a case and the mortgagee should not by his purchas be permitted to improve his position and should be treated in the same manner as stranger would be if he happens to purchase the property and the value of t e property to be taken into account is the value of the property, as it existed on the date of the mortgage unaffected by any subsequent increase in the value on account of improvements or any subsequent decrease in value. The words "remaining due" in the last paragraph of S. 60, T. P. Act, are, to some extent, misleading, and must not be taken too literally. 1942 M. 41=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 520.

Secs. 82 and 100.—Where the payment of certain maintenance allowances are charged upon two properties and by their own negligence the charge holders allow their remedy to be lost as against one of the properties, they could not claim as against the other property to recover anything more than a proportionate share of the original maintenance charge. 192 I.C. 327= 1940 O.W.N. 1249=1940 O. 203.

Sec. 83.—[See also Notes to S. 84.] S. 83 deals with the right to deposit in Court and not with the right to redeem by payment direct to the mortgagee or the right to bring an action for redemption. A purchaser of the mortgaged property from the widow of the mortgagor, whose sale is not effective on account of invalid registration, although precluded from proving his purchase, may establish his undertaking to pay off the subsisting mortgage by the deed. 13 P. 111 =1934 P. 127. S. 83 provides a special privilege and in order to claim its benefit, the mortgagor

The Court shall thereupon cause written notice of the deposit to be served on the mortgagee, and the mortgagee may, on presenting a petition (verified in manner prescribed by law for the verification of plaints) stating the amount then due on the mortgage, and his willingness to accept the money so deposited in full discharge of such amount, and on depositing in the same Court the mortgage-deed [1][and all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property], apply for and receive the money, and the mortgage-deed [2][and all such other documents] so deposited shall be delivered to the mortgagor or such other person as aforesaid.

Right to money deposited by mortgagor.

[3][Where the mortgagee is in possession of the mortgaged property, the Court shall, before paying to him the amount so deposited, direct him to deliver possession thereof to the mortgagor and at the cost of the mortgagor either to re-transfer the mortgaged property to the mortgagor or to such third person as the mortgagor may direct or to execute and (where the mortgage has been effected by a registered instrument) have registered an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of the mortgagor's interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished.]

must come strictly within the provisions of that section. Thus the deposit has to be made to the credit of the mortgagee or mortgagees. Such deposits would be invalid if the mortgagor associates with the real mortgagee, some third person who is not entitled to any share in the mortgage-money. 50 A. 655=1928 A. 311=26 A.L.J. 394. Interest has got to be calculated only up to the date of the deposit, and not till the date when the notice required by the section might be served on the mortgagee. 1937 A.L.J. 757=1937 A. 706. In cases where the mortgage-deed provides for a rate of interest which is penal and unenforceable, the mortgagee would be entitled to a reasonable compensation, and the amount legally due is only what the Court finds it to be. If amount deposited is found to be what the Court thinks reasonable, then the deposit is valid and interest ceases to run. The mortgagee always acts in peril in such cases in declining to receive the amount deposited. The mere fact of the withdrawal of the amount deposited by the mortgagor when the mortgagee declines to accept it does not per se prevent interest from ceasing to run unless the mortgagee shows that the mortgagor was either not willing or not able to pay because he had utilised the moneys for other purposes. 1939 M. 503=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 324. A deposit after a suit on the mortgage has been instituted with an insufficient court-fee and before the plaint has been re-presented with sufficient court-fee is not a good and valid deposit. 48 L.W. 929=1939 M. 200. Where the mortgage-deed contains a stipulation that the mortgage could be discharged only beyond the fruit season, a deposit while the fruit season is still on is not invalid, when the mortgage is in lieu of interest, and the mortgagor does not make a condition of the deposit that the mortgagee is to take out the money forthwith in satisfaction of his dues. 45 C.W.N. 174=1941 C. 18. A deposit does not cause an extinction of the security as if there has been valid satisfaction. That result can follow only when the mortgagee applies for and receives the money. If, therefore, the deposit made by the mortgagor is drawn out by somebody who is not entited to it and is not available to the mortgagee when he applies for its withdrawal the deposit does not extinguish the mortgagee's right to enforce the mortgage. 45 C.W.N. 174 =1941 Cal. 18. Where the defendants 1 and 2 had allowed the property to stand benami in the names of defendants 3 to 7 in the record of rights and the mortgagor made the deposit to the credit of not only defendants 1 and 2 but also defendants 3 to 7, the deposit is valid and he is entitled to mesne profits from date of deposit. 15 P.L.T. 689=1934 P. 622. The deposit must be unconditional. 14 M. 49; 22 B. 761; 29 I.C. 586. Demand of receipt for moneys paid and delivery of title-deeds to which mortgagor would be entitled on payment of the debt would not make the deposit conditional or invalid. 17 M. 267. See also 4 O.C. 355. Even if the deposit be considered as valid, it cannot be treated as if the condition attached to it does not exist. The mortgagee is entitled to accept the money only subject to the condition. 184 I.C. 225=1940 P. 18. Deposit must be made in the Court in which suit for redemption can be instituted or suit for enforcement of the security can be laid. 35 M. 209=10 I.C. 393. See also 4 O.C. 307. S. 83 applies not only to a suit on a mortgage, but also to a suit to enforce a charge, such as for arrears of maintenance. 11 O.W.N. 1550 =1935 O. 93.

WHO CAN MAKE DEPOSIT.—Deposit may be made by mortgagor or any person who can institute a suit for redemption, as owner of part of the mortgaged properties can make the deposit. 47 M. 7=44 M.L.J. 534. Agreement to sell does not entitle vendee to deposit mortgage amount. 1926 M.W.N. 459=1926 M. 597. See also 16 M.L.T. 365=26 I.C. 184 (at any rate if the intending purchaser makes the tender conditional on the delivery to him of the title-deeds). JOINT MORTGAGORS.—Where two mortgagors jointly and severally liable to pay the mortgage debt make a deposit under S. 83 to save their property, there is no presumption either that both the mortgagors paid equally or that one paid the whole amount or a portion of it. 1935 C. 728.

TENDER AND DEPOSIT.—In a tender the party decides who is to receive the amount. He should offer it to the right person. In a deposit the Court ought to decide the right person. 40 M. 80 =31 M.L.J. 548. See 1926 O. 113=2 O.W. N. 826. Tender need not always be through Court. Interest will cease to run from the time of a valid tender which was refused. 38 I.C. 295=5 L.W. 718; 1929 P. 397. Formal offer or tender is not necessary where it is apparent that the mortgagee would have refused it. 41 M.L.J. 631=46 M. 108=50 I.A. 41 (P.C.). It is necessary that a mortgagor should after tender keep the money ready for payment. 1 P. 350; 1922 O. 17; 1926 O. 113. See also 1 L.W. 595=25 I.C. 96. Where the mortgagor deposits an amount which is adequate except to cover the penalty, the tender is not bad. 28 N.L.R. 149. Even a small deficiency of a few annas due to a bona fide miscalculation will make the tender bad and will not stop the running of interest: 30 M.L.J. 607=34 I.C. 825; 19 A.L.J. 582=63 I.C. 563. See also 33 C.W.N. 279; 1941 M. 484=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 788 (F.B.); also tender of principal alone without interest: 20 A.L.J. 401=44 A. 462; 33 C.W.N. 279; 18 N.L.R. 47. Non-payment of penal interest which was also subsequently disallowed by the Court will make the tender good. 39 M. 579=30 I.C. 497. Tender of greater sum than is due is valid. 51 I.C. 13=29 C.L.J. 256: 45 I.C. 638=34 M.L.J. 439. Even where the mortgagee has purchased a part of the mortgaged property, the deposit must be of the whole amount, where proportionate reduction of the mortgage debt has not been ascertained. 44 M.L.J. 534=1923 M. 533. When the mortgagee is a minor, interest on the deposit will not cease to run till a proper guardian is appointed. 21 A.L.J. 39=45 A. 273; 64 I.C. 413=19 A.L.J. 852; 1922 A. 147; 49 M.L.J. 327=1925 M. 1017; 48 A. 611=96 I.C. 1= 1926 A. 665. See also 22 I.C. 245=16 O.C. 261; 27 B. 23; 44 A. 102. In order to entitle the mortgagor to claim mesne profits from the date of deposit, he has to see that a proper guardian is appointed for minor mortgagees. 124 I.C. 191=1930 A. 609; 1938 M. 405. A mortgagor should not withdraw the deposit till the heirs of the deceased mortgagee are ascertained. 40 M. 807=31 M.L.J. 548. See also 97 I.C. 735=1926 M. 1087. Acceptance of deposit by the mortgagee must be deemed to be acceptance of the amount in full discharge of the mortgage debt. 25 A. 179; 36 C. 840. As to effect of withdrawal by mortgagee's agent, see 36 C. 840=36 I.A. 85 =19 M.L.J. 419 (P.C.). Deposit under this section though refused by the mortgagee does not extinguish the mortgage debt and only interest ceases. 1926 A. 26; 26 B. 643. As to invalid tender, see 30 I.C. 769=1915 M.W.N. 763.

EFFECT OF REFUSAL OF DEPOSIT.—Where the mortgagee refuses to accept the deposit, the mortgagor may apply to and withdraw the money from Court; 73 I.C. 1053=1924 P. 41; 1937 P. 253=170 I.C. 99. Mortgagee cannot change his mind and ask for permission to take out the money as the tender is no longer open. 1923 P. 256=73 I.C. 1053. Interest on deposit will cease to run from the date of deposit even though the mortgagor withdraws the amount on refusal of mortgagee to draw the amount. 44 A. 198= 20 A.L.J. 7. But see contra 1 L.W. 595=25 I.C. 96, or when it could not be drawn, because there are disputes between the mortgagee's heirs. 44 M.L.J. 362=1923 M. 354 (1); 56 I.C. 814=19 O.C. 145. See also 36 M.L.J. 497=1924 M. 559; 46 M.L.J. 74=1924 M. 453. (But see now the proviso added to S. 84). When a deposit has been made in a redemption suit, after decree, the mortgagee must draw the amount, even though an appeal from the decree is pending. The mortgagee must bear the loss if the money lapses to the Government. 16 C.W.N. 793=16 I.C. 830=23 M.L.J. 738 (P.C.). A mortgagee who wrongfully refuses to accept a valid deposit would also be liable to account for rents and profits collected by him. 47 M. 7; 2 R. 382=1925 R. 13. But see 40 C.W.N. 627=1936 C. 200. The relationship of mortgagor and mortgagee subsists even after deposit till the decree in a suit for redemption. 45 A. 592=21 A.L.J. 545. See also 31 B. 527; 1925 R. 13; 40 C.W.N. 627= 162 I.C. 709=1936 C. 200. A mortgagee in possession cannot by merely guessing as to the income he has derived from the property, refuse the tender made by the mortgagor, on the ground that it is a little less than the actual amount due, if he had refused to give accounts to the mortgagor before he made the tender. 99 I.C. 630=1927 N. 138; 1924 P. 41.

SECURITY.—There is no power under this section for the Court to ask for security from any party before allowing him to draw the money from the Court. 1924 P. 41=73 I.C. 1053. Where the mortgagee under a usufructuary mortgage is a member of a joint family consisting of himself, his brothers and his nephews, and the mortgage-money is money belonging to the joint family, the amount must, if the mortgagee is dead, be deposited in the names of the survivors. A deposit in the names of the brothers and nephews who are really interested, as also in the name of the widow of the deceased, is not a good deposit

84. When mortgagor or such other person as aforesaid has tendered or deposited in Court under section 83, the amount remaining due on the mortgage, interest on the principal money shall cease from the date of the tender or [1][in the case of a deposit, where no previous tender of such amount has been made], as soon as the mortgagor or such other person as aforesaid has done all that has to be done by him to enable the mortgagee to take such amount out of Court, [1][and the notice required by section 83 has been served on the mortgagee :

because the survivors of the joint family cannot withdraw the money without the permission of the widow, though she had no interest in the mortgage-money. 20 P.L.T. 167=1939 P. 415. Where after the death of one of the mortgagees, the mortgagor makes a deposit to the account of the surviving mortgagee and the estate of the deceased mortgagee expressly or by necessary implication, impleading his sons and his heirs and it is subsequently found that one of the sons had no right to any part of the mortgage-money, interest ceased to run from the date of the deposit. On the other hand, if the deposit was made to the account of certain persons named and not to the estate of the deceased mortgagee in such a way that only the persons named could recover the amount deposited, interest would not cease to run if some of the persons named were not entitled to the money. I.L.R. (1938) A. 767=1938 A.L.J. 617=1938 A. 423 (F.B.). Where a subsequent mortgagee retains a part of the consideration to discharge a prior mortgage and deposits that amount in Court to the credit of the prior mortgagee, that amount does not become the property of the prior mortgagee unless he complies with the terms of the section and states his willingness to accept it in full discharge of his dues. If he does not do so, the subsequent mortgagee is at liberty to withdraw the money but is not entitled to interest on that amount from the prior mortgagee. 42 C.W.N. 1177.

Sec. 84.—[See notes under S. 83 also.] The amendment of S. 84 has no retrospective effect. I.L.R. (1940) A. 79=1939 A.L.J. 1099=1940 A. 65. As to what is "all that the mortgagor who deposits the amount into Court or tenders it to the mortgagee has to do," see 35 M. 44 ; 27 B. 23 ; 46 M.L.J. 74 ; 44 A. 102 ; 30 I.C. 709. Interest ceases from the date of deposit, and not from the date of receipt of notice by mortgagee. 1923 A. 24. See also 30 M.L.J. 607 ; 70 I.C. 811 ; 50 M.L.J. 468. [The amendment effected by Act XX of 1929 now provide that interest would cease only on the service of notice.] The mortgagor must also see that a guardian of a minor mortgagee is appointed. 44 A. 102 =1922 A. 147 ; 71 I.C. 278=45 A. 273 ; 1925 M. 1017; 27 B. 23. See also 124 I.C. 191=1930 A. 609=1930 A.L.J. 120. The provisions of S. 84 apply, by analogy, to usufructuary mortgages, and a mortgagor on making a deposit of sufficient money due on the mortgage is entitled to recover profits and, simply because the decree for redemption was passed later on, he cannot be treated as trespasser during the dates between the deposit of mortgage-money and of the redemption. 113 I.C. 23=1928 A. 156. Cf. 124 I.C. 191=1930 A. 609 under S. 83. As to accountability, see 1924 N. 285. As to persons entitled to sue for redemption, see S. 91.

TENDER.—Tender must be of the whole amount due on date of tender. 25 Bom.L.R. 839=1924 B. 264. A mortgagee decree-holder is not bound to accept a part-payment of the amount under the decree, and interest does not cease to run by reason of deposit of such amount in Court. 34 P.L.R. 853=1933 L. 685. Where by a mortgage deed of 10—9—1926, the mortgagors covenanted to repay all principal and interest payable under the deed "by the 10th September, 1928," it must be taken to mean that it shall be payable on or before the 10th September, 1928, and therefore a tender of the amount, in June, 1927, of the principal and interest then due, is a valid tender. I. L. R. (1941) M. 767= 1941 M. 484=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 788 (F.B.). A subsequent transferee wanted the mortgagee to accept the sum of Rs. 1,000 either in full satisfaction of the amount due on the mortgage or to release the property sold to him out of the mortgaged property. The transferee had no right to demand either condition and such a conditional tender would not amount to a valid tender. 130 I.C. 817=1931 N. 91. Where the mortgagee refuses to accept a tender not because the amount offered is short but because he maintains that the time for payment has not yet arrived, he must be deemed to have waived the objection as to the correctness of the amount, and cannot later on object on that ground. I.L.R. (1941) M. 767=1941 M. 484=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 788 (F.B.). Offer to give cheque or cash by cashing it, when valid tender. 52 M. 322=56 M.L.J. 255. Mortgagor need not always keep money for payment even after a wrongful refusal of a valid tender. 33 M. 100 (see now proviso to first para., relating to deposits). An offer without production of money is not a good tender. 55 I.C. 991=18 A.L.J. 440 ; 36 A. 139=22 I.C. 659 ; 45 I.C. 106 ; 42 A. 420 ; 22 B. 440. See also 4 L. 406=1923 L. 632. Subrogation.

The right conferred by this section is called the right of subrogation, and a person acquiring the same is said to be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee whose mortgage he redeems.

A person who has advanced to a mortgagor money with which the mortgage has been redeemed shall be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee whose mortgage has been redeemed, if the mortgagor has by a registered instrument agreed that such persons shall be so subrogated.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to confer a right of subrogation on any person unless the mortgage in respect of which the right is claimed has been redeemed in full.]

Act XX of 1929 did not clothe persons who under the previous law obtained only a charge with the rights of a mortgagee. 30 N.L.R. 1=1934 N. 97. Before the new S. 92 came into force an intention to keep alive a prior incumbrance was presumed. But by the amended section, the law has been changed and now there can be no presumption, and the person who has advanced money to a mortgagor, money with which the mortgage has been redeemed, has to prove the existence of a registered agreement of subrogation before he can claim that relief. 11 O.W.N. 618=1934 O. 213. See also 155 I.C. 905=1935 O.W.N. 622. The principles underlying S. 92 ought to be taken as a guide for determining when there is a conflict of authority, what equitable rules with reference to subrogation should be adopted in cases arising prior to the amendment. 39 Bom.L.R. 1309=1938 B. 115. Where there are three successive mortgages, two simple, and a third usufructuary, in favour of the first mortgagee himself and a purchaser of the equity of redemption of such a mortgagor pays off the amount of the decree obtained by the second mortgagee, he is not entitled to claim to be subrogated to the rights of such mortgagee under S. 92. S. 92 uses language which appears to postulate an existing mortgage and not a mortgage which has merged in a decree. I.L.R. (1939) A. 185=1939 A.L.J. 228=1939 A. 190.

SCOPE AND APPLICATION.—The doctrine of subrogation is an equitable doctrine founded on principles of natural justice, by no means confined to S. 92. 9 O.W.N. 387. See also 41 C.W. N. 472=1937 C. 194. The section does not cover the case of a mortgagee paying up his own earlier mortgage but the doctrine is wide enough to govern such a case. 1937 C. 194. Section 92 contains a principle of equity, applicable to N.W. F. Province. 183 I.C. 833=1939 Pesh. 34. Section applies in the case of a co-mortgagor who redeems property subject to the mortgage. 178 I.C. 974=40 Bom.L.R. 1001=1938 B. 508. The principle is that he who removes another's burden steps into the shoes of the person whose rights constitute the burden. 28 N.L.R. 247. Even if general principles of subrogation are applicable in the Punjab, the principle is now embodied in S. 92 and must be applied on the lines indicated there. 42 P.L.R. 812=1941 L. 53. S. 92, T. P. Act, applies only when some one other than the mortgagor has in fact redeemed the property. 1937 C. 336. The "mortgagor" in S. 92, as amended is not limited to person who effected the mortgage but includes those deriving title from him by transfer of his equity. I.L.R. (1938) N. 206=20 N.L.J. 253=1937 N. 372 (F.B.). The doctrine of subrogation has no application when a person simply performs his own obligation, and pays off a charge which he has undertaken to satisfy. 110 I.C. 441=1928 N. 230. See also 43 C. 69=20 C.W.N. 601; 11 O.W.N. 139=1934 O. 129; 1918 M.W.N. 251=44 I.C. 753; 45 M.L.J. 693=1924 M. 103; 1930 A.L.J. 1222 (See now last para. of S. 92.) A right of subrogation cannot be claimed unless the prior mortgage has been redeemed in full. It does not mean that the redemption must be effected entirely by the person claiming subrogation. 18 P. 342=1939 P.W.N. 8=1939 P. 375; 1937 A. 588=1937 A.L.J. 659=I.L.R. (1937) A. 880. As the Court has to pass a final decree, it is clear that the Court is not functus officio when the payment is made and accepted. 146 I. C. 514=29 N.L.R. 183=1933 N. 163. All that is necessary is that the mortgage in respect of which the right is claimed should have been redeemed in full. It is not necessary that the entire amount due on the basis of the mortgage should be paid if the mortgagee agrees to let the mortgage be redeemed on payment of a smaller amount. 158 I.C. 643=1935 A.L.J. 1129. Every subsequent mortgagee who pays off the previous mortgagee succeeds to the entire rights possessed by his predecessors in interest and if those rights include a right of priority, he will be clothed with that right too. 190 I C. 599=1940 L. 269. Where a descendant of a mortgagor is liable at least for a portion of the debt due on that mortgage, and his mother has executed a mortgage as his guardian, during his minority to pay off the entire mortgage-debt, the subsequent mortgagee's right of subrogation is not affected in a prejudicial manner. 171 I.C. 423=1937 O.L.R. 551=1937 O.W.N. 1107. A subsequent mortgagee who redeems a prior mortgage with money left with him for that purpose by the mortgagor is subrogated to the rights of the prior mortgagee under S. 92, though the mortgagor has not by a registered agreement agreed that he shall be so subrogated. 1942 O.W.N. 165=1942 O. 260 (F.B.). Where a person himself redeems a mortgage, that is to say, pays the mortgage-money out of his own pocket and not merely discharges a contractual liability to make the payment, he is entitled to the right of subrogation under the first paragraph of S. 92, if he is one of the persons, other than the mortgagor, enumerated in S. 91. But where such person does not himself redeem the mortgage, that is to say, does not himself pay the money out of his own pocket in excess of his contractual liability but advances money to a mortgagor and the money is utilized for payment of a prior mortgage, whether the money is actually paid through the hands of the mortgagor or is left for such payment in the hands of the person advancing the money and it is then paid to the prior mortgagee through the hands of that person, the latter acquires the right of subrogation under the third paragraph of S. 92, only if the mortgagor has by a registered instrument agreeing that he be subrogated. 44 Bom.L.R. 415. See also 1940 A.L.J. 234=1940 A. 237. But the charge which is created by the decree for rent obtained by the landlord is a right to which the landlord alone is entitled, and there is no right of subrogation in the person advancing money to the mortgagor to pay off the rents. 1934 P. 70. There is a presumption that the holder of a subsequent mortgage who has prior mortgages on the same property would keep alive the prior mortgages if they are for his benefit. But the presumption can be rebutted if the circumstances are such that he could not have intended to hold the prior mortgages alive. The question whether such keeping alive would be for his benefit has to be decided in the light of circumstances existing at the time of the transaction, the onus being on him to prove circumstances leading to the inference that it was in his interest to keep the charges alive. 153 I.C. 870=1935 L. 203. His right to reimbursement arises on the date on which he pays off the prior mortgage. 51 I.C. 549=22 O C. 32; 63 I.C. 604=19 A.L.J. 840. See contra 42 I.C. 496=13 N.L.R. 217. A purchaser of a portion of the mortgaged property by paying the amount to the first mortgagee acquires the rights of the first mortgagee, and he is entitled to use the first mortgage which he has satisfied as a shield against the second mortgage. 144 I.C. 326=1933 N. 171; 13 Luck. 761=1938 O.W.N. 489=1938 O. 127. And no restrictions are placed on the applicability of that section to cases where the money is paid out of the sum left in the hands of the transferee or cases where he has undertaken liability to discharge the previous debt. 1934 A.L.J. 887= 1934 A. 1035. A subsequent mortgagee who advances money or covenants to discharge three prior incumbrances on the property, but pays off only two of them, is not entitled to avail himself of such payment so as to resist the claim of the encumbrancer whom he has not paid off. The covenant indicates an intention that the whole debt was to be extinguished; and since he breaks his contract and pays only two of the three mortgages, he cannot claim subrogation. Under S. 92, there is no right of subrogation unless the mortgagor has, by registered agreement, agreed that the person advancing the money shall be subrogated in respect of the mortgage or mortgages discharged; and when no such agreement is forthcoming, the right of subrogation cannot be allowed. 59 M. 359=70 M.L.J. 1 (F.B.). Where the purchaser of the equity of redemption is made to pay off a first encumbrance which a puisne mortgagee ought to pay as per terms of the puisne mortgage, he can sue the puisne mortgagee for such amount. 19 I.C. 676=11 A.L.J. 478. Where a vendee who had undertaken to pay off prior mortgage under his sale-deed, and obtained possession delayed payment, in consequence of which further interest accrued, the vendee can claim credit for the extra interest when a suit is brought by the subsequent mortgagee. The subsequent mortgagee was not privy to the contract between the mortgagor and the vendee and could not be allowed to take advantage of terms of that contract. 1934 A.L.J. 887=1934 A. 1035. Where there was a prior and later mortgage, and a vendee undertakes to pay off a portion of the prior mortgage, a right to subrogation cannot arise until and unless he proves that he has made the payments undertaken by him to be paid and that the rest of the amount due under the prior mortgage has also been paid. 172 I.C. 301=1938 O. 22. the mortgagee himself or a stranger would be entitled to redeem all the subsisting mortgages on the property and thus acquire an absolute title. 145 I.C. 575=1933 C. 181. Where the puisne mortgagee obtained a decree for sale subject to a prior mortgage, and the mortgagor inherited the rights of the prior mortgagee, he cannot set up the prior mortgage as a shield, but the property will be sold free of incumbrance. 37 A. 309=28 I.C. 973. See also 52 I.C. 159=22 O.C. 72.

RIGHT OF SUBROGEE.—The remedies of the subrogee are not co-extensive with those of the original creditor. The subrogee's remedy is not to bring a suit on the original mortgage. His cause of action for a suit to enforce the right of subrogation would arise from the date when the mortgage or mortgage decree was paid off. 18 Pat. 342=1939 P.W.N. 8=1939 P. 375. It is clear from the first two paragraphs of S. 92, as amended, that the person who is subrogated to the position of a prior mortgagee has the same rights as that mortgagee. He cannot only use the earlier mortgage as a shield but also enforce the rights of the earlier mortgagee. If the case, however, falls under the third paragraph of S. 92, then all that is necessary is that the mortgagor should have agreed by a registered agreement that the person advancing money to him should be subrogated to the position of an earlier mortgagee. Section has merely crystallised the existing law on the subject with this difference that now subrogation will not be granted unless the mortgagor has by registered instrument agreed that the person who has advanced money to him with which the mortgage has been redeemed shall be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee whose mortgage has been redeemed. 19 P. 752=21 P.L.T. 453=1940 P. 385 (F.B.).

Where a dispute relating to a mortgage executed by five brothers was referred to arbitration and an award was passed, if the award be treated as tantamount to a decree of Court superseding the mortgage, the mortgagors become co-judgment-debtors and if one of them has paid off the mortgage debt, he would acquire a right similar to that of a co-mortgagor paying off the mortgage-debt. 127 I.C. 889=1930 N. 300. rights under old S. 95. 17 L.W. 254=1923 M. 392. A purchaser under sale void ab initio is entitled to be subrogated to rights of mortgagee paid off to the extent of the purchase-money, applied in discharge of the mortgage. 1937 N. 330 =I.L.R. (1937) N. 111. But he is not entitled to use such payment as a shield and resist the plaintiff's claim for possession under a valid sale-deed. But he could enforce his rights in proper proceedings taken for the purpose. 1936 A.L.J. 1176=1937 A. 119. A lender might well have a statutory subrogation right under para. (1) as falling within the class delimited by S. 91 and not as being a person who has advanced money, or, he might only have a conventional right of subrogation. In this latter case he would come in only in virtue of para.(3) and then his contract must be in writing registered. I.L.R. (1938) N. 206=1937 N. 372 (F.B.). See also I.L.R. (1937) A. 880. The words in the section 'mortgage has been redeemed' refer merely to the payment off of the mortgage money and not to an extinction of the mortgagee's rights over the mortgaged property. If such rights had become extinguished there would be none to which the person advancing the money would be subrogated. 67 I.A. 82=I.L.R. (1940) 1 C. 291=1940 A.L.J. 550=44 C.W.N. 261= 1940 P.C. 38=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 446 (P. C.). See also 1940 P. 64. Since the amendment, a transferee discharging an incumbrance on the property cannot be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee in the absence of a registered agreement between him and the transferee as required by para. (3) of S. 92. Nor can he get any equitable relief in the form of a charge. (1942) 2 M.L.J. 444. S. 92, para. 4 makes no exception in favour of a person who has been allowed by the mortgagee to redeem the mortgage in part and hence such a person cannot claim to be subrogated, to any proportionate rights. 187 I.C. 274=1940 A. 75.

Secs. 92 and 95.—A person who has acquired a portion of the equity of redemption is in the position of a co-mortgagor with the owner of the remaining portion. If such a person redeems the entire mortgage, he is entitled to the right of subrogation under S. 92 or 95. 188 I.C. 417= 1940 P. 620.

Secs. 92, 82, 85 and 100.—Subrogation being a mere substitution does not create any fresh rights but puts the claimant in the shoes of the cerditor. In a case of subrogation under S. 92, the mortgage that is redeemed is not extinguished but is regarded as assigned to the subrogee. The limitation would be that applicable to the original encumbrance irrespective of the date of its discharge. Right of subrogation may exist with and as a further security to the right of a simple action for reimbursement. The latter right arises not under S. 92 but under S. 82 and S. 85 read with S. 100. 1942 N.L.J. 267. See also 1937 N. 402.

Sec. 93.—The section prohibits tacking. 16 A. 295 ; 8 C.W.N. 699 ; 51 C. 86. This is new and takes the place of old S. 80 now repealed. The words " in the case provided for by S. 79 " do not really mean mortgages to secure future advances or the balance of a running account, but that the mortgages there referred to must express a maximum. The words " to secure future advances, etc. " denominate the different classes of mortgages, but to bring them under S. 79, they must have the common feature of a maximum expressed. The word 'subsequent' means subsequent to the intermediate mortgage, and an advance made after another mortgage becomes a subsequent advance. 45 M.L.J. 505=50 I.A. 283=51 C. 86 (P.C.). An undertaking by a mortgagor who takes a fresh advance that he will not redeem the mortgage until he repaid the advance is legal and enforceable against himself and not against a purchaser. 9 O.L.J. 484= 1923 O. 24. Where a second mortgage provided that " the amount due on it would be paid along with the sum of the first mortgage " and that the second mortgage was to be tacked on to the first, the first mortgage could not be redeemed without redeeming the second. It is possible to tack a simple mortgage upon a usufructuary mortgage. 129 I.C. 550=1931 A. 197.

But if the interest exceeds the profits, he will have to credit the profits towards interest and claim only the balance. 1935 M. 360=68 M.L.J. 717. suit of a subsequent mortgagee who is not bound by the sale or the decree on which it proceeded to set up the first mortgage as a shield. 1934 P. 70.

Sec. 95.—Prior to the amendment, a co-mortgagor who redeems the mortgage is not subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee whom he redeems but has only the rights conferred on him by S. 95 as it stood then (i.e.), to contribution from each of his own co-mortgagors. I.L.R. (1941) N. 434=1941 N.L.J. 439. The section has been amended in such a way that Ss. 92 and 95 as they now stand make it clear that a co-mortgagor redeeming has the "same right as the mortgagee, whose mortgage he redeems may have against the mortgagor." In effect 25 C.W.N. 283 is now statute law. The amendment provides to the co-mortgagor the same security that proper conveyances would always have provided and not a form of charge which is different in some of its incidents. 35 C.W.N. 409=1931 C. 251 (F.B.). The application of S. 95 is not restricted to cases where the co-mortgagor cannot redeem his own share only and is compelled to redeem the whole property and will apply where a co-mortgagor redeems the whole property with the mortgagee's consent, although he might have compelled the mortgagee to permit the redemption of his own share only and the other co-mortgagors cannot recover possession of their share without payment of their proportionate amount. 1932 A.L.J. 986. Where there are several mortgages on a property the owner of the property subject to the mortgages may, if he pays off an earlier charge, treat himself as buying it and stand in the same position as his vendor. Where it is manifestly for his benefit, it may be presumed that it was his intention to keep the prior mortgage alive, when S. 95 does not apply. 30 N.L.R. 1=1934 N. 97. Under the old section, the redeeming co-mortgagor is only given a charge for his portion for expenses properly incurred in so redeeming and obtaining possession of the mortgaged property. Consequently, his claim to interest on the expenses so incurred must arise, if at all, not from the section, but from some other ground, for instance, if he gave notice to the co-mortgagors. 49 B. 591=27 Bom.L.R. 629. See also 49 I.C. 230; 14 C.W.N. 617 (624); 4 C. L. J. 79; 13 P. 356=1934 P. 612. The expression "the expenses properly incurred in so redeeming" in the old section includes the mortgage debt. 35 C.W.N. 409=1931 C. 251 (F.B.). Now the right of the co-mortgagor to the mortgage security for the debt discharged is provided in S. 92. Section does not apply to a member of a Malabar tarwad redeeming a kanom by a previous karnavan. See 1929 M.W.N. 722=1929 M. 860. Mere mutation of names does not confer any title. 1933 O. 28=9 O.W.N. 923. Where the holder of a mortgage decree for sale assigns it to a person who acquires the interest of one of the judgment-debtors before the assignment and in execution poroceedings started by him the other judgment-debtors object to the execution and challenge the assignment the rights of the parties cannot be determined in execution proceedings but must be left for determination in a proper suit for contribution. 1939 C. 425. Purchaser of equity of redemption—Redemption of mortgage—Suit by owner to recover possession—Limitation. 57 B. 134=35 Bom.L.R. 48. A joint mortgagor redeeming the entire mortgage has a charge on the share of his co-mortgagor. The right to enforce such charge accrues on the date of payment. Art. 132 of the Limitation Act applies to claim. 1936 M. 500=70 M.L.J. 532. On the question of limitation, see also 1932 A.L.J. 19; 13 P. 356=1934 P. 612.

Sec. 96. N.B.—This section is new and makes the provisions as to simple mortgagesapplicable to mortgages by deposit of title deeds. Copies of the documents of title are not such substantial documents as may be regarded as documents of title for effecting a mortgage by deposit. 59 C. 586=36 C.W.N. 193. A mortgage by deposit of title deeds in Burma has ceased to possess, if it ever did possess the characteristics of an equitable mortgage in England which carries with it the remedies incident to an English mortgage. In this country it carries with it only the remedies to which a simple mortgagee may have recourse. 1939 Rang. L.R. 403=1939 R. 321 (F.B.).

NOTES.

An anomalous mortgage enabling a mortgagee after a lapse of time and in the absence of redemption to enter and take the rents of the property in satisfaction of interest, will be valid if it does not also hinder an existing right to redeem. A hindering of such right existing in the mortgagor will be invalid and ineffectual. 30 M.L.J. 584=44 A. 185=49 I.A. 60 (P.C.). See also 1 R. 419=1924 R. 83; 28 I.C. 161; 54 I.C. 687; 1928 M. 226; 10 L.L.J. 198. An anomalous mortgage is governed by the deed itself. But the principle of substitution of some other property for the mortgaged property, being a general principle of law not provided for in the T. P. Act, is not affected by S. 98. 1937 P. 345=18 P.L.T. 523. A mortgage containing a clause to the effect that after the expiry of the due date the mortgagee shall have power to realise the entire amount found due by sale of the mortgaged property or enter into possession of the mortgaged property by having it foreclosed is clearly an anomalous mortgage. 115 I.C. 839 (2)=1929 O. 282. A mortgage partly of the nature of a simple mortgage and partly of the nature of an usufructuary mortgage, does not fall within "anomalous mortgages" as described in S. 98 as it stood before the amendment. The rights of the parties have to be determined with reference to the terms of the deed. 182 I.C. 132=1939 P. 540. Where the mortgage deed stated that the mortgagee had been put in possession of the mortgaged property and further provided that in case of the mortgagee's failure to get possession, he would be entitled to interest on the principle amount at a certain rate, but the mortgagee was not put in possession of the property, the plaintiff is entitled to a decree for sale in respect of the mortgage money. 1935 O.W.N. 221=1935 O. 254. In considering an anomalous mortgage, if the intention appears that sale was not contemplated, the mortgagee has no right to a judicial sale. 15 N.L.R. 134=56 I.C. 717 (P.C.). See also 18 I.C. 24; 8 P. 585=1929 P. 664, where it was held that, if the area put in possession of the mortgagee in lieu of interest is reduced along with the consideration money, and the document also gives the creditor a right of sale, it would be anomalous mortgage. See also 8 P. 16=1929 P. 635. A simple mortgage which was to be converted into usufructuary after some period, continues to be simple, until the mortgagee expressly or impliedly signifies his intention to convert to the mortgagor. 50 I.C. 332 (O.). See also 18 I.C. 286 (O.). Where the anomalous mortgagee remains in possession even after the mortgage term, he becomes a tenant by implied consent and is entitled to notice to quit. 87 I.C. 669=1925 M. 881; 16 O.C. 90=19 I.C. 748. It is not necessary for a simple mortgage that there should be an express provision giving the mortgagee a power of sale. Where a mortgage deed contains a personal covenant, under which the mortgagor undertakes to pay the mortgage money on the due date, the personal covenant carries with it by necessary implication, a power of sale. 11 O.W.N. 760=1934 O. 255. The fact that the deed authorises the mortgagee in case of default to enter into possession of the mortgaged property, cannot take away the power of sale implicit in the personal covenant, more particularly when the mortgagor has failed to put the mortgagee in possession. Such a mortgage is not an anomalous mortgage within the meaning of S. 98. (Ibid.) Provision for reduction of mortgage debt—Creditor given right of sale and possession—Anomalous mortgage made out. 8 P. 585. Where during the period of the mortgage the land which was service inam land was enfranchised and assessed to revenue as ryotwari land, the assessment should properly be paid by the mortgagor. 1931 M.W.N. 595.

Sec. 99.—A sale held in contravention of S. 99 (O. 34. R. 14, C. P. Code) is not void, but only voidable, and if not set aside within the period of limitation, cannot be impeached afterwards. 11 O.W.N. 1403=1935 O. 183; 38 Bom.L.R. 242=1936 B. 177. S. 99 does not apply to a sale held prior to the enactment of the Act. 152 I.C. 839=11 O.W.N. 1403=1935 O. 183. A maintenance decree cannot be brought within the ambit of R. 14, O. 34. A decree-holder attaching such decree is entitled to bring to sale the property which is charged as security for arrears of maintenance. 148 I.C. 196=1934 N. 83.

Sec. 100.—The amendment to S. 100 introduced no change in the law and was intended merely to clarify the legal position. 1940 A. 456. S. 100 as amended has retrospective operation. I.L.R. (1939) A. 885=1939 A.L.J. 849=1939 A. 687. S. 100 purports primarily to deal with the

Nothing in this section applies to the charge of a trustee on the trust property for expenses proprely incurred in the execution of his trust, [2][and, save as otherwise expressly provided by any law for the time being in force, no charge shall be enforced against any property in the hands of a person to whom such property has been transferred for consideration and without notice of the charge].

incidence of security, and not with the method of enforcing it; the words "all the provisions hereinbefore contained," do not however mean that all those provisions refer to charges, and the section itself is not intended to apply to certain statutory charges. 38 C.W.N. 917=1934 C. 862. Where the first part of S. 100 deals with substantive rights, the second part deals with procedural law and so the latter cannot be said to govern the former. So when an agreement clearly falls within the definition it cannot be invalidated altogether simply because it contains provisions which offend against procedural law. Where an agreement was that in default of payment of an agreed amount of maintenance the other party was to be at liberty to enter into possession and cultivate the land, that clearly creates a charge and does not amount to a mortgage. 1939 N.L.J. 129=1939 N. 132. In a charge there is no transfer of interest in the property as in a mortgage but only the creation of a right of payment out of the property specified. 1939 N.L.J. 121=1939 N. 118. See also 1940 N. 163; 38 P.L.R. 8. For a charge immovable property must be made a security for the payment of money in such a way that the transaction does not amount to a mortgage. 1940 N.L.J. 651. And this exception should not be extended to a charge in perpetuity. 147 I.C. 302=1933 A. 934. An agreement to pay maintenance allowance to a person and to continue to pay to his descendants from generation to generation making it a charge over property, creates a charge and not a mortgage. The rule against perpetuity would not apply to a charge of this kind which does not amount to a transfer of interest within the meaning of Ss. 13 and 14. Where a decree directs that all the property of the defendant, both movable and immovable, should be charged for the amount due, it cannot be said that the charge is void for uncertainty or that the property to which the charge relates is not specific. There is no reason why description of property by survey number, extent, boundaries, etc., should be insisted upon on pain of the charge being held to be void for uncertainty. 1941 M. 794=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 386. Where in a compromise decree the defendant undertakes not to alienate certain property till decree is discharged, it creates a charge on the property. 6 O.W.N. 903 =1929 O. 539; but see 19 I.C. 478=24 M.L.J. 474; 55 M. 436=62 M.L.J. 533. Where a charge is created subsequent to 1929, the question of notice is material in considering whether the charge is to be enforced against the property in the hands of a transferee. The fact that a charge is created by a decree of Court makes no difference. A charge created by a decree in pursuance of an agreement between the parties would be a charge created by act of parties contemplated by S. 100 and the question of notice is relevant and material. 21 P.L.T. 783 =20 P. 86=1941 P. 95. See also 1940 R. 163; 40 P.L.R. 429=1938 L. 509 (Compromise in execution proceedings). Where a decree creates a charge on specified properties, a decree-holder is entitled to realise the maintenance by executing the decree without having recourse to any suit. 33 L.W. 109=1931 M. 120. Where a decree mentioned that the arrears of maintenance have been made a charge on the property described in the plaint, and with reference to future maintenance it stated that plaintiff was to recover the value thereof at a particular rate by executing the decree and selling the plaint-mentioned property. It is sufficient to create a charge in respect of future maintenance as well. 39 C.W.N. 725. See also 1936 S. 16; 71 M.L.J. 538. A covenant in a document that the obligee could recover the debt from the estate and heirs of the debtor does not amount to charge on the property. 1924 M. 360. Where a will gives details of particular estates out of which certain allowances should be met, the allowance constitutes a charge on those estates. 1937 O.W.N. 188=1937 O. 420. A provision in an agreement for sale: "I the declarant mortgaged, hypothecated, and pledged the land in this deed of contract, so that should I execute any deed of any kind whatsoever, deed of sale, rehan, etc., in respect of the land entered in the deed of contract, the same shall be treated as null and void and inoperative, etc.," does not amount to a "charge" nor could it be construed as a mortgage; the intention was merely to covenant, against encumbering or selling the land, after once having sold it under the agreement. 13 P. 620=1934 P. 495. P advanced a sum of money to U who agreed to pass a document in the form of a sale-deed, and P agreed to pass an agreement to reconvey. U executed his deed, but P failed to execute the agreement to reconvey. In a suit by P to enforce the sale-deed, it was found that the transaction amounted neither to a sale nor to a mortgage. Whatever the intention of the parties, the failure to carry it out was due to P's own default and no charge could therefore be created in favour of P. 35 Bom.L.R. 1138=1934 B. 24. A letter was addressed to the Bank by a customer undertaking not to alienate certain properties and some time after the letter moneys were lent by the Bank to the customer. Such a letter does not amount to a charge. 40 L.W. 677=1934 M. 713. When parties refer in a document to particular properties as the source from which a debt is to be paid that can ordinarily be taken as an indication to make the property more directly liable than on a mere personal liability. But where the facts recited in the document clearly show why the properties are referred to in the document and in what manner the properties are to be made available for the obligations arising under the document, it will not be right to ignore these circumstances and imply a general intention to create a security. 40 L.W. 883=67 M.L.J. 801=1935 M. 17. Where the debtor has a running account with the creditor on cash credit system and for repayment of all advances in this account, the shop of the debtor is made collateral security, subject to the maximum not exceeding Rs. 4,000, the charge is limited to the first advance of Rs. 4,000, but is to include all advances in the account. 1934 L. 765. The landholder's claim to recover rent under the Madras Estates Land Act cannot be said to be one to enforce a charge within this section, whatever might be the result of the sale of the holding by the Revenue Court in execution of decree for arrears of rent passed by it. 1932 M. TRANSFEREE WITHOUT NOTICE: Quaere.—If the law was not the same even before the amendment. 152 I.C. 267=36 Bom.L.R. 277=1934 B. 189. S. 100, even with its amendment in 1929, does not apply to a charge for maintenance created by a decree of Court. A decree binds not only the parties to the suit, but also their privies, and a charge created by a decree must necessarily bind a subsequent transferee who claims through the judgment-debtor, though he may be a transferee for value without notice. 19 N.L.J. 254. See also 1936 C. 112; 1941 P. 95; 39 C.W.N. 725; but see contra 1937 O.W.N. 25=1937 O. 217 (F. B.). Where it was held that a right by a decree of Court cannot be enforced against a subsequent transferee for valuable consideration and without notice of the charge, even in a case where the charge was created before S. 100 was amended. An execution purchaser is affected by a charge decree in respect of the property, though he has no notice of it, because notice is not necessary in the case of a purchaser at an execution sale. OTHER INSTANCES OF CHARGES.—The mere fact that the charge does not come within the meaning of S. 100 does not necessarily imply it is not a charge within the meaning of Art. 132, Limitation Act. 42 M. 114 and 43 M. 786, Expl. 49 M.L.J. 117=1926 M. 41. Cost awarded to mortgagee in redemption suit by mortgagor is a charge on the mortgaged property. 48 A. 425 =1926 A. 424. DIFFERENCE BETWEEN CHARGE AND MORTGAGE.—A charge is a liability to pay money laid upon a person or estate. Such a liability is created by every mortgage : so that every mortgage includes a charge, but the reverse is not always true. There is no personal covenant to pay in a mere charge and no transfer of any interest in the property, but merely an obligation imposed on the property with reference to the payment. It is difficult to conceive of a charge with a personal covenant to pay which does not amount to a mortgage. 36 B.L.R. 277=1934 B. 189. See also 38 P.L.R. 8 ; 1936 R. 303. There is very little difference between a charge and a simple mortgage. In both the creditor is entitled to follow the property for the satisfaction of his debt with this difference that a simple mortgage being a right in rem is good against subsequent transferees while a charge is only good as against a subsequent transferee with notice or a volunteer with or without notice. 1941 A.L.J. 518=(1941) O.A. (Supp.) 727=1941 A. 345 (F.B.). See also 1939 N. 118 ; 38 P.L.R. 8 ; 1940 N. 163. The distinction between a charge and simple mortgage is a very subtle one and to judge of the intention of parties, the language in which the intentions are expressed alone must be looked into. Where a person gave a statement in a proceeding instituted by him under S. 145, Cr. P. Code, in which he undertook to pay Rs. 750 to the respondent in that proceeding by a certain date and to give him the right of proceeding against the property in respect of which the proceedings were instituted and two other properties if he fails to pay and on the respondent agreeing to those terms the proceedings were dropped ; all the requirements of a mortgage are satisfied and as it was not attested or registered, it was invalid as a mortgage and could not be a charge either. 1937 M. 148. One obvious distinction is that a mortgage is for a fixed term whereas a charge may be in perpetuity. In the case of a mortgage it can be ultimately redeemed, whereas a charge in perpetuity cannot be redeemed at all. 1933 A. 934. See also 42 C. 625=19 C.W.N. 37 ; 23 I.C. 867 ; 1 P. 387. See also 6 O.W.N. 903=1929 O. 539 ; 9 O.W.N. 900. Provisions of Evidence Act relating to attestation do not apply to deeds creating charges. 66 I.C. 554=14 L.W. 99. Mortgage can be created only by the act of the parties ; charge can be created either by act of parties or operation of law. In a simple mortgage and generally in most other kinds of mortgages also there is a covenant to pay ; in a charge there is no such covenant. See 11 I.C. 629 ; 23 M.L.J. 131. Registration, attestation and other formalities required for the creation of a mortgage are not necessary for a charge. 35 C. 837. A charge cannot bind a bona fide purchaser for value who had no notice of the charge ; but in the case of a mortgage, the mortgagee can follow the property in the hands of any subsequent transferee for value or not, and whether with or without notice of the mortgage. 23 I.C. 867 ; 38 A. 254 ; 42 C. 625 ; 33 C. 985 ; 9 N.L.J. 130 =92 I.C. 25=1926 N. 262 ; 36 C.W.N. 153=1932 C. 451. A subsequent registered mortgage is entitled to priority over an earlier oral charge, not accompanied by delivery of possession, of which the mortgagee had no notice. 152 I.C. 267=36 Bom.L.R. 277=1934 B. 189. See also 5 Luck. 172=1929 O. 316 (a decision under the old section as to enforceability of a charge against execution purchaser without notice). The holder of a decree for arrears of maintenance charged upon certain properties is entitled to enforce the same against the transferee of the properties for value with notice of the charge, even though the transferee purchased only a part of the estate. NOTES.

Sec. 101.—The section is inapplicable to suit commenced two years prior to amendment. Nor is the amendment purely declaratory. (1942) 2 M.L.J. 47.

DOCTRINE OF MERGER.—In view of the amendment the older cases as to whether there was or was not any declaration or intention to keep alive the prior encumbrance are obsolete. But even under the old section, the tendency of Courts was in favour of an intention to keep alive the mortgage, rather than otherwise. This was on the principle that a man who has a right to act in one of two ways should be deemed to have acted in the way that would be to his interest. See 9 C. 961 (P.C.); 3 Luck. 472; 1929 O. 88; 13 P. 200=1934 P. 134; 26 M.L.J. 94; 49 M.L.J. 361; 1935 M. 1217; 74 I.C. 503; 18 I.C. 704; 23 I.C. 827; 1925 P. 605; 10 C. 1035; 29 C. 154; 94 I.C. 152; 39 I.C. 500; 1922 A. 394; 51 C.L.J. 565=1930 C. 572; 10 R. 465. Section is not exhaustive. 1929 M.W.N. 722. The amendment of 1929 is not retrospective in its operation, though S. 101 is not one of the sections which, S. 63 of the Amending Act declares, shall not be retrospective. 10 R. 465=1932 R. 197. See contra 1932 A.L.J. 627=1932 A. 489 (F.B.). As to scope of the doctrine, see 144 I.C. 736=1933 N. 241. It is not necessary for the owner of a charge or incumbrance that he must, simultaneously with his acquiring the equity of redemption by inheritance or otherwise, declare his intention to keep the charge or incumbrance alive expressly or by necessary implication in order to prevent the extinguishment of the charge or incumbrance. He can do so within a reasonable time. If he conveys the security to his wife benami for himself, that would be a sufficient expression of his intention to keep the charge alive. (1942) 2 M.L.J. 47. Under the law as it stood before the amendment on a merger of rights of mortgagor and mortgagee in one person absolutely, the mortgage would be extinguished, unless that person declares expressly or by necessary implication that it shall continue to subsist, or such continuance would be for his benefit. Though in cases of merger ordinarily it is the holder of a charge or an encumbrance who acquires the equity of redemption subsequently, there may be cases where a person may have acquired the equity of redemption by inheritance or otherwise first, and subsequently came to be the holder of a charge or an incumbrance. The existence of another encumbrance is only one of the reasons which could lead a person acquiring an absolute title to the property or a charge or an incumbrance, as the case may be, to keep the charge or incumbrance alive and not the sole reason for its continuance. It cannot therefore be said that a mortgagee or an owner of an absolute estate can be held to have kept alive the previous charge only when there are intervening incumbrances in existence. (1942) 2 M.L.J. 47. Where a mortgagee purchases from his mortgagor the mortgaged properties pending an attachment of the properties in execution of a money decree, it cannot be held that the sale extinguishes the mortgage. In such a case it must be presumed that it is to the advantage of the mortgagee to keep his interest as mortgagee and his interest as purchaser of the equity of redemption distinct, because of the intervening attachment against which his sale cannot be effective. The principle of S. 101 is not limited to cases where the rights of mesne incumbrancers come up for decision though the section has generally been invoked in such cases. The section only lays down a general rule of presumed intention, and where the later conveyance would be inoperative as against any intermediate right, whether founded on an incumbrance or an attachment, the principle must be held equally to apply. I.L.R. (1939) M. 600=1939 M. 393=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 72. Purchase by mortgagee of part of mortgaged property in full discharge of debt due under mortgage—Merger—Mortgagee not given possession of entire property sold—Mortgagee then brought a suit against mortgagor to enforce his mortgage. The purchaser can use his earlier mortgage only as a shield against any subsequent encumbrancer and not as a weapon to sue the mortgagor; there was a merger, and his remedy was only to sue as on breach of contract. 15 P. 120=1936 P. 404. A subsequent mortgagee seeking foreclosure under his mortgage is bound to redeem a prior mortgagee, who has already foreclosed and is in possession of the property, before he can take possession. There is no difference in principle between a mortgagee who has obtained possession under a sale in execution of the mortgage decree and one who has obtained possession by foreclosure of his mortgage. S. 101 allows a subsequent mortgagee two alternatives, either to redeem the prior mortgage or to take the property subject to that mortgagee; and the words, "otherwise than subject thereto" in the concluding part of the section, refer to the 2nd eventuality contemplated by the section, and not of his seeking foreclosure. A subsequent mortgagee, who has obtained a decree for sale, can avail himself of either of two alternatives. But a subsequent mortgagee seeking foreclosure cannot foreclose and get possession subject to the charge of the prior mortgagee already in possession. In such a case, the subsequent mortgagee has no option but to redeem the prior mortgage. 155 I.C. 498=1935 O.W.N. 684. See also 1939 A.L.J. 559=1939 A. 660. purchaser of an equity of redemption cannot set up a prior mortgage of his own, or which he has got in, against subsequent incumbrances of which he had notice, is not to be regarded as a rule of justice, equity and good conscience and cannot therefore be applied in India. 33 Bom.L.R. 1238 See also 1938 M.W.N. 60. The principle contained in S. 101 can be applied to the Punjab as a rule of justice and equity. 130 I.C. 49=1930 L. 1063. Where there is no intermediate incumbrance, there will be a merger by the purchase of the equity of redemption by the mortgagee. 128 I.C. 296=1930 L. 620. It was held that the section (old) applied where the whole property subject to the encumbrance was acquired by the encumbrancer in full ownership : See 1930 A.L.J. 1222=1931 A. 76. The section was held inapplicable where the incumbrancer obtains only a limited interest. See 57 C. 473=126 I.C. 413 =1930 C. 530. Certain property consisting of two items was subject to successive mortgages. One of the puisne mortgagees brought a suit and purchased one item in execution. He subsequently obtained an assignment of a decree passed in favour of a prior mortgagee in respect of the other item. As assignee-decree-holder, he applied for execution against the other item alone. On objection by another puisne mortgagee, held, that, by the purchase of one of the items, the mortgage had been discharged pro tanto and that the assignee-decree-holder could proceed against the other item, only for the proportionate value of the debt in relation to the mortgage debt; and that an objection of this nature could be taken in execution by the puisne mortgagee. 141 I.C. 366 (M.). Purchase by mortgagee of a part of the mortgaged property does not extinguish the debt pro tanto. 39 A. 74=14 A.L.J. 1025=37 I.C. 4. See also 1931 A.L.J. 153=1931 A. 154. As to the effect of the proviso to the old section, see 57 C. 473=1930 C. 530. Where a mortgagee holding two different mortgages over the same property sues and obtains a decree on the first and purchases the property himself " subject to his second mortgage " the second mortgage is extinguished. 38 B. 369=16 Bom.L.R. 26. (See also change in the present section). Under S. 101 prior to amendment, the purchase by the mortgagee of an undivided share in the mortgage properties does not extinguish the mortgage. 1932 C. 772=36 C.W.N. 696. Whether a mortgage paid off is extinguished or kept alive depends upon the intention of the parties. (11 I.A. 126, Foll.) 33 Bom.L.R. 1238. See also 144 I.C. 736=1933 N. 241. Where a mortgagee obtained a decree on his mortgage and in execution thereof purchased the property in Court auction himself he becomes the owner of the property from the date of the purchase, and he cannot maintain as against himself or third parties unconnected with the mortgage transaction on the property, the position that his mortgage remained an incumbrance thereon after that date. 40 C. 89=39 I.A. 228= 23 M.L.J. 311 (P.C.). See also 31 I.C. 891 (A.); 44 Bom. Where the mortgagee decree-holder has purchased at the auction-sale in execution of his decree of his second mortgage, one of the properties mortgaged to him, the equity of redemption in that property becomes vested in him and such purchase has the effect of discharging and extinguishing a portion of the mortgage debt, which is chargeable to the property purchased by him. (22 A. 284, Foll.) 59 C. 76=1932 C. 319. Even where a third mortgagee agrees by his mortgage deed to discharge the first mortgage, he can use the first mortgage as a shield against the second mortgagee, because his intention in paying off the first charge is to keep it alive for his own benefit and not for the benefit of intermediate encumbrancer or any other party. 144 I.C. 969=1933 N. 155. Where there is a pusine encumbrancer, the mortgagee purchasing the equity of redemption can use his mortgage as a shield against him. 51 I.C. 728; 4 I.C. 810; 38 M. 18; 16 I.C. 877. See also 9 O.W.N. 557; 1933 N. 155; 144 I.C. 736 =1933 N. 241. The fact that he has taken no distinct steps to keep his mortgage alive does not necessarily create a merger. 57 C. 82=1930 C. 335. [This is now made plain by the amendment]. But where the acquirer was bound to discharge the subsequent mortgage by covenant or by law, he cannot have such a right. 43 C. 69 =20 C.W.N. 601; 1918 M.W.N. 251=44 I.C. 753; 45 M.L.J. 693=1924 M. 103. Where a person purchases a property in execution of a charge decree and a mortgagee of the property subsequent to the charge decree and before the Court auction, sues on his mortgage, the purchaser under the charge decree cannot claim priority to the extent of the charge. S. 101 has no application. In the cases governed by the section, the one having his own interest to protect buys out the interest of the other, that is to say, the owner buys up the charge, or the chargeholder buys up the property and steps into the shoes of the owner. But each has an interest to protect at the date of the purchase. That is not the position where a stranger having no interest to protect, deliberately, with eyes open, purchases in order to enable the owner and chargeholder to extinguish the charge between them. In such a case the stranger purchaser is not in a position to act in either of two ways. He is not protecting his interest and is only in the position of a money-lender who advances to pay off the charge and then after the charge is extinguished, purchases in lieu of his own debt. 1941 N.L.J. 634=I.L.R. CHAPTER V.

OF LEASES OF IMMOVABLE PROPERTY.

Lease defined.

105. A lease of immovable property is a transfer of a right to enjoy such property, made for a certain time, express or implied, or in perpetuity, in consideration of a price paid or promised, or of money, a share of crops, service, or any other thing of value, to be rendered periodically or on specified occasions to the transferor by the transferee, who accepts the transfer on such terms.

NOTES.

power to the High Court to make rules; it is not compulsory on the High Court to make such rules. 25 M. 244. As to how far the rules made under this section are binding on the High Courts in the exercise of their ordinary original jurisdiction, see 1 C.L.J. 31.

Sec. 105.—The Act uses the word 'lease' not merely for interests which can be created only by registered instrument but for all interests of the character defined in S.5. 54 C. 813=1927 C. 725. To determine whether a document is a lease or not, the name of the document is nothing. Contents must be looked into. 82 I. C. 949=1925 C. 370. Lease of an immovable property is a transfer of a right to enjoy such property. A lessee who allows a man to work the premises cannot be said to transfer an interest in the leased properties. Where the lessee agrees to sell the lease to another and allows the prospective assignee to enter upon the premises and to work them pending the grant of consent by the lessor to the transfer, the transaction does not amount to a sub-lease. 15 P. 460=1936 P. 372. Even if a transaction does not amount to a lease under S. 105, it may nevertheless be a lease for the purposes of the Stamp Act. An agreement by which an oil company was permitted to occupy a portion of the Railway premises for the construction of a petroleum installation is a "lease" within the meaning of the Stamp Act, even though by reason of the several conditions and limitations on the enjoyment of the property by the oil company and the fact that there was no transfer of a right to enjoy the property for a certain time, it may not amount to a "lease" within the meaning of the T. P. Act. 1933 A.L.J. 749=1933 A. 735 (F.B.). The 'right to enjoy such property' which is spoken of in S. 105 means the right to enjoy the property in the manner in which that property can be enjoyed. If the subject-matter of the lease is coal land it can only be enjoyed and occupied by the lessee by working it as indicated in S. 108, T.P. Act, which regulates fully the rights and liabilities of lessors and lessees in India. 21 P.L.T. 897=1940 P. 633=20 Pat. 13 (F. B.). Under S. 105, there can be a lease of immovable property by virtue of a registered document executed by the lessee in favour of the lessor. The subject-matter of the lease must be immovable property and the immovable property may be actual land or may be a reversion upon an existing term. There is nothing in the Act to preclude the lease of a reversion. Under the English Law it is always open to a landlord to create concurrent leases, that is, he can execute a lease to-day for a term, and to-morrow he can execute another lease for another term to run from the date on which he executed the latter lease. Such a lease has always been held to be valid, and in law would operate as an assignment upon the existing term. There is nothing to preclude the applicability of this principle in India, and indeed it has been adopted by the Indian High Courts. There is always a distinction between an assignment of the rents and profits and a lease of a reversion. In the case of an assignment of rents and profits, all that the assignee will be entitled to is the right to realise the rents and profits by virtue of the assignment in his favour, but in the case of a reversion, it is not merely the right to recover the rents and profits that is transferred to him, but also the rights which the lessor had on the date of the reversion, for example his right to recover possession immediately on the expiry of the previous term, and also the right of re-entry, if any, on forfeiture. 46 L.W. 730=1938 M. 100=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 871. Definition of lease contained in this section compared with the definition contained in the Registration Act. 5 R. 95. Lease and mortgage, distinguished. 1927 M.W.N. 556; 1933 L. 786; 1934 P. 217. The question whether there is a relationship of landlord and tenant is to be determined first according to this Act and not English decisions. 57 C. 1176=57 I.A. 110=58 M.L.J. 293 (P.C.). Land titles in Berar cannot always be compared to leases under the Act. 98 I.C. 16=1927 N. 50. A mere agreement to lease does not operate as a lease; nor does it affect the land until the agreement is specifically enforced on a suit. 19 C.W. N. 347=28 I.C. 879; 30 C. 831. Where the lessee actually takes possession of the property on the very day of the agreement and pays rent, the agreement certainly amounts to a lease and to that extent it is void if not in writing registered. But the agreement would still be an agreement for a lease, and in so far as it is an agreement for a lease, it is not void, merely because regarded as a transfer of property, it is void. 38 Bom.L.R. 486=1936 B. 246. See also 1939 L. 162; 1938 M. 746. A mere writing to the effect that a person has taken a certain bungalow at a certain rent for one year and not signed by the owner is not a lease. 148 I.C. 548 (1)=1934 Pesh. 81 (1). A lease may come into operation and commence on a future date. The transfer of interest in the land is the test. 18 I.C. 496=97 P.L.R. 1913; 42 I.C. 372. See also 1 M.H.C. 153. The mere execution of the kirayanama cannot entitle the person executing the deed to continue in possession of the premises covered by the deed. 102 I.C. 123 (1). A patta tendered to, but not accepted by, a tenant is not a lease for the purposes of the Registration Act. 8 M.L.T. 371=7 I.C. 750. A tenancy in respect of a fractional share of a field or fields not defined by metes and bounds is impossible. Therefore a suit for joint possession of an undivided share on the basis of a lease is not maintainable. 78 I.C. 636=1926 N. 120.

The transferor is called the lessor, the transferee is called the lessee, the price is called the premium, and the money, share, service, or other thing to be so rendered is called the rent.

Lessor, lessee, premium and rent defined.

Inclusion of lands not belonging to the lessor would not make the lease void, if there was no fraud or misrepresentation. There could be an apportionment of rent for the remaining lands. 39 C. 1016=16 C.W.N. 606. DISTINCTION BETWEEN LEASE AND LICENSE.—There is a transfer of an interest in land in a lease. Grant of exclusive possession is necessary, whereas in the case of a license there is no transfer of interest, although the licensee acquires a right to occupy the land. 16 I.C. 703=17 C.W.N. 166; 48 M. 368=48 M.L.J. 161 (F.B.). See also 51 B. 274=29 Bom.L.R. 78; 35 C. 82 (F.B.); 1925 M. 434; 29 M. 353; 1926 N. 174; 48 M. 368; 32 Bom.L.R. 332=1930 B. 165. See 25 Bom. L. R. 85=1923 B. 228. In deciding whether a document amounts to a lease or is only a license, the recitals therein can never be conclusive; the Court has to look to the substance of the terms agreed upon and not to the nomenclature given to the deed by the parties. 1933 A.L.J. 749=1933 A. 745 (F.B.). The definition of a lease in this section does not apply to a restricted use of a portion of a house. 51 B. 274 =1927 B. 115. Permission to build on payment of rent without lease deed amounts only to a license. 38 A. 178=32 I.C. 346. An agreement to pay a certain quantity of grain to another for being allowed to take his cattle or cart along a definite strip of land amounts to a lease under S. 105. It is not a license. A suit for the recovery of such grain is a suit for rent and is exempted from the cognizance of the Small Cause Court. 92 I.C. 683=1926 N. 174. A kabuliyat executed by a person occupying certain premises and accepted by the owner of the premises can in no way be considered to be a lease as defined by S. 105, and is not sufficient to bestow title on the occupant of the premises. But though it does not operate as a lease it is not on that account inadmissible against the executant himself when the kabuliyat contains a statement against his own interest. 1937 A.L.J. 1297=1938 A. 32.

LEASE AND FAMILY ARRANGEMENT.—If a transaction is in fact a lease as defined by S. 105, the requirements of law regarding registration cannot be evaded merely by calling it a family arrangement. (1937) 1 M.L.J. 679=1937 M. 882 (F.B.). A transfer of the right to enjoy immovable property in perpetuity made by the holder of an impartible Zamindari to a junior member on terms, or in pursuance of an agreement, that the junior member will give up all claims for present or future maintenance and will pay annually to the Zamindar a sum of money, which is called poruppu, is not a lease within the meaning of S. 105, and is effective, though oral and not in writing registered. (1937) 1 M.L.J. 679 (F.B.)=1937 M. 882.

CONSTRUCTION OF LEASE-DEEDS.—See 1922 P. 75.

RENT.—Rent may be in money (22 C. 680); or by way of service rendered (15 C.P.L.R. 42; 32 C. 243); or by way of royalty (as) in the case of mines: see 5 C.L.J. 148 (172). The word used in a rent-note to denote the duration of the lease was aniyamit which means indefinite or unrestricted or unlimited. But reading the rent note as a whole, it appeared that the period of the lease was to extend so long as the Kesari and Maratha institutions were in existence. Held, it was not a permanent lease and the lease was valid in law: 33 Bom.L.R. 590.

FRAUD OR MISTAKE.—In the absence of fraud or common mistake, a lessee is entitled to the possession of a plot of land described in the lease as boundaries. 16 C.W.N. 225=13 I.C. 481. A lease obtained by fraud is not void, but only voidable at the option of the lessor. 36 C. 675= 9 C.L.J. 523=1 I.C. 626. A lease by a minor is void; it is incapable of ratification express or implied by the acceptance of rent by the lessor on attaining majority. 33 Bom.L.R. 111=1931 B. 178. That it was executed by the lessee in favour of the minor lessor and not by the lessor does not cure its invalidity. A lease is essentially a bilateral contract: 1931 M. 147=59 M.L.J. 941.

MUNICIPALITY.—A municipality is not outside the provisions of the T. P. Act and, therefore leases by municipality are governed by Act. 26 A.L.J. 328=1928 A. 95.

Secs. 105 and 107.—The letting by a Municipal Council of the right to collect the fees of the municipal slaughter-houses and fish-bazaars is lease as defined by S. 105; the right to collect the said fees amounts to profit arising out of land, and is therefore immovable property. Under S. 107, such a lease must be executed both by the lessor and the lessee and a lease for one year reserving an yearly rent has to be made by a registered instrument. Where such a lease is executed by the lessee alone and registered, it is invalid under S. 107. Where it is not executed on behalf of the Municipal Council before registration, it is not in conformity with the requirements of S. 107, although subsequent to registration the President and some members of the Municipal Council put their signatures on it. If the lessee has had the advantage of the lease, the invalidity of the lease would not prevent the Municipal Council from recovering such amount as may be found reasonable under S. 65 of the Contract Act. 47 L.W. 668=1938 M. 746. See also 1936 B. 246. The plaintiff brought two suits for recovery of rent in respect of certain property. The leases were for a period less than one year. The plaintiff did not rely on any oral agreement. The suit was based merely on certain rent notes which were not registered and the plaintiff did not sue on the basis of his title for recovery of compensation for use and occupation. The defendants were already in possession before the execution of the leases and there was no question of fresh delivery of possesion. The plaintiff could succeed only if she had sued for rent on the basis of registered leases. 41 P.L.R. 578=1939 L. 162. See also 1939 L. 423.

106. In the absence of a contract or local law or usage to the contrary, a lease of immovable property for agricultural or manufacturing purposes shall be deemed to be a lease from year to year, terminable, on the part of either lessor or lessee, by six months' notice expiring with the end of a year of the tenancy; and a lease of immovable property for any other purpose shall be deemed to be a lease from month to month, terminable, on the part of either lessor or lessee, by fifteen days' notice expiring with the end of a month of the tenancy.

Decision of certain leases in absence of written contract or local usage.

Every notice under this section must be in writing signed by or on behalf of the person giving it, and [1][either be sent by post to the party who is intended to be bound by it or be tendered or delivered personally to such party], or to one of his family or servants at his residence, or (if such tender or delivery is not practicable) affixed to a conspicuous part of the property.

Secs. 105, 106, 108 and 111: LEASE, IF HERITABLE PROPERTY.—A lease for which no term is fixed is a lease running from month to month, terminable upon proper notice. Such lease is heritable property. I.L.R (1937) N. 406=1937 N. 321.

Sec. 106: SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY.— S. 106 does not apply to Punjab. 106 I.C. 537=1928 L. 348. See also 1923 L. 659. This section has no application to a notice under S. 108 (e) : 31 I.C. 697=19 C.W.N. 1019; section does not apply to agricultural leases : 20 I.C. 374=24 M.L.J. 571; 90 I.C. 51; see also 1929 N. 169=116 I.C. 662. (A notice asking agricultural tenant from year to year to quit immediately is not proper). 85 I.C. 339=1925 M. 346. S. 106 does not apply to a tenancy proved to have originated before the T. P. Act. 35 C.W.N. 1047; see also 25 C.W.N. 420=60 I.C. 826. The only leases recognised by S. 105 are leases for a eertain time, periodical leases, and leases in perpetuity. Where therefore the status of a person does not fall under any of these heads, he cannot be a lessee; and hence he cannot insist upon a notice to quit as contemplated by S. 106 : 151 I.C. 971 =1934 R. 291. The essence of a lease as defined by S. 106 is that the right to enjoy the property demised must be given for a certain period, express or implied or in perpetuity. The transaction is none the less a lease, because the interest may be determined before the expiry of the time fixed or after the expiry of the time fixed. I.L.R. (1939) B. 320=41 Bom.L.R. 297 =1939 B. 215. S. 106 is subject to the exception of being set aside in particular cases by proved usage or contract. 79 I.C. 106=1924 A. 726. See also 78 I.C. 416=1925 N. 48; 1924 N. 200; 84 I.C. 532=1924 O. 309. Thus, where the lessee of a house agrees to vacate the same whenever wanted, S. 106 cannot be made applicable and the omission to give notice cannot be regarded as fatal to a suit in ejectment. 79 I.C. 126=1924 A. 726. Section does not apply to the case of a lessee for a fixed term when the term has expired. 1931 A.L.J. 666. After the expiry of the period, the tenant is only a tenant at sufferance and is not entitled to any notice to quit. 1933 A.L.J. 682=1933 A. 756 (2). In the case of utbandi holdings, unless there is a special custom, to that effect, the right to occupy the land does not enure beyond a particular season or a particular year and the tenancy not being a lease from year to year, S. 106 does not apply. 60 C. 681=37 C.W.N. 335=1933 C. 609. A renting by the lessee for twenty years of shops at a fixed rent as long as the sub-lessee kept them and paid monthly rents, creates a monthly lease. 180 P.L.R. 1913=19 I.C. 493. Where tenant who originally came into possession of the demised land under an invalid lease for 10 years and continued in possession with the consent of the lessor paying rent at a monthly rate, the presumption is that a monthly tenancy was created between the parties by oral agreement, accompanied by possession. 33 M.L.J. 684=43 I.C. 310. See also 1933 P. 485=144 I.C. 781. To determine the nature of the tenancy, the length of possession, variation of rent, if any, manner of dealing by the tenants and other connected circumstances have to be considered. 12 I.C. 1 =21 M.L.J. 845. See also 28 C. 738; 11 C.W.N. 242; 8 C.W.N. 297; 32 C. 51; 34 C. 902; 32 C. 41; 5 C.W.N. 846. Where no term is mentioned in a lease, it must be regarded as a lease from year to year terminable by notice by either side according to law. 3 P.L.J. 576=43 I.C. 965. The tenancy of a house is presumed to be monthly. 61 I.C. 976=2 P.L.T. 178. If under a lease created after the T. P. Act, the tenant enters into possession on the basis of an oral agreement and continues in possession on payment of rent to the lessor, and the purpose of tenancy is neither agricultural nor manufacturing, the lease must be taken to be a lease from month to month under S. 106 of the Act. I.L.R. (1939) 2 C. 254=43 C.W.N. 797=1940 C. 89. Unless there is some indication to the contrary, the term 'ordinary tenant' would in Calcutta mean monthly tenant, even though there was no reference to payments of monthly rent, and such a tenancy would be terminable on 15 days expiring with the end of the month of the tenancy. 43 C.W.N. 309=41 Bom.L.R. 684=1939 P.C. 11=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 365 (P.C.). See also 42 C.W.N. 1115; 1939 P. 296. Where yearly rent is reserved, though payable in instalments, the tenancy may be presumed to be from year to year. 24 I.C. 183=19 C.W.N. 525; 23 C.W.N. 641=51 I.C. 415. There is no presumption, from the mere fact that a lease is for building purposes, that it creates a permanent tenancy. In the absence of anything in the lease itself the Court should infer a monthly tenancy only. 48 L.W. 894=1939 M. 247; 1941 A. 399=1941 A.L.J. 557. A tenancy may well be a monthly tenancy though the rent may be mentioned as so much per year. 1941 P.W.N. 513=1941 P. 488=194 I.C. 300. When a tenant under a lease of premises in Calcutta for a term of three years holds over after expiry of the term, he does so as a monthly tenant, and each month of the tenancy expires at midnight on the 1st day of the succeeding month. 38 C.W.N. 782=1934 C. 837. But when the contract is not registered, it will be monthly. 44 C. 403=33 I.C. 899; 26 I.C. 962. The mere fact that the rent is fixed for a year does not make the tenancy a yearly one: 51 I.C. 44; nor the fact that rent is payable yearly: 50 I.C. 918; 61 I.C. 976=2 P.L.T. 178. A provision for enhanced rent in a lease after the expiry of the term does not take away the landlord's right to eject the tenant after due notice. 23 C.W.N. 641=51 I.C. 415. Where enhanced rate of rent is proposed by a landlord and the tenant continues to occupy the property without any protest he should be deemed to have accepted he proposal. But when the tenant protests against the enhancement, the remedy of the landlord is ejectment and where he did not pursue that remedy, he cannot subsequently claim the enhanced rent. 10 O.W.N. 1000=1933 O. 465. The presumption of the section does not arise when there is a contract to the contrary. 32 I.C. 692. See also 42 C.W.N. 598=1938 C. 656.

CONTRACT FOR RENEWAL.—Contract of renewal of lease runs with the land and can be enforced against the lessor's transferee with notice. 89 I.C. 273=1925 N. 281. See also 19 C.W.N. 1197 =27 I.C. 397. No renewal can operate when its terms are undefined and are dependant upon the will of the lessor. 34 I.C. 92=21 C.W.N. 183. When the terms are undefined, it may be taken that the renewed lease is on the same terms as the old one. 33 I.C. 448=20 C.W.N. 948.

NOTICE TO QUIT.—The object of the legislature in providing for a notice to quit is to prevent the eviction of the tenant arbitrarily at any moment without giving him time to gather the produce of his labour, rendering his position very insecure. 2 C. 156. Yearly tenant is entitled to 6 months' notice and monthly tenant to 15 days' notice. 1919 P. 235=50 I.C. 8. See, as to tenant holding over, cases under S. 116. The provisions of the section as to notice to quit are subject to a contract to the contrary. 1923 L. 281; 34 I.C. 516; 47 I.C. 19; see also 32 I.C. 692. The words "in the absence of an agreement to the contrary" in S. 116 refer to an agreement as to the terms of the holding over. Where there was a term in a lease that the lessee would give up possession without notice and on the expiry of the lease, the lessee held over on payment of rent: The term as to notice is not carried over to the new lease and notice is necessary to terminate the later lease: 37 C.W.N. 971. See also 1938 N. 506=1938 N.L.J. 317. A notice to quit should not be construed with a desire to find faults in it, but with a view to its validity. A notice is good notwithstanding that the addressee is described therein as a trespasser. Nor does the fact that two months' time is given where only 15 days' time is necessary invalidate the notice. 36 C.W. N. 918. See also 68 C.L.J. 411. Where a person undertakes to surrender whenever required, no notice is necessary. See 110 I.C. 398=1928 M. 687: see also 1910 M.W.N. 794=8 I.C. 362. In the case of a lease for fixed period, notice of termination is not necessary. 1932 A.L.J. 126. In cases not governed by the T. P. Act, reasonable notice is sufficient. 23 C.W.N. 641=51 I.C. 415; 42 I.C. 375; 30 I.C. 886=22 C.L.J. 74; 20 I.C. 363=17 C.W.N. 1073; 57 I.C. 311. A person claiming from a tenant at sufferance is not entitled to notice to quit. 114 I.C. 725=1929 A. 610. In cases of agricultural leases, notice need not ask the tenant to quit exactly at the end of the year. 1925 M. 346=85 I.C. 339. A notice demanding an agricultural tenant from year to year, to quit the land immediately or forthwith is not proper, and reasonable notice is necessary. 1929 N. 169. If the notice makes it quite clear to him that the landlord intends to take possession of the whole of the jama the notice is valid although it contains an inaccurate description of the land. 68 C.L.J. 481=1939 C. 291. Permission to build on payment of rent without a lease-deed amounts only to a license and no notice is necessary. The remedy will be for wrongful revocation of license. 38 A. 178=32 I.C. 346. Where the lessee is allowed to construct a building on the land leased, and the lease is found to be one from month to month, it is unjust for the lessor to claim the structure to be demolished. He should give the lessee a notice to quit. 1939 P. 428. A tenant who holds against the wishes of the landlord is not entitled to notice to quit. 53 I.C. 180 (P.). A person not prepared to accept 15 days' notice is not entitled to ask the notice to be served under S. 106. 1927 S. 24=97 I.C. 577. Where according to the contract, a lease is terminable only on the happening of a particular contingency, a prior notice to quit will be of no avail. 53 I.C. 109. Notice by some of the co-owners is sufficient if others have consented to it by conduct. 34 I.C. 56. But see 9 I.C. 110. Where a notice given by agent of a manager of temple property is not headed as such, it is not bad. 1925 A. 199=78 I.C. 651. Notice served by post will be presumed to have been served. 46 C. 458=45 I.A. 222 (P.C.). [This was the law even before the present amendment of 1929. Now this has been specially provided for by the amendment]. "Sending by post" in S. 106 must mean sending by post to the tenant's proper address. 43 C.W. N.309=41 Bom.L.R. 684=1939 P.C. 11=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 365 (P.C.). Where a registered notice was returned with a note 'refused' in view of presumption that posting of a letter in due course raises, it cannot be said that there has not been a proper service of notice. 1938 A.L.J. 511 =1938 A.W.R. (H.C.) 328=1938 A. 388. Service on one of many joint tenants will be evidence of service on others. 46 C. 458=45 I.A. 222=35 M.L.J. 707 (P.C.); 37 C.L.J. 478=75 I.C. 105. Notice must be served on all. 29 C.W.N. 620. Service must be where the lessee resides and on the lessee. 13 I.C. 59=9 A.L.J. 574.

NOTES.

Affixture is bad, unless tender or delivery is impracticable. 51 I.C. 44. As to service of notice in the case of joint tenants, see 87 I.C. 708=29 C.W.N. 620; 37 C.L.J. 478=75 I.C. 105. Where the lessee surrendered, the sub-lessee is not entitled to any notice. 20 I.C. 11=11 A.L.J. 951. A notice to be valid should be of a period terminating with the end of the month or year of tenancy. 18 A.L.J. 854=57 I.C. 593; 26 I.C. 962=19 C.W.N. 489. See also 27 Bom.L.R. 102 =1925 B. 167; 22 B. 241; 38 C.L.J. 177=1923 C. 524. Notice not bad by reason of its being too long by a few hours. "The validity of a notice to quit ought not to turn on the splitting of a straw." 1931 M. 352=60 M.L.J. 293. If the tenancy is per Bengali year, the month and the period of the notice should be calculated as per Bengali calendar. 30 I.C. 887=22 C.L.J. 78; 30 I.C. 886=22 C.L.J. 74. Lease of house—Termination of—Notice asking lessee to vacate by midnight of the 31st July — Not necessary that lessor should send the notice on the 15th July or that he should ask the lessee to vacate on the expiry of the 1st August. 1937 A. 36. Notice to quit by a certain date, meaning of: 1937 N. 139. When a house is taken on rent and occupied in the middle of a month and rent is paid separately for the days during which the house has been occupied prior to the first of the following calendar month, the intention of the parties is that the tenancy should begin on the first of each calendar month. 1936 O.W.N. 514 =1936 O. 306. A notice was given on 9th November, 1927, to the lessee stating that he should vacate the land on 13th May, 1927. 1927 in the notice was a mistake for 1928 and parties were not misled. The notice is valid. 1934 A.L.J. 674=1934 A. 787. Objection to the legality of the notice is not to be raised on appeal for the first time. 1923 R. 13. In reckoning the period, the day on which the notice is served is excluded and the day on which it expires is included. 36 I.C. 962=19 C.W.N. 489. S. 106 implies the existence of a lease. Where the relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties has been created not by a lease but by a decision of a Court, the tenancy cannot be legally terminated by a notice to quit under this section. 46 C.W.N. 464.

NOTICE TO QUIT AND DEMAND OF ENHANCED RENT IN THE ALTERNATIVE.—Where a notice to quit or pay enhanced rent is issued to a tenant, and he refuses to quit, it does not necessarily follow that he is bound to pay the enhanced rent from the date of the termination of the tenancy. He may be entitled to remain for some reasonable time as in the case of a shop-keeper who has been in a particular place for a long time paying only the original rent. But where a tenant refuses to quit, he cannot also refuse to pay the enhanced rent. When he has been asked to quit or pay enhanced rent, if he does not quit, he must be deemed to have agreed to pay at the enhanced rent, if such rate is neither penal nor improbable. The Court has always a discretion in fixing the amount. 1940 N.L.J. 118=1940 N. 140. Where the notice was to quit or to pay rent at an enhanced rate, the tenancy is at an end, if the payment at enhanced rate is not agreed to. 43 A. 330= 19 A.L.J. 92; 19 I.C. 758. Where such a notice is invalid for want of proper period, the tenancy does not determine nor can enhanced rent be demanded. 62 I.C. 421=2 P.L.T. 282. See also 1926 N. 147. See contra 89 I.C. 578=1926 O. 79. Notice to quit—Construction—Offer to pay compensation to tenant—Lease silent as to payment of compensation—Right to eject without payment of compensation. 1936 C. 581.

PERMANENT TENANCIES.—The burden of proving permanency of tenure is on the lessees. Otherwise, the leases shall be presumed to be monthly or yearly as the case may be. 43 I.C. 643=35 M.L.J. 281. See also 13 C.W.N. 513= 9 C.L.J. 362. Joint lessees cannot object to partition on the ground that the permanent leases were granted by the lessors in excess of their powers and are liable to be set aside. 43 C. 1118 =53 I.C. 129. In case of building leases the presumption is in favour of permanent tenancies. 1 P. 717=1922 P. 258; 34 C. 358; 164 I.C. 1003. The lease of land for the purpose of putting up a permanent construction cannot be deemed to be a permanent lease. Such a lease in the absence of any contract or local law or usage must be deemed to be a lease from month to month. 1941 A.L.J. 557=1941 A. 399. See also 48 L.W. 894= 1939 M. 247; 23 P. 294. The use of the words Istimrari Maurasi Mokurari in a lease prima facie creates a heritable and permanent tenancy and not merely an estate for the life of the grantee. 41 I.C. 875; but the use of the word "Istimrari" or "Istimrari Mokurari" prima facie refers only to life estate. 56 I.C. 656; 30 C. 883. The following are presumed to create a permanent tenancy—Patni tenure, 3 B.L.R. (A.C.) 437; 25 C. 13; Mulgini tenure, 17 M. 218; Mirasi tenure, 1888 P.J. (B.) 304; Kayam saswatha tenure, 35 M.L.J. 129. See also 25 C. 13; 3 Bom.L.R. 437; 17 M. 218. A forfeiture clause in a lease deed does not derogate from the otherwise permanent nature of the tenancy. 34 C. 358. Long and continued possession coupeld with the tenants building on the land pucca structures from time to time would give rise to a presumption of permanent tenancy. See 28 C. 738; 32 C. 51; 34 C. 902. But see 15 B. 647; 31 B. 185. A permanent tenancy created before the passing of the Act to which, if created after its passing, its provisions would apply is transferable. 33 I.C. 502 (C.).

TENANT-AT-SUFFERANCE OR TENANT-AT-WILL. —The representative of a tenant at sufferance is a mere traspasser and his possession is not that of tenant entitled to receive a notice to quit as required by S. 106; 114 I.C. 725. It is doubtful if tenancy by sufferance exists after the passing of the Act. 39 M. 54=33 I.C. 705; see also 25 I.C. 109=1914 M.W.N. 728. But see contra 90 I.C. 98=1925 C. 1171. The defendants who were holding for a long time under yearly leases, and, on the expiry of the term under the last lease, were holding over on payment of rent to the lessor. There was no provision in the contracts between the parties what, if any, should be the notice in case the defendants held over. Held, that the tenancy should be deemed to be renewed from month to month (though rent was paid per year) and that fifteen days' notice ending with a month of the tenancy was sufficient. 36 C.W.N. 918. The defendant was a tenant for a term of four years commencing from the 1st June, 1921. After the expiry of his lease, he continued to hold over till 1928. NOTES.

valid and effective. The lease of 1921 expired at midnight on the 1st June, 1925, and the notice expired with the end of a month of the tenancy, viz., the midnight of the 1st March, 1928 : 37 C.W.N. 1=1932 P.C. 279=63 M.L.J. 685 (P.C.). See also 16 Luck. 44. Where the tenants take possession under a document which clearly purports to be a lease for a term of years, but which is not duly stamped and registered, the tenants are only tenants-at-will. 90 I.C. 98=1925 C. 1171. But see 25 I.C. 109=1914 M.W.N. 728. Where the evidence showed that the defendant was the tenant of the predecessor of the plaintiff and that he had been paying rent for the possession : the plaintiff could not eject the defendant as a trespasser but only under the terms of the lease. 1930 A.L.J. 1409.

Secs. 106 and 111, Cl. (h).—Tenancies from year to year or month to month created after the passing of the T. P. Act are leasehold interests and are both transferable and heritable. Consequently a notice to quit served on the surviving tenants alone but not on the heirs of some of the tenants who are dead is not valid and sufficient in law to determine the tenancy. I.L.R. (1939) 2 C. 254=43 C.W.N. 797=1940 C. 89.

Secs. 106 and 116.—S. 106 applies only when there is a valid lease created as required by S. 107 and the tenancy is subsisting. Where a lease is not according to law, the tenant is only a tenant at will and if he continues in possession after the period fixed in the invalid lease, without the landlord's consent, he becomes a tenant at sufferance, and is not entitled to any notice to quit prior to ejectment. 1940 O.W.N. 586=1940 O. 401.

Sec. 107.—As to limitation to the territorial operation of S. 107, see S. 1, supra. S. 107 extends to every cantonment in British India—see the Cantonments Act, S. 32 (1).

CHANGE IN SECTION [BEFORE THE AMENDMENT THERE WAS A CONFLICT OF VIEWS]—The Allahabad High Court held that a lease must be by deed signed by the lessor also. 26 A. 368 ; 27 A. 190; 31 A. 276. This view was taken by the Madras and Calcutta High Courts in the earlier cases (30 M. 322 ; 32 M. 532 ; 14 C.W.N. 73), but abandoned in 35 M. 95=21 M.L.J. 202 (F.B.), 1 L.W. 236=24 I.C. 784 and 39 C. 1016. The Rangoon and Bombay High Courts adopted the Allahabad view (3 R. 379 ; 27 Bom.L.R. 626). Now a lease should be executed by both the lessor and the lessee. A registered kriyanama executed by the lessee only cannot operate as lease, but he is bound by its terms unless of course he proves fraud or coercion. Nor is the document a license. 1942 A.L.W. 373. Before the T. P. Act, for the execution of a permanent lease, the execution of a patta was not necessary and the acceptance of a kabuliyat was sufficient. 14 C.L.J. 614=10 I.C. 489.

AS TO SCOPE OF SECTION, see 3 P.L.T. 12=1925 P. 216 ; 1941 P. 577. The amendment of S. 107 which requires leases to be in a bilateral form applies to leases executed subsequent to April 1st, 1930, in pursuance of an agreement entered into before that date, although such agreement provides for two separate documents by the lessor and the lessee. 43 C.W.N. 956. S. 107 does not apply to agricultural leases. 11 O.W.N. 1565=1935 O. 90. Nor to any grant or other transfer of land or any interest therein made by or on behalf of the Crown in favour of any person. 6 P. 446=104 I.C. 209=1927 P. 319. 74 I.C. 369=1923 O. 114. But see 36 A. 176 ; 3 A.L.J. 129. By virtue of S. 287 of the Cantonments Act, S. 107 of the T. P. Act is made applicable to cantonments. 1931 L. 501. For purposes of registration the term of a lease means the length of time for which the lessee is entitled to undisturbed possession provided he himself fulfils all the stipulated conditions. 36 A. 176=12 A.L.J. 219=22 I.C. 933. A rent deed does not fall within the purview of S. 107. 42 P.L.R. 75. A rent note signed only by the intending lessee is not a lease under the Act and it would not require registration under S. 107. Further if it is neither from year to year nor for a term exceeding an year, nor reserving an yearly rent, it does not require registration, though it may amount to a lease under Registration Act, S. 2 (7). 1940 N.L.J. 110=1940 N. 143.

NOTES.

THIRD PARAGRAPH.—Prior to the enactment of this paragraph, there was a conflict of decisions as to whether a kabuliyat or other document enacted by the lessee alone operated as a lease. For decisions holding that it did, see 55 C. 435 ; 39 C. 1016 ; 35 M. 95 ; 27 Bom.L.R. 626 ; 24 I.C. 784 (1) (M.) ; 24 N.L.R. 68. For decisions holding that it did not , see 26 A. 369 ; 27 A. 190; 31 A. 266 ; 1927 A. 729 ; 3 R. 379 ; 1925 N. 121 ; 1926 N. 391 ; 104 I.C. 410 ; 1924 A. 514; 46 A. 303 ; 27 A. 462 ; 9 O.C. 296 ; 14 C.W.N. 73 ; 1930 A. 678. The latter view is upheld by the amendment. Before a lease can be validly executed and registered, there ought to be a writing signed by the lessor when immovable property is leased out, and a mere kabuliyat by the lessee is of no avail. A lease for more than a year and continuing in perpetuity could not be given effect to without a registered document. The mere fact that the lessee obtains possession would not entitle him to force upon the lessor terms which would amount to grant in perpetuity. 166 I.C. 897=1937 A. 36. S. 53-A would not bind the lessee when there is no writing signed by the lessor containing any such condition. Again, the part performance of the contract would entitle the lessee to remain in possession until evicted on notice and would entitle the lessor to claim rent from the lessee, but, in the absence of a written contract signed by the lessor, would not grant to the lessee permanent rights as rights of a perpetual lessee. 1937 A. 36. See also 1939 O.A. 170=1939 O.W.N. 102. Lease and agreement to lease, see 11 C.L.J. 543=6 I.C. 632. S. 107 only prescribes the mode of creation of a lease. The effect of its non-compliance will be that the lease will be of no effect for the period. The statute does not say about the rights of the parties under the invalid lease and does not prevent the doctrine of holding over being applied, as that has been recognised by the statute itself. 144 I.C. 788=1933 P. 485. Where the lessee executes a registered kabuliyat in favour of the lessors and the lessors accept it by means of an unregistered amalnamah no valid lease is constituted, as the kabuliyat executed by the tenant is not a lease nor can the acceptance of the lessor be proved either by the amalnamah or by oral evidence. 1935 P. 291 (F.B.). Ss. 4 and 107 must be read together with S. 17 (d) of the Registration Act and instrument which does not fall under S. 107 is not compulsorily registrable. 32 M. 532=4 I.C. 1039. See also 39 M.L.J. 639. infra ; 21 M. 109 ; 44 M. 55 ; 11 I.C. 863 ; 1926 O. 609 ; 15 P. 460=17 P.L.T. 217=1936 P. 372 ; 1939 A.M.L.J. 148. The Act is inapplicable to mulgeni leases and registration is unnecessary. 28 I.C. 599=1915 M.W. N. 271 ; also to agricultural leases which may be made without a written instrument : 90 I.C. 51 =1926 N. 9. But where a lease is executed mainly with the object of making an arrangement for collection of rents and not with the object of cultivation, the lease cannot be regarded as an agricultural lease and is, therefore, subject to the provisions of S. 107. Such a lease is invalid, if the lessee is no party to it as required by that section. 164 I.C. 830=1936 O.W.N. 757=12 Luck. 514=1937 O. 151. See also 1940 O. 425. Kabuliyat need not be registered. 24 N.L.R. 68 =95 I.C. 183. But when an instrument is executed for that purpose, it is affected by the provisions of S. 17 (1) (d) of the Registration Act and must be registered ; and if it is not registered, it is inadmissible in evidence by reason of S. 49 of the Registration Act. 62 C.L.J. 534=1936 C. 770. Lease for an indefinite period, need not be registered : see 97 P.R. 1915=32 I.C. 35 ; nor a tenancy at will : see 44 C. 214=21 C.W.N. 206. Lac cultivation falls within the extended definition of agriculture given in S. 2 (2) of C. P. Tenancy Act and a lease for three years for working out lac bearing trees need not be in writing and registered. But if reduced to writing, it must be registered because lease of a lac jungle is "the right of planting lac on the trees," that is to say, the right of sowing, cultivating and harvesting the crop. I.L.R. (1938) N. 31=1937 N. 289. A lease for planting casuarina trees is not one for agricultural purposes and must be registered. 34 I.C. 539=3 L.W. 319. (See also under S. 117). Fishery rights constitute immovable property and the provisions of S. 107 excludes the possibility of an oral lease of such rights for a term exceeding one year. 1941 O.W.N. 1065=1941 A.W.R. 823 (Rev.). Where the lease of a rice mill is executed for one month with a condition that if there was paddy left unmilled at the expiry of the lease a fixed monthly rent would be paid every month for five years, the lease is a lease for over one year and requires registration. 194 I.C. 31= 1941 R. 117. Where rent is mentioned in a lease which is inadmissible in evidence on account of its being unregistered, though the figure as to the rent mentioned in the lease cannot be looked at in order to establish the rent fixed, it might be looked at to establish what damages the landlord suing for arrears of rent was entitled to by way of rent. 32 P.L.R. 361=1931 L. 501. Execution of a rent note by the tenant without delivery of possession does not transfer any interest in the property. 27 Bom.L.R. 626=88 I.C. 648 (1). A rent-note in respect of a house for a period of eleven months, which is unregistered cannot operate as a lease. A registered instrument is necessary in every case, except where the lease is by oral agreement accompanied by delivery of possession. 164 I.C. 557=1936 N. 174. Such an unregistered rent note is not receivable in evidence either for proving the duration of the lease or for proving the rent, in view of S. 49 of the Registration Act. 1936 N. 174. A perpetual lease of a plot of ground on an annual rent is not valid unless registered. 1936 N. 295. Whether a tenancy comes into existence before or after passing of T. P. Act, a landlord is prima facie entitled to possession of his ghair mazrua land subject, of course, to such right (if any) as the tenant may show to have been conferred upon him by the landlord. A permanent right can only be based either upon a contract express or implied, or upon some statement of fact grounding an estoppel. 23 P.L.T. 294. Tenancy reserving yearly rent must be registered. 59 I.C. 788. The fact that rent is reserved at a certain amount a year does not by itself show that it is a tenancy from year to year. A tenancy at will can be created orally. 44 C. 214=21 C.W.N. 206. See also 23 I.C. 318=18 C.W.N. 858 ; 32 I.C. 35. A lease from month to month which requires registration under S. 107, T. P. Act, but not under S. 17 of the Registration Act is admissible in evidence to prove the nature of possession under the instrument. Section 49 of the Registration Act applies only to instruments which are required to be registered by S. 17 of the Act. 1931 L. 501. An oral lease of property for a period of one year is valid. 146 I.C. 640=1933 R. 262; 63 C. 31. But if coupled with a covenant to renew it from year to year must be registered. 26 I.C. 962=19 C.W.N. 489; 18 I. C. 844=17 C.L.J. 167. See also 4 P. 139=84 I.C. 586=1925 P. 216. All leases for more than a year must be in writing and registered. A lease for life must be registered. 59 I.C. 893. Where possession had been delivered under an agreement, but documents have not been executed or registered, the position is the same as if they have been executed, only the party will have to file a suit for specific performance. 27 C.W.N. 159=1923 C. 130; 32 I. C. 692=8 L.B.R. 351; 5 I.C. 562 (C.); 14 A. 176; 31 A. 276; 1925 C. 1171; 35 M. 95; 11 I. C. 863. Under S. 107 a lease made by oral agreement should be accompanied by delivery of possession. Delivery of the key of a vacated bungalow is a sufficient delivery of possession. 148 I.C. 548 (1) =1934 Pesh. 81 (1). A verbal lease for more than one year is valid for one year if possession is delivered. 20 I.C. 715. An oral contract of lease for five years is invalid and the tenure would be presumed to be from month to month. 89 I.C. 1019=1926 N. 147. Where a lease, which would have been valid if it had been merely oral accompanied with possession, is reduced to writing and is accompanied by delivery of possession, the document does not require registration. 1937 O.W.N. 1030=1937 O. 505. If a lease for residential purposes reserving a yearly rent is not registered, the tenancy must in the eye of law be deemed to be a tenancy from month to month. 42 C.W.N. 771. Lease of house for 8 months in writing—Registration—Necessity. See 1938 O. W.N. 1080. Irregular arrangements between lessor and lessee pertaining to non-agricultural land purporting to be a lease for a period of years cannot be held to be a valid lease unless there is a written and registered document. 1937 R. 180. Lease deed being inadmissible in evidence—Proof of oral lease—Permissibility. 37 C.W.N. 473. Where a zamindar sells by auction his right to recover the rent due to him by the ryots, for a period of three years the transaction amounts to a lease of immovable property, the right to collect rents being a right to receive a benefit to arise in future out of land and therefore an interest in the land. The subject of the lease is not land itself and the object of it is not agricultural. Such lease must be effected by an instrument in writing registered; otherwise it is not valid or enforceable and no suit for rent on the basis of such lease can be maintained. 45 L. W. 387=1937 M. 656. When the lessee under such lease has, however, collected rents it has to be regarded as use and occupation, for which the lessee is liable for damages, the measure of which is the amounts actually collected by him from the ryots. 1937 M. 656=45 L.W. 387.

UNREGISTERED LEASE DEED—ADMISSIBILITY IN EVIDENCE.—When the origin of a tenancy is known and the document by which it purports to have been created and which is the primary evidence of the transaction is ruled out, oral evidence as to the terms of the tenancy is not admissible nor can attendant circumstances be looked in to find out its nature or incidents. 37 C.W.N. 473=1933 C. 612. But when possession of the leased property is admitted, the lessor could recover money for the use and occupation. 36 B. 500=15 I.C. 830; 18 I.C. 844=17 C.L.J. 167; 89 I.C. 1019; 29 P.W.R. 1922=1922 L. 329. [See now S. 53-A giving legislative recognition to the doctrine of part-performance. 27 A.L.J. 1134=1929 A. 831 is not now good law. See also 1923 C. 63.] But an unregistered lease deed is admissible in evidence for purposes other than to prove the lease: 44 M. 55=39 M.L.J. 639 (F.B.); 1942 O.W.N. 357=1942 O.A. 258. For instance that possession was permissive and not adverse: 39 M.L.J. 639=59 I.C. 330 (F.B.). See also 32 P.L.R. 361. Also reference may be made to the deed for ascertaining damages. 32 P.L.R. 361. If there was a letting by oral agreement and delivery of possession, the mere existence of an instrument which is inadmissible, for want of registration does not exclude other evidence of tenancy. 32 M. 532=4 I.C. 1039. The instrument itself is inadmissible, though it is in the form of a letter written to the lessee by the lessor after the grant of a lease. 37 C. 293=4 I.C. 713. But see 90 I.C. 51=1926 N. 9, holding that a letter written by lessor to lessee and referring to an already existing lease is evidence of the prior lease and is admissible without registration. A sub-lease which requires registration but which is not registered is void; and a condition in the original lease against transfer is not broken by the sub-lease or transfer which is void. Such an illegal sub-letting would not entail forfeiture for breach of condition against transfer. 15 P. 460 =1936 P. 372. A document given by the owner of land to his tenant or by the tenant to his landlord, varying the term of the tenancy with reference to the amount of rent to be paid requires registration. [2 I.C. 89, impliedly overruled by 39 C. 284 (F.B.); 24 C. 20 and 22 M. 217, Not Foll.]. 162 I.C. 33=40 C.W.N. 638=1936 C. 155.

ORAL AGREEMENT TO LEASE.—An oral agreement to lease, which contemplates specifically the formal execution of a deed can be specifically enforced, and S. 107 is no bar to the same. 100 I.C. 404=1927 C. 275. See also 1926 N. 147; 20 I.C. 715 (oral lease for more than one year accompanied by delivery of possession will be good for one year). 20 I. C. 715. See also I.L.R. (1939) 2 C. 854=43 C.W.N. 797=1940 C. 89; 63 C. 31; 19 P.L.T. 791=1938 P. 435. An oral lease of agricultural land cannot be complete or valid without delivery of possession. Where there has been no delivery of possession it can only be regarded as an agreement to lease. Such a lessee cannot alone maintain an action in ejectment against a person in possession and not claiming under the lessor. Where a written unregistered lease is inadmissible for want of registration, an oral lease cannot be allowed to set up. 20 P. 346=22 P.L.T. 971=1941 P. 577. But in the absence of a registered instrument, the verbal agreement alone could not create a permanent lease and the doctrine of part-performance could not be applied so as to modify or override the mandatory provisions of the Act, so as to nullify the statutory requirement of a registered instrument. 58 I.A. 91=35 C.W.N. 550= 60 M.L.J. 538 (P.C.). (See S. 53-A). Whether an oral agreement is a lease, or merely an agreement

108. In the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, the lessor and the lessee of immovable property, as against one another, respectively, possess the rights and are subject to the liabilities mentioned in the rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property leased :—

to let, is a question of intention of the parties. If the intention was not to create immediately the relation of landlord and tenant or something more had to be done before the relation commenced, it is to operate only as an agreement to let and not as a lease. 1933 R. 220. An oral agreement for a lease of three years, where the lessee was already given possession and rent was taken from him and only the formal execution of the deed was to be done later, amounts to a lease and not merely an agreement to lease and necessitates a registered document. 57 M. 760=1934 M. 418=67 M.L.J. 54. The requirements of the section cannot be evaded by the parties simply saying that the parties agree to be bound by the terms of an old lease which has become extinct by forfeiture. 126 I.C. 284 (2)= 1930 M. 272.

LEASE FOR ONE YEAR.—Though a Hindu samvat year is more than one year according to the British Calendar a lease for one samvat year is not compulsory registrable. 1924 N. 216 (1). A registered instrument is necessary under S. 107 for creating a lease for any term exceeding one year or reserving a yearly rent. 4 P. 139=84 I.C. 586. An unregistered lease for a term less than one year is invalid if possession is not delivered to the lessee. 96 I.C. 410=1926 O. 609. A rent deed for less than a year executed by the transferee and not the transferor of the interest to be conveyed by the lease is not a "lease" within the definition given in S. 105 of the T. P. Act requiring registration, and would, therefore, be admissible in evidence though unregistered. I.L,R. (1940) L. 70=41 P. L. R. 498=1939 L. 423. See also 1940 N. 143.

DELIVERY OF POSSESSION.—A lease can be created by the mere registration of the deed, without delivery of possession, and therefore a lessee or sub-lessee can maintain an action against the lessor for mesne profits as damages for keeping the lessee out of possession. 6 P. 94=96 I.C. 558. See also 1940 C. 89. The doctrine of privity of estate is applicable in India also ; for the application of the doctrine all that is necessary to be found is whether possessory title has passed or not, and the question whether possession has been taken is immaterial. The mere fact that an assignee from the lessee does not take any effective step to obtain possession or to realise his share in the profits of the estate is not sufficient to defeat the landlord's right to realise royalty or rent from the assignee. Actual possession is not necessary. 19 P. 433=1940 P. 516.

Secs. 107 and 117.—A darpatni lease is not a lease for agricultural purposes within the meaning of S. 117 and would accordingly be governed by S. 107. 65 C.L.J. 590=1938 C. 172. The criterion for distinguishing between a lease for agricultural purposes and one not for the agricultural purposes is whether the primary object of the transaction is agriculture. A combination of a lease of shops in Lucknow with a lease of zamindari rights rather than cultivatory rights, in a village cannot be a lease for agricultural purposes and therefore requires registration. 1940 O.W.N. 842=1940 O. 425. See also 1937 O. 151.

Sec. 108 : GENERAL.—S. 108 has no application to a tenancy at will. 14 P.L.T. 685= 1933 P. 561. Though S. 108 is not in force in the Punjab, the principle relating to covenant for quiet enjoyment, is of universal application and applies. Where a lessor covenants to indemnify the lessee against all persons, this is a covenant to indemnify against lawful title and not against unlawful acts of trespassers. 171 I.C. 114=1937 L. 930. The principle of this section may be applied to Crown grants regarding the nature of ordinary covenants between lessors and lessees : 40 M. 910=30 M.L.J. 575 ; also to agricultural leases as enunciating rules of justice, equity and good conscience : 25 I.C. 812 =1 L.W. 858 ; 40 I.C. 590 ; 26 M.L.J. 160 ; 22 I.C. 515 ; 38 B. 716=28 I.C. 140 ; 33 M. 253 ; 33 M. 499 ; 1940 M. 410=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 200. S. 108—Original lease for agricultural purposes—Under-lease by lessee for non-agricultural purposes—Law applicable. 22 P.L.T. 821. A lease by a usufructuary mortgagee will enure only for the duration of the mortgage and the lessee will be presumed to know the lessor's limited rights. 11 I. C. 817=8 A.L.J. 802. A lessee for a term has no right to avoid a lease on the ground of breach of covenants. His remedy is only by way of damages. 1923 M. 833=48 M.L.J. 397. A lessee cannot repudiate the lease and claim refund of deposit, merely because the lessors could not produce documents of title where it appeared that they had prima facie a good title. 57 C. 1189=1930 C. 561. Where lands held under an agricultural lease are silted up by floods, the tenant is not entitled to treat the lease as void on the analogy of S. 108 : 1929 M. 575. The landlord can claim special damages where a tenant holds over, either for breach of contract to yield possession or for possession. 50 C. 667=1924 C. 240. Lease drawn up so as to be collateral security for a mortgage also—Effect. See 44 M.L.J. 728=1922 P.C. 347 (P.C.). One of the joint lessors could not enforce the covenants of the lease where the co-lessor impleaded as party defendant comes forward to support an oral agreement which modified the lease set up by the lessee. 185 I.C. 284=1939 P. 428. In connection with proceedings for the determination of mesne profits, a receiver was appointed to auction the land and the respondent executed a security bond to raise the second crop and give a certain amount of paddy. Held, that though the T. P. Act did not apply, the principles of S. 108 applied and that the respondent's liabilities were those of a lessee subject to the same legal incidents. 1933 M. 465=38 L.W. 263.

(A) Rights and Liabilities of the Lessor.

(a) The lessor is bound to disclose to the lessee any material defect in the property, with reference to its intended use, of which the former is and the latter is not aware, and which the latter could not with ordinary care discover ;

(b) the lessor is bound on the lessee's request to put him in possession of the property ;

(c) the lessor shall be deemed to contract with the lessee that, if the latter pays the rent reserved by the lease and performs the contracts binding on the lessee, he may hold the property during the time limited by the lease without interruption.

NOTES.

Sec. 108 (a).—The 'defect' has reference to the nature and condition of he property and not defect in the lessor's title. 19 I.C. 815=17 C.W.N. 960. The obligation of a lessor is the same as that of a vendor so far as regards the duty to give a good title, though the obligation to give disclosure or to furnish proof thereof may be different. (57 C. 1189, Ref.) 38 C.W.N. 244=1934 C. 437.

Sec. 108 (b).—The lessee will be entitled to possession though the premium is not paid in the absence of a contract to the contrary. 42 M. 203=36 M.L.J. 313. The lessee is entitled to enforce his right to obtain possession by ejecting another in possession and he can enforce his right against person holding under his lessor, who is bound to put him in possession. 1932 A.L.J. 126; 43 I.C. 210=33 M.L.J. 684 ; 1931 A.L.J. 666. But see contra 53 I.C. 140=6 O.L.J. 378. The mere fact that the lessor in the course of the suit entered into a compromise with the former lessee, whose lease had expired, does not disentitle the latter lessee from obtaining a decree against former lessee. 1932 A.L.J. 126=1932 A. 314. Notice to tenants to attorn would amount to delivery of possession only when the transferor himself is in possession. 40 I.C. 684 =19 P.R. 1918. See also 33 M. 102=20 M.L.J. 20. Delivery of possession is a condition necessary for a suit for rent. 58 I.C. 186. A lessee to whom possession is not delivered on the agreed date can rescind the contract of lease. 110 I.C. 420=1928 N. 328. When the lessor, knowing he has no title fails to secure the lessee in undisturbed possession, he fails to carry out the obligations imposed by this section. 47 A. 63= 1925 A. 275 (1). Where the lessee undertakes to get possession from a third party, lessor cannot sue for possession, at any rate without joining the lessee in the suit. He would be only entitled to a mere declaratory decree. 119 I.C. 169= 1929 M. 611. Where there is no dispute as to the identity of the subjects let, but the tenant denies that he has ever got possession of the subjects, it is for the landlord to prove that he has discharged his obligation to put the tenant in possession before he can enforce the tenant's obligation to pay rent. The landlord must not only show that the tenant is in possession of the subjects of the lease, but that such possession was attributable to the lease or might be so. 59 I.A. 29=59 C. 1012=62 M.L.J. 336 (P.C.); 152 I. Sec. 108 (c) : SCOPE.—Where the lessee of a theatre grants a lease of the theatre to another for a certain period but before the expiry of the period, the original lessor, determining the lease, intervenes and prevents the sub-lessee from using the theatre and the latter is compelled to take a fresh lease from the proprietor on payment of an additional sum, there is a breach of covenant for quiet enjoyment, which entitles the sub-lessee to bring a suit for damages against the original lessee and recover from the extra amount which he was required to pay to secure a fresh lease from the proprietor over and above other damages. 181 I.C. 394=1938 N. 439. But where the lessor has no title to the property and the lessee is ejected by the true owner, the lessee is not bound to pay any rent to the lessor. 47 A. 63=85 I.C. 756. another holding of the lessor which was not contiguous will not render him liable for the entire rent. 33 C.W.N. 106=1929 C. 272. Inclusion of the land not belonging to the lessor would not make the lease void if there was no fraud or misrepresentation. Sec. 108 (d).—The principle of this clause is applicable to cases not coming within the Act. The benefit of an encroachment by the lessee on the neighbour's lands enures to the lessor. 42 C.L.J. 276=1925 C. 1114. It enures for the benefit of the tenant for the period of the lease, and afterwards for the benefit of the landlord. 22 W.R. 246 ; 16 W.R. 96. See also 26 C. 739 ; 10 C. 820. A tenant (even with rights of permanent tenancy) cannot by prescription acquire a right of easement over the adjoining lands of the lessor. 14 A. 185 ; 29 C. 363.

Sec. 108 (e).—There is no justification for restricting the meaning of the word 'flood' in S. 108 (e), to flooding by other than sea water. 1936 M. 664=71 M.L.J. 352. Section applies even if there is no destruction of the leased premises, but it is rendered substantially and permanently unfit for occupation or the purpose of the lease : see 7 I.C. 201. Where the shed in which the plaintiff carried on business and which he had obtained under a lease for a period of three years was blown off, it is optional to him to avoid the lease, unless the contract had provided otherwise. 1933 L. 517. The lease determines ipso facto on the serving of the notice by the lessee of intention to determine the lease on the lessor. No time need be given as in a notice under S. 106. 31 I.C. 697=19 C.W.N. 1019. See also 17 M. 98 ; 7 I.C. 201. As soon as the lessee elects to avoid the lease, he must give vacant possession of the leased building or land to the landlord. 33 B. 333=12 Bom.L.R. 1055=8 I.C. 1049. If he gives notice of his intention to avoid the lease while keeping some of his goods or articles on the premises, that will not be an extinguishment of the lease. 35 B. 333. If rent had been paid in advance, the lessee would on the avoidance of the lease be entitled to the refund of excess rent paid. 25 B. 15. In agricultural leases tenant is entitled to proportionate abatement of rent when a portion of the land becomes unfit for cultivation. 43 M. 132=37 M.L.J. 654. Sec. 108 (f)—In the absence of a contract to the contrary the lessor need not make any repairs. Even when there is a contract to effect repairs, the lessee is not entitled to terminate the lease. He can after notice make the repairs and deduct the amount from the rent. 38 C.L.J. 177=1923 C. 524. See also 51 B. 274=1927 B. 115. Tenant can deduct from the rent payable by him expenses incurred by him for necessary repairs to the leased premises : 6 I.C. 139 ; but only such repairs as the landlord would be bound to do, the burden of proof of which lies on the tenant : 3 A.L.J. 134. Though there is a contract to pay rent without deduction, the lessee may deduct the expenses of repairs. Such a deduction is in the nature of payment to the landlord and not in the nature of set-off. 12 C.L.J. 351=6 I.C. 131.

Sec. 108 (g).—See 6 C.W.N. 336. Where the lessee is threatened with disturbance or eviction

(i) when a lease of uncertain duration determines by any means except the fault of the lessee, he or his legal representative is entitled to all the crops planted or sown by the lessee and growing upon the property when the lease determines, and to free ingress and egress to gather and carry them ;

(j) the lessee may transfer absolutely or by way of mortgage or sub-lease by the Act of the prior mortgagee, for payment of which debt the lessor has made himself liable by covenanting with some third party, such as the mortgagee or his own vendor of the leased premises, that threat amounts to a breach of covenant, for his enjoyment. If so, such a sum paid by the lessee to avoid eviction and disturbance must in reason be one which the lessor is bound to make good, and hence the lessee is entitled to recover the same from the lessor. 40 L.W. 545=1934 M. 658. See also (1940) 1 M.L.J. 200.

Sec. 108 (h).—The intention of cl. (h) of S.108 was to declare the law and to substitute a general principle inconsistent with the principle of quic quid plantatur, but it limited the tenant's right to remove as a right to be exercised during the term of the lease. 60 C. 1042=37 C.W.N. 791. When the terms of a lease do not allow compensation for superstructures on eviction the Court has inherent power to grant time for their removal. 41 M.L.J. 265=1922 M. 349. See also 37 M. 1 =7 I.C. 202. Where a lease deed provided that the lessee might remove the fixtures within a reasonable time, if he paid the rent and acted in accordance with the terms of the lease and the lessee having defaulted in paying rent the lessor entered into possession, the lessee is not entitled to remove them. 34 C.W.N. 785=1931 C. 133. When the lease is found to be invalid, the lessee is not entitled to compensation for superstructures except in the case of fraud, but he can remove them. 34 I.C. 1=(1916) 1 M.W.N. 180. Apart from contract or estoppel, a tenant is not entitled to compensation for the buildings erected by him. He cannot remove them after quitting the premises. 38 M. 710=25 M.L.J. 625. See also 27 M. 211 ; 19 C.W.N. 361. (The option is with the lessor either to take the building on payment of compensation, or if he was unwilling to pay compensation to allow the tenant to remove the superstructure : see 27 M. 211 ; 38 M. 710). A tenant should be awarded compensation under S. 108 (h) for the trees planted by him during the tenancy with the landlord's knowledge. (1914) 2 U.B.R. 11=24 I.C. 708. The mere fact that the landlord knew that improvements were being effected but did not interfere, does not entitle the tenant to compensation for improvements, unless the landlord has created or encouraged a hope in the tenant that he shall have a certain interest in land. 37 M. 1=7 I.C. 202. A permanent tenant can cut down and use trees which he had planted. 38 B. 716=28 I.C. 140 ; 31 I.C. 12=29 M.L.J. 314. Where the dispute related to right to trees in a non-permanent holding, if the tenancy is proved to have originated before the Act came into operation, the landlord will be entitled to the same, unless the tenant proves some custom to the contrary. But if the tenancy came into existence after the Act was passed, under S. 108 (h) the ownership of the trees grown by the tenant will be in the tenant., 32 C.W.N. 242. The prohibition against felling timber contained in cl. (o) of S. 108 applies only to timber that stood on the land at the time of the lease. 108 I.C. 242 =32 C.W.N. 366. Though S. 108 (h) does not by reason of S. 117 of the Act apply to an agricultural lease, it lays down a principle which does apply in the absence of any special custom to the contrary. The English law of fixture has no application to this country. It is wrong to hold that apart from special custom, the tenant has a right to cut trees planted by him on his holding. 25 O.C. 181=1922 O. 249 (1).

STANDING CROPS.—The landlord when his right to re-entry accrues is not only entitled to take possession, but can take the standing crops on it as the law of emblements is not in force in India. 11 C.L.J. 87=5 I.C. 306. Where, in a redemption suit of a kanom mortgage, the decree directs the mortgagor to deposit the decree amount within six months from the decree, the kanom mortgagee sought to be redeemed is deemed to hold the mortgaged property under a " lease of uncertain duration ". 26 M.L.J. 348=22 I.C. 515.

Sec. 108 (j).—Clause (j) does not apply to an assignee of the lessee. 18 I.C. 479=17 C.W.N. 813 ; 88 I.C. 79=1925 B. 330 ; 79 I.C. 557= 1925 C. 423 ; nor to leases created before the T. P. Act. 1924 C. 1012. (This clause. is not retrospective. 1924 P. 324). The rule as to alienability of leases laid down in this section is subject to the special agreement of parties. 26 M. 156 ; 33 I.C. 408. S. 108 (j) while giving the lessee the right to transfer his interest, also lays down that the lessee shall not by reason only of such a transfer cease to be liable for the obligations under the lease. This latter provision is for the benefit of the lessor and he has the option either to take advantage of it and to enforce his rights against his lessee alone or to accept the the whole or any part of his interest in the property, and any transferee of such interest or part may again transfer it. The lessee shall not, by reason only of such transfer, cease to be subject to any of the liabilities attaching to the lease;

nothing in this clause shall be deemed to authorize a tenant having an untransferable right of occupancy, the farmer of an estate in respect of which default has been made in paying revenue, or the lessee of an estate under the management of a Court of Wards, to assign his interest as such tenant, farmer or lessee ;

(k) the lessee is bound to disclose to the lessor any fact as to the nature or extent of the interest which the lessee is about to take, of which the lessee is, and the lessor is not, aware, and which materially increases the value of such interest ;

(l) the lessee is bound to pay or tender, at the proper time and place, the premium or rent to the lessor or his agent in this behalf ; transfer and sue the transferee for the enforcement of his rights under the lease. Where a mortgagee from a lessee had not only notice of the terms of the original lease between his mortgagor and the lessor, but also actually undertook by an express term in the deed of mortgage in his favour, to pay the rent to the original lessor and did in fact pay it to him, such a mortgagee is a person claiming under a party, to the original lease, by a title arising subsequent to the contract of lease. As such the lessor is entitled to sue such a mortgagee for the rent fixed in the original lease. I.L.R. (1938) A. 288=1938 A.L.J. 66=1938 A. 167. Where no part of the land in dispute forms site of the kothi and is merely appurtenant to it as part of its compound and was let as such the lessee should be deemed to possess a right of transfer of the nature described in S. 108 (j). 1932 A. Although the provisions of the T. P. Act relating to leases do not apply to agricultural leases, yet, as a general rule, both in the cases of agricultural as well as non-agricultural leases, if a tenant is expressly authorised by the terms of the lease to make a mortgage of his land and thus to transfer his interest in the tenancy to a third party, the interest so transferred should not be allowed to be extinguished, e.g., by the ejectment of the tenant, unless the person who has acquired that interest has had an opportunity to prevent that extinction. But the operation of this principle may be excluded by any statutory provision to the contrary. 47 A. 589=88 I.C. 224. J. 595=4 I.C. 63 ; 34 M. 108=6 I.C. 727) ; and continues only for the period his possession is secured to him by the landlord. 23 M.L.J. 119; 19 M.L.J. 58. The liability of co-sharer tenants to pay rent is joint and several, and the onus of proving that the landlord agreed to receive proportionate rent from each lies on the person pleading it. 40 I.C. 590. A tenant holding over is liable to pay for use and occupation. 30 M.L. J. 492=34 I.C. 6 ; 83 I.C. 757=1924 C. 240. After termination of tenancy, the lessee is bound to pay rent at a fair rate by way of damages and not at the rate contracted for. 22 I.C. 7 (A.). Payment of premium and rent and possession are dependent on each other. 10 I.C. 392=9 M.L.T. 510 ; 6 L.B.R. 164=30 I.C. 675. A lessee who transfers his interest in a portion of the property leased does not thereby escape liability to pay rent to the landlord under the terms and covenant contained in the lease. 1924 C. 359 (1); 40 M. 1111=32 M.L.J. 442 ; 88 I.C. 79=1925 B. 330. A lease provided that the tenant would pay rent whether he got a crop or not : Held, that apart from the said covenant, the contract to pay rent did not become void if owing to a failure of rain the tenant had no crop. (1910) 1 U.B.R. 22=8 I.C. 471. On this sub-cl. (l), see also 12 Bom.L.R. 831=8 I.C. 411.

Sec. 108 (m).—A general covenant to repair includes not merely buildings existing when the demise is made, but all those which may be erected during the term. 32 C.W.N. 154=46 C.L.J. 607. The T. P. Act imposes no obligation on the landlord to repair. On the other hand a qualified obligation is imposed on the tenant by S. 108 (m) of that Act. 51 B. 274=29 Bom.L. R. 78. S. 108 clearly contemplates that a lessee should not be responsible for the consequences of fire, unless he has definitely and expressly taken that burden on his shoulder by his covenant. 51 M 994=55 M.L.J. 663. See also 43 I.C. 273 ; 43 I.C. 258. The lessee is however liable for damage caused by the negligence of his servant. 39 M.L.J. 233=59 I.C. 252.

Sec. 108 (m) and (o).—The liability of a lessee when the premises are destroyed or damaged by fire is to be determined with reference to S. 108, T. P. Act, Cls. (m) and (o). A lessee is not liable for damage caused to the leased property by fire while the property was in lessee's occupation unless negligence of the lessee was proved. The burden of proof is on the plaintiff to establish negligence of the defendant. Where a fire was proved to have started from a room used as a kitchen in the first floor (a pucca room) of a house and it was also definitely proved that the night of the occurrence was calm and that the fire was not an act of God or an act of an incendiary, it is for the occupant of the house to establish how the fire got into the room and how it burnt the house and in the absence of an explanation on the occupant's part it should be presumed that there must have been some negligence on his part. 1941 A.L.J. 361=1941 A. 327. See also 114 I.C. 234.

Sec. 108 (o).—The clause cannot be held to cut down the right to work a mineral expressly conveyed. 4 P. 224=52 I.A. 109=48 M.L.J. 328 =1925 P.C. 42 (P.C.). As to right to fell timber, see 108 I.C. 242=32 C.W.N. 366. Where property is leased for cultivation and settling tenants thereon, the lessee is only entitled to a reasonable right of user in the soil, but is not entitled to dig or quarry stone or to collect and sell surface stones. A right to collect and sell surface stones can be established only by custom, which must be pleaded and proved. 20 P. 96=22 P.L.T. 100 =1941 P. 13. Where the lessee of an oil-well uses gas set free by reason of the sinking of oil-well without detriment to the property leased there is nothing inconsistent with the terms of section. See 1929 P.C. 108=56=I.A. 140=7 R. 157.

(p) he must not, without the lessor's consent, erect on the property any permanent structure, except for agricultural purposes ;

(q) on the determination of the lease, the lessee is bound to put the lessor into possession of the property.

Rights of lessor's transferee.

109. If the lessor transfers the property leased, or any part thereof, or any part of his interest therein, the transferee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, shall possess all the rights, and, if the lessee so elects, be subject to all the liabilities of the lessor as to the property or part transferred so long as he is the owner of it ; but the lessor shall not, by reason only of such transfer, cease to be subject to any of the liabilities imposed upon him by the lease, unless the lessee elects to treat the transferee as the person liable to him :

Provided that the transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent due before the transfer, and that, if the lessee, not having reason to believe that such transfer has been made, pays rent to the lessor, the lessee shall not be liable to pay such rent over again to the transferee.

The lessor, the transferee and the lessee may determine what proportion of the premium or rent reserved by the lease is payable in respect of the part so transferred, and, in case they disagree, such determination may be made by any Court having jurisdiction to entertain a suit for the possession of the property leased.

NOTES.

Sec. 108 (p).—See 20 A. 247 ; A.W.N. (1881) 144. Where a lease is granted merely for the purpose of laying out a flower garden, the lessee is not entitled to erect buildings on the land leased. If the lessee does so; the lessor is entitled to sue for and obtain a mandatory injunction requiring the demolition of the buildings. 1940 M. 32=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 773.

Sec. 108 (q).—The word "lessee" in S. 108 (q) includes joint lessees. All the lessees will be liable in damages for breach of the obligation to vacate. It is not necessary to make the lessees, who have vacated, liable, that the lessor should establish collusion between the lessee who holds over and those who have vacated or that they have assented to the holding over by the former. 30 S.L.R. 135=1936 S. 213. The lessee must surrender possession on expiry of lease. Else he would be liable to damage or to eviction. 50 C. 667=1924 C. 240. Possession surrendered by the lessee must be vacant possession. 22 B. 348 ; 12 Bom.L..R 474 ; and must also include lawful and proper accretions to the leased premises : 1925 C. 1114=87 I.C. 680. [See also under cl. (d).] A lessor, whose right has been foreclosed has, on the expiry of the lease, no right to eject or redeem the lessee who has redeemed the mortgage for his own benefit. 59 I.C. 511=16 N.L.R. 180.

RENEWAL OF LEASE.—Where a lease contains a condition that renewal of the lease would be dependent upon the performance of certain covenants during the term of the lease, that condition is deemed to have been satisfied if there is no subsisting breach at the time renewal is applied for, although there may have been breaches of covenants during the term of the lease. 89 I.C. 273=23 N.L.R. 26. The covenant for renewal of lease of land being a covenant running with the land, the assignee of the lease-hold is competent to enforce its terms even against lessor's transferee with notice of the lease, though the transferee be a minor. 89 I.C. 273=1925 N. 281. See 19 C.W.N. 1197=27 I.C. 397. For limitation for suit on breach of duty declared by section, see 101 I.C. 707=1927 P. 248.

Sec. 109.—S. 109 assumes a valid transfer. 1922 A. 45. The benefit of a contract can be assigned by one party without the consent of the other, but the liability cannot be so assigned. 7 Bur.L.T. 51=22 I.C. 940. Where there is a breach of the covenant for enjoyment and the lessee treats the transferee of the lessor as liable, he cannot turn round and charge the lessor in respect of the covenant. 40 L.W. 545=1934 M. 658. Transferee of any interest includes lessee. 53 I.C. 865 ; 1 L. 241 ; 6 I.C. 817. When the lease is terminated it is open to the lessee to question the lessor's title to the leased property. 1923 N. 91 (2). As to interpretation of section, see 60 B. 394=1936 B. 88. On an assignment of the reversion, the benefit of a personal covenant to pay rent does not pass to the assignee by operation of law. 1936 B. 88. If the lessor, the transferee, and the lessee have agreed as to the amount of rent payable to the transferee, there is no reason why the lessor or the transferee will not be entitled to sue for the rent payable to him without impleading the other. 1942 P. 120=196 I.C. 837. A transfer of the reversion of a lease carries with it the right to enforce forfeiture, even if the right accrued before transfer. 43 B. 28=47 I.C. 198. An assignee of reversion in a portion of the holding can for due cause eject the tenant from that portion, though the lessor cannot, but an assignee of a portion of the leased property cannot eject a tenant during the period of his tenancy. 42 M. 603=37 M.L.J. 47 (F.B.). Where the evidence showed that the defendant was the tenant of the predecessor of the plaintiff and that he had been paying rent the plaintiff could not eject the defendant as a trespasser but only under the terms of the lease. 130 I.C. 14=1930 A.L.J. 1409. A fresh attornment by the lessee to the lessor's assignee is not necessary. 41 P.L.R. 346=1939 Lah. 49. Mortgagee suing tenant of mortgagor for rent—Plea of no attorn-

110. Where the time limited by a lease of immovable property is expressed as commencing from a particular day, in computing that time such day shall be excluded. Where no day of commencement is named, the time so limited begins from the making of the lease.

Exclusion of day on which term commences.

Where the time so limited is a year or a number of years, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, the lease shall last during the whole anniversary of the day from which such time commences.

Duration of lease for a year.

Where the time so limited is expressed to be terminable before its expiration, and the lease omits to mention at whose option it is so terminable, the lessee, and not the lessor, shall have such option.

Option to determine lease.

Determination of lease.

ment set up as defence—Validity. See 28 Punj. L.R. 157. A usufructuary mortgagee of the lessor's right would be entitled to enforce a forfeiture clause in lease for non-payment of rent. 43 L.W. 518=1936 M. 116. A suit for rent cannot be dismissed in toto on the ground that the defendant was not a tenant of the plaintiff for the reason that the transfer of the property by defendant's lessor to the plaintiff was not notified to the defendant, as S. 109 provided no penalty for want of notice, except the loss of rent paid by the lessee to the original lessor. 23 P.W. R. 1923=1923 L. 389 (1) ; 17 C.L.J. 372=19 I.C. 865 ; 72 I.C. 86. Transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent accrued due before the date of the transfer. 19 I.C. 865.

Sec. 110, para. (1).—Unless otherwise stipulated, a lease takes effect from the execution of the instrument. 50 I.C. 177=22 C.W.N. 190. A lease may validly commence from a future date. 1 M.H.C.R. 153 ; 18 I.C. 496=97 P.L.R. 1913 ; 42 I.C. 372. Section applies not only for computing the duration of a lease, but also the time from which a notice to quit operates. 20 C. 118. If a tenant for a term of three years holds over, he does so as a monthly tenant, and each month of tenancy expires at midnight on the first day of the succeeding month. 38 C.W.N. 782=1934 C. 837. See also I.L.R. (1938) 2 C. 134=42 C.W.N. 443=1938 C. 358.

Sec. 110, para. (2).—From the fact that the rent is payable before seventh of the next month while the term of the tenancy is to expire on the first, no agreement to exclude the operation of the section can be inferred. 37 C.W.N. 1237= 1932 P.C. 279=63 M.L.J. 685 (P.C.). But see 19 I.C. 844.

Secs. 110 and 106.—If a lease is said to commence from a certain date, it means from the end of that date, and will have another day added on at the end. Where a monthly tenancy is expressed to commence from the 1st of a month, the notice to quit should be so framed as to expire at the end of the 1st day of the succeeding month. In such a case a notice to quit expiring at the end of the month is invalid. 42 C.W.N. 1115.

Sec. 111.—The amendment is not retrospective.

GENERAL.—Applicability of S. 111, Cl. (2) to Sind. See 21 S.L.R. 18. Principle of forfeiture applies to Berar : 98 I.C. 16=1927 N. 50 ; and to Sind, 1926 S. 71 ; 21 S.L.R. 185 : and also to Punjab : 70 I.C. 349. Section does not apply to agricultural leases : 24 M.L.J. 472=19 I.C. 563. See also 14 O.C. 204=11 I.C. 924 ; I.L.R. (1937) 1 C. 679=1937 C. 669. But the principle of the section can be applied even to agricultural leases : 42 M. 654 ; 41 M. 629. But see also 50 B. 450 ; 1926 B. 304. The doctrine that there can be no tenancy on sufferance as against the Crown has no application to the case of lands which are vested in a Municipality. 1937 A.M. L.J. 12. A denial of the title of the assignee of the landlord, in cases of agricultural leases before the T. P. Act, works a forfeiture, and no overt act is necessary for determination of the lease. 35 M.L.J. 129=46 I.C. 62. Though the effect of granting a registered lease would be to determine the unregistered 'lease' unexpired at such date, it does not cause it to disappear as though it had never been rendering acts done under it unlawful, as though done by a trespasser. I.L.R. (1939) N. 432=1938 N. 377.

Sec. 111, Cl. (a).—The position of a lessee for a fixed term holding over after the expiry of the term cannot be considered to be that of a tenant. The fact that the question whether the lease had or had not terminated was in dispute does not improve his position. 34 P.L.R. 262=146 I.C. 845=1933 L. 509. Where the tenancy has terminated and the defendants have been found to be in unlawful possession, they cannot rely on the terms of the tenancy. The compensation for "use and occupation" in such a case must be assessed on the basis of the normal rent realisable. 1933 L. 509. A suit for ejectment by the landlord, before the expiry of the period for which the lease is granted, will not lie, would have to be dismissed even if the period expires during the pendency of the suit, since the determination of the rights of the parties must generally be as on the state of affairs existing at the time of commencement

(c) where the interest of the lessor in the property terminates on, or his power to dispose of the same extends only to, the happening of any event—by the happening of such event ;

(d) in case the interests of the lessee and the lessor in the whole of the property become vested at the same time in one person in the same right ;

(e) by express surrender ; that is to say, in case the lessee yields up his interest under the lease to the lessor, by mutual agreement between them;

(f) by implied surrender ;

(g) by forfeiture ; that is to say, (1) in case the lessee breaks an express condition which provides that on breach thereof the lessor may re-enter [1][* * * *]; or (2) in case the lessee renounces his character as such by setting up a title in a third person or by claiming title in himself ; [2][or (3) the lessee is adjudicated an insolvent and the lease provides that the lessor may re-enter on the happening of such event] ; and in [3][any of these cases] the lessor or his transferee [4][gives notice in writing to the lessee of] his intention to determine the lease ;

Sec. 111, Cl. (d) : MERGER.—Where tenures are created before the passing of the Act, the acquisition of such tenures by holder of superior right cannot merge them in the superior right under the common law of this country. S. 111 (d) therefore cannot be applied to such tenures. 1938 C. 128. There must be the union of the entire interest of lessor and lessee to constitute merger, and the two interests must be co-extensive. 88 I.C. 495=1925 P. 530; 1922 C. 284. See also 39 C.W.N. 694; 28 I.C. 314=19 C.W.N. 435; 53 I.C. 16 ; 1926 C. 373 ; 107 I.C. 819=1927 P. 273 ; 58 I.A. 75=35 C.W.N. 502=1931 P.C. 63 (P.C.). When the same person on the same day takes a lease and a mortgage, there is no merger of the leasehold interest in the mortgage. 12 I.C. 734=7 N.L.R. 154 ; 24 A. 487. A mortgage involves a transfer of interest in the mortgaged land ; and as long as part of this interest remains with the mortgagees, it cannot be said that there has been a complete merger of the interests of the lessee and the lessor in the same person so as to attract the operation of S. 111 (d). Where the owners had notice of the mortgage effected by the occupancy tenants, the mortgagees being in possession : as they could not extinguish the mortgage by the payment of a small sum for the equity of redemption. 1935 L. 522. When the owner purchases leasehold rights, the latter are merged in the ownership. 89 I.C. 780=1925 N. 406. But see also 23 C.W.N. 830=51 I.C. 389 ; 48 I.A. 485=26 C.W.N. 565. Principle of section is applicable to Sind. 1926 S. 71. The principle of merger will apply even in cases where merger is effected by operation of law (as) by an execution sale. 28 C. 744. As to the law previous to the T. P. Act, see 88 I.C. 495=1925 P. 530.

Sec. 111, Cls. (e) and (f).—No writing is necessary for a surrender. But if the original lease is registered, the surrender can only be by a registered instrument. 63 I.C. 483 ; 14 C. 109 at p. 119. But see 52 I. C. 17. Nor is the surrender required in any particular form. 13 B. 294. The surrender of an unascertained, undefined portion of a holding by some of the tenants in favour of the landlord is valid and binding on the parties to it. 27 N. L. R. 116. Abandonment is not kind of implied surrender which must be mutual. 33 I.C. 98; 54 C. 948; 1928 C. 99. A lessee by accepting a new grant makes an implied surrender of his former lease. 18 P. 370=1939 P. 598. But the new lease should be a valid one. 71 I.C. 976. The grant of a lease to one of two joint tenants would not operate to divest the tenancy of the other. 3 U. P. L. R. (B.R.) 26. Surrender may also be implied from conduct of parties. 1 Agra H.C.R. 266 ; 24 W.R. 344. (Mere non-payment of rent does not imply an abandonment of land by the tenant). 14 C. 751. The section does not apply to a case where a surrender of the lease during the pendency of the period is prohibited by an express clause in the lease. 9 C.L.J. 632=2 I.C. 633. Where after a permanent lease had been granted the lessor mortgaged his interest in the property and the lessee subsequently surrendered the lease to the owner : the surrender is not valid without the concurrence of the mortgagee. 32 Bom.L.R. 679=1930 B. 329.

Sec. 111, Cl. (g) : SCOPE.—The only requirement of Cl. (g) is that the lessor does some act showing his intention to determine the lease. There is no reason why the lessor's election must be made at some time prior to the institution of the suit. (42 B. 195, Foll.) 58 C. 1359=35 C.W.N. 823. In cases to which S. 111 (g) applies, forfeiture is incurred only by breach of an express condition entitling the lessor to re-enter or for denial of the lessor's title, and in either case the lessor should give notice of his intention to terminate the lease. 62 M.L.J. 496. S. 111 (g) cannot be applied where the plaint does not set up that there had been any lease given by the plaintiffs or his predecessors to the defendant or his predecessors, and the allegations in the plaint do not amount to more than that the defendant was a licensee of the building site who paid rent. 1936 A.L.J. 201=1936 A. 385.

RELIEF AGAINST FORFEITURE.—Principle which should guide the Court in giving relief against forfeiture. See 54 C. 485 ; 50 B. 440=28 Bom. L.R. 527 ; 110 I. C. 872=1928 A. 716. Courts lean against forfeiture. 54 C. 948 ; 110 I. C. 872=1928 A. 716 ; 31 I. C. 454. A co-lessor cannot determine the lease. 24 I. C. 624 ; 11 I.C. 695 ; 39 M. 54. Although this section does not apply to agricultural leases, in a proper case Courts have power to relieve against forfeiture in the exercise of its equitable jurisdiction. 50 B. 450=1926 B. 304.

FORFEITURE CAUSED BY A BREACH OF CONDITION.—A permanent lease also is liable to be forfeited. Covenant of forfeiture for involuntary sale is valid. Forfeiture for voluntary sale does not include by implication a covenant against involuntary sale. 34 I.C. 833=21 C.W. N. 117. Forfeiture clause should be construed strictly. Alienation of portion or for part of term does not entail forfeiture under clause forbidding alienation. 1925 M. 57=47 M.L.J. 307. Mere stipulation of a condition without the forfeiture penalty clause will not entitle the lessor to eject the tenant. 24 I. C. 354 ; 23 I.C. 395=33 P.R. 1914. Where a tenant, who is entitled to notice, denies the title of the landlord, no notice, is necessary to eject him. 34 P.L.R. 884=1933 L. 377. Where there is a covenant against alienation and a clause for re-entry, mere creation of an usufructuary mortgage will not entail forfeiture, if the lessee remains in possession. 31 I. C. 454. See also 114 I. C. 786; 1928 C. 99 ; 36 C.W.N. 819. A penal provision without consideration will be relieved against. 36 M. 4 =10 J.C. 68. See also 110 I. C. 420=1928 N. 328 ; 47 I.C. 198=43 B. 28. As to whether the Act maintains the distinction between nullity and forfeiture, see 4 P.L.J. 292=1 P. 363. A disclaimer of the landlord's title made before the suit for ejectment, occasions a forfeiture of the tenancy permanent or otherwise. 13 L. 796= 1933 L. 221. Nature of denial of title that will work forfeiture of tenancy. 1927 A. 806 : 32 C.W.N. 391. There is no disclaimer of the title of the landlord when the lessee merely sets up higher rights under the lease than what the lessor accepts as granted to him. 14 Luck. 723 =1939 O.W.N. 825=1939 O. 257. The principle of this clause is applicable to cases not governed by the T. P. Act. 42 M. 589=36 M. L.J. 543=50 I.C. 631 (P. C.) ; 100 I. C. 771 ; 2 L.W. 483=29 I.C. 365 ; 42 B. 195=43 I.C. 851. Forfeiture on account of denial of title does not apply and extend to a licensee. 39 A. 621=40 I.C. 443. Denial of title by original lessee will not work a forfeiture against the assignee of the lessee's interest. 42 B. 734=47 I.C. 635. Denial must be clear and unambiguous. 43 M. 480=56 I.C. 13 ; 71 I.C. 270= 41 M.L.J. 525 ; 58 I.C. 226=22 Bom.L.R. 648 ; 101 I.C. 771 ; 35 A. 145=18 I.C. 728 ; 13 N.L.R. 11=39 I.C. 15. Denial must be unequivocal. See 98 I.C. 16=1927 N. 50 ; 100 I.C. 646. Denial must be brought home to the knowledge of the landlord, and if the landlord had no knowledge, the conduct of the tenants will not bring about a forfeiture of the tenancy. 34 Bom. L.R. 1287=1932 B. 599. A mere assertion not communicated to the landlord is not enough to work a forfeiture. 41 M. 629=34 M.L.J. 170 ; 43 M. 480=56 I.C. 13 ; 71 I.C. 270=41 M.L.J. 525. The mortgaging of premises by a tenant does not amount to an unequivocal and unambiguous denial of the landlord's title. 15 L. 683=1934 L. 282. Even a permanent lease is liable to forfeiture due to disclaimer of landlord's title. 42 I.C. 673 ; 26 C.L.J. 261 ; 43 M. 480 =56 I.C. 13 ; 51 I.C. 709=36 M.L.J. 532 ; 1930 A.L.J. 908=1930 A. 479. The tenant cannot escape from such liability, merely because a former decree for ejectment against him was allowed to lapse. 1930 A.L.J. 908=1930 A. 479. Wholesale denial of title is necessary. Setting up a right of a third party as co-sharer is not denial. 26 I.C. 619. Payment of rent to a third person would not amount to a denial of landlord's title by itself. 22 I.C. 796 ; 39 I.C. 15=13 N.L.R. 11. Acceptance by a tenant of a deed which described him as absolute owner does not operate as a denial of title. 43 M. 480 =56 I.C. 13. If a tenant honestly doubtful, puts a person, who has derivative title by acquiring the original landlord's interest, to proof of his title, such conduct does not amount to such disclaimer as to work forfeiture. 51 I.C. 709=36 M.L.J. 532 ; 1925 C. 1212. A person having substantial rights in the land does not deny the landlord's title of an attenuated character if he asserts a title as owner. 31 I.C. 184=2 L.W. 941. A lessee describing his holding as independent and permanent at fixed rent incurs no forfeiture. 2 L.W. 483 [affirmed on appeal by 42 M. 589 (P.C.)]. In a rent suit by the landlord, the tenant contended that the plaintiff was not his landlord and that he was nobody's tenant. This amounted to a disclaimer of landlord's title and the landlord is entitled to eject him. 149 I.C. 517=1934 A. 103. Setting up jus tertii and disputing the extent of a landlord's interest in a suit in which the landlord is not a party will not work a forfeiture. 25 I.C. 944=16 M.L.T. 442 ; 32 C.W.N. 391 ; 26 I.C. 619 ; 9 C.W.N. 928. See also 1928 C. 312 ; 113 I.C. 13. Merely setting up title in third person in a suit is not renouncing character of lessee as such. 101 I.C. 771. It is settled law that defendant's denial of plaintiff's title in the course of pleading cannot furnish a cause of action. 39 I.C. 15=13 N.L.R. 11 ; 6 N.L.R. 83=6 I.C. 927 ; 113 I.C. 84. Denial of lessor's title during suit is of no effect. 5 I.C. 336 (A.). The denial must be before suit. 113 I.C. 84 ; 42 M. 580. In order to relieve against forfeiture, the tenant must prove that the disclaimer was due to fraud, mistake or accident and that he was not careless or negligent. In other cases there is no relief against forfeiture for denial of title. 41 M. 629=34 M.L.J. 170. No forfeiture occurs by denial of title if landlord got derivative title from the person who introduced the tenant. 1925 C. 1212.

FORFEITURE FOR CESSATION OF SERVICE.—Forfeiture will not be produced merely by the unilateral act of ceasing to comply with the conditions upon which the property is held, but must involve also some expression of intention to enforce the forfeiture on the part of the lessor. Accordingly, the mere cessation of services by the parakkudi tenants would not determine the tenancy, in the absence of any act on the part of the landlord showing his intention to determine it. 163 I.C. 36=1935 M. 918.

FORFEITURE FOR NON-PAYMENT OF RENT.—In the absence of an express covenant to that (h) on the expiration of a notice to determine the lease, or to quit, or of intention to quit, the property leased, duly given by one party to the other.

Illustration to clause (f).

A lessee accepts from his lessor a new lease of the property leased, to take effect during the continuance of the existing lease. This is an implied surrender of the former lease, and such lease determines thereupon.

Waiver of forfeiture.

112. A forfeiture under section 111, clause (g), is waived by acceptance of rent which has become due since the forfeiture, or by distress for such rent, or by any other act on the part of the lessor showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting :

Provided that the lessor is aware that the forfeiture has been incurred :

Provided also that, where rent is accepted after the institution of a suit to eject the lessee on the ground of forfeiture, such acceptance is not a waiver.

NOTICE DETERMINING THE LEASE ON FORFEITURE.—Under the amended section, notice in writing is necessary to determine the lease by forfeiture. See 35 C.W.N. 823. There was some conflict of decisions under the old section as to whether filing of suit itself would be an overt act, within the meaning of the section [vide 60 I.C. 312 (C.); 1924 L. 281 ; 14 I.C. 747 (A.) ; 21 S.L.R. 185 ; 45 C. 469 ; 24 C. The effect of the amendment is pointed out in the decision in 35 C.W.N. 823. As to the state of the old law, see 1935 M. 454. Under the section as it stands it is necessary that notice should be given before the right to institute a suit can arise. 1935 M. 454. The act of the lessee renouncing his character as such makes the lease only voidable, but the lessor is not entitled to take possession until he actually avoids the lease by giving a notice as prescribed in the last portion of S. 111(g). 15 Luck. 92=1940 O. 92. It was held that no overt act was necessary in cases where section did not apply. 34 I.C. 833=21 C.W.N. 117 ; 51 I.C. 709=36 M.L.J. 532 ; 46 I.C. 62=35 M.L.J. 129 ; 38 M. 445=25 M.L.J. 315 ; nor in respect of leases executed before the T. P. Act : 34 M. 161=20 M.L.J. 933 ; nor in case of agricultural leases. See 21 I.C. 405=25 M.L.J. 486. It was held that specific notice to quit was not necessary and that demand of possession was sufficient. 40 I.C. 348=25 C.L.J. 332. Where, on breach of a covenant by a lessee, the lessors granted a fresh lease, the lessors clearly showed their intention to terminate the first lease. 126 I.C. 284 (2)=1930 M. 272. Both an election to forfeiture and to waiver of forfeiture are irrevocable. 15 I.C. 445=24 M.L.J. 263. Lease once forfeited cannot be revived by mere oral agreement. 126 I.C. 284 (2)=1930 M. 272.

Sec. 111 (h) : NOTICE TO QUIT.—S. 111 does not render it obligatory upon the lessor to serve a notice to quit upon the lessee who has forfeited his tenancy ; even a demand for possession is sufficient. There must have been service of notice before the suit for ejectment is filed. 51 I.C. 336 (A.). The validity of a notice to quit ought not to turn on the splitting of a straw. 1931 M. 352=60 M.L.J. 293. The owner of an undivided share in a house cannot alone evict a tenant of the house. 24 I.C. 624. Where a lease is for a fixed term and the tenancy is terminable on notice thereafter, the notice cannot be given until after the expiry of the fixed term. 23 I.C. 572=26 M.L.J. 467. A notice unequivocally expressing an intention to determine the lease for forfeiture determines the tenancy, though the notice might not be adequate under S. 106. 66 I.C. 48=41 M.L.J. 265 ; 2 L.W. 946=31 I.C. 211. Even where no notice to quit is necessary, time to the lessee to remove buildings should be given. 23 I.C. 762=19 C.W.N. 361. See also 2 P.L.T. 282=62 I.C. 421. Where the lease for term originally fixed expired at midnight on the 1st April, 1921, thereafter the tenant held over as a monthly tenant, each month of the renewed tenancy expiring at midnight on the 1st day of the succeeding month ; and consequently the notice to quit expiring with the last day of a month was a bad notice and insufficient to determine the tenancy. 38 C.W.N. 782= 1934 C. 837.

Sec. 112 : WAIVER OF FORFEITURE.—A lessee by denying the title of the lessor incurs forfeiture ; but it is at the option of the landlord to take advantage of the forfeiture, and if he elects not to do so, the forfeiture is waived. The election may be express or implied. 1936 M. 252 ; 168 I.C. 1005. Both an election to forfeiture and waiver of forfeiture are irrevocable. 15 I.C. 445 =24 M.L.J. 263.

(1) ACCEPTANCE OF RENT.—Acceptance of rent due after forfeiture, even if coupled with the condition that the lessor may insist upon his forfeiture operates as a waiver. 1923 C. 663 ; 1935 M. 454. See also 43 C.L.J. 272=1923 C. 763 ; 20 B. 439 ; 12 C.W.N. 587 ; 28 C. 532 ;

Where a lease of immovable property has determined by forfeiture for non-payment of rent, and the lessor sues to eject the lessee, if, at the hearing of the suit, the lessee pays or tenders to the lessor the rent in arrear, together with interest thereon and his full costs of the suit, or gives such security as the Court thinks sufficient for making such payment within fifteen days, the Court may, in lieu of making a decree for ejectment, pass an order relieving the lessee against the forfeiture; and thereupon the lessee shall hold the property leased as if the forfeiture had not occurred.

But if the co-lessors have subsequent to the lease become divided, any one can enforce forfeiture though the other has waived it. 38 M. 445=25 M.L.J. 315. Where in a suit for ejectment, it is proved that the lessor claimed rent for a period subsequent to default, non-payment of which gave him cause of action for ejectment, the suit must fail. 42 I.C. 614. When the landlord sues for rent, he will be deemed to have waived any cause of forfeiture up to that time. 69 I.C. 282=41 M.L.J. 127. Acceptance of rent for a period prior to date of forfeiture does not amount to waiver. 33 I.C. 331=22 C.L.J. 546; 6 I.C. 447; 34 M. 161; 26 I.C. 107=12 A.L.J. 1139. But acceptance of rent after forfeiture will not necessarily amount to waiver. 26 I.C. 107=12 A.L.J. 1139. Acceptance of rent after institution of suit is no waiver of forfeiture. 2 B.H.C. 66; 44 C.W.N. 1109. Calcutta Rent Act does not abrogate provisions of this section. 49 C. 150=1922 C. 394. Where, in a suit for ejectment on the ground of forfeiture of tenancy, the plaintiff makes an alternative claim that the notice given by him should be treated as a notice terminating the tenancy in suit, he is estopped from relying upon the forfeiture, since the claim amounts to an assertion that the tenancy is still subsisting and is therefore a waiver of forfeiture. 48 B. 541=26 Bom.L.R. 672=1924 B. 454. See also 1938 C. 589.

(2) BY OTHER ACTS.—Other acts from which waiver of forfeiture may be inferred are (a) allowing the tenant to continue in possession even after forfeiture has been incurred and treating him as tenant; 8 M.L.T. 238; (b) allowing tenant to pay Government revenue out of rent due; 28 C. 532; (c) where there is a condition that assignment by tenant of the leasehold interest will entail forfeiture, landlords treating the assignee as tenant; 20 B. 439; (d) demanding rent for period subsequent to forfeiture; 42 I.C. 614; 14 C. 176; 1928 C. 663; 69 I.C. 282=41 M.L.J. 127. Where the landlord definitely determines the lease for forfeiture a subsequent suit for rent does not operate as a waiver of forfeiture. 12 P.L.T. 225.

ONUS.—The onus is on the lessee to adduce some evidence of the lessor's knowledge of the act of the tenant constituting a breach of conditions of the lease and it is incumbent on him to prove positively that the lessor had knowledge of the breach and yet continued to recognise the tenancy. 36 C.W.N. 819=1932 C. 787.

Sec. 113.—Acceptance of rent after notice to quit, effect of. 43 C.L.J. 272=1926 C. 763=94 I.C. 156; 1923 C. 663; 2 P.L.J. 595.

ILLUSTRATION (b) TO S. 113 shows that if the tenant remains in possession after the expiry of the notice and a second notice to quit is given, the first notice is waived, but the doctrine would not apply where the landlord treats the tenant as a tenant from year to year and the tenant asserts a permanent tenancy. Moreover, waiver is an act on the part of the person pleading the waiver, showing an intention to treat the tenancy as subsisting. When there is a denial of the notice, which is said to be waived, it cannot be said that he had the intention to treat a determined lease, as still subsisting. 8 P.L.T. 633=1927 P. 305. Acceptance by landlord of rent for period after the institution of the suit for ejectment, paid by the tenant under a consent order of Court, does not constitute waiver of notice to quit, although the payments are made out of Court, and cannot nullify the proceedings or prejudice the landlord's rights. 38 C.W.N. 782=1934 C. 837.

Sec. 114.—This section is intended to relieve the defaulting tenant from the extreme penalty of forfeiture to which he may be otherwise subjected. This section gives a discretion to the Court to be exercised in proper cases. 24 I.C. 79=12 A.L.J. 650; 34 C. 458; 58 C. 311. It will not be given if the lessee has done something not to deserve any consideration in equity. 45 B. 300=59 I.C. 769; 19 N.L.R. 50=1923 N. 193. The discretion exercised by the trial Court should not be lightly interfered with, unless such discretion has been exercised in a capricious and whimsical manner. 1927 M.W.N. 305. S. 114 may be taken as a correct statement of the R. 24=1931 N. 60. The Calcutta Rent Act does not expressly exclude the operation of S. 114 of the T. P. Act and it cannot abrogate the provisions of the section. 49 C. 150=1922 C. 394. A sub-lessee is as much entitled to be relieved against forfeiture as the lessee. 25 I.C. 186=12 A.L.J. 1085. The Court cannot relieve against forfeiture for breach of a covenant against alienation. 42 M. 654=36 M.L.J. 367. The fact that on a previous occasion the landlord condoned a breach of covenant on receipt of consideration or otherwise cannot take away his right to enforce the covenant on a later occasion. No question of estoppel or waiver can arise. 15 P. 673=1936 P. 493. A provision enabling the landlord to re-enter on non-payment of rent would be regarded as a penalty: 15 M. 125; especially where a large premium was taken from the lessee: 1924 L. 49=5 L.L.J. 99; 1928 L. 937; 8 M.L.T. 238=8 I.C. 309; 113 I.C. 543. Relief should be given when the non-payment is due to fault of lessor. 85 I.C. 964=1925 M. 919. Where the tenant was bound by his lease to pay arrears of rent with interest with rent of the next year, and on default being made in that payment too, was bound to surrender the property, he cannot be relieved against forfeiture. 20 M.L.J. 785=6 I.C. 438.

"RENT IN ARREAR."—The expression includes all that is due to the lessor up to the date when the application for ejectment is heard and order for relief against forfeiture made on condition of the lessee paying the entire arrears of rent with interest and on payment of costs. 58 C. 311. The words are wide enough to cover a rent which is even barred by limitation. "Lessors" in S. 114 include the transferee of lessor. 43 L.W. 518=1936 M. 116.

PERIOD OF GRACE ALLOWED.—If on account of non-payment of rent within the period of grace allowed by the landlord, the tenancy is forfeited, such forfeiture will not generally be relieved against. 1912 M.W.N. 1135=16 I.C. 803; 15 M.L.J. 210; 28 M. 389=15 M.L.J. 208; 1923 N. 193; 20 M.L.J. 944. But see contra 22 Bom.L.R. 1439=59 I.C. 769=45 B. 300; 39 M. 834=30 I.C. 596; 32 I.C. 526. See also 1927 M.W.N. 305; 29 M.L.J. 381 =39 M. 834; 19 N.L.R. 50. ENGLISH AND INDIAN LAW.—Under the Indian Law unlike under the English Law, relief from forfeiture cannot be claimed after the order for ejectment had been made. 58 C. 311. Under English law the condition of forfeiture is distinct from a clause of nullity. In T. P. Act, this distinction is not recognised and this has given effect to the existing law in the country. Still Courts have power to relieve against forfeiture. 1 P. 363=1922 P. 528.

Sec. 114-A.—Before the amendment of 1929 the only case in which relief against forfeiture was available was in respect of non-payment of rent. The new S. 114-A provides for relief in other cases also by providing for a notice to remedy the breach within a reasonable time. For cases regarding relief against forfeiture, see under S. 111, Cl. (g). Technical provisions, like the one enacted in S. 114-A, do not apply to the Punjab. 41 P.L.R. 895=1939 L. 330. The provisions have no retrospective effect. 1939 L. 330. Under Ss. 111 (g) and 114-A of the T. P. Act only one written notice is required and not two. In cases where the breach is not capable of remedy, all that the law requires is that a written notice should be given by the landlord before suit, conveying his election of forfeiting the tenancy. But if the breach is one capable of remedy, it is further necessary that he should require the lessee to remedy the breach and must give to the lessee reasonable time to do so from the date of service of notice. I.L.R. (1938) 2 C. 434=42 C.W.N. 761=1938 C. 589.

Sec. 115.—An under-lease is extinguished on forfeiture of the primary lease, but not on its surrender. 24 C.L.J. 40=34 I.C. 833=21 C.W.

Effect of surrender and forfeiture on under-leases.

does not prejudice an under-lease of the property or any part thereof previously granted by the lessee, on terms and conditions substantially the same (except as regards the amount of rent) as those of the original lease ; but, unless the surrender is made for the purpose of obtaining a new lease, the rent payable by, and the contracts binding on, the under-lessee shall be respectively payable to and enforceable by the lessor.

The forfeiture of such a lease annuls all such under-leases, except where such forfeiture has been procured by the lessor in fraud of the under-lessees, or relief against the forfeiture is granted under section 114.

116. If a lessee or under-lessee of property remains in possession thereof after the determination of the lease granted to the lessee, and the lessor or his legal representative accepts rent from the lessee or under-lessee, or otherwise assents to his continuing in possession, the lease is, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, renewed from year to year, or from month to month, according to the purpose for which the property is leased, as specified in section 106.

Effect of holding over.

NOTES.

N. 117. See also I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 144=41 Bom.L.R. 25=1939 B. 98. An implied surrender is more analogous to the case of a forfeiture than to the case of a surrender, and therefore extinguishes the rights of persons deriving title through the tenant. 46 I.C. 244=14 N.L.R. 107. See also 14 B. 384. A mere repudiation of the lessor's title by the lessee will not work a forfeiture against the assignee of the lessee's interest. 42 B. 734=47 I.C. 635=20 Bom.L.R. 830. Actions for possession based on forfeiture should be brought against all the parties interested in the premises. But the landlord, who obtained a decree against the head-lessee alone without making the sub-tenant a party, can obtain possession of the premises by executing the decree against the tenant. 50 C. 419=1923 C. 691. Mortgage by tenant—Subsequent fraudulent and collusive surrender—If binding on mortgagee. 1936 M. 422.

CROWN GRANTS.—It is dobbtful whether the exception under S. 115 would apply to a lease coming under the provisions of the Crown Grants Act, 1895. Therefore, under the ordinary law, it certainly seems that the right of re-entry which Government has under a lease is one which does prejudice the duration of an under-tenure. The under-tenant is liable to disturbance by Government, and even if he is not disturbed, to being called upon to pay enhanced assessment. 25 Bom.L.R. 1192=1924 B. 212.

Sec. 116 : ESSENTIALS OF SECTION.—It is for the lessor to do some act, receive rent or otherwise to give consent, and not for the lessee to do anything under S. 116. 94 I.C. 308=1926 M. 566. For difference in the English Law, see 32 C. 123 ; 1923 C. 524 ; 53 I.C. 180.

SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY.—The principles of this section have been held to be applicable to the Punjab. 112 I.C. 651. S. 116 is not applicable to the case of a lease governed by S. 107 and not by S. 106 ; where there has been neither an acceptance of rent by the lessor nor any agreement by him that the former lessee should remain in possession without the execution of a lease. 196 I.C. 237=1941 O.W.N. 1065. Where a tenant holds over after the expiry of the lease on payment of rent to the landlord, he must be deemed to be a tenant from year to year or from month to month according to the object for which the property was leased, having regard to the provisions of S. 116 of the Act. 38 C.L.J. 177=1923 C. 524. See also 1923 P. 340 ; 11 P.L.T. 444 ; 1923 P. 201. The tenant continuing in occupation under a special agreement for a further lease is a different case from the tenant holding over merely by consent, but, if for any reason his agreement has to be disregarded, he can fall back on the landlord's mere consent and claim his rights under S. 116. 54 C. 813=1927 C. 725. Where a tenant took a lease for 10 years from the muttawalli of a mosque with a covenant for renewal, and it was found that the covenant for renewal was beyond the jurisdiction of the trustee, the lessee holding over must be deemed to be holding on a monthly tenancy. 27 C.W.N. 159=1923 C. 130; 155 I.C. 367=1935 P. 271. The Act uses the word 'lease' mot merely for interests which can be created only by registered instrument, but for all interests of the character defined in S. 105 of that Act. 54 C. 813=31 C.W.N. 973. It is doubtful if tenancy by sufferance exists after the passing of the Act. 33 I.C. 705=39 M. 54. See also 25 I.C. 109 (M.). A tenant on sufferance is one who entered by a lawful demise or title, and, after that has ceased, wrongfully continues in possession without the assent or dissent of the person next entitled. 8 P.L.T. 633=1927 P. 305 ; 31 C.W.N. 282 ; 48 B. 341. A verbal lease for more than one year is valid for one year if it is accompanied by delivery of possession. Where after the expiry of the term, the lessee continues in possession, he may be held to hold over and is liable for rent. 144 I.C. 788=1933 P. 482 ; 148 I.C. 684=1934 P. 369. Where the tenant in a lease for one year continued in possession after the expiry of one year and the landlord sued only for arrears of rent some years afterwards and not in ejectment, it amounted to a consent on the part of the landlord to the tenant retaining possession, and the tenant became a tenant from month to month and was not a tenant on sufferance. 112 I.C. 651. See also 48 B. 341 ; 1 N.L.R. 32 ; 31 C.W.N. 282 ; 27 B. 262 ; 4 P. 139=84 I.C. 586=1925 P. 216. Until ejectment, even a holding over tenant has right to remain in possession against the landlord.

NOTES.

43 B. 531=21 Bom.L.R. 261. Proper notice under S. 106 is necessary to terminate even a holding over tenancy. 43 C. 359=61 I.C. 503=25 C.W.N. 13; 38 C.L.J. 177=1923 C. 524; 7 C. 710; 26 I.C. 107=12 A.L.J. 1139; 27 C.W.N. 159=36 C.L.J. 48; 1923 P. 340=71 I.C. 1022 (23 C. 200; 10 M.L.J. 201 are not now good law). Agreement to the contrary means one as to the terms of the holding over. 26 I.C. 962=19 C.W.N. 489. Where there was a term in a lease that the lessee would give up possession without notice and on the expiry of the lease, the lessee held over on payment of rent, the term as to notice is not carried over to the new lease and notice is necessary to terminate the later lease. 37 C.W.N. 971. As to contracts for renewal of lease, see under Ss. 106 and 108 (q). "Legal representative" implies a person occupying the same position as lessor and does not include an intermediate lessee. 24 I.C. 183=19 C.W.N. 525. Expiry of the lease term does not terminate the tenancy and the holding over lessee can eject a trespasser. 22 I.C. 789=37 M. 281. Express or implied consent of the landlord to hold over is necessary; otherwise he is a trespasser. 4 P.L.T. 696; 80 I.C. 568; 6 P.L.T. 142. Mere assent to hold over is not sufficient to create yearly tenancy. 4 P. 139=84 I.C. 586=1925 P. 216. The position of a tenant after the determination of the tenancy is no better than that of a trespasser, and he is bound to pay rent at a fair rate by way of damages and not at the rate contracted for during the subsistence of tenancy. 22 I.C. 7 (A.). A lessee holding over in defiance of the lessor is not entitled to notice. 13 I.C. 59=9 A.L.J. 574; 53 I.C. 180. The section does not apply to lessee's heirs or assigns. 6 P.L.T. 98=88 I.C. 387. Affirmed in 55 I.A. 212=7 P. 649=55 M.L.J. 882 (P.C.). Holding over homestead lands within municipal area—Applicability of Bengal Tenancy Act. 31 C.W.N. 282=1927 C. 279. Where the successive leases for one year each were given to a lessee who is already in possession under a prior valid lease, in view of the lessee continuing in possession with the lessor's assent, they became lessees from year to year under S. 116, and a suit against raiyats for rents is maintainable. 18 C.W.N. 858=23 I.C. 318. Where a tenancy for a term of years was created in favour of A before the Act, and after his death his heirs remained in possession and paid rent down to 1914, the legal relation between the landlord and the heirs of A must be deemed to have come into operation after the passing of the Act, and as the tenancy was not an agricultural one within S. 117 of the Act, Chap. V was applicable and therefore on the expiry of the term, the heirs of A have a yearly tenancy capable of transfer, and notice is necessary to terminate the tenancy. 48 C. 359=61 I.C. 503=25 C.W.N. 13.

RENEWED LEASE, TERMS OF AND HOLDING OVER.—When lessees hold over after the expiry of the lease, they must be considered to hold on the terms stipulated for in the lease. 97 I.C. 412=1926 C. 1239. See also 81 I.C. 592=1925 O. 173 (1); 33 I.C. 448=20 C.W.N. 948; 1934 M. 458=67 M.L.J. 455. Where there has been no agreement as regards the terms of the holding over, then no matter what the terms were, which governed the original lease, it must be regarded as renewed from year to year or from month to month according to the purpose for which the property is leased. 49 I.C. 974 (C.). See also 12 O.C. 279. When a tenant under a lease for a term of three years of premises in Calcutta holds over after expiry of the term, he does so as a monthly tenant, and each month of the tenancy lasts up to, and expires at, midnight on the first day of the succeeding month. 38 C.W.N. 782=1934 C. 837. The option of giving an assent which will convert the holding over into a tenancy is one that is conferred on the lessor and not on the the lessee. Consequently, where a tenant after the expiry of his lease continues in possession of a godown with the consent of his lessor but without giving notice of his intention to quit on a specified day, he is liable to pay a full month's rent as well as the rent due for the prescribed period of a notice to quit, even though his occupation of the premises was for a very short time. 48 B. 341=26 Bom.L.R. 231=80 I.C. 507. See also 49 I.C. 974; 19 C.W.N. 525; 19 C.W.N. 489; 32 C. 123; 18 C.W.N. 858; 49 I.C. 974; 48 B. 38; 1926 C. 1239.

POWER OF COURT TO AWARD DAMAGES FOR USE AND OCCUPATION IN A SUIT FOR RENT.—Where after the termination of a lease the lessee intimated to the landlord that he was no longer a tenant but continued in possession of the land, notice was waived by the lessee's conduct and though he was not liable to pay rent as such, he had to pay the landlord damages for use and occupation. Even though a suit is framed as one for rent, it is possible for the Court to pass, in the alternative, a decree for damages for use and occupation. 97 I.C. 933 (2)=1926 M. 1071.

Sec. 117.—The object of the legislature in exempting agricultural leases appears to be to keep in full force the several provincial Rent Acts dealing with agricultural leases and the relations of such landlords and tenants. 1925 P. 421=4 P. 404; 1940 O.A. 801. Leases unless exempted specifically are governed by the Act, to be so applicable [1][in the case of all or any of such leases], together with, or subject to, those of the local law, if any, for the time being in force.

Such notification shall not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

CHAPTER VI.

OF EXCHANGES.

"Exchange" defined.

118. When two persons mutually transfer the ownership of one thing for the ownership of another, neither thing or both things being money only, the transaction is called an "exchange."

A transfer of property in completion of an exchange can be made only in manner provided for the transfer of such property by sale.

LEG. REF.

NOTES.

An agricultural lease is that whose object is agriculture or allied to agriculture. See 98 I.C. 92=1927 A. 78; 42 C.L.J. 520=1926 C. 312; 24 A.L.J. 489. It is not the actual use of the land but the original purpose of the tenancy which determines the question of applicability or otherwise of the Act. 46 C.W.N. 277. Some plots were leased out to the lessee by a permanent lease. It was stated therein that the lessee was a tenant of the said plots and the lease was heritable. The lessee was also given the right of transfer whether by way of gift or sale or otherwise. The lessee was also permitted under the lease to plant groves or to construct buildings on the leased land. The lessee did not however plant any grove on such land. Held, that the land being agricultural land and not grove land under S. 3, Agra Tenancy Act. S. 117, T. P. Act, applied to the lease. The interest of the tenant of such land was therefore not transferable in execution of a decree of a Civil Court by virtue of S. 23 of the Tenancy Act. 1937 A.L.J. 656=1937 A. 561. Lease of land permitting the lessee to gather khar or grass spontaneously growing on land is a lease for agricultural purposes and no registration is necessary. See 118 I.C. 841=1929 O. 529. See also 48 A. 385=95 I.C. 1048; 3 L.W. 485; 24 A.L.J. 489=1926 A. 432; 45 M. 710=43 M.L.J. 191 (if agriculture includes horticulture); 1926 C. 312; 24 M. 421; 1932 C. 715. Land let out for pasture, habitation of agriculturists for tying, ploughing cattle or storing manure, is for agricultural purpose. 34 I.C. 539 =3 L.W. 319. A lease for planting casuarina trees is not one for an agricultural purpose. 3 L.W. 319. But see 45 M. 710=43 M.L.J. 191. The Act applies to lease for residential purpose with right to take fruits from trees on the land and plant other fruit trees, it being not an agricultural lease. 92 I.C. 411=1926 C. 312. Agricultural leases may be oral or even by conduct. 1923 C. 433. If tenancy providing for collection of money rent, amounts to an agricultural lease. See 33 C.W.N. 865 (P.C.). Cases not governed by Act are covered by general equitable rules or principles of English law. 53 I.C. 545. The provisions of the Act do not as such govern agricultural leases. 39 M. 834=29 M.L.J. 381. See also 53 I.C. 180; 5 M.L.T. 222 =4 I.C. 1124. Still most of the provisions contained therein are applied even to such leases as being in accordance with justice, equity and good conscience. 42 M. 654; 8 M.L.T. 250=7 I.C. 565; 98 I.C. 851=1927 M. 239; 41 M. 629; 25 I.C. 812; 43 I.C. 970. In a document of lease, no reference was made to cultivation. Neither was there any stipulation as to payment of cesses and the true purpose of the lease, was preservation and rearing of fishes, grazing of cattle on the bank, being only a subsidiary one. Held, that the lease was for non-agricultural purposes governed by the provisions of T. P. Act and not by those of Bengal Tenancy Act. 1935 C. 638; 31 C. 937. A lease for bringing the leased land under cultivation and reclamation is an agricultural lease. 48 I.C. 354. A liberal interpretation of the words of the section should be given. 4 P. 404=86 I.C. 597. A lease granted for the conversion of jungle and wild land into agricultural land is a lease for agricultural purposes. 13 C.L.J. 318=7 I.C. 864. Lease of right to receive the refuse collection of a village: 5 O.C. 122; 48 A. 385=1926 A. 43; and lease for building purposes: 29 C. 489: are not leases for agricultural purposes.

Sec. 118.—A mutual transfer of immovable property between two persons amounts to an exchange and each party acquires, on execution of the deed of transfer in his favour, a good title to the property. 60 I.C. 725=7 O.L.J. 699. It is not necessary for a transaction of exchange that there should be two separate deeds by the two parties thereto; and an exchange cannot be inoperative, only because of a defect in the title of one of the parties to it. 113 I.C. 753= 1929 A. 63 (2). In a sale, the price is paid in money; in exchange by way of barter for other goods or property. 25 B. 696. Where what is exchanged for is both land and money, the transaction is an exchange and not sale. 50 I.C. 288; 199 P.L.R. 1913=19 I.C. 301; 86 I.C. 266=1925 L. 326. See also 3 N.L.R. 138; 1930 A. 426 (2). Transfer in consideration of forbearance to take certain legal proceedings is not an exchange. 54 M. 163=1931 M. 140= 60 M.L.J. 56. Where land is given in exchange for right of easement, registered document is not necessary. 92 I.C. 672=1926 M. 543. An exchange of property more than Rs. 100 in value must be by registered instrument; otherwise the parties can get back their respective lands, even though structures have been raised, after paying compensation. 40 M. 1134=33 M.L.J. 252. [But see S. 53-A.] See also 90 I.C. 131=49 M.L.J. 150; 25 C. 210; 38 M. 519; 1 M.H.C.R. 100

[1][119. If any party to an exchange or any person claiming through or under such party is by reason of any defect in the title of the other party deprived of the thing or any part of the thing received by him in exchange, then, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the exchange, such other party is liable to him or any person claiming through or under him for loss caused thereby, or at the option of the person so deprived, for the return of the thing transferred, if still in the possession of such other party or his legal representative or a transferee from him without consideration.]

Right of party deprived of thing received in exchange.

120. Save as otherwise provided in this Chapter, each party has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a seller as to that which he gives, and has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a buyer as to that which he takes.

Rights and liabilities of parties.

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted by Act XX of 1929, S. 59. The amendment is not retrospective.

NOTES.

Where the exchange of land accompanied by delivery of possession was acted on for more than 30 years and there was nothing to show that the value of the land at the time of exchange was Rs. 100 or upwards, the exchange though not evidenced by a registered instrument, is valid under S. 118 read with S. 54, T. P. Act. 8 O.W. N. 1275. See also 30 I.C. 408 ; 38 M. 519 ; 29 Bom. 1419. Now under S. 53-A on the principle of the doctrine of part-performance, protection would be afforded to the party defrauded if the conditions of S. 53-A are satisfied. See 42 C. 801 (P.C.) ; 40 A. 187 ; 121 I.C. 765=1930 M. 1. In an exchange one is not the price of the other ; so pre-emption will not apply to exchanges. 18 O.C. 109=30 I.C. 232. Partition of joint family property is not an exchange. 10 C.L.J. 503. As to difference between partition and exchange, see also 25 C. 210. Gift of land to wife, limited to enjoyment for lifetime, in lieu of her maintenance right is not exchange. 45 M. 612. Where possession by one party is not delivered, the remedy of the other is not specific performance, but a suit for declaration of title and for possession of his own property. 33 I.C. 762=20 C.W.N. 657. Exchange—Absence of registered instrument—Delivery of possession—Suit for declaration of title on the basis of possession—Maintainability. See 31 C.W.N. 348. An exchange entered into by the manager of a joint Hindu family, which is not challenged by the other members of the family, is valid. 113 I.C. 753=1929 A. 63.

Sec. 119.—The law applicable to exchanges of immovable property prior to the passing of the T. P. Act is the Common Law of England and not the Real Property Act. Such an exchange implied a warranty of title, a condition for re-entry on the land given in exchange and also the right to certain compensation for breach of the warranty. S. 119 of the Act preserved to the parties in India the English Common Law right as to warranty. S. 119 embodies rules of "justice, equity and good conscience," and may apply to exchange effected prior to the Act. 31 M.L.J. 380 =35 I.C. 92. S. 119 before amendment related only to the rights of the parties to the exchange inter se and there is no reason for holding that it was intended to relate to a third person not bound by an exchange to which he was not a party. Therefore the principle of that section did not apply to an innocent transferee for value from one of the parties to the exchange. 1934 L. 934 (2). S. 119 does not exclude an innocent purchaser into whose hands the property exchanged might pass. (1940) 1 M.L.J. 248. S. 119, as it stood before the amendment of the Act in 1929, should not be interpreted in the light of the subsequent change in the law, and the fact that the dispossession of the plaintiff took place after the amendment would not make the amended section applicable, where the transaction of exchange was effected long prior to it. 1940 M. 426 =(1940) 1 M.L.J. 248. Section in effect declares that there is a warranty of title by each party in respect of the property he has parted with in exchange for the other man's property. 31 M. L.J. 380. But this is subject to the special terms of any contract which the parties may enter into in respect of the properties exchanged. 21 M. 69 ; 42 I.C. 248. On the completion of the transaction of exchange, right to the property becomes vested in the parties and he then gets a right to sue for recovery of possession ; and if thereafter a party is deprived of the property which he got in exchange, he will be entitled under S. 119 to compensation or to the return of the property in dispute transferred by him to the other party. 113 I.C. 753=1929 A. 63 (2). Where the guardian of a minor exchanges his property for another and he is subsequently dispossessed of it, his remedy is not to sue to set aside the alienation, but under S. 119 for compensation or for getting back his land. 1924 B. 517. For purposes of S. 43 an exchange stands on same footing as a sale. 60 I.C. 819=33 C.L.J. 184. In every exchange there is a warranty of title. Where part is lost, the whole exchange is to be avoided or compensation is to be recovered. But an equivalent portion alone cannot be recovered back. 51 P.R. 1917=41 I.C. 248. As to whether charge is created when the transaction is not valid in law, see 38 M. 519= 30 I.C. 408 ; 42 M. 690. Where the covenant provided for the return of the respective properties exchanged in the event of any one being obstructed in enjoyment of his exchanged lands, a vendee from one cannot plead bona fides and want of notice. Art. 148 of the Limitation Act would apply to the enforcement of the covenant. 51 I.C. 939=42 M. 690.

Sec. 120.—Ss. 118, 119 and 120 show that the legislature has put an exchange on the same

Exchange of money.

121. On an exchange of money, each party thereby warrants the genuineness of the money given by him.

CHAPTER VII.

OF GIFTS.

"Gift" defined.

122. "Gift" is the transfer of certain existing movable or immovable property made voluntarily and without consideration, by one person called the donor, to another called the donee, and accepted by or on behalf of the donee.

NOTES.

footing with a sale in almost every respect. For example, a transfer of property in completion of an exchange can be made only in manner provided for the transfer of such property by sale. According to S. 120, each party has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a seller as to that which he gives and has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a buyer as to that which he takes. 1923 L. 456. S. 119 can have no reference to the case of a third person, who is not a party to the exchange and, who is not in any way bound by it. 30 N.L.R. 208=1934 N. 61. An exchange implies an inter-change of property with another and, except in so far as the price may not be payable in money, the rights and obligations attaching to an exchange are analogous to those of a sale, so far as the parties thereto are concerned. Third parties cannot be substituted in the place of either of them and as such cannot claim pre-emption. 22 A.L.J. 292=46 A. 359. But see 4 A.L.J. 756; 7 A. 626. Where an exchange transaction becomes invalid owing to some formal or other defect, no charge would arise for the value of the land exchanged. See 38 M. 519 =30 I.C. 408. The analogy of the provisions of S. 120 read with S. 55 (4) (b) cannot be invoked in the case of decrees based on award, which itself does not contain any declaration that a charge has been created. 1936 A.L.J. 1328= 1937 A. 39.

Sec. 122.—A Burmese Buddhist religious gift is not valid unless registered. 11 Bur.L.T. 259 =45 I.C. 925; 50 I.C. 809. See also 40 I.C. 54. The Courts in deciding as to whether or not a particular transaction is a gift according to Mahomedan Law, would look not to the provisions of S. 122, but to the rule of Mahomedan Law, on the point. 1936 A.L.J. 1027=1936 A. 600. The word "voluntarily" in S. 122 bears its ordinary popular meaning, denoting the exercise of an unfettered freewill and not its technical meaning of "without consideration." The donee of a mere special power of appointment, in exercising that power cannot be said to do it "voluntarily," as he is under both a duty and an obligation to appoint without consideration and by way of gift. The appointment, though it may be a "transfer", does not amount to a "gift" and therefore need not be effected by a registered instrument. 1938 Rang.L.R. 678=179 I.C. 903=1939 R. 76. Where a deed of gift was delivered over to the donee immediately after execution, it would be sufficient acceptance of the transfer by the donee under S. 122 and effective from that moment, although it was not duly stamped then and the stamp was paid after the death of the donor under orders of the Collector and the deed then registered. 46 C.W.N. 477.

GIFT MAY BE MADE to a minor: 39 I.C. 46; 32 C. 129; 11 M. 26; to an idol or deity or a temple: 32 C. 129; 3 P. 842; 37 C. 128; 32 C. 129; and to a Mutt. 28 B. 215. But the donee must be an ascertained person or persons, or capable of being ascertained. See 18 M.L.J. 364. As to gifts by pardanashin woman, proof would be required that it is her bona fide act as a free agent on independent advice and that the transaction was not tainted by fraud or coercion. 18 C. 548 (P.C.); 15 C. 584; 20 A. 447; 15 I.C. 529. Gift differs from sale or exchange in that there is no consideration for the gift. "Consideration "contemplated in this section is valuable consideration i.e., consideration either in money or money's worth; consideration of love and affection or of moral or spiritual benefits are not contemplated by this section. 1929 P. 591. "Dan" is gift and is governed by this Act. 1929 P.591. In order to effect a valid gift, both a transfer and an acceptance is necessary. 1923 P. 165. See also 28 C. 720 (P.C.); 3 P. 842=80 I.C. 980 [in the case of a donee incapable of signifying acceptance (as minors, idiots or deity), the acceptance may be made by somebody competent to act on their behalf]. 11 M. 246: 32 C. 129: 27 B. 31. Acceptance may be express or implied. 1932 A.L.J. 335. The circumstances that the bona fides of the transaction is undisputed; that after a gift deed was obtained from the Registration Office it was made over to the elder of the two donees who was then a major and who kept it in a box used commonly by the donor as well as the donees; that the mutation of name was effected in the municipal registers; that the taxes were assessed in the names of the donees and were collected from them; and that the donees were in constructive possession inasmuch as they as well as the donor lived in the house constituted sufficient data from which acceptance can be inferred. 179 I.C. 730=1939 R. 49. Acceptance may be presumed until dissent is signified. 41 I.C. 389. There is no presumption of acceptance operating immediately upon the gift whether known or unknown to the donee. Actual or constructive possession is however proof of acceptance and in zamindari property, and especially in a case concerning husband and wife, mutation means delivery of possession and the acts of the husband after mutation are acts on behalf of his wife. (25 A.L. J. 69, Ref.) 54 A. 534=1932 A. 444. Where the gift is an interest in land, the donor is not required to transfer the corpus of the property, but only possession of the interest. If the interest is transferred, the omission to deliver the corpus is immaterial. 43 I.C. 857. A minor can accept a gift without the intervention of a guardian, provided it is not an onerous gift. 39 I.C. 46= 13 N.L.R. 18. Such acceptance must be made during the lifetime of the donor, and while he is still capable of giving.

If the donee dies before acceptance, the gift is void.

Transfer how effected.

123. For the purpose of making a gift of immovable property, the transfer must be effected by a registered instrument signed by or on behalf of the donor, and attested by at least two witnesses.

For the purpose of making a gift of movable property, the transfer may be effected, either by a registered instrument signed as aforesaid or by delivery.

Such delivery may be made in the same way as goods sold may be delivered.

But see 1928 L. 9; 3 P. 842=80 I.C. 980. It is not enough that there is a registered deed of gift. There must also be a voluntary giving by the donor and an acceptance by or on behalf of the donee. The registered deed of gift may be merely a nominal transaction without any intention on the part of the executant to give effect to its terms. 3 P. 842=80 I.C. 980. There is no authority for the view that for an acceptance of an onerous gift acceptance of the gift itself is not sufficient but an acceptance of the onerous condition also at the same time is necessary. 37 C.W.N. 149=1933 C. 438.

A gift to God Almighty is not a gift to a living person and consequently does not require a registered instrument. 11 P.L.T. 658=1930 P. 610; 25 L.W. 806; 42 M. 440; 1926 N. 469. But where a transaction is substantially a gift the formal requirements of this section cannot be avoided by calling it by a different name. 49 M.L.J. 150=1925 M. 1174. An oral gift though accepted by a document by the donee is invalid. 28 Bom.L.R. 421=1926 B. 261. There was no evidence of any gift of his interest by the husband to the wife. Held, that Mrs. H was not entitled to more than half of the money deposited with the Bank. 1931 A.L.J. 417. On this section, see also 30 Bom.L.R. 451=1928 B. 250. Even prior to the amendment of 1929, section was held applicable to gifts under Hindu or Buddhist Law. 7 O.W.N. 953=1931 O. 14.

HINDU LAW.—A division of property by a father in his lifetime to his children is not a partition but a gift and must be registered. 1 Bur.L.J. 26. Delivery of possession is not necessary when the deed is registered. 83 I.C. 41=1925 N. 199. See also 95 I.C. 240; 22 N.L.R. 124; 1 R. 351 =1924 R. 13. Among Hindus, gifts made subsequent to the Act do not require delivery of possession if there is registration. Acceptance by the donee is essential under Hindu Law. It may be implied and may be presumed until dissent is signified. 41 I.C. 389 (P.). See also 1923 N. 199; 24 M. 513; 34 C. 853; 45 A. 115; 1922 A. 44; ibid., 467; 4 A. 40; 27 A. 169; 23 B. 234. There is no real distinction in principle between the essential ingredients requisite for a valid gift or dedication in Hindu Law and those laid down in the T. P. Act. 3 P. 842= 1924 P. 657. A Hindu lady, who is the full proprietor of immovable property, can by a registered instrument duly signed and attested, validly make an immediate gift of it, although she reserves to herself the enjoyment of the usufruct or profits of a part of the property for her lifetime and without detaining any power of alienation over it. Delivery of possession is not essential to the validity of the gift. 20 A.L.J. 744=1922 A. 467 (F.B.). See also 1922 A. 44, following 27 A. 169; 25 A. 353; 83 I.C. 41=1925 N. 199. A gift of immovable property by a Hindu father to his daughter at the time of marriage by way of sankalap is not valid in law as a registered document is necessary under S. 123, T. P. Act: 26 A.L.J. 944=1928 A. 699. S. 123 applied to the Hindus even before the Amending Act XX of 1929 was passed. No gift inter vivos of any immovable property could, therefore, be validly made by a Hindu except by a registered document as contemplated by S. 123. 44 C.W.N. 357=1940 C. 254.

MUHAMMADAN LAW.—The section does not apply to gifts under the Muhammadan Law. 28 I.C. 180=18 O.C. 122 ; 38 A. 212=35 I.C. 14 =14 A.L.J. 119. See also 100 I.C. 296=1927 C. 197. But in Burma, a gift of immovable property by one Mahomedan to another must be made by a registered instrument, duly attested, in accordance with the provisions of S. 123 : 14 R. 439=1936 R. 430 (F.B.). As to the law when gift is in issue in High Court of Rangoon, see 14 R. 485=1936 R. 522. Under the Muhammadan Law to constitute a valid gift, there must be delivery of possession. See 38 A. 627 ; 31 I.C. 281 ; 36 B. 214 ; 29 M.L.J. 733 ; 29 I.C. 439 ; 28 I.C. 180 ; 35 M.L.J. 541. Registration alone will not do. Delivery of possession is also necessary. 26 I.C. 466=19 C.W.N. 1311. See also 16 L.W. 894=1923 M. 52 ; 23 B. 682 ; 30 M. 519 ; 11 B. 517 ; 23 I.C. 547. Transfer in lieu of dower is a sale and not a gift. 64 I.C. 126. See also 1936 A.L.J. 1027=1936 A. 600.

BUDDHIST LAW.—See 150 I.C. 966=1934 R. 129. As in the case of a Hindu after the passing of this Act, delivery of possession is not essential for a valid gift under Buddhist Law. See 1924 R. 309. The Buddhist Law cannot be applied to the case of a gift unless a question of marriage, inheritance, or religious usage is involved in it. A gift made during donor's last illness is not valid without delivery of possession. 40 I.C. 54. See also 1938 R. 303 ; 50 I.C. 809 ; 45 I.C. 925. Land allotted in partition by Burmese father—Father cannot afterwards allege the act to be gift. See 2 R. 649=88 I.C. 76. But see also 1 Bur.L.J. 26. If a rule of Buddhist Law requires delivery of possession to validate a gift of immovable property, such a rule must be held to be abrogated by S. 123 and S. 129 of the T. P. Act. 2 R. 131=83 I.C. 557 ; 1 R. 351=75 I.C. 166. But see 14 R. 439=1936 R. 430 (F. B.). (Case of Mahomedan gift). As per Burmese law, gift by bridegroom to the bride at the time of marriage must be in writing and registered. Otherwise it will revert to the husband on divorce. 33 I.C. 129=9 B.L.T. 87. Transfer of property of first wife and husband to daughter to prevent it from going to second wife, amounts to partition of inheritance and not a gift. 4 B.L.T 186=11 I.C. 855.

ATTESTATION.—The provisions of the section are mandatory and the requirements of the section have to be strictly fulfilled. The strict rule of attestation applicable to the case of mortgages is equally applicable to the case of gifts. 1930 A.L.J. 623=1930 A. 669. Want of attestation invalidates deed of gift. See also 86 I.C. 676=1925 P. 151 ; 9 M.L.T. 57=8 I.C. 887. See also 1924 M. 800. Before the endorsement by the Sub-Registrar can be treated as valid attestation, it must be proved that he signed in the presence of the executant. 1931 M.W.N. 1242 ; 61 C. 525=38 C.W.N. 753=1934 C. 772. In spite of denial of attestation by an attestor from other circumstances, Court can conclude that he had in fact attested. 1 R. 557=1924 R. 139. Whether scribe is an attesting witness, see 36 I.C. 272=10 Bur.L.T. 106. (See also notes under S. 59, supra.) See also 1931 M.W.N. 1242. A marksman can in law be a valid attestor to a gift deed. 58 M. 220=1935 M. 178 (2)=68 M.L.J. 191.

REGISTRATION.—Where there was no registered instrument in respect of the alleged gift, the subject-matter thereof being immovable property, the provisions of S. 123 are not complied with and the gift is not valid : 12 R. 238=1934 P.C. 67= 66 M.L.J. 144 (P.C.). ; 1939 Pat. 258 ; 1937 N. 1; need not be at the owner's instance or with his consent. 10 A.L.J. 300=35 A. 3. But see 14 I.C. 61=9 A.L.J. 300 ; 19 M. 433. Gift of mortgage can be only by a registered instrument. 44 M. 196=40 M.L.J. 25. Gift of mango tree must be registered. 90 I.C. 769. Registration can be after the donor's death without the consent of his legal representatives. 40 M. 204=31 N.L.J. 690. But see also 28 M.L.J. 378=28 I.C. 271. Registration is necessary even in case of religious gifts. 36 I.C. 280. Retiring gratuity is in the nature of a gift. The gift is completed only by a registered document or by payment. A transfer intended to operate as a gift, but invalid as such, will not constitute the donor a trustee (i.e.,) an imperfect gift cannot be construed as a declaration of trust. 25 Bom. L.R. 599=1924 B. 88. In the case of transfer by gift, the alienation is complete when the conveyancing document is completed, and is not postponed until date of registration. 167 I.C. 48=1937 N. 1. A registered deed of gift alone is not sufficient to operate as a gift. There must be a complete divesting of the ownership on the part of the donor and an acceptance of the gift by the donee. A registered deed of gift or any other document, may be merely a nominal transaction without any intention on the part of the executant to give effect to its terms. 3 P. 842=1924 P. 657.

DELIVERY OF POSSESSION.—In case of gift of insurance policy money, execution of assignment deed and transfer of name in the company's register are sufficient. No delivery of documents is necessary. 38 I.C. 248=4 L.W. 339. A gift of movable property, unless it is effected by a registered deed, can only be completed by delivery of property to the donee. (1940) 2 M.L.J. 963=1941 M. 154. A gift subject to a life interest of the donor is valid. 20 A.L.J. 744= 1922 A. 467 (F.B.) ; 1922 A. 44. A gift is void when the donee is an unregistered body which has no legal existence and is not capable of holding property. 38 I.C. 183=14 A.L.J 103. On this section, see also 28 Bom.L.R. 411=1926 B. 261. To constitute a valid gift of immovable property in place where the Act is in force, execution and registration of a gift deed would be sufficient. Delivery of possession need not be made. 3 Bur.L.J. 111=1924 R. 353 ; 1930 A. L.J. 623=1930 A. 669. But in determining the question whether the power of revocation for non-payment of debts had been contemplated, the fact that possession was not delivered cannot be lost sight of. 1930 A.L.J. 623=1930 A. 569. When the gift is complete the relationship of the donor in possession to the donee is that of a trustee. 87 I.C. 312=1924 B. 88. Where there is a deed of gift and before its registration an endorsement is made therein that possession is delivered to the donee and the deed is subsequently registered, the burden of proving that possession was not given and therefore gift is invalid is on those asserting its invalidity. Where there are tenants on the property, their attorn-

Gift of existing and future property.

124. A gift comprising both existing and future property is void as to the latter.

Gift to several of whom one does not accept.

125. A gift of a thing to two or more donees, of whom one does not accept it, is void as to the interest which he would have taken had he accepted.

When gift may be suspended or revoked.

126. The donor and donee may agree that on the happening of any specified event, which does not depend on the will of the donor, a gift shall be suspended or revoked ; but a gift which the parties agree shall be revocable wholly or in part, at the mere will of the donor, is void wholly or in part, as the case may be.

A gift may also be revoked in any of the cases (save want or failure of consideration) in which, if it were a contract, it might be rescinded.

Save as aforesaid, a gift cannot be revoked.

Nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to affect the rights of transferees for consideration without notice.

ment to the donee is sufficient delivery of possession. 16 L.W. 894=1923 M. 52. The mutation of names by itself creates no proprietary title. [31 A. 73 (P.C.), Ref.] 76 I.C. 218=1924 N. 214.

DEDICATION TO TEMPLE.—The provisions of S. 123 apply to gifts direct, as well as to gifts through the intervention of a trust. The title, therefore, in an endowed property passes to the idol, who must be treated as a juristic person, on the execution of a deed of endowment by the donor. 7 O.W.N. 953=1931 O. 14. Property may be dedicated to a temple in one of three modes, (1) by making a gift to trustees on behalf of the idol, (2) by a dedication to the idol itself, and (3) generally on occasions of death or marriage by taking a leaf of the tulsi plant in hand and with water offering the property in the presence of the persons assembled. Of these modes, (1) must comply with the provisions of S. 123 of the Act. In mode (2) if the dedication is in writing, it must be registered. In mode (3) the gift is not within the provisions of the Act, although the intention may be that embodiment of the universal soul worshipped in the particular temple should have the benefit of the dedication. 42 M. 440=36 M.L.J. 575. See also 1941 P.W.N. 75=1941 P.L.T. 239. A mere unexpressed intention to dedicate cannot operate as a formal dedication so as to invalidate a transfer of that property to a third person made after the idea of dedication had been formed in the mind of the transferor. 13 P. 356=1934 P. 612.

ESTOPPEL.—There can be no estoppel by conduct when requirements of the section are not satisfied. 45 B. 164=38 I.C. 403. But see 1 R. 557=1925 R. 139 ; 1 R. 651 ; 2 R. 549=1925 R. 184. Where there is a gift of lands in favour of minor under which the donors divested themselves of the ownership of these lands and the minor has alone been in possession since the date of the gift : in a suit by the donors or any person claiming through them, the minor can resist the claim on the ground of estoppel, even though there was no registered deed of gift. The T. P. Act was enacted in order to prevent fraud and deception and it is founded on the highest principles of justice, equity and good conscience. 1 R. 665 ; 1924 R. 200. [But see 1929 R. 316, holding that the doctrine of part performance has no application to the case of a donee. See also S. 53-A]. Where the transfer is made on the basis of an ante-nuptial agreement, and the donee is in possession for a number of years, the donor is estopped from urging that the transfer is invalid as not being evidenced by registered deed. 52 C. 425=85 I.C. 799. Where a donor made a gift of immovable property and transferred possession of the land without any registered deed and on the death of the donor the donee submitted a report to the revenue surveyor for mutation of names in the official record, the heirs of the donor attesting the report and being present when it was made the heirs are estopped from impeaching the gift thereafter. 1 R. 651 =1926 R. 105. Where a donee of property is in bona fide possession of it, though the gift had not been perfected by a registered instrument in accordance with law, the donor or his representative cannot oust the donee who had been in undisturbed possession of the property for a long period though such period falls short of 12 years. But this rule can have no application to a case where the person is a donee from the donee, neither of the gifts having been perfected by a registered instrument, and especially when it is proved that the ultimate donee was not in absolute and exclusive possession of the property. 101 I.C. 703=1927 R. 128.

Secs. 124 and 125.—" If an estate is limited to two jointly, the one capable of taking the other not he who is capable shall take the whole." Humphrey v. Teyleur, cited in 16 C. at p. 682. Where a gift was made by a Hindu to his daughter and her husband jointly, and the gift is found to be invalid as to the husband, the daughter would take the whole. 16 C. 677=16 I.A. 44.

Onerous Gifts.

127. Where a gift is in the form of a single transfer to the same person of several things of which one is, and the others are not, burdened by an obligation, the donee can take nothing by the gift unless he accepts it fully.

Where a gift is in the form of two or more separate and independent transfers to the same person of several things, the donee is at liberty to accept one of them and refuse the others, although the former may be beneficial and the latter onerous.

A donee not competent to contract, and accepting property burdened by any obligation, is not bound by his acceptance. But if, after becoming competent to contract, and being aware of the obligation, he retains the property given, he becomes so bound.

Universal donee.

128. Subject to the provisions of section 127, where a gift consists of the donor's whole property, the donee is personally liable for all the debts due by [1][and liabilities of] the donor at the time of the gift to the extent of the property comprised therein.

NOTES.

28 I.C. 271 ; 6 A. 313 ; 1939 A.W.R. (H.C.) 102. S. 126 does not lay down that a gift can be revoked in the same manner as a contract can be rescinded. The right given thereunder is personal to the donor. 152 I.C. 146=1934 A.L.J. 817=1934 A. 507. (Agreement to revoke gift must be entered into at the time of gift ; if the term is added after the completion of the gift and subsequently, it is not valid. 6 A. 313). Right of rescission of a gift is limited to fraud, mistake, coercion, undue influence, misrepresentation or the like as would operate to invalidate a contract. 45 C. 434=22 C.W.N. 210. See also 42 C.W.N. 14=1938 Cal. 157 ; 7 L. Sec. 127.—The section is an application of the rule of election to gifts : 20 M. 147 ; and as embodying rules of justice and equity is also applied to Hindus and Muhammadans : 35 C. 767. In the case of disqualified donee accepting onerous gifts, the option to refuse is only to the donee but the gift is binding on the donor. 19 C. 236 ; 10 C. 1102. It has also been held that a minor donee can accept a beneficial gift personally without the intervention of a guardian. (33 M. 312 at 314, R.) 13 N.L.R. 18=39 I.C. 46. But a minor would not be bound during his minority by his acceptance of an onerous gift (See last para. of the section).

Secs. 127 and 68.—In the case of an onerous gift the donee is liable to meet the obligation incurred under the deed of gift. The fact that the mortgage which the donee is asked to discharge, was found to be void, cannot relieve him of his liability. Nor the fact, that the donee being a minor has under S. 127 an option of repudiation, exempt such a donee from liability till in fact the option is exercised. S. 68 of the T. P. Act cannot obviously apply as the claim is based on the deed of gift and not on the mortgage. Moreover S. 63 presupposes a valid mortgage. The donee is liable to the extent of the gifted property in his hands. 1937 O.W.N. 1096=1937 O. 517.

Sec. 128.—Section does not conflict with any rule of Muhammadan Law. Where a Muhammadan made a gift of all his property to his son and directed him to pay all his debts, the son is a universal donee and is liable to pay all the debts. 7 O.W.N. 523=1930 O. 268. See also 155 I.C. 308=1935 O.W.N. 589; 18 N.L.J. 179 (Surrender by Hindu widow of her estate to daughter and daughter's son). Section applies only to universal donee: 50 A. 818. As to who is a universal donee, see 50 A. 818=115 I.C. 114. A transfer in consideration of donee undertaking to pay the debts of the donor is a sale and not gift. 50 A. 818=115 I.C. 114. A deed executed by a husband in favour of his wife, under which he transfers to her absolute proprietary title in the whole of his immovable property in part payment of her deferred dower, is not a deed of gift, but a deed of hiba-bil-ewaz and the provisions of S. 128 have no application. The settlement of dower debt due to a wife is a legitimate settlement, and where it is conducted in a proper manner and there is nothing to show that the wife had any knowledge of the existence of a promissory note executed by her husband in favour of a third person, the property transferred is not liable to attachment and sale in execution of a decree obtained on the basis of the promissory note. 4 O.W.N. 456=1927 O. 176. A universal donee is, on the principle embodied in S. 128 liable to pay the debts of the donor out of the estate in his hands. 42 P.L.R. 307=1940 L.285. The essential condition to constitute a universal donee is that the gift must consist of the donor's whole property. If any portion of the donor's property, no matter whether it is movable or immovable is excluded from the operation of the gift, the donee is not the universal donee. 1930 A.L.J. 99=1930 A. 180; 8 O.W.N. 1291. But where the donee was in possession of all the properties except a small item which was given over to the donor under a lease for his lifetime: the donee is a universal donee liable for all the debts of the donor. If he found that the property was burdened with too much debts, he could throw away the property. 140 I.C. 120 (A.). Where a person sues another on the ground that the latter is a universal donee, the onus lies on the plaintiff to prove that the transaction amounted to a deed of gift and that the defendant was a universal donee. 26 A.L.J. 753 =50 A. 818. On this section, see also 4 L.W. 339 =38 I.C. 248. A creditor of the donor can tack the secured and unsecured debts of the donor together and insist, when the donee seeks to redeem the secured debt alone, that the unsecured ones should be redeemed at the same time. 7 B. 101. On the death of a tenure holder, the tenure devolved upon his daughters. A rent decree was obtained by the landlord against them. The daughters relinquished their interest in favour of the reversioners by a family arrangement and the reversioners had specifically taken over the liability to pay debts. Under S. 128, the reversioners as donees would be liable for the debts of their donor and the landlord can sue the reversioners on the basis of the family arrangement. (23 C. 454, rel. on.) 1937 C. 226. Where a person incurs a debt under a promissory note executed by him and then makes a gift of the whole of his movable and immovable properties, the donee is liable under S. 128 for the debt due by the donor. The fact that subsequent to the gift the donor renews the original promissory note makes no difference to the donee's liability, because it cannot be said that the debt in question was not a liability of the donor in existence at the time of the gift. 1937 M.W.N. 395. Where a donor at the time of gift still owns a house, holds certain ex-proprietary tenancy rights and has grains, bullocks, etc. and also has still vested in him the equity of redemption in respect of a property other than that gifted, the donee is not a universal donee. 1941 O.W.N. 56=1941 O. 205.

Sec. 129. N.B.—This amendment is not to have retrospective operation (Act XX of 1929, S. 63). In view of the amendment, the question raised in 104 I.C. 299=1927 O. 278, as to applicability of section to Hindus or Buddhists does not arise. S. 129 as it stood before the amendment of 1929 kept the rules of Hindu Law unaffected by anything contained in Chapter VII of the Act. 42 C.W.N. 14=1938 C. 157.

GIFTS IN CONTEMPLATION OF DEATH.—See 3 B.L.R. (O.C.J.) 113. (Gifts of Government Promissory notes made in contemplation of death passed by mere delivery without endorsement will constitute a legal and valid gift.)

MAHOMEDAN LAW.—The rules as to gifts under the Mahomedan law are contrary to the rules under the T. P. Act and the latter do not apply to a Mahomedan gift. 14 P.L.T. 599. See also 1937 R. 240. This section does not state that the provisions of this chapter shall not at all apply to Mahomedans, but it only lays down that its provisions shall not affect any rule of Mahomedan Law. Hence, in so far as the rules in this chapter are in consonance with justice and equity and do not conflict with any rule of Mahomedan Law, they would be applied to Mahomedans also. See 35 C. 767. See also 1936 R. 430; 1936 R. 522. Under Mahomedan Law registration alone is not sufficient. Delivery of possession also is essential. 38 A. 627=43 I.A. 212=31 M.L.J. 607 (P.C.). The power to extend any part of the T. P. Act given to the Local Government by S. 1 of that Act does not authorise the Local Government to extend particular sections of the Act so as to give those sections a different operation from that which they had in the Act itself, read as a whole; it cannot abrogate in the area to which the extension is made the existing rule of Mahomedan Law as to delivery of possession regarding gifts as to which the Legislature has expressly provided that it should remain unaffected by the Act. 54 I.A. 23=5 R. 7=52 M.L.J. 362 (P.C.). Oral gift by a Mahomedan in favour of his wife in lieu of her dower debt is hiba-bil-ewaz, which is pure gift and not sale.

OF TRANSFERS OF ACTIONABLE CLAIMS.

(1) The transfer of an actionable claim [2][whether with or without consideration] shall be effected only by the execution of an instrument in writing signed by the transferor or his duly authorized agent, [3][* *] shall be complete and effectual upon the execution of such instrument, and thereupon all the rights and remedies of the transferor, whether by way of damages or otherwise, shall vest in the transferee, whether such notice of the transfer as is hereinafter provided be given or not :

NOTES.

Being a valid gift under Mahomedan Law, provisions of Chap. VII, are not applicable and such gift can be made orally, without a registered instrument. 1936 A.L.J. 1027=1936 A. 600. The section does not apply to a transfer by way of gift governed by S. 130 : 38 I.C. 248=4 L.W. 339.

Sec. 130.—S. 130 contains a special schem- having some of the features both of the English Common Law and of the principles of equity. But it is unsafe, to decide a case under the section by any extensive reference to the English authorities. 38 C.W.N. 1190. There is a contradiction, between the provisions of S. 130 and those of S. 134. While S. 130 says " all the rights and remedies of the transferor vest in the transferee," the words in S. 134 are " the residue, if any, belongs to the transferor." The wording ought to be, " the residue, if any, shall be transferred by the original transferee to the original transferor." 38 C.W.N. 1190. As to applicability of section, see 1926 C. 447 ; 1928 M.W.N. 190. S. 130 applies to absolute transfers as well as to equitable charges in respect of future property. An equitable assignment of or equitable charge can only be created by a document in writing as provided by S. 130. A mere contract to assign future salary does not create an equitable charge. 23 P.L.T. 35. That S. 130 can be invoked to justify the assignment of a debt as an actionable claim even in Punjab. 43 P.L.R. 439=1941 L. 337. In provinces where the Transfer of Property Act does not apply, hundi can be assigned orally subject to all equities as a chose in action independently of the Negotiable Instruments Act so as to give the assignee a locus standi to sue thereon. 195 I.C. 185=1941 Pesh. 45. Section has no application to an assignment of a mortgage debt which is not an actionable claim under S. 3 : 123 I.C. 297=1930 S. 77. Section is not exhaustive. See 90 I.C. 111=1926 S. 78. The dedication of an actionable claim to a deity or god or temple is not covered by this section. See 96 I.C. 1004=1926 N. 469. See also 1927 M.W.N. 525 ; 9 M.L.T. 102=9 I.C. 287. Transfer of mesne profits along with land—Whether right of action continues with transferor. See 1927 M.W.N. 525. The transfer of an actionable claim whether as an outright transfer or by way of security is governed by S. 130. The deposit of the document creates no charge or lien at all on the debts. Where a letter of authorisation was given directing the addressee to draw out the money due to him from the P.W.D. but there was no assignment of the debt, the letter did not convey any rights to recover the debts. 7 R. 365. A debt secured on immovable property can be transferred apart from security. 35 C.W.N. 1034=1931 P.C. 245 (P.C.). An assignment of a debt to be valid must be of the whole debt. Where partners in a firm become insolvent and there is also a minor partner the assignment by the Official Assignee of a debt due to the firm cannot be said to be of the whole debt because the minor's interest in the partnership cannot be assigned. Even assuming that assignment of part of a debt can be made, assignment of part which is indefinite is invalid. 62 C. 510=1938 C. 377=39 C.W.N. 606. An assignment of a part of a debt is not invalid. 1939 M.W.N. 1054=1939 Comp. C. 262=1940 M. 258. In equity, a part assignment of a debt is valid and a suit brought thereon is maintainable provided the assignor and possibly other assignees, if any, are made parties to the suit. There is nothing in S. 130 to prevent the application of this equitable rule. 43 P.L.R. 439=1941 L. 337. See also 43 P.L.R. 444 ; 18 P. 839. Where a mortgage bond was transferred by an endorsement to the plaintiff who sued on it, the document on which suit was based cannot be regarded as a mortgage bond because the security had not been legally transferred. But there was no reason why the Court should not regard it as a simple money bond which had been transferred by the endorsement to the plaintiff and there was a legal transfer. 1935 A. 837. The transfer of a right to arrears of rent and current dues can only be made by an instrument in writing under S. 130 : 1923 P. 165. See also (1937) 2 M.L.J. 871. Debtor cannot recover unpaid balance of consideration in respect of bond executed by him in favour of creditor and such right cannot be assigned. 1930 L. 100. When a debt is assigned, interest payable on it goes with it. 1939 M.W.N. 1054=1939 Comp.C. 262=1940 M. 258. Mortgage failing as such can be treated as transfer. 31 C.W.N. 179=1926 P.C. 129 (P.C.). On a sale of property a contract to re-sell it to vendor at a particular time is assignable. 32 C.W.N. 850=1928 P.C. 174=55 M.L.J. 198 (P.C.). Whether the definition of " transfer of property " applies to S. 130 is doubtful. 1926 N. 469=96 I. C. 1004. As to the meaning of the word " transfer " in this section, see 37 B. 198=17 I.C. 627 ; 21 I.C. 316 ; 14 I.C. 144. Section refers not merely to the transfer of absolute rights but also to the creation of a mere charge. 57 C. 328=34 C.W.N. 605=

Provided that every dealing with the debt or other actionable claim by the debtor or other person, from or against whom the transferor would, but for such instrument of transfer as aforesaid, have been entitled to recover or enforce suchdebt or other actionable claim, shall (save where the debtor or other person s a party to the transfer or has received express notice thereof as hereinafter provided) be valid as against such transfer.

(2) The transferee of an actionable claim may, upon the execution of such instrument of transfer as aforesaid, sue or institute proceedings for the same in his own name without obtaining the transferor's consent to such suit or proceedings, and without making him a party thereto.

Exception.—Nothing in this section applies to the transfer of a marine or fire policy of insurance [or affects the provisions of section 38 of the Insurance Act, 1938][1].

1930 C. 536. Where the transfer is made of a contract, and the transaction amounts to a novatio under S. 62, Contract Act, no written instrument is required, 31 N.L.R. Where a debt is a joint debt, an assignment by one of the joint creditors would not enable the assignee to enforce the payment of the whole debt. 174 I.C. 220=1937 C. 532. A right to recover goods lent or damages on failure to return them is a mere right to sue and not an actionable claim. 1923 N. 67 (2). A claim for money due on a settlement of accounts regarding some cross transactions between the parties is an actionable claim, and can be assigned. 32 Bom.L.R. 894=1930 B. 409. The position and rights and obligations of one partner in a partnership in relation to the other partners is clearly not a chose in action and cannot be assigned. But the share of a partner in a partnership is property and the right to recover it is a chose in action assignable under the T. P. Act. 194 I.C. 380=1941 S. 73. See also 1938 S. 288. agent holding a power-of-attorney which does not give him power to assign a decree obtained by his principals, assigns that decree to a third person purporting to act under the power, the assignment would not be valid so as to entitle the assignee to obtain execution; but if the decree-holders (principals) ratify the action of the agent, expressly recognising the assignment and receiving consideration, that validates the assignment retrospectively. 188 I.C. 878=49 L.W. 375=1939 M. 543. A promissory note executed in the name of a particular person which is allotted to another on a partition is not transferred to the allottee by operation of law; and the allottee of the note cannot therefore maintain a suit on it without an indorsement by the payee. 36 Bom.L.R. 807=1934 B. 356. The Negotiable Instruments Act has not affected the transferability of a promissory note by assignment as a chose in action apart from endorsement. 61 C. 425=38 C.W.N. 465=1934 C. 549. A deposit receipt is not a negotiable instrument. The mere fact of deposit of an insurance policy by way of pledge creates no lien in favour of the creditor. A letter setting out the policy as an article pledged is merely evidence of the deposit and does not amount to a valid assignment of the policy and confers no rights on the creditor. 52 L.W. 822=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 891=1941 M. 147=I.L.R. (1941) M. 378. A fixed deposit receipt held by a depositor of moneys in a Bank is not a negotiable instrument and an endorsement on the back thereof by the holder does not have the same effect as an endorsement of a bill of exchange or promissory note. To pass title, there must be an assignment in writing as required by S. 130. An endorsement on the back and a letter by the depositor to the Bank informing the Bank that he had assigned the amount to the endorsee would not amount to an assignment in writing within the meaning of S. 130. 50 L.W. 759=1939 Comp.C. 285=1940 M. 157. See also 1938 Sind 24. Where it is agreed between the parties to a document that one portion of certain money lying in deposit in a bank in the name of one of those parties should thenceforward belong to one of them and the other portion to the other, the document can be viewed as an assignment of an actionable claim within the meaning of S. 130. If the intention is fairly clear that the money in deposit in the bank should be split up into two parts, one of which is to go to one of the parties and the other to the other party, that operates as an assignment of the entire debt in two separate portions to two separate individuals. 1938 M. 236=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 56. Where a subscriber to a chit fund conducted by a company deposits money in a Bank and authorizes the Bank to pay the future instalments of subscriptions in respect of the chit to the company as and when they fall due from and out of the deposit in the Bank, it operates as an assignment of the moneys in favour of the company under S. 130 of the T. NOTES.

Equitable chose in action—Amount left with mortgagee to pay off creditor of mortgagor—Less sum required than amount left —Assignment by mortgagor of right to recover balance left with mortgagee—Validity of—If mere right to sue. 1937 A.L.J. 518=1937 A.W. R. 444. The right of a vendee, where it is found that the vendor had no title, to recover the purchase price from the vendor is an actionable claim which can be validly assigned. 54 L.W. 491=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 695. Liability to arise in future —Relationship not yet arisen. See 1938 R. 1.

RIGHT OF SUIT.—As to who can sue after transfer of an actionable claim, see 1927 M. 817. The express right of the assignee to sue a debtor in his own name conferred by S. 130 (1); and the "possession, order or disposition" giving rise to a condition of "reputed ownership" under S. 52 (2) (c), Presidency Towns Insolvency Act, are two entirely separate and distinct things. It may very well be that so far as the assignee's right to sue is concerned it is complete, and yet there may be left with the assignor such an appearance of continued or reputed ownership as to invoke the order and disposition clause. 175 I.C. 786 =1938 R. 1. The hypothecation of a promote is a transfer of an actionable claim and the transferee is entitled to sue on it. 38 M. 297=25 M.L.J. 356. Lease by mortgagor—Covenant by lessee to pay Government dues—Default—Assignment of mortgagor's rights to mortgagee—Suit by mortgagee—Maintainbility. 59 I.A. 41=11 P. 266=36 C.W.N. 280=62 M.L.J. 287 (P.C.). When debts are transferred by way of sale and the vendor, in spite of the sale, realises one of such debts, it is only just and equitable that the vendee should be allowed credit for the amount so realized out of the consideration. 128 I.C. 763=1930 A. 875. Partnership—Dissolution—Partners taking payment and giving up interest in assets in favour of others—Document in writing is necessary. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 344=1939 S. 288. See also 1941 S. 73. The effect of S. 130 (1) is, in the cases which it covers, to confer without notice to the debtor, a legal title on the transferee as opposed to an equitable title only. 175 I.C. 786 =1938 R. 1. See also 1938 P. 265. A pahunch is an ordinary receipt. At best it evidences acknowledgment of a debt, and is a chose in action or an actionable claim. Under S. 130 it is only transferable by an instrument in writing, such transfer being subject under S. 132, to the equities provided therein. 32 S.L.R. 640=1938 S. 24.

Sec. 131.—[See notes under S. 130 also.] See 27 C.W.N. 733=1923 C. 719 (722); 13 Bom. L.R. 590=11 I.C. 964; 33 M. 123. To attract the operation of the exception in S. 130, there must be a strict compliance with the requirements of S. 131. 27 C.W.N. 733=1923 C. 719. The notice must give the address of the transferee. Mere giving of the address of the solicitors of the assignee is insufficient. 27 C.W.N. 233=1923 C. 719; 30 I.C. 278=8 Bur.L.T. 266. The validity of an assignment must be tested with reference to the law as it stood at the time of the assignment. The provisions of S. 131 as it originally stood did not invalidate an assignment for want of a notice to the debtor, but it only suspended the operation of the assignment until notice was given. 13 C.L.J. 641=10 I.C. 510. The debtor cannot refuse to recognise the transfer, provided he has notice of it. Payment to the assignor, after notice of assignment, will not absolve the debtor from liability to the transferee. Notice of assignment may have conditions or qualifications attached to it, and such notice is perfectly valid. If the transferor gives an invalid notice, the transferee is entitled to give a legal notice, so as to prevent the original debtor from defeating the assignment. 33 M. 123=4 I.C. 420. See also 12 C. 505; 10 M. 289; 10 A. 20.

Sec. 132.—Principle of this section is also applied to transfers of mortgage rights carrying with it all the rights and obligations attached to it. 109 I.C. 195=1928 N. 223. See also 34 I.C. 859 =40 M. 683=30 M.L.J. 615; 10 M.L.J. 211. Set-off can be claimed against the creditor's assignee, though the assignee bought the debt in a Court-auction. 16 I.C. 686=1912 M.W.N. 1235; 3 L. 414=69 I.C. 720=1923 L. 261; 30 M. 235; 1912 M.W.N. 1235; 3 L. 414; 16 C. 619. [But see also 40 M. 686 a case of an assignment of mortgage.] But if the debtor assents to pay the money due as per assignment, he cannot afterwards claim any equity as against the assignee. 31 I.C. 152=1915 M.W.N. 822. Where the assignee of a co-sharer's right to profits sued the lambardar in the Revenue Court and the defendant claimed a set-off in respect of a decree for revenue he had obtained against the assignor: Held, that the defendant could not

Warranty of solvency of debtor.

133. Where the transferor of a debt warrants the solvency of the debtor, the warranty, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, applies only to his solvency at the time of the transfer, and is limited, where the transfer is made for consideration, to the amount or value of such consideration.

Mortgaged debt.

134. Where a debt is transferred for the purpose of securing an existing or future debt, the debt so transferred, if received by the transferor or recovered by the transferee, is applicable, first in payment of the cost of such recovery : secondly, in or towards satisfaction of the amount for the time being secured by the transfer; and the residue, if any, belongs to the transferor or other person entitled to receive the same.

Assignment of rights under marine or fire policy of insurance.

135. Every assignee, by endorsement or other writing, of a policy of marine insurance or of a policy of insurance against fire, in whom the property in the subject insured shall be absolutely vested at the date of the assignment, shall have transferred and vested in him all rights of suit as if the contract contained in the policy had been made with himself.

Incapacity of officers connected with Courts of Justice.

136. No Judge, legal practitioner or officer connected with any Court of Justice shall buy or traffic in, or stipulate for, or agree to receive any share of, or interest in, any actionable claim, and no Court of Justice shall enforce, at his instance, or at the instance of any person claiming by or through him, any actionable claims, so dealt with by him as aforesaid.

plead set-off or claim the benefit of S. 132. 1934 A. 155=56 A. 624 (F.B.). A right to recover arrears of profits assigned in a conveyance of a village share is not an actionable claim but a benefit arising out of land and therefore immovable property. Hence S. 132 is not applicable. 165 I.C. 414=1936 N. 217.

Sec. 134.—Section applies to a charge-holder also. 23 M. 35 ; 34 M. 53. If the transferee by the hypothecation of a pronote allows it to be barred, he will be liable to the transferor to that amount. 38 M. 297=25 M.L.J. 356. Sec. 135.—This section has no application to sales in execution by virtue of S. 2 (d) of the Act. 9 I.C. 729=9 M.L.T. 319.

Sec. 136.—Persons mentioned in this section should not be placed in a position in which they may be tempted to use the influence or information which they get by virtue of their office unduly to the prejudice of other persons. 11 M. 56 - 17 I. Attachment of provident fund in execution —Fund assigned to legal practitioner prior to suit —Right of parties—Suit by assignee—Maintainability. 1935 C. 756. A decree does not come within the category of actionable claims, but the principle involved is the same. I.L.R. (1938) M. 399=47 L.W. 192=1938 M. 276 (F.B.) A decree is not an actionable claim and transfer of it in favour of a pleader is not invalid. 62 I.C. 255=40 M.L.J. 124. A pleader's purchasing an actionable claim from his own client is unprofessional conduct. 37 M. 238=23 M.L.J. 447. A transfer of an unpaid dower debt relates to an actionable claim and is hit at by S. 136 where the transferee is a legal practitioner. 54 A. 499=1932 A. 345. The words " trafficking in " may in certain circumstances include the transaction of sale, but it connotes something more than a mere sale. But whether a mere sale would amount to " trafficking" in any particular circumstances is a question of fact. 97 I.C. 373=1927 P. 2=8 P.L.T. 201. As to whether section applies to sales in execution, see 23 C. 805 ; 1927 C. 619 ; 15 M. 389. In any event the Courts will look with suspicion on such transactions even in Court sales. See 15 M. 389 ; 46 C.L.J. 225 ; 1927 C. 691. An assignment of a bond in favour of a Special Magistrate and an Honorary Assistant Collector, is void under S. 136. The result of it is that no rights pass from the transferor to the transferee, and the owner of the bond has a right to maintain a suit on the basis of it. 162 I.C. 229=1936 O. 275.

137. Nothing in the foregoing sections of this Chapter applies to stocks, shares or debentures, or to instruments which are for the time being, by law or custom, negotiable, or to any mercantile document of title to goods.

Saving of negotiable instruments, etc.

Explanation.—The expression "mercantile document of title to goods" includes a bill of lading, dock-warrant, warehouse-keeper's certificate, railway-receipt, warrant or order for the delivery of goods, and any other document used in the ordinary course of business as proof of the possession or control of goods, or authorizing or purporting to authorize, either by endorsement or by delivery, the possessor of the document to transfer or receive goods thereby represented.]

NOTES.

Sec. 137.—Section only deals with the method of transfer, and not with effect or result of transfer. 1923 R. 1. A promissory note can be transferred under the general law by an assignment in writing even in places to which the Act has not been extended, and apart from the Act, such assignment gives to the assignee a right of suit on the note; but it would not render the transferee "a holder in due course". 66 I.C. 401=11 L.B.R. 174. See also 15 I.C. 380=11 M.L.T. 246; 1926 C. 447: 1912 M.W.N. 1011=17 I.C. 417; 16 P. 74=17 P.L.T. 919=1937 P. 100 (F.B.). Section 137 is no bar to the transfer of a negotiable instrument otherwise than by endorsement. The T. P. Act not being in force in the Punjab, an oral assignment is valid in that province. I.L.R. (1940) L. 84=1939 L. 501. See also 17 P.L.T. 919=1937 P. 100. Section gives an extended privilege to mercantile documents and is in no way restrictive. There is nothing to prevent the transfer of a promissory note by deed without endorsement. 138 I.C. 262=35 L.W. 755. As to assignment of negotiable instruments, see 21 M.L.J. 80=8 I.C. 33: 28 I.C. 114. (See also under S. 130.) Negotiable instruments can be enforced by an assignee only when the assignment has been effected in accordance with the provisions of the Act, and transfer of the rights of a party under a note to order to some one else, unless effected by operation of law, must be effected by indorsement and delivery and not otherwise. 13 P. 655=1934 P. 382. See also 1939 L. 501; 1937 P. 100. Preliminary.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called THE INDIAN TREASURE-TROVE ACT, 1878.

Extent. It extends to the whole of British India.

[1][* * * *].

2. [Repeal of enactments.] Repealed by the Amending Act, 1891 (XII of 1891).

Interpretation clause. 3. In this Act—

"Treasure." "treasure" means anything of any value hidden in the soil, or in anything affixed thereto;

"Collector." "Collector" means (1) any Revenue-officer in independent charge of a district, and (2) any officer appointed by the Provincial Government to perform the functions of a Collector under this Act.

"Owner." When any person is entitled, under any reservation in an instrument of transfer of any land or thing affixed thereto, to treasure in such land or thing, he shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the owner of such land or thing.

Procedure on finding Treasure.

Notice by finder of treasure. 4. Whenever any treasure exceeding in amount or value ten rupees is found, the finder shall, as soon as practicable, give to the Collector notice in writing—

(a) of the nature and amount or approximate value of such treasure;

(b) of the place in which it was found;

(c) of the date of the finding;

and either deposit the treasure in the nearest Government treasury, or give the Collector such security as the Collector thinks fit, to produce the treasure at such time and place as he may from time to time require.

Notification requiring claimants to appear. 5. On receiving a notice under section 4, the Collector shall, after making such enquiry (if any) as he thinks fit, take the following steps (namely):—

(a) he shall publish a notification in such manner as the Provincial Government from time to time prescribes in this behalf, to the effect that on a certain date (mentioning it) certain treasure (mentioning its nature, amount and approximate value) was found in a certain place (mentioning it); and requiring all persons claiming the treasure, or any part thereof, to appear personally or by agent before the Collector on a day and at a place therein mentioned, such day not being earlier than four months, or later than six months, after the date of the publication of such notification;

(b) when the place in which the treasure appears to the Collector to have been found was at the date of the finding in the possession of some person other than the finder, the Collector shall also serve on such person a special notice in writing to the same effect.

LEG. REF.

[1] The words "And it shall come into force at once" were repealed by Act X of 1914.

NOTES.

Sec. 1.—The Act applies only to things which have been hidden. 133 I.C. 564=1931 C. 430=59 C. 21 (following 31 M. 397), Applicability of Act and respective rights of owner of places and finder. 3 M. 397=4 M.L.T. 219.

Sec. 3.—Property not hidden is not treasure trove and belongs to owner of land on which it is found. 31 M. 397=1931 C. 430.

Sec. 4.—'Finder'—Coolies finding in their employer's presence treasure in the course of felling trees. 27 M.L.J. 477=25 I.C. 640. A person who was not present at the finding of a treasure and who has had no sort of connection with the matter up to the time when the actual finder decides not to report to the Collector about the finding cannot be found guilty of the offence of abetment of an offence under S. 4 of the Act, though they may have subsequently shared the treasure illegally with the finder. 175 I.C. 502=47 L.W. 320=1938 M.W.N. 350=1938 Mad. 508. See also (1938) 1 M.L.J. 767, cited under S. 20, infra.

Sec. 5.—In the absence of notice, Act does not apply. 19 B. 668; see 7 M. 150.

Forfeiture of right on failure to appear.

6. Any person having any right to such treasure or any part thereof, as owner of the place in which it was found or otherwise, and not appearing as required by the notification issued under section 5, shall forfeit such right.

Matters to be enquired into and determined by the Collector.

7. On the day notified under section 5, the Collector shall cause the treasure to be produced before him, and shall enquire as to and determine—

(a) the person by whom, the place in which, and the circumstances under which, such treasure was found; and

(b) as far as is possible, the person by whom, and the circumstances under which, such treasure was hidden.

Time to be allowed for suit by person claiming the treasure.

8. If, upon an enquiry made under section 7, the Collector sees reason to believe that the treasure was hidden within one hundred years before the date of the finding, by a person appearing as required by the said notification and claiming such treasure, or by some other person under whom such person claims, the Collector shall make an order adjourning the hearing of the case for such period as he deems sufficient, to allow of a suit being instituted in the Civil Court by the claimant, to establish his right.

When treasure may be declared ownerless.

9. If upon such enquiry the Collector sees no reason to believe that the treasure was so hidden; or if, where a period is fixed under section 8, no suit is instituted as aforesaid within such period to the knowledge of the Collector; or if such suit is instituted within such period, and the plaintiff's claim is finally rejected; the Collector may declare the treasure to be ownerless.

Appeal against such declaration.

Any person aggrieved by a declaration made under this section may appeal against the same within two months from the date thereof to the Chief Controlling Revenue authority.

Subject to such appeal, every such declaration shall be final and conclusive.

Proceedings subsequent to declaration.

10. When a declaration has been made in respect of any treasure under section 9, such treasure shall, in accordance with the provisions hereinafter contained, either be delivered to the finder thereof, or be divided between him and the owner of the place in which it has been found in manner hereinafter provided.

When no other person claims as owner of place, treasure to be given to finder.

11. When a declaration has been made in respect of any treasure as aforesaid, and no person other than the finder of such treasure has appeared as required by the notification published under section 5 and claimed a share of the treasure as owner of the place in which it has been found, the Collector shall deliver such treasure to the finder thereof.

When only one such person claims and his claim is not disputed, treasure to be divided.

12. When a declaration has been made as aforesaid in respect of any treasure, and only one person other than the finder of such treasure has so appeared and claimed, and the claim of such person is not disputed by the finder, the Collector shall proceed to divide the treasure between the finder and the person so claiming according to the following rule (namely):—

If the finder and the person so claiming have not entered into any agreement then in force as to the disposal of the treasure, three-fourths of the treasure shall be allotted to such finder and the residue to such person. If such finder and such person have entered into any such agreement, the treasure shall be disposed of in accordance therewith:

Provided that the Collector may, in any case, if he thinks fit, instead of dividing any treasure as directed by this section,—

(a) allot to either party the whole or more than his share of such treasure, on such party paying to the Collector for the other party such sum of money as the Collector may fix as the equivalent of the share of such other party, or of the excess so allotted, as the case may be; or

(b) sell such treasure or any portion thereof by public auction, and divide the sale-proceeds between the parties according to the rule hereinbefore prescribed:

Provided also that, when the Collector has by his declaration under section 9 rejected any claim made under this Act by any person other than the said finder or person claiming as owner of the place in which the treasure was found, such division shall not be made until after the expiration of two months without an appeal having been presented under section 9 by the person whose claim has been so rejected, or when an appeal has been so presented, after such appeal has been dismissed.

When the Collector has made a division under this section, he shall deliver to the parties the portions of such treasure, or the money in lieu thereof, to which they are respectively entitled under such division.

13. When a declaration has been made as aforesaid in respect of any treasure, and two or more persons have appeared as aforesaid and each of them claimed as owner of the place where such treasure was found, or the right of any person who has so appeared and claimed is disputed by the finder of such treasure, the Collector shall retain such treasure and shall make an order staying his proceedings with a view to the matter being enquired into and determined by a Civil Court.

In case of dispute as to ownership of place, proceedings to be stayed.

14. Sec. 46.—In the case of a charity the general practice is that the Advocate-General represents the charity. If there is an application by the trustees of a charity under the Trustees Act for leave to take a particular course, it is sufficient to serve that application on the Advocate-General, who represents all the beneficiaries; and the Courts should be very slow to allow any of the beneficiaries to come before it and argue the case themselves, and even more slow to allow their costs to be paid out of the charitable estate. But sometimes that course may be necessary, where, for instance, there is a conflict between various beneficiaries and the Advocate-General feels that he cannot represent all parties. In the absence of any such conflict, the Court would be acting wrongly in allowing the beneficiaries to appeal; and it would also be wrong for the Court to encourage appeals by beneficiaries of charitable funds, when the Advocate-General is before the Court and can appeal if he thinks proper. 166 I.C. 940=38 Bom.L.R. 1283=1937 B. 63.

respect of any estate, right or interest which such person shall have at the time of making such decree for his own use or benefit, or otherwise than as a trustee as aforesaid.

Orders under Act chargeable with same stamp-duty as deeds of conveyance.

48. Every order to be made under this Act, which shall have the effect of a conveyance of any immovable property, or a transfer of any such stock, Government securities or thing in action as can only be transferred by stamped deed, or for the transfer of which a stamp is necessary, shall be chargeable with the like amount of stamp duty as it would have been chargeable with if it had been a deed executed or a transfer made by the person or persons holding such property or entitled to such stock, Government securities or thing in action.

Every such order shall be duly stamped for denoting the payment of the said duty.

Costs may be paid out of estate.

49. The High Court may order the costs and expenses of and relating to the petitions, orders, directions, conveyances and transfers to be made in pursuance of this Act, or any of them, to be paid and raised out of or from the immovable or movable property or the rents or produce thereof, in respect of which the same respectively shall be made, or in such manner as the sad Court shall think proper.

Power to order enquiry concerning person of unsound mind.

50. Upon any petition being presented under this Act to the High Court, concerning a person of unsound mind, it shall be lawful for the said Court to make an order directing an enquiry whether such person is or is not of unsound mind, and incapable of managing himself and his affairs.

Effect of order.

Such order shall have the same effect as the like order made under section 1 of Act XXXIV of 1858 (to regulate proceedings in Lunacy in the Courts of Judicature established by Royal Charter), and the enquiry directed to be made shall be made in all respects in the manner declared and prescribed for making an enquiry under the last-mentioned Act.

Postponement of order pending enquiry.

The High Court may postpone making any order upon the petition presented as aforesaid, until any enquiry so directed to be made shall have been finally concluded.

Suit may be directed.

51. Upon any petition under this Act being presented to the High Court, it shall be lawful for the said Court to postpone making any order upon such petition until the right of the petitioner shall have been declared in a suit duly instituted for that purpose.

Indemnity to persons obeying orders under Act.

52. Every order made or purporting to be made under this Act by the High Court shall be a complete indemnity to all persons whatsoever for any Act done pursuant thereto; and it shall not be necessary for such persons to enquiry concerning the propriety of such order, or whether the High Court has jurisdiction to make the same.

Execution and effect of orders.

53. Any order made by the High Court under this Act shall have the same effect and be executed in the same manner as a decree.

Sec. 10.—Cf. ibid., S. 15.

11. At any time after the power of sale hereby conferred shall have become exerciseable, the person entitled to exercise the same shall be entitled to demand and recover from the person entitled to the property subject to the charge all the deeds and documents in his possession or power relating to the same property, or to the title thereto, which he would have been entitled to demand and recover if the same property had been conveyed, appointed or surrendered to and were then vested in him for all the estate and interest which the person creating the charge had power to dispose of;

Powers of receiver.

NOTES.

Sec. 11.—Cf. the Trustee Act 1860 (23 & 24 Vict., c. 145), S. 16. This Act is now repealed by the Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vict., c. 41), and the Settled Land Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict., c. 38).

Sec. 12.—Cf. the Trustee Act, 1860 (23 & 24 Vict., c. 145), S. 17. Where a mortgage-deed contains a provision that the power of sale, etc., conferred by Ss. 3 to 19 of the Act shall apply and shall be deemed to be incorporated in the deed, "but without the restriction of that Act, contained as to giving notice," the mortgagor is not entitled to the ten days' time as provided for in S. 12: 40 C.W.N. 1270=1936 C. 646 =I.L.R. (1937) 1 Cal. 359. The period of ten days given to the mortgagor is to be counted from the date of delivery of the notice to the mortgagor and not from the date of the notice itself. 1936 Cal. 646. The general rule that an agent is accountable to his principal is not applicable to the peculiar relationship which is created where a receiver is appointed according to S. 12, under the power contained in an English mortgage. In view of the peculiar position of the receiver in such cases, no analogy can be drawn from the law of principal and agent. It is the mortgagee who appoints the receiver and without reference to the mortgagor, if so provided by the deed. It is to the mortgagee that the receiver must look for his authority and it is to him that he is accountable and not to the mortgagor. It is possible that in special circumstances when the receiver has made sufficient collections to satisfy the mortgagee's interest and holds a balance which belongs to the mortgagor, that the mortgagor can call upon him to account to the limited extent of such balance but where such is not the case and the mortgagee's interest has not been paid in full, the receiver is not accountable to the mortgagor. So also it is only after the mortgagee's dues are satisfied that any available balance may be used for the mortgagor and it is only such balance that the mortgagor may use for the execution of repairs of the mortgaged property. 177 I.C. 327=1938 Cal. 507.

15. Every receiver appointed as aforesaid may be removed by the like authority, or on the like requisition as before provided with respect to the original appointment of a receiver, and new receivers may be appointed from time to time.

16. Every receiver appointed as aforesaid shall be entitled to retain out of any money received by him, in lieu of all costs, charges and expenses whatsoever, such a commission, not exceeding five per centum on the gross amount of all money received, as shall be specified in his appointment, and if no amount shall be so specified, then five per centum on such gross amount.

18. Every receiver appointed as aforesaid shall pay and apply all the money received by him in the first place in discharge of Government revenue and of all taxes, rates and assessments whatsoever, and in payment of his commission as aforesaid, and of the premiums on the insurances, if any; and in the next place in payment of all interest accruing due in respect of any principal money then charged on the property over which he is receiver, or on any part thereof; and, subject as aforesaid, shall pay all the residue of such money to the person for the time being entitled to the property subject to the charge, his executors, administrators or assigns.

This part to relate to charges by way of mortgage only.

19. The powers and provisions contained in sections 6 to 18 of this Act, both inclusive, relate only to mortgages or charges made to secure money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, or to secure an existing or future debt.

Restriction on effect of licence to alien.

20. Where any licence to do any act which without such licence would create a forfeiture, or give a right to re-enter, under a condition or power reserved in any lease heretofore granted, or to be hereafter granted, shall at any time after this Act comes into operation be given to any lessee or his assigns, every such licence shall, unless otherwise expressed, extend only to the permission actually given, or to any specific breach of any proviso or covenant made or to be made, or to the actual assignment, under-lease or other matter thereby specifically authorized to be done, but not so as to prevent any proceeding for any subsequent breach (unless otherwise specified in such licence);

Rent-charges.

Release of part of land charged, not to be an extinguishment.

23. The release from a rent-charge of part of the immovable property charged therewith shall not extinguish the whole rent charge, but shall operate only to bar the right to recover any part of the rent-charge out of the property released, without prejudice nevertheless to the rights of all persons interested in the property remaining unreleased, and not concurring in or confirming the release.

ent fund to answer any future claim that may be made in respect of any fixed and ascertained sum covenanted or agreed by the lessee to be laid out on the property demised or agreed to be demised, although the period for laying out the same may not have arrived, and shall have assigned the lease or agreement for a lease to a purchaser thereof, he shall be at liberty to distribute the residuary estate of the deceased to and amongst the parties entitled thereto, respectively, without appropriating any part, or any further part (as the case may be), of the estate of the deceased to meet any future liability under the said lease or agreement for a lease.

As to distribution of assets of testator or intestate after notice given by executor and administrator.

Nothing in the present Act contained shall prejudice the right of any creditor or claimant to follow the assets, or any part thereof, into the hands of the person or persons who may have received the same respectively.

Trustee, executor, etc., may apply by petition to Judge of High Court for opinion, advice, etc., in management, etc., of trust-property.

43. Any [1][trustee], executor or administrator shall be at liberty, without the institution of a suit, to apply by petition to any Judge of the High Court for the opinion, advice or direction of such Judge on any question respecting the [1][management or] administration of the [1][trust property or] the assets of any testator or intestate.

Such application shall be served upon, or the hearing thereof shall be attended by, all persons interested in such application, or such of them as the said Judge shall think expedient.

It was therefore held necessary in view of the deadlock which had arisen, to resort to the powers of the Court. 154 I.C. 364=1934 L. 331. On this section, see also 7 B. 381; 12 B. 638; 12 Bom.L. NOTES.

trusts as administered in Equity Courts in England, but that does not mean that the Trusts Act should be applied by analogy to religious or charitable endowments. 39 Bom. L.R. 633=1937 B. 374=I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 843. The Act does not apply to public trusts and consequently no formalities are required by law to create them. 42 M.L.J. 258 =1922 M. 83. See also 13 P. 356=1934 P. 612; 4 Rang. 538=1927 R. 95 (F.B.). The "raddimazalim" fund is an endowment partly public and partly private for religious and charitable purposes and hence the Act will not apply to it. (3 L. 521, Rel. on.) 150 I.C. 193=1934 O. 118 (2). The criterion for deciding whether a particular trust is or is not of a private nature is whether the said trust is or is not for the benefit of individuals. Where the intention of the founder, as shown by the recitals in his will, was that the property was to be dedicated for the benefit of idols, the trust is undoubtedly of a public nature and not for the benefit of the individual members of the family. 1935 A. 139. Trust property divided among members of family, by award of arbitrators, if private or public trust. 1933 A. 622. Where by a deed of endowment the executant dedicated certain properties to the sheba of certain family idols and for feeding the poor and carrying out certain charitable objects such as feeding students, etc., it is a private and not a public trust. 37 C.W.N. 181. As to public and private trusts, see also I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 211=1942 Cal. 343; 60 C. 538. It is the extensiveness of object which affords some indication of the public nature of a trust. Appeals for funds and enthusiasm for the utsaba performed are hardly of a nature commensurate with private religious or charitable institutions. Inference of dedication of an institution to the public can be drawn if it is found that the founder held out and represented to the public that it was open to public for worship. I.L.R. (1937) 1 C. 515=64 C.L.J. 341=1937 C. 67. The essential difference between a private and a public trust is that in the former the beneficiaries are definite and ascertained individuals or who within a definite time can be definitely ascertained but in the latter the beneficial interest must be vested in an uncertain and fluctuating body of persons—either the public at large or some considerable portion of it answering a particular description. The fact that an uncertain and fluctuating body of persons is a section of the public following a particular religious faith or is only a sect of persons of a certain religious persuasion (e.g.) Shias or even a sub-sect of Shias, would not make any difference in the matter and would not make the wakf a trust of a private character. 46 C.W.N. 59. Where a Hindu acquires land with the object of building a temple to perpetuate the name of his family and to benefit the public and creates a trust by building it and endowing properties and provides for regular payment of ground rent by means of a permanent arrangement and makes a provision for the appointment of any Hindu as Mutwalli in certain contingency and reserves to the public the right and liberty to examine the accounts, the circumstances are such as to indicate that the trust created a pubiic trust. 1938 O.W.N. 660. In the case of a private trust where there are more trustees than one, all must join in the execution of the trust (as) election of shebait. 60 C. 538=37 C.W.N. 181=144 I.C. 894 =1933 C. 539. A Court is entitled to remove the trustee of a private religious charity from the control of the trust property on the ground of waste and neglect. There is an equitable jurisdiction inherent in the Court to deal with trusts and to assure that they are properly managed apart from legislation. 39 Bom.L.R. 867=1938 Bom. 23. Although the Act does not in terms apply to Bihar, the principles contained therein will apply being rules of justice, equity and good conscience. 4 P.L.T. 731. The Act applies only to Rangoon and does not apply to the districts; but still the principles enunciated therein can be applied to cases coming from the districts. 1935 R. 44. On this section, see also 33 B. 509=11 Bom. L.R. 85. A transfer of the office of the trustee is invalid. 19 L.W. 567=1924 M. 749. In the absence of a custom to the contrary, succession to a trusteeship follows the ordinary methods of devolution and a Hindu widow can succeed as the heir of her husband. 79 I.C. 891=1925 M. 218. As to creation of trust in favour of creditors, see 55 M. 436=1932 M. 457=62 M.L.J. 533; 47 L.W. 66=1938 Mad. 199; 1938 Cal. 818=

British India. But nothing herein contained affects the rules of Muhammadan law as to waqf, or the mutual relations of the members of an undivided family as determined by any customary or personal law, or applies to public or private religious or charitable endowments, or to trusts to distribute prizes taken in war among the captors; and nothing in the second Chapter of this Act applies to trusts created before the said day.

Repeal of enactments.

2. The Statute and Acts mentioned in the Schedule hereto annexed shall, to the extent mentioned in the said Schedule, be repealed, in the territories to which this Act for the time being extends.

Interpretation clause—"trust";

3. A "trust" is an obligation annexed to the ownership of property, and arising out of a confidence reposed in and accepted by the owner, or declared and accepted by him, for the benefit of another, or of another and the owner:

NOTES.

42 C.W.N. 1131; 134 I.C. 110=32 P.L.R. 876. If a debtor conveys property in trust for the benefit of his creditors, who are not parties to the conveyance and to whom the fact of its execution is not communicated, the conveyance merely operates as a power to the trustees to apply the property in satisfying their claims and inasmuch as the debtor himself is in fact the only cestui que trust, it is revocable by him before the property is so applied, and cannot be enforced by the creditors. A trust in favour of creditors is not however, revocable if the creditors are parties to, or assent to the conveyance or if the fact of its execution is communicated to them. Where therefore a trust is created in favour of some of the creditors who sign the composition deed and a notice of the trust is given by the debtor before it is executed and by the trustees after its execution to the other creditors, the latter also would be cestui que trust under the deed. 38 P.L.R. 776=1936 Lah. 10. Where a legal transfer of property has been made to trustees for payment of the debts of the owner transferor, the creditors being neither parties nor privies thereto do not thereby become cestui que trust, and the trustees are mere mandatories, see 48 L.W. 564=1939 Mad. 42=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 1054; see also 1939 M.W.N. 105. As to enforcement of trust in favour of third party (vendee directed to pay creditors of vendor), see 134 I.C. 1011=8 O.W.N. 1191.

TRUST AND CONTRACT—DISTINCTION.—There is always a fiduciary relationship between trustee and beneficiary, but none between the parties to a contract. The beneficiary is clothed with title to the property—not indeed a legal title because that resides in the trustee, but an equitable one. He is possessed of what is called an equitable estate. No trustee can use trust property for his own benefit. He is bound to hold it for the benefit of the beneficiary and is liable to account to him for it. Where before the Debt Conciliation Board A and B two debtors of C agree that A should pay B the debt due by C to B in consideration of C's transfer of his property to A the transaction represents a contract between the parties and no question of trust arises. 1941 N.L.J. 324=1941 Nag. 261. See also 42 Bom.L.R. 1044.

CERTAINTY OF TRUST.—Indefiniteness or uncertainty in relation to the objects of a trust may render the entire trust void. Where the Court is not in a position to administer the trust by reason of the vagueness of the objects of the trust, the trust is void. But a trust was for national education and for the establishment and maintenance of a school where national education was to be imparted and for a boarding house and for giving scholarships for foreign studies could not be attacked on the ground either that it was vague or non-charitable or opposed to public policy. I.L.R. (1941) All. 377=1941 All. 225. See also 1941 A.L.J. 269. Provision in family arrangement for setting apart property for charitable or religious objects—If a precatory trust—Enforceability. See 1937 M.W.N. 162. An endowment for feeding the poor on a specified day is for a definite charitable object and is valid. 88 I.C. 375 =1925 M. 689. Where the original instrument of dedication is indefinite, the trust must be construed in the light of long continued usage. 1934 P. 443. A trustee acting under a trust which he knows or subsequently discovers to be void or invalid is not bound to surrender possession of the trust property before he can be allowed to repudiate the trust. 20 N.L.R. 63=1924 N. 129. If a trust is to be valid and enforceable, it is material to ascertain the author of the trust. Next the intention to create a trust, the purpose of the trust, the trust property and the beneficiaries must be indicated and in such a way that the trust could be administered by the Court if the occasion arose. 155 I.C. 409=1935 P.C. 97=69 M.L.J. 1 (P.C.).

Sec. 3.—The appointment of a person as a "trustee" does not by itself constitute his title until the vesting and the transfer of trust property. "Trustee" is a compendious word which covers a very large number of relationships. The manager of properties attached to a temple is in the position of a the person who reposes or declares the confidence is called the "author of the trust": the person who accepts the confidence is called the "trustee": the person for whose benefit the confidence is accepted is called the "beneficiary": the subject-matter of the trust is called "trust-property" or "trust-money": the "beneficial interest" or "interest" of the beneficiary is his right against the trustee as owner of the trust-property; and the instrument, if any, by which the trust is declared is called the instrument of trust":

trustee, but he is not a "trustee" in the restricted and technical sense known to the law. So also an administrator of the estate of an intestate has to manage it, but he is not a "trustee" within the definition of this section. CHAPTER II.

OF THE CREATION OF TRUSTS.

Lawful purpose. 4. A trust may be created for any lawful purpose. The purpose of a trust is lawful unless it is (a) forbidden by law, or (b) is of such a nature that, if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law, or (c) is fraudulent, or (d) involves or implies injury to the person or property of another, or (e) the Court regards it as immoral or opposed to public policy. .

Every trust of which the purpose is unlawful is void, and where a trust is created for two purposes, of which one is lawful and the other unlawful, and the two purposes cannot be separated, the whole trust is void.

Explanation.—In this section the expression "law" includes, where the trust-property is immovable and situate in a foreign country, the law of such country.

SPECIAL TRUSTEE—KATTALAI.—It is only in a case where there are other persons in management who can be regarded as general trustees and there are other funds out of which the general upkeep of the trust can be carried on that there will be any sense in distinguishing any endowment as a special trust or kattalai intended for a particular purpose. Where in a gift of certain properties to a temple the person to whom the properties are conveyed is described by the donor as a trustee and there are no other persons in management as general trustees and the object of the gift is connected with ordinary worship in the temple, such person cannot be regarded as a special trustee and whether he is a trustee de facto or de jure, having taken the property under such a gift deed, he cannot claim to have held the properties in any character except that of the trustee of the temple. 182 I.C. 761=1938 Mad. 314. See also (1941) 2 M.L.J. 636. Feeding of devotees in temples is a well-known charitable purpose, and when there is such a trust performable in a temple, the general trustee of the temple is entitled to perform it if the persons who are primarily to do it do not do so, and recover the cost from the properties charged in their hands. 1941 M.W.N. 881=54 L.W. 408=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 636. Where the rights of executants of a deed become extinguished and get completely vested in an idol, the idol cannot be regarded as a trustee in respect of the property in which by the terms of the instrument complete right has vested in the said idol. The property becomes the idol's property although the idol holds the property in an ideal sense. 62 Cal. 1098=40 C.W.N. 1320=1936 Cal. 556.

Sec. 4.—In order to create a valid trust there are three requisites: (1) the words must be such that on the whole they ought to be construed as imperative; (2) the subject-matter of the trust must be certain; (3) the objects of the trust or the persons intended to be benefited must be certain. 45 L.W. 316=1937 Mad. 368=(1937) 1 M.L. J. 10. A beneficiary should not be made a trustee unless there are clear words indicating that he was intended to be made a trustee. Before a trust can be found there must be an intention to create a trustee. Where the evidence discloses nothing more than an absolute gift of certain moneys by a disciple to his guru, accompanied by an expression of a wish as to the mode of employing it, namely to carry on the charity which he was doing (feeding of Brahmins on the occasion of an utsavam) no trust can be held to be created. The disappointment of a wish or expectation cannot be a reason for raising a trust. 46 L.W. 413=1937 M.W.N. 758=1937 Mad. 789. See also 21 Pat. 488 (F.B.). The general rule is that a trust to be effective must be communicated to the cestui que trust or that he should at least know about it. The question as to whether there has been an irrevocable trust or not, must be a question of fact in almost every case. Where a certain fund was set apart in the books for the purpose of charity and it was so continued for over 60 years but there was no evidence that the owners of the fund intended to part with the ownership or control of it and its existence was not communicated to the general trustees of the temple and there was no document creating the trust except the entry in the account book and this fund was treated as an asset in partition. Held, that no irrevocable trust fund was created. 155 I.C. 772=1935 M. 60. A mere unexpressed intention to dedicate certain property to a trust cannot operate as a formal dedication. There may be a dedication without an instrument in writing; but the dedication must be real, that is, the property must be completely given away and the owner must completely divest himself of his ownership. 13 P. 356=1934 P. 612. See also 1937 Sind 37. Discharge of dower debt to wife is not unlawful purpose. 13 I.C. 882=14 O.C. 356. The mere non-performance does not negative the existence of a charitable trust if otherwise the trust is proved. In the absence of a deed of endowment, however, the Court has to draw an inference as to the existence of the trust only from a course of conduct; the character of the enjoyment by the so-called trustees will be a material factor and the Court cannot start with the presumption that they were throughout guilty of breach of trust. The mere fact that a certain property is allowed to a person, with a condition that he should carry out annadanam cannot amount to such a complete dedication as to impress the whole property with the character of a charitable trust rendering it inalienable or unsaleable in execution. The alience getting the property, however takes it with the condition attached to it. 1936 Mad. 138 =70 M.L.J. 407. The fund was held by the Accountant-General, no trustees being appointed. In a suit for administration and distribution of the fund in question: Held, that the fund was not constituted a "trust fund," and that the use of the words "trust" and "trust fund" did not have the effect of creating a trust by declaration or giving it a technical jural character; and that the Accountant-General who held the fund was not a "trustee" but the agent or cashier of the Government under whose orders he acted. 37 Bom.L.R. 763.

In such a case the subsequent acts and conduct of the donor are irrelevant and cannot re-invest him. 65 I.A. 106=I.L.R. (1938) Lah. 63=1938 A.L.J. 194=1938 P. C. 73=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 359 (P.C.). A person who was the absolute owner of immovable property in a written application to the Collector stated that he had set apart the property as a perpetual gift to a specified deity and asked that a certificate should be issued showing that the title to the property was in the deity. This application was granted and a deed was drawn up and executed by him as the trustee of the property vested in the deity, by which he covenanted for himself, his heirs, administrators, personal representatives and assigns to pay the land tax to the Secretary of State for India. Held, that the documents clearly showed that the owner had divested himself of all personal interest in the property and obtained from the Secretary of State recognition that the title was in the deity, and there was therefore a completed dedication. The fact that it was not known whether the settlor utilized the income for the trust purposes did not matter as there was a complete divestiture. 1940 Mad. 920=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 409. the trust should transfer the trust property to the trustee. The word 'transfer' has been used in a wider sense. It includes not only sales, mortgages, leases, gifts, but it also includes vesting declarations. Sec. 6: SCOPE OF SECTION.—Trust must be created with reasonable certainty. 1925 S.195. Before there can be a trust of movable property, the author of the trust must indicate with reasonable certainty by words or acts (a) an intention on his part to create a trust, (b) the purpose of the trust, (c) the beneficiary and (d) the trust property, and (unless the trust is declared by will or the author of the trust is himself to be the trustee) transfer the trust property to the trustee. 8. The subject-matter of a trust must be property transferable to the beneficiary.

It must not be merely beneficial interest under a subsisting trust.

A proposed beneficiary may renounce his interest under the trust by disclaimer addressed to the trustee, or by setting up, with notice of the trust, a claim inconsistent therewith.

No one is bound to accept a trust.

Acceptance of trust.

A trust is accepted by any words or acts of the trustee indicating with reasonable certainty such acceptance.

Disclaimer of trust.

Instead of accepting a trust, the intended trustee may, within a reasonable period, disclaim it, and such disclaimer shall prevent the trust-property from vesting in him.

A disclaimer by one of two or more co-trustees vests the trust-property in the other or others, and makes him or them sole trustee or trustees from the date of the creation of the trust.

Sec. 8.—All transferable property can be saddled with a trust by deed inter vivos or by will if objects of trust are lawful. 1925 Sind 159. What S. 8 forbids is a trust of a mere right of the beneficiary to proceed against the trustee. K by his will directed his trustees to appropriate the proceeds of certain shares to each of his five children (one of whom was named B) to pay the income during his or her life and after the decease of such child, to hold the share appropriated to him or her in trust and equally divide the same among the issue of such child. G, daughter of B, who died during lifetime of B made a will by which she made a trust of the property which she would have received under K's trust deed. Held, that the trust was not a trust of a mere beneficial interest, but a trust of the actual property given by the will of K to G receivable by her on the death of her mother and the trust was a valid one: 150 I.C. 474=36 Bom.L.R. 42=1924 B. 64.

Sec. 9.—The latter portion of S. 9 is an enabling and not a disabling provision. It recognizes the possibility of a beneficiary desiring to renounce his interest under the trust and suggests two modes by which this can be done. It does not mean that in every case in which a beneficiary sets up a claim which can be regarded as inconsistent with the trust, he loses thereby all his rights under the trust. 14 Luck. 548=1939 Oudh 161.

(b) A transfers certain property to B in trust to sell it and to pay out of the proceeds A's debts. B accepts the trust and sells the property. So far as regards B, a trust of the proceeds is created for A's creditors,

(c) A bequeaths a lakh of rupees to B upon certain trusts and appoints him his executor. B servers the lakh from the general assets and appropriates it to the specific purpose. This is an acceptance of the trust.

CHAPTER III.

OF THE DUTIES AND LIABILITIES OF TRUSTEES.

Trustee to execute trust.

11. The trustee is bound to fulfil the purpose of the trust, and to obey the directions of the author of the trust given at the time of its creation, except as modified by the consent of all the beneficiaries being competent to contract.

Where the beneficiary is incompetent to contract, his consent, may, for the purposes of this section, be given by a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to requir a trustee to obey any direction when to do so would be impracticable, illegal or manifestly injurious to the beneficiaries.

Explanation.—Unless a contrary intention be expressed, the purpose of a trust for the payment of debts shall be deemed to be (a) to pay only the debts of the author of the trust existing and recoverable at the date of the instrument of trust, or, when such instrument is a will, at the date of his death, and (b) in the case of debts not bearing interest, to make such payment without interest.

Illustrations.

(a) A, a trustee, is simply authorized to sell certain land by public auction. He cannot sell the land by private contract.

(b) A, a trustee of certain land for X, Y and Z, is authorised to sell the land to B for a specified sum. X, Y and Z, being competent to contract, consent that A may sell the land to C for a less sum. A may sell the land accordingly.

(c) A, a trustee for B and her children, is directed by the author of the trust to lend, on B's request, trust-property to B's husband, C, on the security of his bond. C becomes insolvent and B requests A to make the loan. A may refuse to make it.

Trustee to inform himself of state of trust property.

12. A trustee is bound to acquaint himself, as soon as possible, with the nature and circumstances of the trust-property; to obtain, where necessary, a transfer of the trust-property to himself; and (subject to the provisions of the instrument of trust) to get in trust-moneys invested on insufficient or hazardous security.

NOTES.

Sec. 11.—Where the trustees' discretion is restricted to the manner in which the trust is to be executed it is impossible to hold that the trustees can make any payments beyond those specified in the deed of trust. Where the trust was for the payment of certain specified debts, it would be clearly a breach of trust on their part if they went out of their way to make payments not specified in the deed of trust. 14 Luck. 548=1939 Oudh 161. Where any particular contingency has not been anticipated or provided for by the testator and the consent of the beneficiaries cannot be obtained by reason of their being minors, it is open to the Court to ascertain the paramount intention expressed in the will and to consider if the act to be done by the trustees can properly be read as subordinate to such intention and sanction, on behalf of all the parties interested, and if beneficial to them, order the act being done by the trustees. So where a deed of trust executed by the testator disclosed a paramount intention to benefit his grand-daughter who had a contingent interest in it, the Court may allow the trustee to expend a reasonable amount for the expenses of her consummation ceremony, though the deed made no provision for any intermediate payment except by way of maintenance. But expenses of litigation incurred by the widow, who had only a life-interest under the will, cannot be allowed. 142 I.C. 108=1933 M. 242=64 M.L.J. 235=56 M. 508.

Sec. 11, Expl.—The explanation to S. 11 no doubt implies that interest can be paid on debts which bear interest, but it cannot be inferred from the language used that it is incumbent on the trustees in every case to pay interest on interest bearing debts. The explanation is subject to the terms of the deed of trust and when it does not make a provision for payment of interest on the debts specified, the explanation cannot be invoked for purposes of claiming any interest on the debts. 14 Luck. 548=1939 Oudh 161.

Illustrations.

(a) The trust-property is a debt outstanding on personal security. The instrument of trust gives the trustee no discretionary power to leave the debt so outstanding. The trustee's duty is to recover the debt without unnecessary delay.

(b) The trust-property is money in the hands of one of two co-trustees. No discretionary power is given by the instrument of trust. The other co-trustees must not allow the former to retain the money for a longer period than the circumstances of the case required.

Trustee to protect title to trust-property.

13. A trustee is bound to maintain and defend all such suits and (subject to the provisions of the instrument of trust) to take such other steps as, regard being had to the nature and amount or value of the trust-property, may be reasonably requisite for the preservation of the trust property and the assertion or protection of the title hereto.

Illustration.

The trust-property is immovable property which has been given to the author of the trust by an unregistered instrument. Subject to the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1877, the trustee's duty is to cause the instrument to be registered.

Trustee not to set up title adverse to beneficiary.

14. The trustee must not for himself or another set up or aid any title to the trust-property adverse to the interest of the beneficiary.

Care required from trustee.

15. A trustee is bound to deal with the trust-property as carefully as a man of ordinary prudence would deal with such property if it were his own; and, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, a trustee so dealing is not responsible for the loss, destruction or deterioration of the trust-property.

Illustrations.

(a) A, living in Calcutta, is a trustee for B, living in Bombay. A remits trust-funds to B by bills drawn by a person of undoubted credit in favour of the trustee as such, and payable at Bombay. The bills are dishonoured. A is not bound to make good the loss.

(b) A, a trustee of leasehold property, directs the tenant to pay the rents on account of the trust to a banker, B, then in credit. The rents are accordingly paid to B, and A leaves the money with B only till wanted. Before the money is drawn out, B becomes insolvent, A, having had no reason to believe that B was in insolvent circumstances, is not bound to make good the loss.

(c) A, trustee of two debts for B, releases one and compounds the other, in good faith, and reasonably believing that it is for B's interest to do so. A is not bound to make good any loss caused thereby to B.

(d) A, a trustee directed to sell the trust-property by auction, sells the same, but does not advertise the sale and otherwise fails in reasonable diligence in inviting compensation. A is bound to make good the loss caused thereby to the beneficiary.

(e) A, a trustee for B, in execution of his trust, sells the trust-property, but from want of due diligence on his part fails to receive part of the purchase-money. A is bound to make good the loss thereby caused to B.

(f) A, a trustee for B of a policy of insurance, has funds in hand for payment of the premiums. A neglects to pay the premiums, and the policy is consequently forfeited. A is bound to make good the loss to B.

(g) A bequeaths certain moneys to B and C as trustees, and authorises them to continue trust-moneys upon the personal security of a certain firm in which A had himself

NOTES.

Sec. 14.—No person who has accepted the position of trustee or of quasi-trustee and has acquired property in that capacity can be permitted to assert an adverse title on his own behalf until he has obtained a proper discharge from the trust with which he has clothed himself. I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 1=1938 Nag. 335 (F.B.).

Sec. 15.—See 38 M. 71=23 M.L.J. 599. A temple is not a money-lending concern, and therefore for a trustee of the temple to divert its funds out of the usual course of business into such channels is not the kind of act which can be protected under S. 15. This is especially so when the money is loaned to the trustee's relative. I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 94=1938 Nag. 30.

Secs. 15 and 20.—The care to be applied to a temporary investment of capital can be no less than that which the Trusts Act requires for an investment of current expenditure not immediately wanted, and so an omission to apply the same standard of care would amount to the kind of neglect contemplated by S. 15. I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 94=1938 Nag. 30.

invested them. A dies, and a change takes place in the firm. B and C must not permit the moneys to remain upon the personal security of the new firm.

(h) A, a trustee for B, allows the trust to be executed solely by his co-trustee, C. C misapplies the trust-property. A is personally answerable for the loss resulting to B.

Conversion of perishable property.

16. Where the trust is created for the benefit of several persons in succession, and the trust-property is of a wasting nature or a future or reversionary interest, the trustee is bound, unless an intention to the contrary may be inferred from the instrument of trust, to convert the property into property of a permanent and immediately profitable character.

Illustrations.

(a) A bequeaths to B all his property in trust for C during his life, and on his death for D, and on D's death for E. A's property consists of three leasehold houses, and there is nothing in A's will to show that he intended the houses to be enjoyed in specie. B should sell the houses, and invest the proceeds in accordance with section 20.

(b) A bequeaths to B his three leasehold houses in Calcutta and all the furniture therein in trust for C during his life, and on his death for D, and on D's death for E. Here an intention that the houses and furniture should be enjoyed in specie appears clearly, and B should not sell them.

Trustee to be impartial.

17. Where there are more beneficiaries than one, the trustee is bound to be impartial, and must not execute the trust for the advantage of one at the expense of another.

Where, the trustee has a discretionary power, nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize the Court to control the exercise reasonably and in good faith of such discretion.

Illustration.

A, a trustee for B, C and D, is empowered to choose between several specified modes of investing the trust-property. A in good faith chooses one of these modes. The Court will not interfere, although the result of the choice may be to vary the relative rights of B, C and D.

Trustee to prevent waste.

18. Where the trust is created for the benefit of several persons in succession and one of them is in possession of the trust-property, if he commits, or threatens to commit, any act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto, the trustee is bound to take measures to prevent such Act.

Accounts and information.

19. A trustee is bound (a) to keep clear and accurate accounts of the trust-property, and (b) at all reasonable times, at the request of the beneficiary to furnish him with full and accurate information as to the amount and state of the trust-property.

NOTES.

Sec. 19: Phillips, Offg. C.J.—In a suit for accounts against trustee, the expenses of litigation conducted by the trustee, practically to save himself from a charge of negligence which did not benefit the estate, cannot be allowed. Srinivasa Iyengar, J.—As far as possible the Court should allow in favour of a trustee expenses which he had incurred in respect of the estate provided they are incurred in good faith and even though such expenses might have been avoided if the trustee had exercised due care and attention. 51 M. 291=109 I.C. 153=1928 M. 180=54 M.L.J. 703. See also 67 M. L.J. 787; 151 I.C. 952=1934 A. 793. In a suit for breach of trust against the trustees where the plea is that the trustees have not maintained proper accounts or furnished them to the beneficiaries, it is not sufficient to show that the account was not regularly and correctly kept from day to day, but was mostly written up for the purpose of being produced in Court. What is more important is the question whether the account, as far as it goes, can be shown to be untrue in the sense that the actual receipts are not entered or the expenditure entered is fictitious or excessive. Thus, the faults in the mode of account keeping are to be distinguished from the faults involving dishonesty or misconduct. 40 L.W. 122=1934 M. 448 =67 M.L.J. 223. In order to be relieved from personal liability for any breach of trust, the trustee must establish that he acted honestly and reasonably. Where a trustee never considered the question of his dealings with the trust funds in the light of his duty as a trustee, nor paused to consider whether it was prudent for him as a trustee to lend on the personal security of the borrowers, he is not entitled to any relief from Investment of trust money.

20. Where the trust-property consists of money and cannot be applied immediately or at an early date to the purposes of the trust, the trustee is bound (subject to any direction contained in the instrument of trust) to invest the money on the following securities, and on no others:—

(a) in promissory notes, debentures, stock or other securities [1][of any Provincial Government or] of the Central Government, or of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland:

[2][Provided that securities, both the principal whereof and the interest whereon shall have been fully and unconditionally guaranteed by any such Government, shall be deemed, for the purposes of this clause, to be securities of such Government;]

(b) in bonds, debentures and annuities [1][charged or secured by the Imperial Parliament on the revenues of India or of the Federation or of any Province]:

[3][Provided that, after the fifteenth day of February, 1916, no money shall be invested in any such annuity being a terminable annuity unless a sinking fund has been established in connection with such annuity; but nothing in this proviso shall apply to investments made before the date aforesaid;]

Sec. 20.—See 38 M. 71. It is the duty of a trustee to confine himself to the class of investments which are permitted by the trust and likewise to avoid all investments of that class which are attended with hazard. A person making an advance upon his own account upon the security of immovable property may no doubt be influenced to do so by the value of the security itself and partly by his estimate of the solvency and character of the borrower. These two factors may blend in his mind, as it were, in helping him to arrive at a conclusion. But a trustee may not blend these considerations together. He must not allow the character or solvency of the borrower to weigh with him so as to make his advance, in effect, an advance not upon the security offered, but upon a consideration of other matters which seem to make it safe not to rely upon the security alone. 1940 Rang.L.R. 273=1940 Rang. 207. Liability for breach of trust.

23. Where the trustee commits a breach of trust, he is liable to make good the loss which the trust-property or the beneficiary has thereby sustained, unless the beneficiary has by fraud induced the trustee to commit the breach, or the beneficiary, being competent to contract, has himself, without coercion or undue influence having been brought to bear on him, concurred in the breach, or subsequently acquiesced therein, with full knowledge of the facts of the case and of his rights as against the trustee.

A trustee committing a breach of trust is not liable to pay interest except in the following cases:—

(a) where he has actually received interest:

(b) where the breach consists in unreasonable delay in paying trust-money to the beneficiary:

(c) where the trustee ought to have received interest, but has not done so:

(d) where he may be fairly presumed to have received interest.

He is liable, in case (a), to account for the interest actually received, and, in cases (b), (c) and (d), to account for simple interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, unless the Court otherwise directs.

(e) Where the breach consists in failure to invest trust-money and to accumulate the interest or dividends thereon, he is liable to account for compound interest (with half-yearly rests) at the same rate.

In a suit for breach of trust the account to be taken must be a common account which will give the beneficiaries liberty to surcharge and falsify, but not on the footing of wilful default. 40 L.W. 122 =1934 M. 448=67 M.L.J. 222. An accounting party not rendering accounts properly, but retaining trust moneys (such as the unpaid purchase-moneys due by the trustees on the several benami purchases) in his hands must pay interest, even if the debt by its nature does not carry interest. 40 L.W. 122=67 M.L.J. 222; 11 Mys.L.J. 480. The object of a marriage settlement by way of trust is to protect the beneficiary against herself; and merely because the beneficiary happens to know that the trust fund or any part thereof is to be invested in a particular manner and consents thereto, the trustees are not absolved from liability under S. 23, unless she concurred or acquiesced in the breach with full knowledge of the facts of the case and of her rights as against the trustee. Persons who are not the present trustees are not entitled to maintain in that capacity a suit on behalf of the trust for possession of immovable properties of the trust or for mesne profits. Where under a will executed by a Hindu a trust is created in respect of certain charities, and the testator appoints his son as trustee for life and after the latter's death his son (i.e., the testator's grandsons) as trustees, the grandsons cannot during their father's lifetime maintain a suit for possession of trust properties. The fact that their father has been guilty of misconduct and breach of trust and has alienated the trust properties or that he has totally failed to perform the trust and has left British India would not be sufficient for holding that the father ipso facto ceased to be a trustee and that the plaintiffs directly became trustees entitling them to maintain the suit. The father's misconduct or breach of trust might justify his removal from office, but for such reliefs there must be the necessary allegations and the prayer; further if the trusts are public charitable trusts, a suit for removal will have to be in compliance with S. 92, C.P. Code, or if they are religious trusts, S. 53 or S. 73 of the Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act will govern the case. 1939 Mad. 154=(1938) 2 M. L.J. 982.

(a) A trustee improperly leaves trust-property outstanding, and it is consequently lost; he is liable to make good the property lost, but he is not liable to pay interest thereon.

(b) A bequeaths a house to B in trust to sell it and pay the proceeds to C. B neglects to sell the house for a great length of time, whereby the house is deteriorated and its market price falls. B is answerable to C for the loss.

(c) A trustee is guilty of unreasonable delay in investing trust-money in accordance with section 20, or in paying it to the beneficiary. The trustee is liable to pay interest thereon for the period of the delay.

(d) The duty of the trustee is to invest trust-money in any of the securities mentioned in section 20, clause (a), (b) (c), or (d). Instead of so doing, he retains the money in his hands. He is liable, at the option of the beneficiary, to be charged either with the amount of the principal money and interest, or with the amount of such securities as he might have purchased with the trust-money when the investment should have been made, and the intermediate dividends and interest thereon.

(e) The instrument of trust directs the trustee to invest trust-money either in any such securities or on mortgage of immovable property. The trustee does neither. He is liable for the principal money and interest.

(f) The instrument of trust directs the trustee to invest trust-money in any of such securities and to accumulate the dividends thereon. The trustee disregards the direction. He is liable, at the option of the beneficiary, to be charged either with the amount of the principal money and compound interest, or with the amount of such securities as he might have purchased with the trust-money when the investment should have been made, together with the amount of the accumulation which would have arisen from a proper investment of the intermediate dividends.

(g) Trust-property is invested in one of the securities mentioned in section 20, clause (a), (b), (c) or (d). The trustee sells such security for some purpose not authorized by the terms of the instrument of trust. He is liable, at the option of the beneficiary, either to replace the security with the intermediate dividends and interest thereon, or to account for the proceeds of the sale with interest thereon.

(h) The trust-property consists of land. The trustee sells the land to a purchaser for a consideration without notice of the trust. The trustee is liable, at the option of the beneficiary, to purchase other land of equal value to be settled upon the like trust, or to be charged with the proceeds of the sale with interest.

No set-off allowed to trustee.

Where, a guardian debits his ward's account with the moneys as and when received and credits them in his family account treating the sums so credited practically as loans advanced by the minor to his family and after so crediting and mixing the said moneys with his moneys, he spends the joint funds both for his common family expenses and also for money-lending business, and a large extent of those moneys is utilized by him in the money-lending business, but it is not possible to predicate which portion of the money and how much was lent out in the course of the said business, it cannot be said that the moneys of the minor were invested in the money-lending business within the meaning of Cl. (f). Under such circumstances the guardian is liable only to account for interest actually received by him. 1937 M.W.N. 358=1937 M. 675=173 I.C. 33 The trustees of a charity would not be justified in changing the name of the charity without the permission of the Court. But the trustees, by merely changing the name of a charity without such permission cannot be held to be guilty of such a serious breach of trust as to justify their removal. 44 Bom. L.R. 466.

Sec. 25.—The legal representative of an agent or trustee or co-trustee is not liable to render account of the estate which was in charge of his predecessor. A suit for account is accordingly not maintainable against such a person. But a suit for recovery of money misappropriated by a trustee or co-trustee or an agent will lie against his legal representative. In such a suit the decree will be against the assets of the deceased. A Non-liability for co-trustee's default.

26. Subject to the provisions of sections 13 and 15, one trustee is not, as such, liable for a breach of trust committed by his co-trustee:

Provided that, in the absence of an express declaration to the contrary in the instrument of trust, a trustee is so liable—

(a) where he has delivered trust-property to his co-trustee without seeing to its proper application;

(b) where he allows his co-trustee to receive trust-property and fails to make due enquiry as to the co-trustee's dealings therewith or allows him to retain it longer than the circumstances of the case reasonably require;

(c) where he becomes aware of a breach of trust committed or intended by his co-trustee, and either actively conceals it or does not within a reasonable time take proper steps to protect the beneficiary's interest.

Joining in receipt for conformity.

A co-trustee who joins in signing a receipt for trust-property and proves that he has not received the same is not answerable, by reason of such signature only, for loss or misapplication of the property by his co-trustee.

Illustration.

A bequeaths certain property to B and C, and directs them to sell it and invest the proceeds for the benefit of D. B and C accordingly sell the property, and the purchase-money is received by B and retained in his hands. C pays no attention to the matter for two years, and then calls on B to make the investment. B is unable to do so, becomes insolvent, and the purchase-money is lost. C may be compelled to make good the amount.

Several liability of co-trustees.

27. Where co-trustees jointly commit a breach of trust, or where one of them by his neglect enables the other to commit a breach of trust, each is liable to the beneficiary for the whole of the loss occasioned by such breach.

Contribution as between co-trustees.

But as between the trustees themselves, if one be less guilty than another and has had to refund the loss, the former may compel the latter, or his legal representative to the extent of the assets he has received, to make good such loss; and, if all be equally guilty, any one or more of the trustees who has had to refund the loss may compel the others to contribute.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize a trustee who has been guilty of fraud to institute a suit to compel contribution.

suit for recovery of a specific sum of money does not assume the character of a suit for account merely because in the determination of the questions in controversy accounts may have to be examined. In such a suit the defendant will be under no obligation to explain any item that may appear in the account papers, and the onus will be entirely upon the plaintiff to substantiate each and every item in the account papers on which he may rely or which he may challenge. 46 C.W.N. 865.

Sec. 26.—Where a co-trustee, who was the nephew of the author of the trust, took a leading part in administering the trust, it is only in exceptional cases that a co-trustee can be made liable for the breach of trust committed by such a co-trustee. 154 I.C. 366=1934 L. 47. Trustees are liable not only to account for the moneys that have actually come into their hands but also for moneys which might have come into their hands if they had acted with due diligence and without gross negligence and in all cases they would be liable for the result of their gross negligence. But where there are a number of trustees and there is such disunion among them that, however much a trustee or trustees are honest, diligent and willing to discharge their duty, it is practically impossible to carry on the management properly, the diligent trustee should not under such circumstances be made liable as for gross negligence or wilful default; and he cannot be made jointly and severally liable for the loss occasioned by the gross negligence of the other trustees. 57 M. 315.

Sec. 26 (b).—One co-trustee only realizing the assets—Liability of the other co-trustees for loss. 28 Bom.L.R. 1481=99 I.C. 763=1927 B. 75.

28. When any beneficiary's interest becomes vested in another person, and the trustee, not having notice of the vesting, pays or delivers trust-property to the person who would have been entitled thereto in the absence of such vesting, the trustee is not liable for the property so paid or delivered.

Non-liability of trustee paying without notice of transfer by beneficiary.

29. When the beneficiary's interest is forfeited or awarded by legal adjudication [1][to the Crown], the trustee is bound to hold the trust-property to the extent of such interest for the benefit of such person in such manner as [2][the Provincial Government] may direct in this behalf.

Liability of trustee where beneficiary's interest is forfeited to Government.

30. Subject to the provisions of the instrument of trust and of sections 23 and 26, trustees shall be respectively chargeable only for such moneys, stocks, funds and securities as they respectively actually receive and shall not be answerable the one for the other of them, nor for any banker, broker or other person in whose hands any trust-property may be placed, nor for the insufficiency or deficiency of any stocks, funds or securities, nor otherwise for involuntary losses.

Indemnity of trustees.

OF THE RIGHTS AND POWERS OF TRUSTEES.

31. A trustee is entitled to have in his possession the instrument of trust and all the documents of title (if any) relating solely to the trust property.

Right to title-deed.

32. Every trustee may reimburse himself, or pay or discharge out of the trust-property, all expenses properly incurred in or about the execution of the trust, or the realization, preservation or benefit of the trust-property, or the protection or support of the beneficiary.

Right to reimbursement of expenses.

If he pays such expenses out of his own pocket, he has a first charge upon the trust-property for such expenses and interest thereon; but such charge (unless the expenses have been incurred with the sanction of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction) shall be enforced only by prohibiting any disposition of the trust property without previous payment of such expenses and interest.

If the trust-property fail, the trustee is entitled to recover from the beneficiary personally on whose behalf he acted, and at whose request, expressed or implied, he made the payment, the amount of such expenses.

Sec. 32.—See 38 M. 260; 28 M.L.J. 571=39 M. 456. In order that a creditor may obtain relief of subrobation to trustee's right of indemnity (1) the plaintiff should sue the trustee as a trustee; (2) under O. 31, R. 2, C.P. Code, all the trustees should be represented; (3) the parties beneficially interested should be represented; and (4) indemnity and subrogation to that right should be claimed. The right of subrogation can be determined in the suit but not in execution. 60 C. 801 =1933 C. 668. Quaere: Whether a Court enforcing the right of indemnity against any trustee will allow actual sale of the trust property in execution. 60 C. 801=1933 C. 668. Where a debt is incurred by a trustee for the benefit of the estate, and the creditor sues such trustee personally and obtains a decree and in execution attaches the trust-property and obtains an order for sale of the property, only the beneficial interest of such trustee in the trust-property can be sold, and the question of indemnity and subrogation cannot be gone into in execution, but such relief must be sought in independent proceedings. 60 C. 801=1933 C. 668. In proceedings in which a shebait or trustee claims indemnity against the trust or debutter estate, the Thakur is a necessary party. It is contrary to equitable notions that a trustee, except in minor matters, can be allowed to make a substantial claim against the estate without the Thakur or the beneficiaries being represented. 63 Cal. 454. See also 1937 Bom. 63.

Where a trustee has by mistake made an over-payment to the beneficiary, he may reimburse the trust-property out of the beneficiary's interest. If such interest fail, the trustee is entitled to recover from the beneficiary personally the amount of such over-payment.

Right to be recouped for erroneous over-payment.

33. A person other than a trustee who has gained an advantage from a breach of trust must indemnify the trustee to the extent of the amount actually received by such person under the breach; and where he is a beneficiary the trustee has a charge on his interest for such amount.

Right to indemnity from gainer by breach of trust.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle a trustee to be indemnified who has, in committing the breach of trust, been guilty of fraud.

34. Any trustee may, without instituting a suit, apply by petition to a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction for its opinion, advice or direction on any present questions respecting the management or administration of the trust-property other than questions of detail, difficulty or importance, not proper in the opinion of the Court for summary disposal.

Right to apply to Court for opinion in management of trust-property.

A copy of such petition shall be served upon, and the hearing thereof may be attended by, such of the persons interested in the application as the Court thinks fit.

The trustee stating in good faith the facts in such petition and acting upon the opinion, advice or direction given by the Court shall be deemed, so far as regards his own responsibility, to have discharged his duty as such trustee in the subject-matter of the application.

The costs of every application under this section shall be in the discretion of the Court to which it is made.

NOTES.

Sec. 34.—The allegation that a person is entitled to the office of the trustee of a fund brings the reliefs to that declaration within the purview of S. 92 (1), C.P. Code, and the proper remedy is a suit properly instituted under that section and not an application under S. 34 or 74, Trusts Act. 150 I.C. 193=11 O.W.N. 323=1934 O. 118. Whenever there is a trust to make annual payments out of the income of property and the income is larger than is required for the purpose, the Court will sanction the setting aside and retention of so much of the corpus of the property as will be sufficient by its income to meet the annual payments in every contingency that is reasonably possible, and will permit the distribution of the rest of the corpus among the persons who, subject to the payment of the annual sums, are absolutely entitled to it. But this, of course, can only be done, when the total amount of the sums payable out of the income is known, or the maximum amount that can ever be so payable can be ascertained with some degree of certainty. 55 L.W. 334=1942 P.C. 28. If in order to avoid disputes a number of interested parties come before the Court so that the trustees should obtain direction and guidance as to what in the circumstances is the best course for them to pursue, in giving that direction and guidance the Courts cannot in any way go behind the testator's will, nor direct that the trustees should follow any hard and fast rule in deciding within their discretion who should be the immediate objects and beneficiaries from time to time of the wakf created, but what the Court will do is to give general directions to ensure, so far as possible, that the trust fund is administered properly. 1939 Rang. 347. Proceedings in an application under S. 34 are intended to be summary and the Court would not be exercising a proper discretion if it disposed of matters of such vital importance as involving the conversion of the entire trust property, especially when there is no question of emergency. 177 I.C. 907=1938 Sind 182. Where subscriptions were paid to a committee for the purpose of carrying out a specific charitable scheme, it is not within the power of the committee as trustees to abandon that scheme on the ground that it has become impracticable, nor can they without recourse to the Court make a cypres application of the funds in their hands on the ground that there is a general charitable intent, even if that view is correct. Before it can be determined that a charitable scheme has become impracticable, there should be an enquiry by Court with proper parties representing both the interests of the charity and the subscribers. Impracticable means impracticable from a reasonable point of view. It includes not only the question of present lack of subscriptions and the virtual impossibility of getting sufficient subscriptions in the future to carry out the original charitable object as defined, but also any other reason which may contribute to make the scheme impracticable. 46 L.W. 225=41 C.W.N. 1072=1937 P.C. 240 (P.C.).

Secs. 34 and 36.—A majority of the trustees have no right to elect one of them as the managing trustee so as to oust the minority trustees from taking part in the management of the trust. Each trustee is entitled to take part in the management of the trust estate. If he voluntarily agrees to an arrangement by which each of the co-trustees is to manage either by turns or for a particular period, it may be that he is bound by the result of his act. 55 L.W. 98=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 272.

Secs. 35 and 36.—An executor, administrator or trustee, who desires to avoid liability for a debt released by him, must show that he has acted honestly and reasonably. 61 C. 711; 1933 C. 393. The trustees cannot be expected to devote more care and attention to the business of the trust than an ordinary man would use in dealing with his own affairs. Where therefore the trustees recover large sums of money from the debtors of the trust, but allow some items aggregating to Rs. 770 to become barred by time, the trustees cannot be made personally liable for this sum. 1934 L. 47. Apart from authority conferred by the deed of endowment, scheme or sanction of Court, the trustees have, under certain circumstances, the power to sell property in their possession for "provident administration" of a particular charity, but the purchaser takes the property subject to the obligation of showing that the sale was beneficial to the charity and justified by the circumstances. 150 I.C. 389=58 C.L.J. 513=1934 C. 372. Where the manager of a temple borrows money for the expenses of some festival in the temple on a promissory note which contains only a personal covenant to pay without any stipulation that the creditor should look to the temple properties for repayment of his money, a suit on the promissory note against the temple is not maintainable, and no decree can validly be passed against the temple. 1942 M. 198=54 L.W. 470=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 568. Where the committee of management of a school leaves certain moneys in charge of its secretary for the purpose of carrying out certain alterations and additions to the school buildings, the secretary is entitled and empowered to apply them, as in his discretion is proper, for any of the purposes named by him and accepted by the committee. As to the resulting balances, it is his duty to keep the moneys standing to the credit of one or other of the accounts authorised and sanctioned by the committee, until they are required for any of the purposes aforesaid. With reference to these balances, he is under no further obligation, unless and until their application is otherwise directed by the committee. Accordingly, if, and to the extent to which he withdraws these moneys and applies them to his own purposes, he is guilty, as from the moment of withdrawal of a criminal breach of trust. 61 I.A. 350=1934 P.C. 238=68 M.L.J. 1 (P.C.). Where subscriptions were paid to a committee for the purpose of fulfilling a specific and well-defined charitable purpose and with no general charitable intent, and the charitable object has become impracticable, the subscribers have a clear right to the return of their subscriptions pro rata, subject only to the rights of the trustees. The members of the committee are trustees, in either event; in the event of impracticability being shown, they are trustees for the subscribers; if, on the other hand, impracticability is not shown, they still have to carry out the trust. In either event, they are entitled to their proper costs, charges and expenses as trustees. 46 L.W. 225=41 C.W.N. 1072=1937 P.C. 240 (P.C.). It is not within the power of the committee as trustees to abandon that scheme on the ground that it has become impracticable, nor can they without recourse to the Court make a cypres application of the funds in their hands. See 41 C.W.N. 1072=1937 P.C. 240 (P.C.). A trustee is bound to account to his cestui que trust, and if a suit for account is brought by the cestui que trust against the trustee, the latter can ask for a decree to be passed in his favour in that very suit if he is in surplusage. But the position of the heir or legal representative of the trustee is different. He is under no liability to account to the cestui que trust because of want of privity, and a suit to have an account against him is in essence a suit for recovery of the trust fund. Such being the character of the suit,

General authority of trustee.

36. In addition to the powers expressly conferred by this Act and by the instrument of trust, and subject to the restrictions, if any, contained in such instrument, and to the provisions of section 17, a trustee may do all acts which are reasonable and proper for the realization, protection or benefit of the trust property, and for the protection or support of a beneficiary who is not competent to contract.

[1][* * * * * *].

Except with the permission of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, no trustee shall lease trust-property for a term exceeding twenty-one years from the date of executing the lease, nor without reserving the best yearly rent that can be reasonably obtained.

Power to sell in lots, and either by public auction or private contract.

37. Where the trustee is empowered to sell any trust-property, he may sell the same subject to prior charges or not, and either together or in lots, by public auction or private contract, and either at one time or at several times, unless the instrument of trust otherwise directs.

LEG. REF.

1. Repealed by Act XII of 1891. The repealed paragraph ran as follows:—"Every trustee in the actual possession or receipt of the rents and profits of land, as defined in the Land Improvement Act, 1871, shall, for the purposes of that Act, be deemed to be a landlord in possession."

he is not entitled to get a decree in the suit, if on taking accounts the balance turns in his favour. I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 372=44 C. W.N. 304=1940 Cal. 337. If a deceased trustee had been guilty of negligent acts or omissions or wilful defaults, the loss occasioned must be made good from his assets in the hands of his legal representative. The cause of action survives, as the loss would be the result not of a mere tort committed by the late trustee but of the breach of a fiduciary relation, on a failure to perform a duty. I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 372=44 C.W.N. 304 =1940 Cal. 337.

COSTS—PERSONAL LIABILITY OF TRUSTEE.—When a trustee incurs a liability as to costs, it is a personal liability, unless he obtains an order from the Court that the costs are to come out of the estate. Where a trustee has recovered costs and is afterwards ordered to refund the same in restitution, he is personally liable, and the same can be recovered in restitution, by his arrest and attachment of his property. 40 L.W. 805=67 M.L.J. 787. See also 151 I.C. 952=1934 A.L.J. 225=1934 A. 793. It is not customary to make a trustee personally liable unless he has done something that is not merely technically wrong but unreasonable or unrighteous. But where a trustee utterly fails to carry out the direction in a trust and takes up an obstructing attitude during the course of litigation, the Court will be justified in awarding costs against the trustee. 165 I.C. 63=1936 Mad. 495. Arrangements between trustees to carry out duties of a trust, if they are conducive to the interests of smooth administration of the affairs of the trust, are really in the nature of schemes framed for the management of the trust and will be binding upon the parties thereto and their representatives till modified either by common consent or in some manner known to law. 1936 Mad. 14=70 M.L.J. 262. Arrangements among trustees for management of trust are not in any sense alienation of the office or delegation of the duties of the office, because ex hypothesi the arrangement is made between persons who are jointly entitled to act as trustees. 1936 Mad. 14=70 M.L.J. 262. Courts have a discretion in drawing presumptions as to the propriety of transactions which took place many years ago, even when that transaction is a permanent lease by a trustee of waste lands belonging to the trust. The presumption has to be applied not with reference to the number of years which have elapsed before the action is brought but with reference to the death of persons who could have given useful information as to the circumstances under which the transaction took place. In a case where there is nobody who could give such evidence, the Courts may presume that a transaction was in all probability entered into for a justifiable cause, especially when that appears to be in the interests of the trust. Further it is not an absolute rule of law that a permanent lease of waste lands belonging to a trust can in no circumstances be granted. 1937 M.W.N. 1188. Trustee exceeding budget allotment in respect of festival—If guilty of breach of trust or negligence—Liability to make good excess expenditure. See (1937) 2 M.L.J. 660. The trustee making any such sale may insert such reasonable stipulations either as to title, or evidence of title, or otherwise, in any conditions of sale or contract for sale, as he thinks fit; and may also buy in the property or any part thereof at any sale by auction, and rescind or vary any contract for sale, and re-sell the property so bought in, or as to which the contract is so rescinded, without being responsible to the beneficiary for any loss occasioned thereby.

Power to sell under special conditions. Power to buy in and re-sell.

39. For the purpose of completing any such sale, the trustee shall have power to convey or otherwise dispose of the property sold in such manner as may be necessary.

Power to convey.

40. A trustee may, at his discretion, call in any trust-property invested in any security and invest the same on any of the securities mentioned or referred to in section 20, and from time to time vary any such investment for others of the same nature:

Power to vary investments.

Provided that, where there is a person competent to contract and entitled at the time to receive the income of the trust property for his life or for any greater estate, no such change of investment shall be made without his consent in writing.

41. Where any property is held by a trustee in trust for a minor, such trustee may, at his discretion, pay to the guardians (if any) of such minor, or otherwise apply for or towards his maintenance or education or advancement in life, or the reasonable expenses of his religious worship, marriage or funeral, the whole or any part of the income to which he may be entitled in respect of such property; and such trustee shall accumulate all the residue of such income by way of compound interest by investing the same and the resulting income thereof from time to time in any of the securities mentioned or referred to in section 20, for the benefit of the person who shall ultimately become entitled to the property from which such accumulations have arisen:

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the provisions of any local law for the time being in force relating to the persons and property of minors.

Power to give receipts.

42. Any trustees or trustee may give a receipt in writing for any money, securities or other movable property payable, transferable or deliverable to them or by reason, or in the exercise, of any trust or power; and, in the absence of fraud, such receipt shall discharge the person paying, transferring or delivering the same therefrom, and from seeing to the application thereof, or being accountable for any loss or misapplication thereof.

Power to compound, etc.

43. Two or more trustees acting together may, if and as they think fit,—

(a) accept any composition or any security for any debt or for any property claimed;

(b) allow any time for payment of any debt;

(c) compromise, compound, abandon, submit to arbitration or otherwise settle any debt, account, claim or thing whatever relating to the trust; and

(d) for any of those purposes, enter into, give, execute and do such agreements, instruments of composition or arrangement, releases and other things as to them seem expedient, without being responsible for any loss occasioned by any act or thing so done by them in good faith.

The powers conferred by this section on two or more trustees acting together may be exercised by a sole acting trustee when by the instrument of trust, if any, a sole trustee is authorized to execute the trusts and powers thereof.

This section applies only if and as far as a contrary intention is not expressed in the instrument of trust, if any, and shall have effect subject to the terms of that instrument and to the provisions therein contained.

This section applies only to trusts created after this Act comes into force.

Power to several trustees of whom one disclaims or dies.

44. When an authority to deal with the trust-property is given to several trustees and one of them disclaims or dies, the authority may be exercised by the continuing trustees, unless from the terms of the instrument of trust it is apparent that the authority is to be exercised by a number in excess of the number of the remaining trustees.

Suspension of trustee's powers by decree.

45. Where a decree has been made in a suit for the execution of a trust, the trustee must not exercise any of his powers except in conformity with such decree, or with the sanction of the Court by which the decree has been made, or, where an appeal against the decree is pending, of the Appellate Court.

OF THE DISABILITIES OF TRUSTEES.

Trustee cannot renounce after acceptance.

46. A trustee who has accepted the trust cannot afterwards renounce it except (a) with the permission of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, or, (b) if the beneficiary is competent to contract, with his consent, or (c) by virtue of a special power in the instrument of trust.

Trustee cannot delegate.

47. A trustee cannot delegate his office or any of his duties either to a co-trustee or to a stranger, unless (a) the instrument of trust so provides, or (b) the delegation is in the regular course of business, or (c) the delegation is necessary, or (d) the beneficiary, being competent to contract, consents to the delegation.

Explanation.—The appointment of an attorney or proxy to do an act merely ministerial and involving no independent discretion is not a delegation within the meaning of this section.

Illustrations.

(a) A bequeaths certain property to B and C on certain trusts to be executed by them or the survivor of them or the assigns of such survivor. B dies. C may bequeath the trust property to D and E upon the trusts of A's will.

(b) A is a trustee of certain property with power to sell the same. A may employ an auctioneer to effect the sale.

(c) A bequeaths to B fifty houses let at monthly rents in trust to collect the rents and pay them to C. B may employ a proper person to collect these rents.

Co-trustees cannot act singly.

48. When there are more trustees than one, all must join in the execution of the trust, except where the instrument of trust otherwise provides.

Sec. 47.—Some of the fundamental duties of a trustee are to get in the trust property and to manage the trust as a prudent man of business. He must exercise his powers also like a prudent man of business. Where he has a discretion he must exercise it in a bona fide and intelligent manner. It is doubtful whether those duties can be abrogated or minimised by an agreement between the creator of the trust and the trustee. I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 372=44 C.W.N. 304=1940 Cal. 337. The appointment of a managing trustee does not involve any legal question of the trustees delegating their powers to others. 140 I.C. 443=36 L.W. 669=1932 M. 658. The mere act of registration of the document of alienation requires no further exercise of discretion on the part of the trustee and, therefore, he is entitled to delegate the power to register to an agent. 1928 P. 304.

INVESTMENT IN HOUSE PROPERTY.—Where the directors of an insurance company are authorised to invest the policy-holders trust fund in the purchase of house property, they are not entitled to invest money in construction of a building and a resolution, even if passed unanimously, by the directors to invest in constructing a building is ultra vires. Where the rules authorise the directors to purchase house property if there is an unanimity of opinion among them, such unanimity is necessary not only as regards the amount to be spent but also as regards the property to be purchased. And the duty of deciding which property is to be purchased cannot be delegated to a committee but must be decided unanimously by the directors. 39 L.W. 779=1934 M. 411=67 M.L.J. 336.

Sec. 48.—There is no rule of law which requires all the trustees of an institution actually to sign a promissory note under which money is borrowed for the trust. It would be enough if those trustees who do not sign have authorised the transaction. 1942 M. 92=54 L.W. 472=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 587. See also 1926 M. 1199. The office of trustee, irrespective of the number of trustees, is a joint one and co-trustees are as it were, one trustee and must therefore execute the duties of their office jointly. No suit in regard to trust properties would be maintainable by one or some of the trustees only, if the remaining trustees are not before the Court either as plaintiffs or as defendants. 48 L.W. 829=1938 Mad. 982=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 663. See also 46 C.W.N. 865; 1924 N. 335. A suit by a trustee against a co-trustee for accounts is maintainable, if the co-trustee is guilty of breach of trust. 44 C.W.N. 688=1940 Cal. 416; or when one trustee is not given custody or control of the trust property. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 128=73 C.

Control of discretionary power.

49. Where a discretionary power conferred on a trustee is not exercised reasonably and in good faith, such power may be controlled by a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction.

Trustee may not charge for services.

50. In the absence of express directions to the contrary contained in the instrument of trust or of a contract to the contrary entered into with the beneficiary or the Court at the time of accepting the trust, a trustee has no right to remuneration for his trouble, skill and loss of time in executing the trust.

Nothing in this section applies to any Official Trustee, Administrator-General, Public Curator or person holding a certificate of administration.

Trustee may not use trust-property for his own profit.

51. A trustee may not use or deal with the trust-property for his own profit or for any other purpose unconnected with the trust.

Trustee for sale or his agent may not buy.

52. No trustee whose duty it is to sell trust-property, and no agent employed by such trustee for the purpose of the sale, may, directly or indirectly, buy the same or any interest therein, on his own account or as agent for a third person.

53. No trustee, and no person who has recently ceased to be a trustee, Secs. 49 and 61.—A District Judge has no power to interfere with the discretion of a trustee in the matter of the investment of trust funds on a petition under S. 49 or S. 61 of the Act. It can be done only in a properly instituted suit. 106 I.C. 672=1928 L. 237 (2).

Sec. 50.—The prohibition to receive remuneration for his work also applies to a solicitor-trustee not only personally, but also to his firm who act as his solicitors. But this is so only when the solicitor-trustee is acting for himself. A solicitor-trustee is not, however, bound to act professionally also for his co-trustees. The circumstance that a solicitor is a trustee will not prevent him from receiving his usual costs, where he acts as solicitor in a suit for any of his beneficiaries, or where he acts for himself and his co-trustees jointly, provided the costs are not increased by his being one of the parties for which such joint appearance is made. This rule of English law is not inconsistent with any law or practice of the Courts in India. S. 50 is applicable only to express private trusts. Where a solicitor-trustee is a defendant as trustee and is held entitled to his costs, the Court directs them to be taxed as between attorney and client. 39 Bom.L.R. 633=1937 B. 374.

may, without the permission of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, buy or become mortgagee or lessee of the trust-property or any part thereof; and such permission shall not be given unless the proposed purchase, mortgage or lease is manifestly for the advantage of the beneficiary.

Trustee for purchase.

And no trustee whose duty it is to buy or to obtain a mortgage or lease of particular property for the beneficiary may buy it, or any part thereof, or obtain a mortgage or lease of it, or any part thereof, for himself.

Co-trustees may not lend to one of themselves.

54. A trustee or co-trustee whose duty it is to invest trust-money on mortgage or personal security must not invest it on mortgage by, or on the personal security of, himself or one of his co-trustees.

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF THE BENEFICIARY.

Rights to rents and profits.

55. The beneficiary has, subject to the provisions of the instrument of trust, a right to the rents and profits of the trust-property.

Right to specific execution.

56. The beneficiary is entitled to have the intention of the author of the trust specifically executed to the extent of the beneficiary's interest; and, where there is only one beneficiary and he is competent to contract, or where there are several beneficiaries and they are competent to contract and all of one mind, he or they may require the trustee to transfer the trust-property to him or them, or to such person as he or they may direct.

Right to transfer of possession.

When property has been transferred or bequeathed for the benefit of a married woman, so that she shall not have power to deprive herself of her beneficial interest, nothing in the second clause of this section applies to such property during her marriage.

Illustrations.

(a) Certain Government securities are given to trustees upon trust to accumulate the interest until A attains the age of 24, and then to transfer the gross amount to him. A on attaining majority may, as the person exclusively interested in the trust-property, require the trustees to transfer it immediately to him.

(b) A bequeaths Rs. 10,000 to trustees upon trust to purchase an annuity for B, who has attained his majority and is otherwise competent to contract. B may claim the Rs. 10,000.

(c) A transfers certain property to B and directs him to sell or invest it for the benefit of C who is competent to contract. C may elect to take the property in its original character.

Right to inspect and take copies of instrument of trust, accounts, etc.

57. The beneficiary has a right, as against the trustee and all persons claiming under him with notice of the trust, to inspect and take copies of the instrument of trust, the documents of title relating solely to the trust-property the accounts of the trust-property and the vouchers (if any) by which they are supported and the cases submitted and opinions taken by the trustee for his guidance in the discharge of his duty.

Right to transfer beneficial inerest.

58. The beneficiary, if competent to contract, may transfer his interest but subject to the law for the time being in force as to the circumstances and extent in and to which he may dispose of such interest:

NOTES.

Secs. 53 and 54.—See 60 M.L.J. 355.

Sec. 56.—See 21 Bom.L.R. 41.

Provided that when property is transferred or bequeathed for the benefit of a married woman, so that she shall not have power to deprive herself of her beneficial interest, nothing in this section shall authorize her to transfer such interest during her marriage.

Right to sue for execution of trust.

59. Where no trustees are appointed or all the trustees die, disclaim, or are discharged, or where for any other reason the execution of a trust by the trustee is or becomes impracticable, the beneficiary may institute a suit for the execution of the trust, and the trust shall, so far as may be possible, be executed by the Court until the appointment of a trustee or new trustee.

Right to proper trustees.

60. The beneficiary has a right (subject to the provisions of the instrument of trust) that the trust-property shall be properly protected and held and administered by proper persons and by a proper number of such persons.

Explanation I.—The following are not proper persons within the meaning of this section:—

A person domiciled abroad: an alien enemy: a person having an interest inconsistent with that of the beneficiary: a person in insolvent circumstances; and, unless the personal law of the beneficiary allows otherwise, a married woman and a minor.

Explanation II.—When the administration of the trust involves the receipt and custody of money, the number of trustees should be two at least.

Illustrations.

(a) A, one of several beneficiaries, proves that B, the trustee, has improperly disposed of part of the trust-property or that the property is in danger from B's being in insolvent circumstances, or that he is incapacitated from acting as trustee. A may obtain a receiver of the trust property.

(b) A bequeaths certain jewels to B in trust for C. B dies during A's lifetime; then A dies. C is entitled to have the property conveyed to a trustee for him.

(c) A conveys certain property to four trustees in trust for B. Three of the trustees die. B may institute a suit to have three new trustees appointed in the place of the deceased trustees.

(d) A conveys certain property to three trustees in trust for B. All the trustees disclaim. B may institute a suit to have three trustees appointed in place of the trustees so disclaiming.

(e) A, a trustee for B, refuses to act, or goes to reside permanently out of British India, or is declared an insolvent, or compounds with his creditors or suffers a co-trustee to commit a breach of trust. B may institute a suit to have A removed and a new trustee appointed in his room.

61. The beneficiary has a right that his trustee shall be compelled to per-

Sec. 59.—The plaintiff's husband had insured his life for her benefit with a certain Company at Calcutta. The business of the Company was taken over by the defendant company. The insured subsequently obtained a loan from the defendants and he later on surrendered his policy on receipt of a certain amount. After her husband's death the plaintiff sued in Madras to recover the insurance amount on the ground that a trust had been created in her favour. Held, that the contract having been completed in Calcutta the proper person to sue was the Official Trustee of Bengal. Held, further, S. 59 of the Trusts Act had no application because it was not shown that the execution of the trust had become impracticable or that the Official Trustee had disclaimed trusteeship. 57 M. 536=151 I.C. 112=39 L. Right to compel to any act of duty.

form any particular act of his duty as such, and restrained from committing any contemplated or probable breach of trust.

Illustrations.

(a) A contracts with B to pay him monthly Rs. 100 for the benefit of C. B writes and signs a letter declaring that he will hold in trust for C the money so to be paid. A fails to pay the money in accordance with his contract. C may compel B on a proper indemnity to allow C to sue on the contract in B's name.

(b) A is trustee of certain land, with a power to sell the same and pay the proceeds to B and C equally. A is about to make an improvident sale of the land. B may sue on behalf of himself and C for an injunction to restrain A from making the sale.

Wrongful purchase by trustee.

62. Where a trustee has wrongfully bought trust-property, the beneficiary has a right to have the property declared subject to the trust or re-transferred by the trustee, if it remains in his hands unsold, or, if it has been bought from him by any person with notice of the trust, by such person. But in such case the beneficiary must re-pay the purchase-money paid by the trustee, with interest, and such other expenses (if any) as he has properly incurred in the preservation of the property; and the trustee or purchaser must (a) account for the nett profits of the property, (b) be charged with an occupation rent, if he has been in actual possession of the property, and (c) allow the beneficiary to deduct a proportionate part of the purchase-money if the property has been deteriorated by the acts or omissions of the trustee or purchaser.

Nothing in this section—

(a) impairs the rights of lessees and others who, before the institution of a suit to have the property declared subject to the trust or re-transferred, have contracted in good faith with the trustee or purchaser; or

(b) entitles the beneficiary to have the property declared subject to the trust or re-transferred where he, being competent to contract, has himself, without coercion or undue influence having been brought to bear on him, ratified the sale to the trustee with full knowledge of the facts of the case and of his rights as against the trustee.

Following trust-property —into the hands of third persons;

63. Where trust-property comes into the hands of a third person inconsistently with the trust, the beneficiary may require him to admit formally, or may institute a suit for a declaration, that the property is comprised in the trust.

NOTES.

Sec. 62.—Under S. 62 the Court has no power to make an order directing a resale, conditional on such sale producing a higher price than that for which the trustees themselves bought. 40 L.W. 122=1934 M. 448 =67 M.L.J. 222. The principle in S. 62 are applicable to public religious trusts as an equitable one. Where the trustee of a public charitable trust sells trust property and for the purchase price conveys his own property to the trust, if the sale of such property is subsequently set aside on the ground of absence of valid necessity, the trustee or his alienee would be entitled to call upon the trust to surrender the benefit which the trust had by virtue of the sale. A sale of trust property without valid necessity is only a voidable transaction and not void. 55 L. W. 183=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 353.

Secs. 63 to 66.—Secs. 63 to 66 are not exhaustive of the law as to the tracings. It clearly does not refer to the tracing of trust funds in the hands of the trustee when he has allowed it to mingle with his own funds following the directions of the settlor. Where a trustee mixes trust money with his own money the cestui que trust has a claim to have it restored out of the fixed fund in priority to any right of the trustee; and though there is no specific provision in the Act the doctrine of tracing will apply. There is also no distinction between a rightful and wrongful disposition of property so far as the right of the beneficiary to follow the proceeds is concerned. 1937 M.W.N. 493. See also 1940 Rang. 225.

Sec. 63.—Where a trustee is authorised by the terms of the trust to invest the trust moneys in his own business and directed to pay interest thereon and the moneys are so utilised, the trust is not entitled to follow up the money into the assets of the trustee

Where the trustee has disposed of trust-property and the money or other property which he has received therefor can be traced in his hands, or the hands of his legal representative or legatee, the beneficiary has, in respect thereof, rights as nearly as may be the same as his rights in respect of the original trust-property.

Into that into which it has been converted.

Illustrations.

(a) A, a trustee for B of Rs. 10,000, wrongfully invests the Rs. 10,000 in the purchase of certain land. B is entitled to the land.

(b) A, a trustee, wrongfully purchases land in his own name, partly with his own money, partly with money subject to a trust for B. B is entitled to a charge on the land for the amount of the trust money so misemployed.

Saving of rights of certain transferees.

64. Nothing in section 63 entitles the beneficiary to any right in respect of property in the hands of—

(a) a transferee in good faith for consideration without having notice of the trust, either when the purchase-money was paid, or when the conveyance was executed, or—

(b) a transferee for consideration from such a transferee.

A judgment-creditor of the trustee attaching and purchasing trust property is not a transferee for consideration within the meaning of this section.

Nothing in section 63 applies to money, currency notes, and negotiable instruments in the hands of a bona fide holder to whom they have passed in after he becomes an insolvent. The consequence of the liberty so conferred upon the trustee is to convert the object of the trust—from a particular sum of money into a personal obligation to pay on the part of the trustee. But the claim of the trust on the trustee rests on his personal obligation and can stand on no higher footing than that of the other ordinary creditors. 1931 M. 251 =60 M.L.J. 355. Acquisition by trustee of trust-property wrongfully converted.

65. Where a trustee wrongfully sells or otherwise transfers trust-property and afterwards himself becomes the owner of the property, the property again becomes subject to the trust, notwithstanding any want of notice on the part of intervening transferees in good faith for consideration.

Right in case of blended property.

66. Where the trustee wrongfully mingles the trust-property with his own, the beneficiary is entitled to a charge on the whole fund for the amount due to him.

Wrongful employment by partner-trustee of trust-property for partnership purposes.

67. If a partner, being a trustee, wrongfully employs trust-property in the business, or on the account of the partnership, no other partner is liable therefor in his personal capacity to the beneficiaries, unless he had notice of the breach of trust.

The partners having such notice are jointly and severally liable for the breach of trust.

Illustrations.

(a) A and B are partners. A dies, having bequeathed all his property to B in trust for Z, and appointed B his sole executor. B, instead of winding up the affairs of the partnership, retains all the assets in the business. Z may compel him, as partner, to account for so much of the profits as are derived from A's share of the capital. B is also answerable to Z for the improper employment of A's assets.

(b) A, a trader, bequeaths his property to B in trust for C, appoints B his sole executor, and dies. B enters into partnership with X and Y in the same trade, and employs A's assets in the partnership business. B gives an indemnity to X and Y against the claims of C. Here X and Y are jointly liable with B to C as having knowingly become parties to the breach of trust committed by B.

Liability of beneficiary joining in breach of trust.

68. Where one of several beneficiaries—

(a) joins in committing breach of trust, or

(b) knowingly obtains any advantage therefrom, without the consent of the other beneficiaries, or

(c) becomes aware of a breach of trust committed or intended to be committed, and either actually conceals it, or does not within a reasonable time take proper steps to protect the interests of the other beneficiaries, or

(d) has deceived the trustee and thereby induced him to commit a breach of trust, the other beneficiaries are entitled to have all his beneficial interest impounded as against him and all who claim under him (otherwise than as transferees for consideration without notice of the breach) until the loss caused by the breach has been compensated.

When property has been transferred or bequeathed for the benefit of a married woman, so that she shall not have power to deprive herself of her beneficial interest, nothing in this section applies to such property during her marriage.

NOTES.

Sec. 65.—If a trustee or an agent mixes or confuses the property which he holds in a fiduciary character with his own property, the onus lies heavily on him to prove the extent of his property. If he fails to do so, and the two properties cannot be distinguished or separated with perfect accuracy, the whole must be considered as belonging to the other property. 10 M.L.T. 313=10 I.C. 57; 60 I.A. 203=65 M.L.J. 1 (P.C.).

Rights and liabilities of beneficiary's transferee.

69. Every person to whom a beneficiary transfers his interest has the rights, and is subject to the liabilities, of the beneficiary in respect of such interest at the date of the transfer.

CHAPTER VII.

OF VACATING THE OFFICE OF TRUSTEE.

Office how vacated.

70. The office of a trustee is vacated by his death or by his discharge from his office.

Discharge of trustee.

71. The trustee may be discharged from his office only as follows:—

(a) by the extinction of the trust;

(b) by the completion of his duties under the trust;

(c) by such means as may be prescribed by the instrument of trust;

(d) by appointment under this Act of a new trustee in his place;

(e) by consent of himself and the beneficiary, or, where there are more beneficiaries than one, all the beneficiaries being competent to contract, or

(f) by the Court to which a petition for his discharge is presented under this Act.

Petition to be discharged from trust.

72. Notwithstanding the provisions of section 11, every trustee may apply by petition to a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction to be discharged from his office; and, if the Court finds that there is sufficient reason for such discharge, it may discharge him accordingly, and direct his costs to be paid out of the trust-property. But, where there is no such reason, the Court shall not discharge him, unless a proper person can be found to take his place.

Appointment of new trustees on death, etc.

73. Whenever any person appointed a trustee disclaims, or any trustee, either original or substituted, dies, or is for a continuous period of six months absent from British India, or leaves British India for the purpose of residing abroad, or is declared an insolvent, or desires to be discharged from the trust, or refuses or becomes, in the opinion of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, unfit or personally incapable to act in the trust or accepts an inconsistent trust, a new trustee may be appointed in his place by—

(a) the person nominated for that purpose by the instrument of trust (if any); or

(b) if there be no such person, or no such person able and willing to act, the author of the trust, if he be alive and competent to contract, or the surviving or continuing trustees, or trustee for the time being, or legal representative of the last surviving and continuing trustee, or (with the consent of Sec. 73.—The appointment of a new trustee need not be by a registered document as the office of trustee is not immovable property within the meaning of the Registration Act, and the trust-properties vest by the operation of S. 75, and not by the instrument of appointment. 6 M.L.T. 240=3 I.C. 435. the Court), the retiring trustees, if they all retire simultaneously, or (with the like consent) the last retiring trustee.

Every such appointment shall be by writing under the hand of the person making it.

On an appointment of a new trustee the number of trustees may be increased.

The official trustee may, with his consent and by the order of the Court, be appointed under this section, in any case in which only one trustee is to be appointed, and such trustee is to be the sole trustee.

The provisions of this section relative to a trustee who is dead include the case of a person nominated trustee in a will but dying before the testator, and those relative to a continuing trustee include a refusing or retiring trustee if willing to act in the execution of the power.

Appointment by Court.

74. Whenever any such vacancy or disqualification occurs and it is found impracticable to appoint a new trustee under section 73, the beneficiary may, without instituting a suit, apply by petition to a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction for the appointment of a trustee or a new trustee, and the Court may appoint a trustee or a new trustee accordingly.

Rules for selecting new trustees.

In appointing new trustees, the Court shall have regard (a) to the wishes of the author of the trust as expressed in or to be inferred from the instrument of trust; (b) to the wishes of the person, if any, empowered to appoint new trustees; (c) to the question whether the appointment will promote or impede the execution of the trust; and (d) where there are more beneficiaries than one, to the interests of all such beneficiaries.

Vesting of trust-property in new trustees.

75. Whenever any new trustee is appointed under section 73 or section 74, all the trust-property for the time being vested in the surviving or continuing trustees or trustee, or in the legal representative of any trustee, shall become vested in such new trustee either solely or jointly with the surviving or continuing trustees or trustee, as the case may require.

Power of new trustees.

Every new trustee so appointed, and every trustee appointed by a Court, either before or after the passing of this Act, shall have the same powers, authorities and discretions and shall in all respects act, as if he had been originally nominated a trustee by the author of the trust.

No specific charges of malversation were made out. It was also found that certain accounts had been put before the community from time to time at annual meetings and scrutinised by the members of the community and passed or allowed by them. Held, in the circumstances, it would be unjust and inequitable to call on the late trustees to account for the moneys received by them many years ago, and the prayer for general account should therefore be refused. 70 M. Survival of trust.

76. On the death or discharge of one of several co-trustees, the trust survives and the trust-property passes to the others unless the instrument of trust expressly declares otherwise.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF THE EXTINCTION OF TRUSTS.

Trust how extinguished.

77. A trust is extinguished—

(a) when its purpose is completely fulfilled; or

(b) when its purpose becomes unlawful; or

(c) when the fulfilment of its purpose becomes impossible by destruction of the trust-property or otherwise; or

(d) when the trust, being revocable, is expressly revoked.

78. A trust created by will may be revoked at the pleasure of the testator.

A trust otherwise created can be revoked only—

(a) where all the beneficiaries are competent to contract—by their consent;

(b) where the trust has been declared by a non-testamentary instrument or by word of mouth—in exercise of a power of revocation expressly reserved to the author of the trust; or

(c) where the trust is for the payment of the debts of the author of the trust, and has not been communicated to the creditors—at the pleasure of the author of the trust.

Where a clause in a will founding a trust provides that none of the relatives are to have any right of interfering with the bequest and that any claim put forward by them is to be rejected the clause is intended to apply to any claim of the relatives to succeed to the property in their personal capacity or to claim any right of interfering with the management of the property during the lifetime of the trustees appointed by the founder or in the presence of any of their descendants. It is not the intention of the founder to provide that the management of the trust should not revert to his own family, according to the ordinary rule in case the line of succession, which he had prescribed should die out. 160 I.C. 283= 1936 Lah. 300. A conveys property to B in trust to sell the same and pay out of the proceeds the claims of A's creditors. A reserves no power of revocation. If no communication has been made to the creditors, A may revoke the trust. But if the creditors are parties to the arrangement, the trust cannot be revoked without their consent.

Revocation not to defeat what trustees have duly done.

79. No trust can be revoked by the author of the trust so as to defeat or prejudice what the trustees may have duly done in execution of the trust.

CHAPTER IX.

OF CERTAIN OBLIGATIONS IN THE NATURE OF TRUSTS.

Where obligation in nature of trust is created.

80. An obligation in the nature of a trust is created in the following cases.

Where it does not appear that transferor intended to dispose of beneficial interest.

81. Where the owner of property transfers or bequeaths it and it cannot be inferred consistently with the attendant circumstances that he intended to dispose of the beneficial interest therein, the transferee or legatee must hold such property for the benefit of the owner or his legal representative.

Illustrations.

(a) A conveys land to B without consideration and declares no trust of any part. It cannot, consistently with the circumstances under which the transfer is made, be inferred that A intended to transfer the beneficial interest in the land. B holds the land for the benefit of A.

(b) A conveys to B two fields, Y and Z, and declares a trust of Y, but says nothing about Z. It cannot, consistently with the circumstances under which the transfer is made, be inferred that A intended to transfer the beneficial interest in Z. B holds Z for the benefit of A.

(c) A transfers certain stock belonging to him into the joint names of himself and B. It cannot, consistently with the circumstances under which the transfer is made, be inferred that A intended to transfer the beneficial interest in the stock during his life. A and B hold the stock for the benefit of A during his life.

(d) A makes a gift of certain land to his wife B. She takes the beneficial interest in the land free from any trust in favour of A, for it may be inferred from the circumstances that the gift was for B's benefit.

Transfer to one for consideration paid by another.

82. Where property is transferred to one person for a consideration paid or provided by another person, and it appears that such other person did not intend to pay or provide such consideration for the benefit of the transferee, the transferee must hold the property for the benefit of the person paying or providing the consideration.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the Code of Civil Procedure, section 317, or Act No. XI of 1859 (to improve the law relating to sales of land for arrears of revenue in the lower Provinces under the Bengal Presidency), section 36.

NOTES.

Sec. 81.—See 38 B. 618; 10 M.L.T. 42; 32 M. 443; 47 I.C. 376; 93 I.C. 161=28 Bom. L.R. 11. Among Anglo-Indians, there is a presumption of an intended advancement in the case of money deposited in the bank in the joint names of husband and wife and the general rule of a resulting trust does not apply. 146 I.C. 1034=1933 N. 337. In the case of Indian Christians the doctrine of advancement is not applicable. (1942) M.L.J. 528. There is no presumption of advancement in Burma. Consequently where a mortgage is taken in the name of A, the money advanced on the mortgage being admittedly the money of B, there is resulting trust in favour of B. 1936 Rang. 447; 1936 R. 256 (F.B.).

Sec 82.—S. 82 has made it much clearer than it was before that the burden of proof of establishing all the facts necessary to lead to the inference that a transfer was benami lies upon the person asserting it to be so. 16 Luck. 341=1941 Oudh 288. See 82 I.C. 832=1 C.W.N. 710; 12 Bur.L.T. 45. The first defendant paid the sale price and purchased certain property in the name of his son-in-law N. His object in so doing was to defeat the possible claims of a third person against himself. He had custody of all the title deeds as also possession, and N had neither possession nor custody of title-deeds.

Trust incapable of execution or executed without exhausting trust-property.

83. Where a trust is incapable of being executed, or where the trust is completely executed without exhausting the trust-property, the trustee, in the absence of a direction to the contrary, must hold the trust-property, or so much thereof as is unexhausted, for the benefit of the author of the trust or his legal representative.

Illustrations.

(a) A conveys certain land to B—
"upon trust," and no trust is declared; or "upon trust to be thereafter declared," and no such declaration is ever made; or upon trusts that are too vague to be executed; or upon trusts that become incapable of taking effect; or
"in trust for C," and C renounces his interest under the trust.

In each of these cases B holds the land for the benefit of A.

(b) A transfers Rs. 10,000 in the four per cents. to B in trust to pay the interest annually accruing due to C for her life. A dies. Then C dies. B holds the fund for the benefit of A's legal representative.

(c) A conveys land to B upon trust to sell it and apply one moiety of the proceeds for certain charitable purposes, and the other for the maintenance of the worship of an idol. B sells the land, but the charitable purposes wholly fail, and the maintenance of the worship does not exhaust the second moiety of the proceeds. B holds the first moiety and the part unapplied of the second moiety for the benefit of A or his legal representative.

(d) A bequeaths Rs. 10,000 to B, to be laid out in buying land to be conveyed for purposes which either wholly or partially fail to take effect. B holds for the benefit of A's legal representative the undisposed of interest in the money or land if purchased.

Transfer for illegal purpose.

84. Where the owner of property transfers it to another for an illegal purpose and such purpose is not carried into execution, or the transferor is not as guilty as the transferee, or the effect of permitting the transferee to retain the property might be to defeat the provisions of any law, the transferee must hold the property for the benefit of the transferor.

Where a testator bequeaths certain property upon trust and the purpose of the trust appears on the face of the will to be unlawful, or during the testator's lifetime the legatee agrees with him to apply the property for an unlawful purpose, the legatee must hold the property for the benefit of the testator's legal representative.

can be held to arise only if the conditions of Ss. 88 and 90 of the Trusts Act are satisfied. A general presumption that in obtaining the renewal the partner availed himself of the advantage of the old lease cannot be justified in cases where the lease is not renewable by contract or custom. Except in case of trustees, there is no irrebuttable presumption in support of the equity. For such equity to apply it must be shown that the transaction was within the scope of the partnership or part of the business of the partnership or an undertaking in rivalry with the partnership or indeed connected with it in any proper sense. 48 L.W. 334=1938 Mad. 929=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 790. Sec. 89.—If it is shown that two parties stood in such a situation as to give rise to confidence between them, and the third party who derives the benefit was aware of the existence of this relation, the third party is not entitled to retain the benefit unless he shows that the party conferring the benefit was a free agent and had independent and disinterested advice. It is not necessary for the party impeaching the transaction to prove that he was deceived by the person who put himself in loco parentis towards him; nor is it necessary for him to make out that the third party connived at any actual fraud. If it is shown that the third party was aware of the existence of the confidential or fiduciary relation, he is under the same disability as the party who occupied the position of confidence. 1939 M.W.N, 976=1940 Mad. 285. commencement of the Act in respect of loans made either before or after its commencement. The Act makes no distinction between the types of Court to which it is to apply. It is applied to all suits which fulfil the conditions necessary irrespective of the kind of the Court in which they are instituted. Hence a Court of Small Causes is entitled to exercise the powers conferred by S. 3 (1) (b) of the Act. S. 3 is mandatory and the Court is bound to exercise the powers conferred the moment the facts bring the claim within the ambit of the Act. A refund can be ordered by the Court of Small Causes, if the calculations justify it. 1941 N. L. J. 456=1941 Nag. 294=I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 177=I. L. R. (1937) Nag. 119.

SEC. 3: APPLICATION OF SECTION—ESSENTIALS.—The amendment in 1926 conferring on the Courts the enhanced powers of reopening accounts up to 12 years back has a retrospective effect and can be applied to suits governed by the Act, although instituted prior to the date of the amendment. 1936 N. 259. The Court has no jurisdiction to reduce the rate of interest as set forth in a decree of Court. 163 I.C. 537=1936 A.W.R. 478=1936 R.D. 217=1936 A.L.J. 510=1936 A. 450. The language of S. 3 of the Usurious Loans Act clearly shows that the Court has power to act suo motu even though the plea is not raised by way of defence. 1941 N. L. J. 194=1941 Nag. 177=I. L. R (1942) Nag. 456; 1941 N. L. J. 456=1941 Nag. 294. Where it is not possible for the High Court to reduce the interest in a case without affecting a decree previously passed by a Court of competent jurisdiction, it cannot exercise the powers given by S. 3. The Court in exercise of its powers under S. 3 must not do anything which affects any decree, whether such decree be inter partes or not. 164 I.C. 325=1936 A.L.J. 919=1936 A. 611. In order to permit of the application of S. 3, two facts are to be proved. The first is that the interest is excessive and the second is that the transaction was as between the parties thereto substantially unfair. 153 I.C. 943=1935 Pesh. 4. See also 130 I.C. 254 =1930 C. 776; 19 Pat. 974=21 P.L.T. 740 =1940 P. W. N. 719=1941 Pat. 99. Under the section the following points are clear: (1) the duty is cast upon the Court in cases to which the statute is applicable to apply its mind to its provisions even in a suit heard ex parte; (2) the words "whether ex parte or not" and "the Court has reason to believe" indicate that the intention of the legislature was to enable the Court to take up the question of its own motion whether it has been raised by the defence or not; (3) the words "has reason to believe" have a significance; they mean something more than mere suspicion, namely, that the person has sufficient cause to believe that thing. (4) Excessive interest cannot be defined but the considerations that should govern the matter are the financial conditions of the debtor, the nature of the security, the risk incurred, the period of rests and lastly the total advantage to the parties. (5) The word "substantially fair" should be understood in the light of practical tests laid down in cl. (d) of sub-S. (2). Interest at 25 per cent. compound, per annum with yearly rests is not excessive by itself so as to be described as being "substantially unfair." Relief not granted in a case between landlord and tenant. 52 C.L.J. 73=1930 C. 776. The provisions of sub-cl. (a), cl. (2), S. 3, impose upon the Court the duty of coming to a conclusion as to what will be a reasonable rate of interest, having regard to the risk incurred. 1935 M. W. N. 408=1935 M. 468. For a transaction to be regarded as "unfair" it is not necessary that Court should be able to ascribe some moral blame-worthiness to the creditor. It is open to the Court to come to the conclusion that the transaction is substantially unfair by taking into account the circumstances materially affecting the parties at the time of the loan. 1935 M. W. N. 408=1935 M. 468. Where the interest on a bond was fixed as Rs. 2 per cent. per mensem and in case of default the same was payable from the date of the execution of the bond and not from the date of the default, the transaction, is substantially unfair within the meaning of S. 3. 192 I.C. 118=1941 Lah. 23. When the rate of interest is not excessive, and the transaction is not substantially unfair, the fact that interest is capitalised once in three years and that, as a result of accounts lasting for about 30 years, the amount of Rs. 23 originally advanced has amounted to Rs. 5,250 is no ground for disallowing the claim, though the case is a hard one. The Act does not apply to the transaction and the Court cannot reopen the account. 152 I.C. 522=1935 L. 38. Apart from any circumstance vitiating the contract and even if the contract is quite valid and operative, the Court has powers under S. 3 to reduce the rate of interest, if it finds on facts that the interest is excessive. 1 P. 263; 3 P. 279 and 7 P. 294 (P.C.), Dist.; 1931 N. 25=130 I.C. 103. A bargain which is fair in its inception cannot become unfair by the happening of subsequent events, nor can interest which was reasonable in the beginning become excessive at a later date. The Court is limited to a consideration of circumstances which existed "at the date of the loan". [23 C. 15 (P.C.) and 1918 P.C. 249, Ref.] 144 I.C. 218=1933 N. 224. Under S. 3 as amended by the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act, the proper test to determine whether a transaction is fair or unfair is to take into consideration the circumstances as they existed at the time it was made. 42 P.L.R.

NOTES.

372=1940 Lah. 275. From the mere fact that the mortgagor was indebted and in urgent need of money, it cannot be inferred that the mortgagees were in a position to dominate his will, and interest at Rs. 2-8-0 per cent. per mensem compoundable quarterly was not held unconsionable. 27 A. L. J. 1091=1929 A. 680. A high rate of interest is not necessarily to be regarded as excessive or substantially unfair. It is open to the creditor to adduce evidence that the prevailing rate of interest in the locality from where the parties come is the same or nearly the same as it has been agreed to or, that the high rate of interest was justified in view of the risk to which the creditor was exposed, making the transaction a substantially fair one. 27 A.L.J. 1174=118 I.C. 375. Even if it is proved that it is the custom in the locality to charge interest at 75 per cent. per annum and 150 per cent. per annum in case of default, the rate of interest can still be held to be excessive and Court has under S. 3 (1), power to re-open transaction and order repayment in respect of excessive interest and no claim for such relief is necessary. 1929 N. 348. It is a common thing in India for rates of interest to be charged upon secured loans amounting to one per cent. per mensem and in some circumstances even going as high as 2 per cent. per month. What rate of interest is charged depends on the circumstances, the security offered and so on, and no fixed rate of interest can be specified as being reasonable or fair in all cases. The burden is on the borrower to show that the rate of interest is excessive, and it is somewhat difficult to hold that as between 12 per cent. and 15 per cent. the rate of interest alone can indicate that it was excessive. 10 P.L.T. 430=119 I.C. 410=1929 P. 383. See also 1939 Pat. 360. A rate of interest of 75 per cent. in respect of a loan of Rs. 300 to a Government servant in excessive, and the transaction is also substantially unfair. The Court re-opened the transaction and allowed 33 per cent. from the very beginning. 1939 A. M .L. J. 163. Where the contract rate of interest was 15 per cent. per annum with half-yearly rests, on one transaction, and Rs. 1-10-0 per cent. per mensem with half-yearly rests on another transaction of loan entered into by a guardian of a minor, and the High Court reduced the interest to 15 per cent. per annum simple interest. Held, that the reduction of the rates of interest under the Usurious Loans Act to 15 per cent. simple interest was eminently reasonable. 43 C.W.N. 1093=70 C.L.J. 373=1939 P.C. 200 (P.C.). Where a loan has been incurred for interest, and this interest is added to the amount agreed to be due when a new transaction is agreed upon between the parties which includes the payment of interest as an acknowledged debt, this is not in principle open to any sound objection on the ground of its being unfair under the Usurious Loans Act. 24 per cent. interest was held unreasonable and excessive, and was therefore reduced to 15 per cent. 51 L. W. 702 =1940 P.C. 60=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 68 (P.C.). In the absence of undue influence the Court cannot reduce the date of interest fixed by the parties with open eyes, unless the case falls within the provisions of this Act. The rate of interest provided in a handnote was only Re. 1 per centum. per month. There was nothing to show that this rate of interest was unreasonable. [(1906) A.C. 461, Ref.] 10 P.L.T. 322=116 I.C. 43=1929 P. 340. To bring a case within the Act, it is necessary to establish (a) that interest charged was "excessive" and (b) that the transaction as between the parties thereto was "substantially unfair''. Both these elements must be proved to co-exist. 120 I.C. 417=1930 L. 65. See also 20 Pat. L. T. 825=1939 Pat. 323; 20 P.L.T. 543=1939 Pat. 360. "Excessive" is explained to mean, excess of that which the Court deems reasonable having regard to the risk at the date of the loan. It was held that in Bihar there was nothing to entitle a Court to hold that interest at twelve per cent. compound interest per annum is substantially unfair. 174 I.C. 197= 1938 Pat. 324. The expression "reason to believe" in S. 3 (1) does not require that there should be evidence on the point before the Court. It is enough if the Court has reason to believe that the rate is excessive by taking judicial notice according to the Evidence Act. 1939 A. L. J. 40=1939 All. 323. Where a mortgage bond contained a stipulation for payment of interest at 12 per cent. per annum with yearly rests, and there was no evidence either that the rate of interest prevailing at the time was lower than that provided in the bond or that the transaction was substantially unfair: Held, that S. 3 was not a bar to the enforceability of the claim for interest. 56 C. 960=33 C. W. N. 388. Tarnsferee of debtor—Power of Court to relieve—Meaning of the words 'debtor' and 'creditor'; 4 L. 1=115 I.C. 841. A Court is authorised to consider the merits of a transaction in a case of recovery on a bond in which the defendant does not appear. If Court finds the payment of interest substantially unfair, it is a fit case to reopen the transaction between the parties and give relief in respect of the excessive interest. Where even after the progressive discharge of the principal the fixed rate of interest continues on the whole sum borrowed, the provision as to interest is unconscionable and unfair and will not be enforced. 44 B. 775=58 I.C. 433=21 Bom.L.R. 1126. Principal amount made at settlement of previous accounts—High rate of interest—Power of Court to reduce principal amount and interest—General principles applicable. See 3 O. W.N. (Supp.) 222. Where an ignorant and illiterate mortgagor agrees to pay interest at 2 per cent. per mensem compoundable with monthly rests, the stipulation is hard and unconscionable and a Court of equity can grant relief. 75 I.C. 784 (2)=1925 A. 31. No relief as to rate of interest can be granted merely because of hardship, in absence of proof of undue advantage being taken by the creditor of the debtor's position. 11 S.L.

(a) that the interest is excessive; and

(b) that the transaction was, as between the parties thereto, substantially unfair;

the Court may exercise all or any of the following powers, namely, may,—

(i) re-open the transaction, take an account between the parties, and relieve the debtor of all liability in respect of any excessive interest;

(ii) notwithstanding any agreement, purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation, re-open any account already taken between them and relieve the debtor of all liability in respect of any excessive interest, and if anything has been paid or allowed in account in respect of such liability, order the creditor to repay any sum which it considers to be repayable in respect thereof;

(iii) set aside either wholly or in part or revise or alter any security given or agreement made in respect of any loan, and if the creditor has parted with the security, order him to indemnify the debtor in such manner and to such extent as it may deem just:

Provided that, in the exercise of these powers, the Court shall not—

(i) re-open any agreement purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation which has been entered into by the parties or any persons from whom they claim at a date more than [1][twelve] years from the date of the transaction;

(ii) do anything which affects any decree of a Court.

Explanation.—In the case of a suit brought on a series of transactions the expression "the transaction" means, for the purposes of proviso (i), the first of such transactions.

(2) (a) In this section "excessive" means in excess of that which the Court deems to be reasonable having regard to the risk incurred as it appeared, or must be taken to have appeared, to the creditor at the date of the loan.

(b) In considering whether interest is excessive under this section, the Court shall take into account any amounts charged or paid whether in money or in kind, for expenses, inquiries, fines, bonuses, premia, renewals or any other charges, and if compound interest is charged, the periods at which it is calculated and the total advantage which may reasonably be taken to have been expected from the transaction.

(c) In considering the question of risk, the Court shall take into account the presence or absence of security and the value thereof, the financial condition of the debtor and the result of any previous transactions of the debtor, by way of loan, so far as the same were known, or must be taken to have been known, to the creditor.

(d) In considering whether a transaction was substantially unfair, the Court shall take into account all circumstances materially affecting the relations of the parties at the time of the loan or tending to show that the transaction was unfair, including the necessities or supposed necessities of the debtor at the time of the loan so far as the same were known, or must be taken to have been known, to the creditor.

Explanation.—Interest may of itself be sufficient evidence that the transaction was substantially unfair.

SEC. 3 (1) (i) AND (ii): APPLICABILITY AND SCOPE.—There is redundancy overlapping in cls. (i) and (ii) of S. 3 (1) and the operation of Cl. (ii) cannot on that ground be restricted to cases where the parties have entered into a subsequent agreement purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation. 55 L.W. 479=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 170.

SEC. 3 (2) (d) EXPL.—The mere fact that parties are money-lenders and that the interest is 2 per cent. per mensem simple and in default 3 per cent. does no' bring the case within the explanation to S. 3 (2) (d). "Excessive" is a relative term and what is 'excessive' in one case will not necessarily be so

(3) This section shall apply to any suit, whatever its form may be, if such suit is substantially one for the recovery of a loan or for the enforcement of any agreement or security in respect of a loan [1][or for the redemption of any such security.]

(4) Nothing in this section shall affect the rights of any transferee for value who satisfies the Court that the transfer to him was bona fide, and that he had at the time of such transfer no notice of any fact which would have entitled the debtor as against the lender to relief under this section.

For the purposes of this sub-section, the word "notice" shall have the same meaning as is ascribed to it in section 4 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882.

in another. It depends upon the surrounding circumstances. Courts, however, cannot assume their existence; they must be found on proper evidence. [1930 C. 207; 1918 P. C. 249 and 1928 O. 396 (F.B.)), Rel. on.] 144 I.C. 218=1933 N. 224. Under the usurious Loans Act, loan means a loan whether of money or in kind. An agreement to pay fifty per cent. of the principal as profit or interest for each year, in the case of a loan of paddy, is substantially unfair, and the Court has power to reduce the interest. 41 C.W.N. 181. Reopening of transaction—Ground—High rate of interest. The Court when it is of opinion that the interest charged is high considering the ample security available, is entitled to re-open the entire transaction. In the particular case, the Court reduced the rate of interest from 1 per cent. compound interest to 1 per cent. simple interest in view of the long delay in filing of the suit and the ample security for the loan. I.L. R. (1941) Nag. 607=1940 N.L.J. 179=1940 Nag. 156. Under S. 3 it is compulsory for the Court on coming to a finding that the interest is usurious to reopen the transactions and to find out what is really due at the proper rate of interest from the defendant to the plaintiff. The section does not provide for any compensation by way of lessening future interest and such a procedure is not a proper one for the Court to adopt. 1942 O. W.N. 63. The words "Notwithstanding any agreement, purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation" in S. 3 (1) (ii) merely have the effect of extending the power conferred upon the Court to re-open accounts already taken even to cases in which some agreement exists which purports to close previous dealings. These words do not restrict the operation of this sub-section only to cases in which such an agreement is forthcoming. 42 C.W.N. 665. Order for refund by creditor-Powers of Court. The power of the Court to order repayment by the creditor to the debtor under S. 3 (1) (b) (ii) of the Act is limited a case in which there is an agreement purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation. The provision has no application to a case in which there is no such agreement and the transaction is merely an ordinary mortgage. 44 C.W.N. 253=1940 Cal. 211. See also 1941 Nag. 294.

SEC. 3 AS AMENDED IN U. P.—The effect of the amendment of S. 3 of the original Act in U.P. is that the Court can now relieve the debtor of liability in respect of excessive interest not only when the interest is excessive and the transaction was substantially unfair but also where either the interest is excessive or the transaction was substantially unfair. 14 Luck. 49=1938 Oudh 156. See also 14 Luck. 464=1939 Oudh 223. It is clear from the Expl. to proviso 1 to S. 3(1) that the Act permits a suit to be brought on a series of transactions. Hence where there was a series of mortgages, each being in renewal of an earlier one, it is open to the Count to re-open and to give relief in respect of, the entire transaction comprising the various mortgages, under the Agriculturists Relief Act and the Usurious Loans Act. 15 Luck. 145=1939 O.W.N. 977 =1939 Oudh 287. A decree obtained by a creditor prior to the institution of proceedings under the Encumbered Estates Act ceases to be operative as a decree when the debt which merged in the decree becomes the subject of adjudication by the special Judge. Hence there is no decree in existence and S. 3 can be allied to reduce the interest. I.L.R. (1941) A. 567=1941 A.L.J. 366=1941 All. 293. See also 1939 O.W.N. 385=1939 O. 184.

C. P. AMENDMENT ACT.—There is nothing unfair in the charging of future interest. When the primary interest is savai in the case of an instalment mortgage bond but the actual interest worked out would not exceed 12 per cent. the rate is not excessive. The word "interest" used in S. 3 (1) (a) refers to the primary rate secured. Any other clause referring to interest payable on default etc., would have to be examined under S. 3 (1) (b). 1941 N.L.J. 669.

SEC. 3, EXPL. 1: "AGRICULTURAL", MEANING OF.—The word "agriculturist" in the Madras Amendment to Explanation I of S. 3 of the Usurious Loans Act is used in its ordinary sense of a person following the call of agriculture. 52 L.W. 636=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 486.

SECS. 3 AND 4.—Where the rate of interest is high, the Court may proceed to give relief under S. 3 (1) (a) and (b) read with the explanation to the proviso in clause (d), where it is stated that interest may by itself be sufficient evidence that the transaction was substantially unfair. In such a case it is unnecessary to consider whether the lender was in a position to dominate the will of the borrower. 107 I.C. 742. See also 168 I. C. 382=39 P.L.R. 495.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be construed as derogating from the existing powers or jurisdiction of any Court.

Insolvency proceedings.

4. On any application relating to the admission or amount of a proof of a loan in any insolvency proceedings, the Court may exercise the like powers as may be exercised under section 3 by a Court in a suit to which this Act applies.

THE USURY LAWS REPEAL ACT (XXVIII OF 1855).

Year.	No.	Short title.	Amendment.
1855	XXVIII	The Usury Laws Repeal Act, 1855.	Repealed in part XIV of 1870.

[19*th September*, 1855.

An Act for the repeal of the Usury Laws.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to repeal the laws now in force relating to usury; It is enacted as follows:—

1. [Repeal of enactments.] Rep. by the Repealing Act (XIV) of 1870.)

Rate of interest to be decreed by Courts.

2. In any suit in which interest is recoverable, the amount shall be adjudged or decreed by the Court at the rate (if any) agreed upon by the parties; and if no rate shall have been agreed upon, at such rate as the Court shall deem reasonable.

NOTES.

SECS. 2 TO 4; SCOPE AND EFFECT.—The Act XXVIII prescribes rules for determining the rate at which interest, where recoverable, shall be calculated and does not deal with the right to recover interest. 36 P.R. 1894. The Act abolishes all usury laws, and any rate of interest which the parties may stipulate is now legal. 6 B.H.C. (A.C.) 7. (N.B. —But the Usurious Loans Act now gives the Court power to allow or not such a rate). Ever since the Act was passed, it has been the uniform practice of the Courts to treat all restrictions on the rate of interest, as removed. 20 W.R. 317=12 B.L.R. 451. This Act is conclusive proof that the intention of the legislature is that the parties shall be left to make, and be compelled to stand by their own bargains. 2 M.H.C.R. 451. The effect of the above Act was not to take away the equitable jurisdiction of the Court to relieve against penalties. 17 B. 106 (F.B.). See also 2 C.W.N. 333; 10 B.H.C.R. 382 and 19 W.R. 271=11 B.L.R. 135. Courts in this country should take not to enforce oppressive transactions to which the parties have not given free consent. But a contract, which is deliberately consented to, cannot be set aside merely because a very heavy risk is provided for by a very high rate of interest. An agreement to pay an increased rate of interest on default, may be enforced at law; but equity will not recognize it. 6 B.H. C.R. (A.C.) 7. The provisions of this Act do not override the general law of the country. The Court is not compelled to enforce every agreement for interest. 99 P.R. 1894. (See Contract Act, Ss. 73 and 274.) The equity jurisdiction of Indian Courts is not taken away by the Act. 4 B.H.C.R. (A.C.) 202. In a case in which there is nothing to show that there was any fraud or undue influence, no discretion is left to the Courts under the sections of the Usury Laws Repeal Act referred to above, for modifying the terms as to interest made by the parties. 125 I.C. 629=1930 L. 733. Delay in suing is no sufficient reason for refusing plaintiff the full interest agreed upon between the parties. (50 P.R. 1912; 66 P.R. 1917 and 36 M. 533, Rel. on.) 125 I.C. 629=1930 L. 733. Interest at 25 per cent. per annum—No proof of undue influence—Transaction cannot be relieved against. 5 R. 619=1928 R. 7. Where Usurious Loans Act applies, interests at 40 per cent. may be relieved against. 2 A.M.L.J. 5.

EFFECT OF THE ACT.—This Act does not affect contracts entered into previous to it as to interest. 7 B.H.C.R. (O.C.), 19; 3 R. L.R. (O.C.) 30=12 W.R. (O.C.) 9. See also 6 B.H.C. (A.C.) 23. Neither this Act nor S. 10 of the Contract Act prevents the application of the Hindu rule of damdupat where the parties are Hindus living in a presidency-town. 7 C.L.R. 204. The Act does not affect constracts entered into previous to its passing. 3 B.H.C.R. (A.C.) 11.

IMPLIED CONTRACTS FOR INTEREST.—A contract to pay interest implied from the dealing of the parties is governed by the Act. Interest Act (XXXII) of 1839) has no application to such a case. 36 P.R. 1894.

Rate of interest upon a judgment or decree.

3. Whenever a Court shall direct that a judgment or decree shall bear interest, or shall award interest upon a judgment or decree, it may order the interest to be calculated at the rate allowed in the judgment or decree upon the principal sum adjudged, or at such other rate as the Court shall think fit.

Contracts for usufruct of property in lieu of interest.

4. A mortgage or other contract for the loan of money, by which it is agreed that the use or usufruct of any property shall be allowed in lieu of interest, shall be binding upon the parties.

Amount of interest to be deposited in certain cases of conditional sales under Bengal Regulations.

5. Whenever, under the Regulation of the Bengal Code,[1] a deposit may be made of the principal sum and interest due upon any mortgage or conditional sale of land hereafter to be entered into, the amount of interest to be deposited shall be at the rate stipulated in the contract, or, if no rate has been stipulated and interest be payable under the terms of the contract, at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum:

Proviso.

Provided that, in the latter case, the amount deposited shall be subject to the decision of the Court as to the rate at which interest shall be calculated.

Rate of interest on future adjustments of accounts.

6. In any case in which an adjustment of accounts may become necessary between the lender and the borrower of money upon any mortgage, conditional sale of landed property, or other contract whatsoever, which may be entered into after the passing of this Act, interest shall be calculated at the rate stipulated therein; or, if no rate of interest shall have been stipulated and interest be payable under the terms of the contract, at such rate as the Court shall deem reasonable.

THE WAR DONATIONS AND INVESTMENTS (COMPANIES) ACT (XXXVII OF 1940).

[27th November, 1940.

An Act to enable companies in British India to make donations to public funds formed, and to make investments in Government loans floated, for the purpose of assisting the prosecution of the present war.

WHEREAS it is expedient to enable companies in British India to make donations to public funds formed, and to make investments in Government loans floated, for the purpose of assisting the prosecution of the present war;

LEG. REF.

1 See Ben. Reg. I of 1798, S. 2. This Reg. is, however, now in force only in the Sonthal Parganas, and possibly in the Chota Nagpur Division; and with the exception of the parts which relate to interest, the Regulation is also in force in the Punjab. See the P.&N.W. Code.

NOTES.

SCOPE AND EFFECT.—It is the intention of the legislature that the parties shall be left to make and be compelled to stand by their own bargains. 2 M.H.C.R. 451. The section is applicable to suits on contracts, and interest at the agreed rate is recoverable irrespective of the creed of the contracting parties. 6 N.W.P. 358.

COURT'S POWER TO GRANT RELIEF.—This section does not affect the question of penalty or no penalty, and the Court has the power to decide upon that point and to grant relief against penalty. 19 W.R. 271=11 B. L.R. 135. It is open to the Court to decide whether a stipulation as to the enhanced rate was agreed upon between the parties as interest properly so called or as penalty. 3 C. W.N. 175=26 C. 300. In a country like India where there is much borrowing by the ignorant lower classes who as much require to be protected against themselves as against money-lenders, a too literal application of the above provision could only be productive of oppression and injustice of the most grevious kind. 3 A. 260 (F.B.). This enactment in no way prevents a Civil Court in India, which administers law and equity, from examining into the character of the agreements and from declining to enforce such agreements, unless they are shown to be fair and reasonable. 4 B.H.C.R. (A.C.) 202.

MERE EXORBITANT RATE OF INTEREST.—The fact that the rate of interest on the amount due under a promissory note is exorbitant, is not sufficient to disentitle the plaintiff to the interest stipulated. 29 C.

AND WHEREAS it is also expedient to remove doubts as to the legality of such donations and investments where already made;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE WAR DONATIONS AND INVESTMENTS (COMPANIES) ACT, 1940.

Interpretation.

Power of companies to make donations and investments.

3. Any company formed and registered under the Indian Companies Act, 1913, or under the Indian Companies Act, 1882, or under the Indian Companies Act, 1866, or under any Act or Acts repealed thereby may, notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Companies Act, 1913, and notwithstanding that the memorandum of association or the articles of association of the company do not enable it so to do, by special resolution authorise the making of a donation from the company's assets to a public fund formed, or the making of an investment of the company's assets in a Government loan floated, for the purpose of assisting the prosecution of the present war.

Validation of donations and investments already made.

4. Any donation to a public fund formed, and any investment in a Government loan floated, for the purpose of assisting the prosecution of the present war made by any company to which this Act applies between the 3rd day of September 1939, and the commencement of this Act shall be as valid in all respects as if it had been made in accordance with the provisions of section 3, and after the commencement of this Act.

Decision of doubts.

5. If any question arises whether for the purposes of this Act a loan is a Government loan floated for the purpose of assisting the prosecution of the present war or whether a fund is a public fund formed for the purpose of assisting the prosecution of the present war, the question shall be decided by the Central Government whose decision shall be final.

An Act to provide for the adjudication of claims to waste lands.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make special provision for the speedy adjudication of claims which may be preferred to waste lands proposed to be sold, or otherwise dealt with, on account of [the Provincial Government], and of objections taken to the sale or other disposition of such lands; It is enacted as follows:—

Provision for enquiry in claims to land, or objections to sale of same.

1. When any claim shall be preferred to any waste-land proposed to be sold, or otherwise dealt with, on account of [the Provincial Government], or when any objection shall be taken to the sale or other disposition of such land, the Collector of the district in which such land is situate, or other officer performing the duties of a Collector of Land Revenue in such district by whatever name his office is designated, shall, if the claim or objection be preferred within the period mentioned in the advertisement to be issued for the sale or other disposition of such land, which period shall not be less than three months, proceed to make an enquiry into the claim or objections.

Procedure in such cases.

2. The Collector or other officer as aforesaid shall call upon the claimant or objector to produce any evidence, or documents, upon which he may rely in proof of his claim or objection; and after considering the same, and making any further enquiry that may appear proper, shall dispose of the case by an order for the admission or rejection of the claim or objection; and if the land is proposed to be sold, for the sale of the same subject to any condition or reservation which, to such Collector or other officer as aforesaid, shall appear to be proper.

Notification of conditions.

If the land is ordered to be sold subject to any condition or reservation, such condition or reservation shall be notified to intending purchasers at the time of sale.

Postponement of sale pending enquiry.

3. Pending an enquiry into any claim or objection under the last preceding section, the Collector or other officer as aforesaid shall postpone the sale or other disposition of the land;

SECS. 1 AND 18.—The procedure prescribed by the Act is not confined to waste lands held by the Government and applies to the sale or dealing with lands to which the Government could not show any title. 44 C. 328 =43 I.A. 303=21 C.W.N. 291 (P.C.). S, 18 which prescribes a special period of limitaton for the making of claims is applicable only to proceedings before the special Court to be constituted under the Act. 44 C. 328.

CONSTRUCTION OF ACT.—The Act makes a great invasion on private rights, and those pleading it in bar of a claim must bring the matter strictly within its provisions. 44 C. 328, supra. An advertisement of a proposed sale incorrectly stating the name of the pargana in which the lands are situate is misleading and insufficient. 44 C. 328. A suit for recovery of possession of the property so sold might be brought in the ordinary Courts within the ordinary period of limitation. 44 C. 328. 5. If the Collector or other officer as aforesaid shall order that the claim or objection be rejected, or that the land be sold subject to any condition or reservation, or that it be otherwise dealt with, he shall cause a copy of such order to be delivered to the claimant or objector; and if such claimant or objector shall not, within one week from the delivery of such copy, or within such further time as the Collector or other officer as aforesaid, for any special reason to be recorded, shall see fit to grant, give notice in writing to such Collector or other officer as aforesaid, that he intends to contest such order, the order shall be final.

Report to Board.

If the claimant or objector shall, within the time allowed, gives such notice, the Collector or other officer as aforesaid shall immediately make a report to the [2][* * *] superior revenue authority [3][to which he is immediately subordinate] and shall forward with such report a copy of his order, stating fully all the circumstances of the case, and the evidence adduced in support, or otherwise, of the claim or objection;

Decision of Board.

and such [4][[* * *] authority, on the receipt of such report, and after calling for any further information which it may consider necessary, may confirm, modify or reverse the order of the Collector or other officer as aforesaid.

Certification to Court.

If the [4][* * *] authority as aforesaid confirm the order of the Collector or other officer as aforesaid, or modify such order in such manner as to leave any part of such order in force adverse to the claimant or objector, the Collector or other officer as aforesaid shall certify such order to the Court constituted as hereinafter provided; and such Court shall forthwith give notice to the claimant or objector;

An Act to provide for the payment by certain classes of employers to their workmen of compensation for injury by accident.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the payment by certain classes of employers to their workmen of compensation for injury by accident; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT, 1923.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas.

(3) It shall come into force on the first day of July, 1924.

Definitions.

2. (1) In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

NOTES.

SEC. 1.—The Act is a quasi penal statute and must not be interpreted with sympathetic leniency but must be constructed strictly. 14 R. 753=1937 R. 45. Where a workman receives injuries, and negligence and a breach of duty are proved against the employer, there are other remedies than the one provided for in the Act, which may be found by a workman, and in pursuing them a decree of compensation may be reached which is more commensurate with the actual loss and injury involved. 172 I.C. 496 (2)=1937 Rang. 451. The Act prescribes compensation to be paid in certain circumstances. It is not open to the Commissioner to award any damages or any other compensation except that provided by the Act. Hence arrears of pay cannot be granted by him as compensation. I.L.R. (1939) A. 1=1939 A. 29. The Act may or may not apply to apprentices, the nature of the contract being the deciding factor. Contract of service is necessary to bring apprentices under the category of "workmen." The student of the B class of the Maclagan College is neither an apprentice nor a workman. 119 I.C. 722=1929 L. 573 (2). In proceedings for recovering compensation under the Act the employer is entitled to be a party and it is open to him if so advised to contest the status of the alleged dependant. 7 R. 660.

SEC. 2.—S. 2 (1) (d) as amended in 1933, includes in the term "dependent" without any further qualification, only the wife, minor legitimate son, unmarried legitimate daughter or widowed mother. For a father of a deceased workman to be adjudged a dependent, he must show under S. 2 (2) that he was wholly or in part dependent on the earnings of his son at the time of his death. 55 L.W. 206=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 406. Dependency under the Act means dependence at the time of the death of the deceased workman. The wife who was dependent at that time is entitled to compensation. The mere fact that she remarried after her husband's death could not have the effect of divesting her of that right which vested in her at the time of her husband's death. 42 C.W.N. 516 =68 C.L.J. 467. Where a son cannot be said to be "minor", the mere fact that on account of some infirmity he was maintained by his deceased father does not give him the right to be regarded as dependent. 1930 L. 657. Provided the personal law of the deceased workman permits an adoption, a minor adopted son will fall within the scope of the definition of "dependent". 32 P. L. R. 213=12 L. 50. The term brother in its primary sense means a brother of the whole-blood and it is only in a secondary and extended sense that the term is deemed to include a brother of the half-blood. Whether the term is to be taken in its primary or secondary sense depends in each case upon the context. 6 R. 46. The term "minor brother" in S. 2 (1) (d) does ot include a minor half-brother. 9 R. 46. But see 1931 L. 752 (2). The expression "unmarried daughter" includes widowed daughter. 37 C. W. N. 453=1933 C. 368=60 C. 820. The words "unmarried sister" include a widowed sister. 1934 L. 115 (1); 1932 L. 1=13 L. 228. The definition of the word "dependent" is exhaustive. An adopted daughter is not a dependent and is not entitled to receive compensation. 1931 L. 399=32 P. L. R. 341; 1932 L. 1=13 L. 228. The actual dependence on the deceased workman is not the criterion for judging whether compensation should be paid to the persons mentioned in the definition or to any of them. The mere proof of the specified relationship would entitle the person concerned to compensation. (Policy of the legislature stated). 13 L. 228. The question wheher the father and the mother were at the time of the deceased workman's death "in part dependent" on his earnings, is a question of fact in each case. Where the deceased and his father paid their wages or used their wages to maintain themselves and some of their relatives in one common establishment, each was to some extent dependent on the earnings of the father. Consequently the father and the mother are dependents and entitled to some portion of the compensation money payable under the Act. 42 C.W.N. 516=68 C.L.J. 467. The expression "widowed mother" in S. 2 (1) (d) (i) and the expression "parent other than a widowed mother" in S. 2 (1) (d) (ii) do not include a "widowed step-mother". 71 C.L.J.

(a) "adult" and "minor" mean respectively a person who is not and a person who under the age of 15 years;

(b) "Commissioner" means a Commissioner for Workmen's Compensation appointed under section 20;

(c) "compensation" means compensation as provided for by this Act;

[1][(d) "dependant" means any of the following relatives of a deceased workman, namely:—

(i) a [2][widow] minor legitimate son, and unmarried legitimate daughter, or a widowed mother; and

(ii) if wholly or in part dependent on the earnings of the workman at the time of his death, a [2][widower], a parent other than a widowed mother, a minor illegitimate son, an unmarried illegitimate daughter, a daughter legitimate or illegitimate if married and a minor or if widowed, a minor brother, an unmarried or widowed sister, a widowed daughter-in-law, a minor child of a deceased son, [2][a minor child of a deceased daughter where no parent of the child is alive], or where no parent of the workman is alive, a paternal grandparent];

(e) "employer" includes any body of persons whether incorporated or not and any managing agent of an employer and the legal representative of a deceased employer, and, when the services of a workman are temporarily lent or let on hire to another person by the person with whom the workman has entered into a contract of service or apprenticeship, means such other person while the workman is working for him;

(f) "managing agent" means any person appointed or acting as the representative of another person for the purpose of carrying on such other person's trade or business, but does not include an individual manager subordinate to an employer;

(g) "partial disablement" means, where the disablement is of a temporary nature, such disablement as reduces the earning capacity of a workman in any employment in which he was engaged at the time of the accident resulting in the disablement, and, where the disablement is of a permanent nature, such disablement as reduces his earning capacity in every employment which he was capable of undertaking at that time: provided that every injury specified in Schedule I shall be deemed to result in permanent partial disablement:

(h) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act:

LEG. REF.

[1]Sec. 2 (1) (d) newly substituted by Act XI of 1933. The old sub-cl (d) stood as follows:—"(d) "dependent" means any of the following relatives of a deceased workman, namely, a wife, husband, parent, minor son, unmarried daughter, married daughter who is a minor, minor brother or unmarried sister, and includes the minor children of a deceased son of the workman and, where no parent of the workman is alive, a paternal grant-parent."

[2]Substituted and inserted by Act IX of 1938.

NOTES.

238=44 C. W. N. 471=1940 Cal. 285. A step-mother is not dependant within the meaning of S. 2 (1) (d). Neither the term "mother" nor the term "parent" would include a step-mother or step-parent and having regard to the language used by the legislature, it cannot be held that a step-mother is a "dependant". 22 P.L.T. 1023. The purpose of the statute in awarding compensation is not to give solatium to a relative of a person who is an employee and has been fatally injured, but something to replace the actual loss which he or she has suffered. The question of dependency is a question of fact which must be decided in relation to the particular circumstances of each given case. A person made an application for compensation for the death of his wife on the ground that she met her death in course of her employment. There was nothing more to suggest that he had suffered at all pecuniarily by reason of his wife's death that the fact of dependency had not been proved and hence the husband was not entitled to claim any compensation. 186 I.C. 93=1939 Rang. 369.

S. 2 (1) (e).—If a person who is responsible for the putting up of a building gets workmen supplied by a Sirdar and pays them through the Sirdar, he and not the Sirdar is the employer of the workmen for the purposes of the Workmen's Compensation Act. 42 C.W.N. 803.

SEC. 2 (1) (G).—As to test of partial disablement, see 1936 A. 493=163 I.C. 644 =1936 A.L.J. 701 (noted under S. 4, infra). Partial disablement — Injury to finger— Right to compensation. See 1931 L. 319 cited under S. 3 (1) (c).

(i) "qualified medical practitioner" means any person registered under the Medical Act, 1858, or any Act amending the same, or under any Act of any legislature in British India providing for the maintenance of a register of medical practitioners, or, in any area where no such last-mentioned Act is in force, any person declared by the Provincial Government, by notification in the Official Gazette, to be a qualified medical practitioner for the purposes of this Act;

1 Omitted by Act XV of 1933;

(k) "seaman" means any person forming part of the crew of any [2][* * *] ship, but does not include the master of [3][the] ship;

(l) "total disablement" means such disablement, whether of a temporary or permanent nature, as incapacitates a workman for all work which he was capable of performing at the time of the accident resulting in such disablement: provided that permanent total disablement shall be deemed to result from the permanent total loss of the sight of both eyes or from any combination of injuries specified in Schedule I where the aggregate percentage of the loss of earning capacity, as specified in that Schedule against those injuries, amounts to one hundred per cent.;

(m) "wages" includes any privilege or benefit which is capable of being estimated in money, other than a travelling allowance or the value of any travelling concession or a contribution paid by the employer of a workman towards any pension or provident fund or a sum paid to a workman to cover any special expenses entailed on him by the nature of his employment;

(n) "workman" means any person (other than a person whose employment is of a casual nature and who is employed otherwise than for the purposes of the employer's trade or business) who is—

(i) a railway servant as defined in section 3 of the Indian Railways Act,

LEG. REF.

1 Omitted by Act XV of 1933. It stood as follows:—"registered ship" means any sea-going ship registered under the Bombay Coasting Vessels Act, 1838, or the Indian Registration of Ships Act, 1841, or the Indian Registration of Ships Act (1841) Amendment Act, 1850, or any hometrade ship so registered of a registered tonnage of not less than three hundred tons, or any inland steam-vessel as defined in S. 2 of the Indian Steam Vessels Act, 1917, of a registered tonnage of not less than one hundred tons.

2 Omitted by Act XV of 1933.

3 Substituted by Act XV of 1933.

NOTES.

SEC. 2 (1) (M).—"Wages" implies contract of service solely for the benefit of employer. The term "wages" involves the notice of a contract of service or employment and that the manual labour which a person does must be solely for the benefit of his employer. In the case of student of B class in the Maclagan Engineering College the labour done in workshop is primarily, if not entirely, directed to the imparting of instruction for the benefit of the students: it is in fact a part of their practical training. The use of words "trade", "service", "pay", "wages" and so forth in the prospectus must be considered from the reasonable point of view. The whole curriculam is a course of instructions only, and though the students receive "wages" and are described as being in service they are not really servants of the College nor are they employed by the College. There is between the students and the College no relation of master and servant; the relation is that of master and pupil. 119 I. C. 722=1929 L. 573 (2).

SEC. 2 (1) (N).—The word "administrative" in S. 2 (1), (n) of the Act is not an adjective qualifying "district" and Sub-Divisional Office". 172 I.C. 705=1938 Nag. 91. The expression "monthly wages not exceeding three hundred rupees" in S. 2 (1) (n) means wages which do not exceed on an average Rs. 300 a month. The reference to employment on monthly wages in the clause means employment at wages which do not exceed the limit mentioned. It is not limited to workmen who are employed by the month only, so as to exclude workmen employed by the day or by the week or by the year. A workman employed on certain wages per day is a workman under the Act. I.L.R. (1938) Bom 44=39 Bom.L.R. 1230=1938 Bom. 110. The definition in S. 2 (1) (n) and Sch. II (ii) of the Act must be read together. The word "employed" in the definition in Cl. (ii) of Sch. II means, where it occurs, employed on a contract of service and not "engaged in;" and where the qualification of person as a workman under the Act is dependent on his employment with other workmen, those other workmen, like himself, must be employed on a contract of service. I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 370 =1940 Sind 185. A person engaged or employed in ginning and pressing cotton is a workman within the meaning of S. 2 (1) (n). I.L.R. (1937) N. 88. Coolv who is employed for manual labour for his employer is a "workman." 165 I.C. 760=1936 R. 493. construction—"Otherwise than for purposes of 1890, not permanently employed in an administrative, district or sub-divisional office of a railway and not employed in any such capacity as is specified in Schedule II, or whether the contract of employment was made before or after the passing of this Act and whether such contract is expressed or implied, oral, or in writing; but does not include any person working in the capacity of a member of His Majesty's naval, military or air forces [2][* *] and any reference to a workman who has been injured shall, where the workman is dead, include a reference to his dependants or any of them.

the employer's trade or business"—Hotelkeeper out of profits purchasing, and improving houses and letting them out for rent—Workman engaged in work of repairing falling down and sustaining fatal injuries—Liability to pay compensation to widow of workman. 1936 M. 946=71 M.L.J. 617. In order to be a "workman" he must be under a contract of service with some other person. Where the deceased is a member of a cooly gang who carry out work in collaboration and partnership under a sub-contract, he cannot be said to be employed by the other partners of the partnership and is not a "workman". 161 I.C. 992=1936 R. 89 (S.B.). Where a person is employed for purposes of employer's business otherwise than in a clerical capacity in the construction, working or repair of a pipe-line the mere fact that he was officiating in a leave vacancy would not take him out of the definition of a workman. 1936 A.L.J' 1271=1936 All. 690. A conductor of a motor bus is as much concerned with the operation of the mechanically propelled vehicle, as the driver is within the meaning of Cl. (i) of Sch. II to the Act. As such he is a workman within the meaning of the definition in S. 2 (1) (n). I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 636=1938 Mad. 485=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 864. A mere licensee upon the mine who is paid by piece work rates for the work which he did and over whom there is no control by the mine authorities is not a "workman" within the meaning of the Act. 192 I.C. 728=1941 Rang. 61 (S.B.). Before a person can be excluded from the definition of "workman" in S. 2 (n) he must not only be one "whose employment is of a casual nature," but also one who is employed otherwise than for the purpose of the employer's trade or business. Both these qualifications must be present together. The mere fact that a person is employed only for a few days at a time will not of itself remove him from the category of "workman". 45 L.W. 805; 1933 R. 208=146 I.C. 1027. See also 42 C.W.N. 516=68 C.L.J. 467. The question whether an employment is of a casual nature is one of evidence. The onus in such cases would be on the employer to prove the condition which is necessary for the purpose of excluding a person from category of a workman. 35 Bom. L. R. 410=1933 B. 270. Where the Commissioner comes to the conclusion that the employment of a workman is not casual, there being evidence to support that finding it must be treated as a finding of fact not subject to appeal under S. 30. The High Court is bound by that finding. 60 B. 701=38 Bom.L.R. 280=1936 B. 199. If a man be employed for the purposes of the trade or business the employer is liable to him even though the employment be of a casual nature. 1933 R. 244=11 R. 433. Person employed in works where sand was dredged from a creek and sifted is a workman. 58 Bom. 128=35 Bom.L.R. 1142=1934 Bom. 28. The joint effect of S. 2, cl. (1) (n) read with Schedule II, item No 5 is that the workman must be employed for the purpose of loading, unloading or coaling any ship. Where the workman was injured while staking certain bales in a shed alongside the wharf in the Victoria docks, Bombay, held, that the workman was not entitled to compensation. Protection under the Act is meant for the workmen who are actually engaged in the process of handling the bales so as to transfer them from the wharf to the hold of a ship, which is actually being loaded. 31 Bom.L.R. 1304. Per Murphy, J.—The expression "for the purpose" of loading means the same thing as "in" loading in the section. (Ibid.) The respondent was employed in a warehouse which was about a quarter of a mile away from the wharf alongside which steamers were moored. In that godown were stored various goods awaiting shipment to Europe. The injuries to the respondent were caused by a bale of cotton being lowered from the upper floor of the godown by a crane to the lower floor in which he was waiting to receive it. In the ordinary course the respondent on receiving that bale would have taken it out of the slings of the crane, handed it over to cartmen who would have put it on their hand cart, taken it to the quayside quarter of a mile away, and then have handed it over to a gang of stevedores on the quay whose duty it was to put it into the slings of the ship's crane to be slung aboard the ship and stored in the hold. Held, that the respondent was not a workman within the meaning of S. 2 (1) (n) read with second Schedule. 52 M. 747=57 M.L.J. 88 (F.B.). The expression "not permanently employed . . . in any office of a railway" in S. 2 (1) (n) contemplates such servants as are not required to perform their duties con-

(2) The exercise and performance of the powers and duties of a local authority or of any department [1][acting on behalf of the Crown] shall, for the purposes of this Act unless a contrary intention appears, be deemed to be the trade or business of such authority or department.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.

Employer's liability for compensation.

NOTES.

tinuously or habitually in the office, that is to say, indoors, but occasionally have to do out-door work in the course of their employment. The word "permanent" denotes continuity and the expression in its concrete application will mean "not continuously working in any office." The expression "permanently employed" does not mean a railway servant who is "permanently engaged" as opposed to one who is "temporarily engaged." Accordingly a railway servant who has, in the course of his employment, to do outdoor work of going round on his bicycle to deliver the office post is a servant who is not continuously or habitually working in the office, and therefore he falls within the ambit of the definition of workman in S. 2 (1) (a) of the Act, although he is permanently employed in the office. 172 I.C. 705=1938 Nag. 91. Workman and tributor—Distinction. There is distinction between a workman under the Act and a tributor. A tributor is a person who is engaged upon his own business and not upon the business of his master. A workman is a person who is engaged on the business of his master and not on his own business. If persons are allowed to do work of their own in their own time and are not subject to the orders of any master as to the way in which, or the time at which, they shall do it, they do not fall within the scope of the Act. The fact that a person is not paid daily wages but according to the amount of work done is not a circumstance which is to be taken into account at all to decide whether a man is tributor or a workman, because it is quite possible for a workman to be paid by piece work and still remain under the orders of his employer. 190 I.C. 417=1940 Rang. 219. Tributors who work at dump-picking, or searching for overlooked one, and receive payment therefor are licensees merely and their written permit to enter the mine premises is a document which shows that they are not trespassers. They are not workmen within the meaning of the Act. 189 I.C. 30=1940 Rang. 125.

SEC. 2 (2).—State Railway forms department of Government. 53 B. 203=1929 B. 179 =31 Bom.L.R. 211.

SEC. 3.—It may be that an employer, in cases where neither the workman nor his dependants have any legal claim upon him, is sometimes prepared ex gratia to make a payment to the persons affected by way of compensation; but it is solely for the employer to decide whether in any particular case he will act in this way or not; and it is a matter with which the Court has no concern. Hence, where a Commissioner finds that neither the workman nor his dependants had any claim on the employer, he has no jurisdiction to order a small compensation to be paid by employer. 1935 R. 303.

"IN THE COURSE OF EMPLOYMENT".—Under S. 3 which gives a workman a right to compensation, accident alone cannot give a right to compensation. To entitle him to it at the hands of his employer, the accident must arise out of and in the course of the injured workman's employment. There is no difference in this respect between the Indian law and the English law, and a Court cannot refuse to follow English cases merely on the ground that the Indian workman may be somewhat more ignorant, illiterate, than this English workman. The employment of a workman would include the use of a vehicle or a means of transport provided by the employer, when by the terms of service there is an express or implied obligation on the part of the employer to provide such means. If the workman is under no obligation to use the vehicle provided by his employer, but can use it or not as he feels inclined, he cannot be said to be acting in the course of his employment in respect of injuries caused to him in the course of the journey in the vehicle, although it may be the only reasonable and feasible means of transport available to the workman. 19 Pat. 514=1940 Pat. 599=22 Pat.L.T. 92. It does not follow that because a man is injured during the time of his employment, the accident arose out of or in the course of such employment. 21 Pat. 218. The question as to whether the accident arose out of the employment is dependent on the facts of each particular case. The one test which is always applicable is this. Was it part of the injured person's employment to hazard, to suffer, or to do that which caused his injury? And the question whether the workman did his duty negligently or not arises only where the workman was doing something which it was his duty to perform. 1933 C. 513=37 C.W.N. 186. In deciding the question as to whether the fatal accident has arisen out of and in the course of his employment, the tribunal of fact is the Commissioner for workmen's compensation and not the High Court. A person, who with the permission and to the knowledge of his employer lives at some distance from the place where he is called upon to work, must be allowed reasonable time in all the circumstances to proceed from his place of residence to the place of work, and if in the course of proceeding in a reasonable time and in a reasonable manner from his place to the place of work, he meets with a fatal accident, then, that fatal accident would be held to arise out of and in the course of his employment. 156 I.C. 377=1935 R. 173 (S.B.). There is a distinction between the cases where there has been negligence by the workman in the performance of his duty and where the workman has been doing some work which he was not employed to do and met with the accident in the course of such outside work. Held, that there was no justification for the workman who was a viceman to interfere with the moving machine in finding out a screw driver for his work and that the accident did not arise during the course of employment. 37 C.W.N. 186. See also 1933 C. 220=60 C. 421=37 C.W.N. 81: I.L.R. (1937) N. 88. A bus driver who at the time of the accident resulting in his death was travelling in the bus as a passenger, standing on the footboard, cannot be said to have been killed by an accident which arose out of and in the course of his employment, in the absence of evidence to show that he was going to or from his work or that he was going in the bus for the purpose of his employment. 50 L.W. 796 (2)=1940 Mad. 207=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 851. An engine driver was employed on a steam launch during the whole round voyage. In the course of the voyage a temporary halt was made. During that halt the engine driver met with an accident while doing certain repairs to the engine and the boiler as a result of which he died. Held, that because during the voyage a temporary halt was made, it could not be said that the engine driver's employment did not continue during that halt. The accident therefore arose out of and in the course of his employment. 178 I.C. 652=1938 Rang. 439. An engine driver at a cotton mill finding that a new water pump for his engine was leaking went to a workshop near the engine room to sharpen an iron peg on a grindstone, hoping, by means of the sharpened peg to nail down a piece of corrugated iron over the leak. The revolving belt of the grindstone fell off and caused him injury breaking his right arm. Held, that the accident arose out of and in the course of his employment as a workman. 1940 Rang.L.R. 759=1940 Rang. 250 (S.B.). Where the deceased who was employed as a foundry maistry was killed by lightning while he was at his work running metal from a furnace to the bottom of a metal chimney. Held, that the deceased was exposed to an extra risk of damage by lightning through the nature of his occupation and the accident must, therefore, be deemed to have arisen out of his employment. 42 C.W.N. 1093. The deceased was employed in an Electric Supply Company to put up and change the posts and to connect and disconnect wires. On the day of accident he was sent out to disconnect wires from a certain house. While returning, he saw on his way two other workmen employed in similar kind of work replacing a post. He stopped to help them as it was customary to do so and to which the employer did not object. The two workmen after digging a hole for the new post went away. While they were away, the deceased climbed the post to disconnect the wires and while coming down the pole fell and he came down striking the new pole that was going to be erected. As a result of the injuries he died. Held, that the accident arose out of and in the course of his employment. 178 I.C. 549=1938 Rang. 414. That a person is employed as a gin-fitter for the upkeep and repair of the gins and is required to perform such duties as the manager or engineer might allot to him, does not exclude his liability to perform such duties as might be allotted to him by any one else set over him and if an accident occurs while performing such duty the accident does occur in the course of the employment of such workman. 1933 N. 272=145 I.C. 402 (2). The deceased was a cooly. He had been working at unloading coal from a ship lying at anchor. At the end of his work he got into a sampan to go ashore with other coolies. When in the sampan owing to the falling on the occupants of some

(i) the workman having been at the time thereof under the influence of drink or drugs, or hot cinders thrown overboard and leaning on one side to avoid them the sampan capsized and all were thrown into the rievr. The deceased was drowned. Held, that as the deceased was on his way back to the wharf where his day's employment would end, in a recognized way for the coolies to travel without any added risk, the accident must be regarded as one arising out of as well as being in the course of his employment. 1933 R. 208 =146 I.C. 1027. Where a workman, whose duty is to attend as cooly upon the driver of an elephant, is ordered to go and find out the whereabouts of the elephant, let loose to graze in the jungle and is expressly warned not to attempt to catch the animal or unshackle or ride him, but he wifully disobeys the orders and unshackles and rides him and is thrown off and attacked by the elephant, as a result of which he dies, the employer is not liable to pay compensation even under the amended Act, as the injury caused to the workman is not due to an accident arising out of and in course of his employment. 14 R. 305=163 I.C. 708=1936 R. 250.

INJURY BY NATURAL FORCE.—Whether an accident arises out of the employment depends on the particular facts. If a workman is injured by some natural force such as lightning, the heat of the sun, or extreme cold which in itself has no kind of connexion with employment. he cannot recover compensation unless he can sufficiently associate such injury with his employment. This he can do if he can show that the employment exposed him in a special degree to suffering such an injury. But if he is injured by contact physically with some part of the place where he works, then, apart from questions of his own misconduct, he at once associates the accident with his employment and nothing further need be considered. So that if the roof or walls fall upon him, or he slips upon the prmeises, there is no need to make further inquiry as to why the accident happened. 66 M.L.J. 223=1933 A.L.J. 1308=1933 P.C. 225 (P.C.).

DEATH BY SNAKE-BITE ON HIS WAY TO WORK.—In order to come within the Act, an accident must not only occur "in the course of" but in addition, must arise "out of" the employment. An employer is liable to pay compensation only in respect of such injuries as are the result of risks incidental to his employment. Where the deceased workman was bitten by a snake while going by one of the routes to his place of employment from the quarters provided by the employer, which was about four miles away. Held, the fatal accident to the workman did not "arise out" of his employment. Held also, that the accident was not one arising "in the course" of the emplyment as it was not part of his contract that he should use the route that he chose. 13 R. 553=1935 R. 428. "Arising out of employment"—Forbidden Act. In determining whether the accident arose out of the employment, it is irrelevant to consider whether it was or was not forbidden by a regulation which formed no part of the contract of employment but was a safety measure provided by Government to secure the well being of the employed. I. L. R. (1938) Nag. 200=1937 Nag. 397; 1937 Sind 288. The question whether the act resulting in the accident arises out of employment or from an added risk is a question of fact. The general test is: was it part of the injured person's employment to hazard, to suffer, or to do that which caused his injury? If yea, the accident arose out of his employment. If nay, it did not because what was not part of the employment to hazard, to suffer, or to do cannot well be the cause of an accident arising out of the employment. [(1917 A.C. 352, Rel. on.] I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 200=1937 Nag. 397. See also 43 C.W.N. 177: 1939 R. 428. Disobedience of rules—Effect—English and Indian Law. Where a workman meddles with machinery, which he is forbidden by specific rules to touch and attempts to effect repairs which are not part of his work, and sustains injuries during the process, he is not entitled to compensation. The English Law is radically different from the Indian Law in this respect. Under the English Law compensation is disallowed, if it is proved that the injury sustained is attributable to serious and wilful misconduct of that workman. But under the Act in force in Burma, the sole question is whether the wrokman wilfully disobeyed a rule devised for the purpose of securing the safety of workman, and not whether that disobedience amounted to misconduct, serious or otherwise.. 1938 Rang L.R. 299=1938 Rang. 289. In considering breaches of rules, the distiction is of importance between rules which define what work shall be done and rules which define how the work shall be done. The former, if employer's rules, would normally be regarded as delimiting the sphere of employment; the latter as not relating to the sphere of employment but the mode of working. The latter might let in a defence based on disobedience; the former can found the argument that the act was outside the employment. Even if the rule restricts the employment by forbidding the doing of certain acts a practice may include them. I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 200=1937 Nag. 397. See also 43 C.W.N. 177. Where the injury suffered arose out of an added peril to which the injured workman had voluntarily and unnecessarily exposed himself, it did not arise out of and in the course of his employment and he was not entitled to compensation. 32 S.L.R. 32=1937 Sind 288. Under S. 3 of the Act an employer is liable to pay compensation whenever personal injury is caused to a workman by accident arising out of and in the course of his employment. Mere negligence or carelessness on the part of the workman does not exempt the employer from liability provided the accident arises out of and in the course of the employment. There is a distinction between an act done in the course of the employment but in an improper way, and one

(ii) the wilful disobedience of the workman to an order expressly given, or, to a rule expressly framed, for the purpose of securing the safety of workmen, or

(iii) the wilful removal or disregard by the workman of any safety guard or other device which he knew to have been provided for the purpose of securing the safety of workmen;

(2) [2][If a workman employed in any employment specified in Part A of Schedule III contracts any disease specified therein as an occupational disease peculiar to that employment] or if a workman, whilst in the service of an employer in whose service he has been employed for a continuous period of not less than six months in any employment specified in [3][Part B of] Schedule III, contracts any disease specified threin as an occupation disease peculiar to that employment, the contracting of the disease shall be deemed to be an injury by accident within the meaning of this section and, unless the employer proves the contrary, the accident shall be deemed to have arisen out of and in the course of the employment.

done outside the course of the employment altogether. If it was part of the injured person's employment to hazard, to suffer, or to do that which caused his injury, the accident must be held to have arisen out of his employment. If not, it cannot be said to have so arisen. I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 88=1937 Nag. 311

SEC. 3 (1) (b) (ii).—Before S. 3 (1), proviso (b) (ii) can operate in an employer's favour, each of the following seven distinct conditions must be satisfied. First an order or rule must have been given or framed; a mere warning or disclaimer of responsibility is not enough. Secondly, its substantial purpose must have been that of securing the safety of workmen as such. Thirdly, the order or rule must contain words which on the face of them fairly and clearly indicate that its purpose is that of securing the safety of workmen: otherwise it is not "expressly" so given or framed. Fourthly, its terms must have been brought to the notice of the individual workman who is injured. Fifthly, it must have been disobeyed. Sixthly the disobedience must have been wilful, neither for example, merely negligent, nor due to a mistaken mode of doing a particular task, nor due to a wrong decision in an emergency, but deliberate. Seventhly, the accident must have been directly attributable to the disobedience. 1940 Rang.L.R. 759=1940 Rang. 250 (S.B.). See also 190 I.C. 690=1940 Rang. 220 Accident "directly attributable to wilful disobedience of rules"—Onus of proof—Workman killed while dashing across engine--General safety ules of Labour Department, R. 56—Effect—Special safety first caution of company whether rules—Accident proved to be also the result of engine being driven in excess of speed limit—Compensation. 8 P. 24. Under S. 3 although there may be wiful disobedience on the part of the workman concerned, the employer may be liable in respect of injury which results in death of the workman provided the accident arose out of and in course of his employment. In considering this question the ambit and scope of the man's employment must be looked at in relation to the contract which he made with the employer. The test applicable in such cases is whether it was or was not a part of the injured person's employment to hazard or suffer or do that which caused his death. If yes, the accident will be deemed to have arisen out of and in course of the employment. Where the workman when met with his death was doing the very thing which he was employed to do the mere fact that he had no right to be working in the place where he was when he met his death, does not mean that the accident did not arise out of and in course of the employment and the employer would in such case be liable to compensation under S. 3. 185 I.C. 847=1939 Rang. 428. "Wilfully"—Meaning. A man does a thing wilfully when he does it intentionally because he expects some benefit to himself, either some convenience or an easy way of doing a piece of work and so forth. 1930 Cr. C. 10=1930 C. 58. Mere negligence of the worker cannot be regarded as wiful disobedience by the workman to an order expressly given. Contributory negligence on the part of the employee does not exonerate the employer from liability to compensate the employee if the accident could have been avoided by the exercise of ordinary care and diligence. 1935 L. 670. Where a workman claims compensation on the ground of permanent partial disablement due to fracture caused by the falling of roof, negligence either on the part of the employer or the employed is not the criterion to be employed. The question is whether the workman at the time of the injury was working within the scope of the employment, and if so whethe the employer has proved that he is exempted from paying compensation because of the provisos to S. 3,

Explanation.—For the purposes of this sub-section a period of service shall be deemed to be continuous which has not included a period of service under any other employer, [1][in the same kind of employment].

(3) The [2][Provincial Government], after giving, by notification in the Official Gazette, not less than three months' notice of [its] intention so to do, may, by a like notification, add any description of employment to the employments specified in Schedule III, and shall specify in the case of the employments so added the diseases which [3][within the Province] shall be deemed for the purposes of this section to be occupational diseases peculiar to those employments repectively, and the provisions of sub-section (2) shall thereupon apply [3][within the Province] as if such diseases had been declared by this Act to be occupational diseases peculiar to those employments.

(4) Save as provided by sub-sections (2) and (3), no compensation shall be payable to a workman in respect of any disease unless the disease is[4][* *] directly attributable to a specific injury by accident arising out of and in the course of his employment.

(5) Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to confer any right to compensation on a workman in respect of any injury if he has instituted in a Civil Court a suit for damages in respect of the injury against the employer or any other person; and no suit for damages shall be maintainable by a workman in any Court of law in respect of any injury—

(a) if he has instituted a claim to compensation in respect of the injury before a Commissioner; or

(b) if an agreement has been come to between the workman and his employer providing for the payment of compensation in respect of the injury in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Amount of compensation.

[5]4. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the amount of compensation shall be as follows, namely:—

A. Where death results from the injury—

NOTES.

The employer will only escape liability if he can definitely satisfy the provisos in S. 3. If the workman is permanently partially disabled, which according to medical estimate is 20 per cent., compensation should be awarded at 20 per cent. of the total earning capacity. 152 I.C. 1024=1934 P. 630. See also 1931 L.319.

S. 3 (5) (a).—A claim for compensation which has been rejected in limine would be a claim instituted before the Commissioner so as to attract the operation of S. 3 (5) (a) and to bar a suit for damages in a Court of law. 1942 M. 116=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 665.

Accident arising out of employment—Burden of proof. In a case where compensation was claimed on the ground that the deceased met with his death at the hands of an elephant in the course of employment but there was no real evidence which might be considered as effecting the balance of probability one way or the other and where the whole subject was a matter of guesswork, and death from violence at the hands of the elephant, or death from epilepsy or death from some unexplained cause might afford a right answer. It was held that the applicant had failed to discharge the onus of proving his case. 178 I.C. 249=1938 Rang. 349. Where an application is made for compensation on the ground of the death of a workman, the burden is on the applicant to prove that the accident arose out of the employment as well as in the course of the employment. Where it is found on evidence that a workman was sleeping for the night on a barge which was tied up alongside a steamer in the dock in the course of his employment, is necessarily a risk inherent in the discharge of his duty in so sleeping that he may fall off the barge into water. If such workman there is found dead and his body floating in the dock, the most natural inference is that the accident occurred because for some reason or other in the middle of the night the workman fell off the barge either in his sleep or when half awake and struck his head in the process. When the evidence further establishes that there was a storm on that night and that he was a good swimmer, and when there is absolutely no evidence to suggest suicide or homicide, the most natural and necessary inference is that

(ii) in the case of a minor—two hundred rupees;

B. Where permanent total disablement results from the injury—

(i) in the case of an adult in receipt of monthly wages falling within limits shown in the first column of Schedule IV—the amount shown against such limits in the third column thereof, and

(ii) in the case of a minor—twelve hundred rupees;

C. Where permanent partial disablement results from the injury—

(i) in the case of an injury specified in Schedule I, such percentage of the compensation which would have been payable in the case of permanent total disablement as is specified therein as being the percentage of the loss of earning capacity caused by that injury, and

(ii) in the case of an injury not specified in Schedule I, such percentage of the compensation payable in the case of permanent total disablement as is proportionate to the loss of earning capacity permanently caused by the injury.

Explanation,—Where more injuries than one are caused by the same accident, the amount of compensation payable under this head shall be aggregated but not so in any case as to exceed the amount which would have been payable if permanent total disablement had resulted from the injuries.

D. Where temporary disablement, whether total or partial, results from the injury, a half-monthly payment payable on the sixteenth day after the expiry of waiting period of seven days from the date of the disablement, and thereafter half-monthly during the disablement or during a period of five years, whichever period is shorter,—

Provided that—

he met with an accident which arose out of his duty in sleeping on the barge. 44 Bom. L.R. 285. In claims for compensation under the Act the onus lies on the applicant to prove that the accident arose out of employment, and if the evidence is not sufficient to establish this, the claim fails. An accident arises "out of" the employment where it results from a risk incidental to the employment, as distinguished from a risk common to all mankind. While the workman was going back to the camp in the mining area where he was working a dead tree fell on him and killed him. The workman was employed for cutting and clearing jungles or bushes, or even trees and the tree was at some distance from the place of work. Held, that the falling of the tree on the deceased could not be said to be inherent in the nature of the employment and the accident did not arise "out of" his employment and hence compensation to dependent of deceased could not be awarded. 187 I.C. 76=1940 Rang. 18. Where the Act provides that a workman is entitled to compensation from the employer in case he contracts a disease arising out of, and in due course of the employment, other than a disease caused by silica dust it is sufficient for a workman claiming compensation under the Act to prove that he has contracted a disease arising out of and in the course of his employment, having it to the employer to show, if he can, that the disease was due to silica dust, when there is special Act dealing with claim for compensation for diseases caused by silica dust. 163 I.C. 628=1936 P.C. 158 (P.C.).

SEC. 4 (1) (A) AND (D).—Payments made to an injured workman before his death under S. 4 (1) (d) cannot be deducted from the compensation payable under S. 4 (1) (a) after the death of the wormkan, as the right of the dependants to compensation upon the death of the workman is independent of the workman's right to compensation. 142 I.C. 825=1933 R. 33=11 R. 154 (F.B.).

SEC. 4 (1) (C).—Wnat the Court has to see in the case of a permanent partial disablement is the fact as to whether the earning capacity of the workman has been reduced in every employment which he was capable of underatking at the time of the accident and not merely the particular employment in which he was engaged at the time of the accident resulting in the disablement. Where a workman was disabled from performing his duties of a blacksmith fitter with hand because of the loss of the index and the middle finger, the Court cannot award him compensation on the footing that he had lost the use

(a) there shall be deducted from any lump sum or half-monthly payments to which the workman is entitled the amount of any payment or allowance which the workman has received from the employer by way of compensation during the period of disablement prior to the receipt of such lump sum or of the first half-monthly payment, as the case may be: and

(b) no half-monthly payment shall in any case exceed the amount, if any, by which half the amount of the monthly wages of the workman before the accident exceeds half the amount of such wages which he is earning, after the accident.]

(2) On the ceasing of the disablement before the date on which any half-monthly payment falls due, there shall be payable in respect of that half-month a sum proportionate to the duration of the disablement in that half-month.

Method of calculating wages.

5. [1][* * *] [2][In this Act and for the purposes thereof the expressions 'monthly wages' means the amount of wages deemed to be payable for a month's service (whether the wages are payable by the month or by whatever other period or at piece rates), and calculated] as follows namely:—

(a) where the workman has, during a continuous period of not less than twelve months immediately preceding the accident, been in the service of the employer who is liable to pay compensation, the monthly wages of the workman shall be one-twelfth of the total wages which have fallen due for payment to him by the employer in the last twelve months of that period;

[3][(b) where the whole of the continuous period of service immediately preceding the accident during which the workman was in the service of the employer who is liable to pay the compensation was less than one month, the monthly wages of the workman shall be deemed to be the average monthly amount which, during the twelve months immediately preceding the accident, was being earned by a workman employed on the same work by the same employer, or, if there was no workman so employed, by a workman employed on similar work in the same locality;]

of his hand, unless it finds that the thumb and the other fingers have also lost their use for the purpose of every employment which he was capable of undertaking at the time of the acident. 1936 A.L.J. 701=1936 A. 493. What has to be estimated under S. 4 (c) (ii) of the Workman's Compensation Act is the loss of earning capacity of the workman caused by the accident and not simply loss of his physical capacity. 41 C.W.N. 990 =1937 Cal. 526.

SECS. 4 AND 30.—The principle on which compensation under the Act is to be awarded has to be determined in accordance with the provisions of the Act and cannot be departed from on the grounds of sentiment. Where in the case of a loss of the index and middle fingers of a labourer, compensation is awarded as for loss of the arm below the elbow an appeal against such a decision involves a substantial question of law. I.L.R. (1939) All. 1 =1938 A.L.J. 1007=1939 All. 29.

SEC. 5.—Under the Act the Commissioner has a duty to see that the injured party, usually a cooly, ignorant of the law, gets fair play. The provisions of the Act so far as the calculation of compensation is concerned are mandatory. The Commissioner has no jurisdiction to give less compensation than that laid down in the Act, and the Commissioner is in no way fettered by what an ignorant cooly helped perhaps by advisers only less ignorant than himself may enter in his original application to the Commissioner. 140 I.C. 46=1932 R. 141.

SEC. 5 (1) (b).—S. 5 (1) (b) applies to all cases in which the employment has not been continuous for not less than one year. When a workman is casually employed he cannot be held to be in permanent service and when there are breaks in his service for various periods, though each period in itself is not more than 14 days, he cannot be held to be in continuous service. where the workman has worked during the intervals under another employer. 140 I.C. 46=1932 R. 141.

SEC. 5, Expl.—An applicant, a relative of the deceased workman, in a suit for compensation against a Dubashe firm, contended that there was no continuous service of the deceased workman. He alleged in the plaint that the deceased was a casual labourer employed by the Dubashe's firm for the purposes of their trade. But the firm asserted that the case fell under S. 5 (a) instead of meeting the allegations. Held, that it was for the firm to show that the service was continuous and that there was no break

[1][(c)] In other cases the monthly wages shall be thirty times the total wages earned in respect of the last continuous period of service immediately preceding the accident from the employer who is liable to pay compensation, divided by the number of days comprising such period.

Explanation.—A period of service shall, for the purposes of [1][this section] be deemed to be continuous which has not been interrupted by a period of absnce from work exceeding fourteen days.

Review.

6. (1) Any half-monthly payment payable under this Act, either under an agreement between the parties or under the order of a Commissioner, may be reviewed by the Commissioner on the application either of the employer or of the workman accompanied by the certificate of a qualified medical practitioner that there has been a change in the condition of the workman or, subject to rules made, under this this Act, on application made without such certificate.

(2) Any half-monthly payment may, on review under this section, subject to the provisions of this Act, be continued, increased, decreased or ended, or, if the accident is found to have resulted in permanent disablement, be converted to the lump sum to which the workman is entitled less any amount which he has already received by way of half-monthly payments.

Commutation of half-monthly payments.

7. Any right to receive half-monthly payments may, by agrcement between the parties or, if the parties cannot agree and the payments have been continued for not less than six months on the application of either party to the Commissioner, be redeemed by the payent of a lump sum of such amount as may be agreed to by the parties or determined by the Commissioner, as the case may be.

Distribution of compensation.

8. (1) No payment of compensation in respect of a workman whose injury has resulted in death, and no payment of lump sum as compensation to a woman or a person under a legal disability, shall be made otherwise than therein of more than 14 days so as to bring the case under S. 5 (a). 120 I.C. 510=1930 S. 49.

SEC. 8.—"Dependant" in S. 8 includes the heirs or legal representatives of the dependant as defined by S. 2 where the dependant has died since the death of the workman. 41 C.W.N. 1048=1937 C. 495. Where, therefore, such dependant dies before any claim to such compensation is made or investigated by the Commissioner, the right passes on to his heirs or legal representatives subject to the conditions of the Succession Act being complied with. (Ibid). Under S. 8 the compensation is payable to the dependants of the deceased. A dependant means any of the near relation mentioned in S. 2 (d). Where no such near relation exists, the compensation cannot be paid to a more distinct relation but must be refunded to the employer. 118 I.C. 719 (1)=1929 A. 707 (1).

SEC. 8, cl. (8).—The dependants of a Muhamadan deceased, his mother, widow and a minor son were awarded compensation. The share allotted to the minor was deposited by the Commissioner in the Post Office. On the death of the mother and the minor son, the Commissioner ordered the minor's share to be allotted to the widow and directed the postal authorities to cancel the minor's account and open a fresh one in the widow's name. Held, that the order was perfectly valid as the alteration of the widow's circumstances by the deaths of the other dependants of the deceased was a variation of circumstances within the meaning of S. 8 (8) of tht Workmen's Compensation Act. The fact that the widow had remarried was immaterial. 1940 Cal. 580.

SECS 8 (4) AND 9.—It is clear that once an allotment f compensation to a dependant or a distribution of compensation money among several dependants is made, the compensation, so allotted or distributed becomes the property of the dependant and if the dependant dies, the said sum being his property will devolve on his or her heirs. The right of an employer to get a refund under Cl. (4) of S. 8 can only arise when a workman dies without any dependant. S. 9 has no application to a caes where money has been allotted to dependant on the death of an employee. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 716=47 L.W. 159=1938 Mad. 402=1938 (1) M.L.J. 571.

by deposit with the Commissioner, and no such payment made directly by an employer shall be deemed to be a payment of compensation:

[1][Provided that, in the case of a deceased, workman, an employer may make to any dependant advances on account of compensation not exceeding an aggregate of one hundred rupees, and so much of such aggregate as does not exceed the compensation payable to that dependant shall be deducted by the Commissioner from such compensation and repaid to the employer.]

(2) Any other sum amounting to not less than ten rupees which is payable as compensation may be deposited with the Commissioner on behalf of the person entitled thereto.

(3) The receipt of the Commissioner shall be a sufficient discharge in respect of any compensation deposited with him.[2]

(4) On the deposit of any money under sub-section (1) [3][as compensation in respect of a deceased workman] the Commissioner [4][shall deduct] therefrom the actual cost of the workman's funeral expenses, to an amount not exceeding [4][twenty-five rupees] and pay the same to the person by whom such expenses were incurred, and shall, if he thinks necessary, cause notice to be published or to be served on each dependant in such manner as he thinks fit, calling upon the dependants to appear before him on such date as he may fix for determining the distribution of the compensation. If the Commissioner is satisfied, after any inquiry which he may deem necessary, that no dependant exists, he shall repay the balance of the money to the employer by whom it was paid. The Commissioner shall, on application by the employer, furnish a statement showing in detail all disbursements made.

5 Compensation deposited in respect of a deceased workman shall, subject to any deduction made under sub-section (4), be apportioned among the dependants of the deceased workman or any of them in such proportion as the Commissioner thinks fit, or may, in the discretion of the Commissioner, be allotted to any one dependant.

6 Where any compensation deposited with the Commissioner is payable to any person, the Commissioner shall, if the person to whom the compensation is payable is not a woman or a person under a legal disability and may in other cases, pay the money to the person entitled thereto.

(7) Where any lump sum deposited with the Commissioner is payable to a woman or a person under a legal disability, such sum may be invested, applied or otherwise dealt with for the benefit of the woman, or of such person during his disability, in such manner as the Commissioner may direct; and where a half-monthly payment is payable to any person under a legal disability the Commissioner may, of his own motion or on an application made to him in this behalf, order that the payment be made during the disability to any dependant of the workman or to any other person whom the Commissioner thinks best fitted to provide for the welfare of the workman.

3 In sub-S. (4), after the words "as compensation in respect of a deceased workman" have been inserted by Act V of 1929.

4 Substituted by Act XV of 1933.

5 For sub-S. (5) the new sub-Ss. (5) to (7) have been substituted by Act V of 1929.

6 Sub-S. (6) has been re-numbered as sub-S.(8) and after that sub-section the new sub-S. (9) has been added by Act V of 1929.

NOTES.

SECS. 8 AND 10.—If the employer pays the compensation, he is protected against the claims of all the dependants whether or not they have applied to be parties to the distribution. If he makes the distribution himself he lays himself open to the attack by persons who afterwards turn up and claim to be dependants. But if he pays the correct amount to the only person who is a dependant it is not open to that person to claim the amount over again and if he makes to him the payment of less than the correct amount, he can only be required to pay the difference. 7 R. 660.

(8) Where, on application made to him in this behalf or otherwise, the Commissioner is satisfied that, on account of neglect of children on the part of a parent or on account of the variation of the circumstances of any dependant or for any other sufficient cause, an order of the Commissioner as to the distribution of any sum paid as compensation or as to the manner in which any sum payable to any such dependant is to be invested, applied or otherwise dealt with, ought to be varied, the Commissioner may make such orders for the variation of the former order as he thinks just in the circumstances of the case:

Provided that no such order prejudicial to any person shall be made unless such person has been given an opportunity of showing cause why the order should not be made, or shall be made in any case in which it would involve the repayment by a dependant of any sum already paid to him.

(9) Where the Commissioner varies any order under sub-section (8) by reason of the fact that payment of compensation to any person has been obtained by fraud, impersonation or other improper means, any amount so paid to or on behalf of such person may be recovered in the manner hereinafter provided in section 31.

Compensation not to be assigned, attached or charged.

9. Save as provided by this Act, no lump sum or half-monthly payment payable under this Act shall in any way be capable of being assigned or charged or be liable to attachment or pass to any person other than the workman by operation of law, nor shall any claim be set off against the same.

Notice and claim.

10. (1) [1][No claim for compensation shall be entertained by a Commissioner unless notice of the accident has been given in the manner hereinafter provided as soon as practicable after the happening thereof and unless the claim is preferred before him within one year of the occurrence of the accident or, in case of death, within one year from the date of death.]

SEC. 9.—As to allotment made to dependant on death of employee, see I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 716=47 L.W. 159=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 571.

SEC. 10.—S. 10 of the Act occurs in Ch. II which deals with matters relating to workmen's compensation and as such cannot be interpreted as laying down a period of limitation in respect of proceedings for the recovery of compensation before the Commissioner. The word "institute" in S. 10 (1) does not refer to the proceedings before the Commissioner but only to the workmen's claim for compensation against the employer. The words "claim for compensation" used in S. 10 of the Act do not relate to proceedings before the Commissioner but to the claim lodged with the employer. I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 460=1939 Nag. 106. Ignorance of the law cannot be any reasonable or sufficient cause within the meaning of the proviso to S. 10 (1). 17 Pat. 658=1939 P.W.N. 175=1939 Pat. 181. Ignorance of the existence of the Act and of the provision contained therein that the claim should be instituted within six months from the date of the accident is no "sufficient cause" within the meaning of proviso to S. 10. 9 R. 118=131 I.C. 60. The expression "claim for compensation" in S. 10 (1) means a claim made before the Commissioner. The claim for compensation is of the nature of a plaint without which no proceedings for recovery of compensation are maintainable; and unless there is a formal claim for compensation, the Commissioner cannot make any enquiries or conduct any proceedings. 1942 Mad. 116=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 665. Where during the period of six months immediately following the accident, the claimant was employed on light duties on the same pay by the employer, that is a sufficient reason for his not having made the claim within that period. And once a reasonable cause is established the bar to the maintenance of the proceedings under the Act is removed. 58 B. 128=35 B.L.R. 1142=1934 B. 28. A claim within the meaning of S. 10 is a communication by or on behalf of the workmen from which the employer can see that a demand is being made upon him to pay compensation in respect of an accident. In the case of a very large concern like a railway company, a demand by a workman to a foreman for compensation is not a claim within the meaning of section. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 52=42 C. W. N. 341=1938 Cal. 348. See also 1941 Bom. 296. The question whether the facts found by the Commissioner constitute reasonable cause for failure to give notice or to claim compensation within the statutory period is a question of law, and the Commissioner's decision on the question is open to review by the High Court, 35 Bom.

Provided that, where the accident is the contracting of a disease in respect of which the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 3 are applicable, the accident shall be deemed to have occurred on the first of the days during which the workman was continuously absent from work in consequence of the disablement caused by the disease:

[1][Provided, further, that the want of or any defect or irregularity in a notice shall not be a bar to the [2][entertainment of a claim]—

(a) if the claim is 2 in respect of the death of a workman resulting from an accident which occurred on the premises of the employer, or at any place where the workman at the time of the accident was working under the control of the employer or of any person employed by him, and the workman died on such premises or at such place, or on any premises belonging to the employer, or died without having left the vicinity of the premises or place where the accident occurred, or

(b) if the employer [2][or any one of several employers or any person responsible to the employer for the management of any branch of the trade or business in which the injured workman was employed] had knowledge of the accident from any other source at or about the time when it occurred:]

Provided, further, that the Commissioner may [2][entertain] and decide any claim to compensation in any case notwithstanding that the notice has not been given, or the claim has not been [2][preferred] in due time as provided in this sub-section, if he is satisfied that the failure so to give the notice or [2][prefer] the claim, as the case may be, was due to sufficient cause.

L.R. 293=1933 B. 197=144 I.C. 648. But see 16 N.L.J. 63; 1933 N. 272 (2). What amounts to sufficient cause for a workman not instituting a claim within six months of the accident can only be decided with reference to the facts and circumstances of the case. Where the workman on returning to work three months after the accident was re-employed by the same employer in the same workshop at the same rate of wages and he continued in that employment until long after the period of six months from the happening of the accident there was sufficient cause for his not bringing proceedings within six months of the accident. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 52=42 C. W. N. 341=1938 Cal. 348. See also 1940 Lah. 227. When once the workman had, for sufficient cause, not brought his proceedings for compensation within six months of the accident, there is nothing in the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Limitation Act or in any other statute imposing a further time limit for bringing his proceedings. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 152=42 C.W.N. 341=1938 Cal. 348. The Commissioner is the sole judge to determine whether or not the want of or a defect in a notice shall bar the proceedings, and his decision is one of fact which cannot be appealed against except on the ground that there is no evidence to support it. The fact that the workman did not realize until a certain day that he had permanently lost his eye-sight of one eye is sufficient cause for his not giving notice earlier, and the omission in the notice to state the cause of injury is not material when the manager or the employer is already aware of it. 145 I. C. 402=1933 N. 272 (2). See also 16 N.L.J. 63.

SEC. 10 (1) AND PROVISOS: APPLICATION TO COMMISSIONER — LIMITATION FOR.—The words "instituted within six months" in S. 10 (1) contemplate an act referable to the making or filing formally before the appropriate Court a claim for compensation. 17 Pat. 658 =1939 P.W.N. 175=1939 Pat. 181. Delay in making claim—Sufficient cause—Question as to—If one of law or fact. See 17 Pat.L. T. 33. The period of six months relates to the claim for compensation made by the workman against his employer and has no reference to the period within which an application for the settlement of the matter by the Commissioner can be made. If the claim has not been made within time, even then the Commissioner may, in the exercise of the discretion allowed by the second proviso to the section, admit the claim and decide it. 61 C. 508=38 C. W. N. 613=1934 C. 460 (S.B.).

SEC. 10 (1) proviso AND (3).—The notice should be given as soon as practicable after the happening of the accident and before the workman has voluntarily left the employment in which he was injured. Want of notice can however be excused under the proviso if there is sufficient cause. Semble: It is desirable that both the provisos to S. 14 (1) of the English Act should be reproduced in S. 10 of the Indian Act in order that want of notice may be expressly made liable to be condoned. 57 B. 150=142 I.C. 630=35 Bom. (3) [3][The Provincial Government may require that any prescribed class of employers shall maintain at their premises at which workman are employed a notice book, in the prescribed form, which shall be readily accessible at all reasonable times to any injured workman employed on the premises and to any person acting bona fide on his behalf.]

[3][(4) A notice under this section may be served by delivering it at, or sending it by registered post addressed to, the residence or any office or place of business of the person on whom it is to be served, or, where a notice book is maintained, by entry in the notice book.]

Power to require from employers statements regarding fatal accidents.

(2) If the employer is of opinion that he is liable to deposit compensation, he shall make the deposit within thirty days of the service of the notice.

cient cause for not making an application under the Act within the period of limitation. 190 I.C. 629=1940 Lah. 227. See also 1938 Cal. 348. Under S. 10 is not necessary for a workman to give notice of every trivial accident to which he may be subject. But a workman is bound to give notice of any accident which is not merely trivial and it is not open to him to decide whether it is likely to give rise to a claim for compensation. If an accident, too trivial in the first instance to require notice, subsequently develops serious consequences, the obligation to give notice as soon as practicable would be met by giving notice when the consequences ensue. Until then there has not really been an accident. 43 Bom.L.R. 611=1941 Bom. 296. A workman employed as a cooly in a factory met with an accident on the 23rd February, 1927. On the 28th March, 1927, while he was admitted in a hospital as an indoor patient, he sent a notice addressed to the proprietors of the factory. It subsequently came back with the endorsement "left" on it. On the same date, he also sent a notice addressed to the Solicitors of the proprietors and the same was received by the addressee on the 21st April, 1927. The notices constituted sufficient compliance with S. 10 (3); and having regard to the ignorance of and serious nature of the injury received, the notice must be taken to have been given as soon as practicable within the meaning of S. 10 (1). In any case the case was covered by proviso 2 to S. 10 (1). The proviso would apply even where no notice has been given. 31 Bom.L.R. 1059=1929 B. 400. See also 35 Bom.L.R. 293=1933 B. 197. Where in the opinion of the deceased the injury was trivial and was such that he was not entitled to compensation under the Act, the failure to give notice by the deceased workman is due to sufficient cause within the meaning of S. 10. 35 Bom. L. R. 293=1933 B. 197.

SEC. 10 (2).—Requires a notice in writing and it is necessary that it should state in ordinary language the cause of the injury; but that does not mean that the notice should state in language to the same effect as the subsequent application before the Commissioner. 37 C.W.N. 225=1933 C. 130. Notice of accident to a fellow workman or co-employee is not a sufficient compliance with S. 10 (2). 43 Bom.L.R. 611=1941 Bom. 296. See also 1938 Cal. 348. Where a claim for compensation was made by the dependants of a deceased labourer in a Railway company's employment for accidental death of deceased and claim was made against the contractor employing the deceased and not against Railway company, but the Commissioner served notice on the company. Held, that notice ought to have been served on the contractor and not on the company. 1935 C. 683.

(3) If the employer is of opinion that he is not liable to deposit compensation, he shall in his statement indicate the grounds on which he disclaims liability.

(4) Where the employer has so disclaimed liability, the Commissioner, after such inquiry as he may think fit, may inform any of the dependants of the deceased workman that it is open to the dependants to prefer a claim for compensation, and may give them such other further information as he may think fit.]

Reports of fatal accidents.

[1][10-B. (1) Where, by any law for the time being in force, notice is required to be given to any authority, by or on behalf of an employer, of any accident occurring on his premises which results in death, the person required to give the notice shall, within seven days of the death, send a report to the Commissioner giving the circumstances attending the death:

Provided that where the Provincial Government has so prescribed, the person required to give the notice may instead of sending such report to the Commissioner send it to the authority to whom he is required to give the notice.

(2) The Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, extend the provisions of sub-section (1) to any class of premises other than those coming within the scope of that sub-section, and may, by such notification, specify the persons who shall send the report to the Commissioner.]

Medical examination.

11. (1) Where a workman has given notice of an accident, he shall, if the employer, before the expiry of three days from the time at which service of the notice has been effected, offers to have him examined free of charge by a qualified medical practitioner, submit himself for such examination, and any workman who is in receipt of a half-monthly payment under this Act shall, if so required, submit himself for such examination from time to time:

Provided that a workman shall not be required to submit himself for examination by a medical practitioner otherwise than in accordance with rules made under this Act, or at more frequent intervals than may be prescribed.

(2) If a workman, on being required to do so by the employer under sub-section (1) or by the Commissioner at any time, refuses to submit himself for examination by a qualified medical practitioner or in any way obstructs the same, his right to compensation shall be suspended during the continuance of such refusal or obstruction unless, in the case of refusal, he was prevented by any sufficient cause from so submitting himself.

(3) If a workman, before the expiry of the period within which he is liable under sub-section (1) to be required to submit himself for medical examination, voluntarily leaves without having been so examined the vicinity of the place in which he was employed, his right to compensation shall be suspended until he returns and offers himself for such examination.

(4) Where a workman, whose right to compensation has been suspended under sub-section (2) or sub-section (3), dies without having submitted himself for medical examination as required by either of those sub-sections, the Commissioner may, if he thinks fit, direct the payment of compensation to the dependants of the deceased workman.

(5) Where under sub-section (2) or sub-section (3) a right to compensation is suspended, no compensation shall be payable in respect of the period of suspension, and if the period of suspension commences before the expiry of the waiting period referred to in clause (d) of sub-section (1) of section 4, the waiting period shall be increased by the period during which the suspension continues.

LEG. REF.

[1] Added by Act XV of 1933.

(6) Where an injured workman has refused to be attended by a qualified medical practitioner whose services have been offered to him by the employer free of charge or having accepted such offer has deliberately disregarded the instructions of such medical practitioner, then [1][if it is proved that the workman has not thereafter been regularly attended by a qualified medical practitioner or having been so attended has deliberately failed to follow his instructions, and that such refusal, disregard or failure was unreasonable] in the circumstances of the case and that the injury has been aggravated thereby, the injury and resulting disablement shall be deemed to be of the same nature and duration as they might reasonably have been expected to be if the workman had been regularly attended by a qualified medical practitioner [1][whose instructions he had followed], and compensation, if any, shall be payable accordingly.

Contracting.

12. (1) Where any person (hereinafter in this section referred to as the principal) in the course of or for the purposes of his trade or business contracts with any other person (hereinafter in this section referred to as the contractor) for the execution by or under the contractor of the whole or any part of any work which is ordinarily part of the trade or business of the principal, the principal shall be liable to pay to any workman employed in the execution of the work any compensation which he would have been liable to pay if that workman had been immediately employed by him; and where compensation is claimed from the principal, this Act shall apply as if references to the principal were substituted for references to the employer except that the amount of compensation shall be calculated with reference to the wages of the workman under the employer by whom he is immediately employed.

SEC. 12.—It is not part of the ordinary business of a Bank to build houses. The fact that one of its objects is stated in its Memorandum to be "to build offices, buildings, etc.," is not by itself sufficient to entitle the Bank to build houses in the sense of building them itself as distinct from getting them built in the ordinary way. There must be some evidence to show that the Bank is "building" as part of its ordinary business before it is rendered liable under S. 12 for injuries sustained in the course of the building. 36 C.W.N. 841. A principal who employs a contractor shall be liable to compensation to workman employed by the contractor. But it must be shown that the contractor was entitled to expect such workmen to do his work at his orders and that he was entitled to dismiss such workmen. Where there is only an agreement by which certain selected persons could come when they chose and do work on their own account which would get for them remuneration from the contractor, the principal is not liable to compensate such persons. 185 I.C. 847=1939 Rang. 428. ous sub-stations on the railway. The work of constructing the transmission line had been entrusted on a contract to H. Co. and the deceased was employed by the company as a fitter. His work was to assist in the erection of the steel towers which would carry the overhead cable. These towers were not erected on the railway tract but on land adjacent thereto, the distance from the railway lines varying from 400 to 700 feet. While carrying materials from the store near Kalyan station to the site of the work he was knocked down by a train and killed. In an action to recover compensation, held, (1) that the work of constructing the overhead cable was not ordinarily part of the business of the railway. The word "ordinarily" in S. 12 applies just as much to a Government department as it does to any other principal, (2) that in constructing the electric cable the railway company was exercising the powers and duties conferred on them by statute, (3) that a state railway is a department of the Government within the meaning of S. 2 (2) and (4) that the claim for compensation was not maintainable against the Railway Co. 53 B. 203=31 Bom. L. R. 211=117 I.C. 431=1929 B. 179. The business of keeping the line in order is as normal and as essential a feature of the running of a Railway as the issue of tickets or the handling of goods. 41 L.W. 805.

SEC. 12 (2).—The contractor referred to in S. 12 (2) is the contractor who contracts directly with the principal as defined in S. 12 (1). If there is any further sub-letting of the contract, an indemnity cannot be obtained under the contract and must be sought by recourse to the Civil Court. The words "any such" indemnity are restricted to the indemnity between the principal and the original contractor. 35 B.L.R. 694=1933 B. 338=146 I.C. 616. Where a labourer in the employ of a Railway Company died of an accident his dependants cannot claim compensation from the contractor who had employed the deceased but the company is directly liable as if it was the employer. 1935 C. 683. In a claim for compensation, as sub-S. (2), S. 12 puts the contractor under the liability to indemnify the Railway company, he is entitled to notice of the claim and can certainly dispute the claim of the dependants of the deceased labourer. 1935 C. 683. Where the employers who are contractors engage workmen through a sub-contractor under them, for the execution of work which was ordinarily part of their own trade or business, the employers and not the sub-contractor is liable. 146 I. C. 1027=1933 R. 208. See 35 Bom.L.R. 694=1933 B. 338, where the distinction between independant and sub-contractor is pointed out.

SEC. 13.—An independent contractor generally speaking is one who undertakes to do a certain work without being controlled by the person for whom he does the work. He is not the servant of the person who engages his services and he does not make such person liable for any torts he or his servants have committed, nor is a sub-contractor, the servant of the contractor, who has employed him. Even when there is a sub-contractor, if the injury was caused while the workman acted under the principal and owing to the latter's negligence, the liability fastens to the principal and not to the sub-contractor. 146 I.C. 616=35 Bom.L.R. 694=1933 B. 338, Insolvency of employer.

14. (1) Where any employer has entered into a contract with any insurers in respect of any liability under this Act to any workman, then in the event of the employer becoming insolvent or making a composition or scheme of arrangement with his creditors or, if the employer is a company, in the event of the company having commenced to be wound up, the rights of the employer against the insurers as respects that liability shall, notwithstanding anything in any law for the time being in force relating to insolvency or the winding up of companies, be transferred to and vest in the workman, and upon any such transfer the insurers shall have the same rights and remedies and be subject to the same liabilities as if they were the employer, so, however, that the insurers shall not be under any greater liability to the workman than they would have been under to the employer.

(2) If the liability of the insurers to the workman is less than the liability of the employer to the workman, the workman may prove for the balance in the insolvency proceedings or liquidation.

(3) Where in any case such as is referred to in sub-section (1) the contract of the employer with the insurers is void or voidable by reason of non-compliance on the part of the employer with any terms or conditions of the contract (other than a stipulation for the payment of premia), the provisions of that sub-section shall apply as if the contract were not void or voidable, and the insurers shall be entitled to prove in the insolvency proceedings or liquidation for the amount paid to the workman:

Provided that the provisions of this sub-section shall not apply in any case in which the workman fails to give notice to the insurers of the happening of the accident and of any resulting disablement as soon as practicable after he becomes aware of the institution of the insolvency or liquidation proceedings.

(4) There shall be deemed to be included among the debts which under section 49 of the Presidency-towns Insolvency Act, 1909, or under section 61 of the Provincial Insolvency Act, 1920, or under section 230 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, are in the distribution of the property of an insolvent or in the distribution of the assets of a company being wound up to be paid in priority to all other debts, the amount due in respect of any compensation the liability wherefor accrued before the date of the order of adjudication of the insolvent or the date of the commencement of the winding up, as the case may be, and those Acts shall have effect accordingly.

(5) Where the compensation is a half-monthly payment, the amount due in respect thereof shall, for the purposes of this section, be taken to be the amount of the lump sum for which the half-monthly payment could, if redeemable, be redeemed if application were made for that purpose under section 7, and a certificate of the Commissioner as to the amount of such sum shall be conclusive proof thereof.

(6) The provisions of sub-section (4) shall apply in the case of any amount for which an insurer is entitled to prove under sub-section (3), but otherwise those provisions shall not apply where the insolvent or the company being wound up has entered into such a contract with insurers as is referred to in sub-section (1).

(7) This section shall not apply where a company is wound up voluntarily merely for the purposes of re-construction or of amalgamation with another company.

Special provisions relating to masters and seamen.

15. This Act shall apply in the case of workmen who are masters of [1][*] ships or seamen subject to the following modifications, namely:—

LEG. REF. XV of 1933.

1 The word "registered" omitted by Act

(1) The notice of the accident and the claim for compensation may, except where the person injured is the master of the ship, be served on the master of the ship as if he were the employer, but where the accident happened and the disablement commenced on board the ship, it shall not be necessary for any seaman to give any notice of the accident.

(2) In the case of the death of a master or seaman, the claim for compensation shall be made within six months after the news of the death has been received by the claimant or, where the ship has been or is deemed to have been lost with all hands, within eighteen months of the date on which the ship was, or is deemed to have been, so lost.

(3) Where an injured master or seaman is discharged or left behind in any part of His Majesty's dominions or in a foreign country, any depositions taken by any Judge or Magistrate in that part or by any Consular Officer in the foreign country and transmitted by the person by whom they are taken to the [Central Government] or any [Provincial Government] shall, in any proceedings for enforcing the claim, be admissible in evidence—

(a) if the deposition is authenticated by the signature of the Judge, Magistrate or Consular Officer before whom it is made;

(b) if the defendant or the person accused, as the case may be, had an opportunity by himself or his agent to cross-examine the witness; and

(c) if the deposition was made in the course of a criminal proceeding, on proof that the deposition was made in the presence of the person accused; and it shall not be necessary in any case to prove the signature or official character of the person appearing to have signed any such deposition and a certificate by such person that the defendant or the person accused had an opportunity of cross-examining the witness and that the deposition if made in a criminal proceeding was made in the presence of the person accused shall, unless the contrary is proved, be sufficient evidence that he had that opportunity and that it was so made.

[1][(4)] No [2][half-monthly payment] shall be payable in respect of the period during which the owner of the ship is, under any law in force for the time being in British India relating to merchant shipping, liable to defray the expenses of maintenance of the injured master or seaman.

[2][(5) No compensation shall be payable under this Act in respect of any injury in respect of which provision is made for payment of a gratuity, allowance or pension under the War Pensions and Detention Allowances (Mercantile Marine, etc.) Scheme, 1939, or the War Pensions and Detention Allowances (Indian Seaman, etc.) Scheme, 1941, made under the Pensions (Navy, Army, Air Force and Mercantile Marine) Act, 1939, or under the War Pensions and Detention Allowances (Indian Seaman) Scheme, 1942, made by the Central Government.

(6) Failure to give a notice or make a claim or commence proceedings within the time required by this Act shall not be a bar to the maintenance of proceedings under this Act in respect of any personal injury, if—

(a) an application has been made for payment in respect of that injury under any of the schemes referred to in the preceding clause, and

(b) the Provincial Government certifies that the said application was made in the reasonable belief that the injury was one in respect of which the scheme under which the application was made makes provision for payments, and that the application was rejected or that payments made in pursuance of the application were discontinued on the ground that the injury was not such an injury, and

NOTES.

SEC. 23.—Under the Act the Commissioner can exercise the power of a Court only under certain provisions of the Code and S. 151, C. P. Code, not being one of them, the Commissioner does not possess any inherent power contemplated by the section. 1930 Cr.C. 801 =1930 L. 657.

REVISION.—A Commissiner under the Act is a "Court subordinate to the High Court" and revision lies against an order passed by him. 180 I.C. 313=1938 Lah. 855.

COMMISSIONER — POWERS OF REVIEW.—There is nothing in the Act conferring any power of review on a Commissioner. 154 I. C. 308=1935 A.L.J. 349=1935 A.W.R. 233= 1935 A. 408. See also 20 Pat. 373=1941 Pat. 65.

SEC. 24.—The words "other person" in S. 24 indicate formal appearances on behalf of the persons claiming. A managing member of a joint Hindu family can apply to the Commissioner for compensation on behalf of the widow and the minor members of the family and no authorisation in writing by them is necessary. 154 I.C. 308=1935 A.L.J. 349= 1935 A. 408.

SEC. 25.—S. 25 is mandatory and the Commissioner must hear evidence adduced by the parties and decide the dispute, upon such evidence. He alone can decide the matters referred to in the Act, and he cannot delegate his powers and order one of his subordinates to do the work for him or to make reports so as to make his work lighter and easier. 21 Pat. 218.

SEC. 25 and Rules (1924), R. 20.—The joint effect of R. 20 and S. 25 is that before proceeding with the matter of an application, the Commissioner must first of all either by himself or by some officer authorized by the Local Government, take evidence from the applicant in order to ascertain whether there really is a prima facie case and so whether there is in fact any case for the employers to answer. I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 714=1937 Cal. 637.

Costs.

26. All costs incidental to any proceedings before a Commissioner shall subject to rules made under this Act, be in the discretion of the Commissioner.

Power to submit cases.

27. A Commissioner may, if he thinks fit, submit any question of law for the decision of the High Court and, if he does so, shall decide the question in conformity with such decision.

Registration of agreements.

28. (1) Where the amount of any lump sum payable as compensation has been settled by agreement, whether by way of redemption of a half-monthly payment or otherwise, or where any compensation has been so settled as being payable [1][to a woman or a person under a legal disability] [2][* * *] a memorandum thereof shall be sent by the employer to the Commissioner, who shall, on being satisfied as to its genuineness, record the memorandum in a register in the prescribed manner:

Provided that—

(c) the Commissioner may at any time rectify the register;

(d) where it appears to the Commissioner that an agreement as to the payment of a lump sum whether by way of redemption of a half-monthly payment or otherwise, or an agreement as to the amount of compensation payable [4][to a woman or a person under a legal disability [5][* * *] ought not to be registered by reason of the inadequacy of the sum or amount or by reason of the agreement having been obtained by fraud or undue influence or other improper means, he may refuse to record the memorandum of the agreement [6][and may make such order] including an order as to any sum already paid under the agreement, as he thinks just in the circumstances.

(2) An agreement for the payment of compensation which has been registered under sub-section (1) shall be enforceable under this Act, notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Contract Act, 1872,or in any other law for the time being in force.

NOTES.

SECS. 26 AND 30 (a).—The failure of the Commissioner to comply with the rules mentioned in S. 26 is not by itself sufficient ground for ordering a retrial. Retrial cannot be ordered unless, there has been a failure of justice and unless there are not sufficient materials on the record to enable the High Court to deal with the case. 1933 S. 273=146 I.C. 696.

SEC. 27.—The High Court can interfere on points of law as well as on points of fact. [1][(i) employed, otherwise than in a clerical capacity or on a railway, in connection with the operation or maintenance of [2][a lift or a vehicle propelled by steam or other mechanical power or by electricity]; or

(ii) employed, otherwise than in a clerical capacity, in any premises wherein, or within the precincts whereof, on any one day of the preceding twelve months, ten or more persons have been employed in any manufacturing process, as defined in [2][clause (4) of section 2 of the Factories Act, 1934], or in any kind of work whatsoever incidental to or connected with any such manufacturing process or with the article made, and steam, water or other mechanical power or electrical power is used; or

ing articles for use, transport, or sale denotes some work actually upon the article, and the words or otherwise adapting can in the context in which they appear only cover some physical act performed upon the article or part of the article required for the purpose of adapting it for use, transport or sale. A person employed as a labourer in a cotton godown and who helps to unstack cotton bales or remove them from the godown is a workman falling within Cl. (iii) of Sch. II. I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 145=40 Bom.L.R. 106=1938 Bom. 171. Before a person can claim compensation, it is not necessary for him to show that the number of persons employed is fifty or more; what is necessary is that this number should be employed in the 'premises' or within the 'precincts'. Where the employer carried on business in two factories, in one of which 40 persons were employed and in the other 11, and were really branches of one and the same business, it is insufficient to bring the case within S. 2 (1), (n), Sch. II, Cl. (iii) and the real question is whether the two buildings were in one and the same premises. 180 I.C. 313=1938 Lah. 855.

A man employed as a carpenter to mend or repair boxes containing goods which have been unloaded from a ship within the limits of a port is a person employed in the handling of goods within the limits of the port within the meaning of Sch. II (vii) and is therefore a workman. I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 44=39 Bom.L.R. 1230=1938 Bom. 110.

Sch. II (viii).—"Repair" includes the renewal of the paint of a building in which repainting is necessary. 60 B. 701=163 I.C. 79=38 Bom.L.R. 280=1936 B. 199. A Hogla shed is a building, although it is erected for a temporary purpose and is some sort of a flimsy pavilion. 42 C.W.N. 803.

Sch. II (x).—The expression, "working a pipe line," in Cl. (x) of Sch. II covers all work necessary in the view of the employers for the efficient working of the pipe-line. The Court ought rather to give a wider than a narrower interpretation to the expression. The test is really whether when a man meets with an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, he was in the position in which he was when the accident occurred because of the work specified in the schedule. His particular share in the work whether active or passive, skilled or unskilled, is irrelevant. 1938 Bom. 155. A Municipality in charge of the water supply, in order to test the efficiency of the system and to test the pressure in the water mains fixed to the stand pipe a recording instrument which had to be kept working for 24 consecutive hours. Two coolies who were employed in the Water Department of the Municipality were placed on guard to watch the instrument during night. The instrument was in the road and raised above the level of the road. An accident occurred during the night and one of the coolies was run over and killed by a motor vehicle. The coolies must be held to be employed in the working of the pipe-line and were workmen as defined by the Act, and the widow of the deceased was entitled to compensation. I.L.R.
